

AN OVERVIEW

Osiris Backstory

Osiris, a Guardian of unparalleled prowess, is enigmatic and dangerous in his ideals. What are his goals? What drives him? Why has he been exiled despite being one of the most important Guardians of our time? Why has he not returned until now? The truth is often the most simple answer and more difficult than we can understand. Unfortunately, where Osiris is involved, no truth is simple or more difficult to understand.

Osiris is a seeker of uncomfortable truths. Where other Guardians will seek to defend what they see before them, Osiris searches for what is beyond the veil. Osiris was not one to be bound to the confines of one solar system, one time-line, or one truth. Osiris questioned the origin, the purpose, and the nature of Guardians. We know Osiris had once been Vanguard Commander, appointed by Saint-14.

His fervent search to know the enemy, all enemies, and the truth behind the Traveler created a rift in the Tower and the City. His search for knowledge strained the resources of the Tower, but built him a following, and it was at the pinnacle of this “madness” that he and his Followers were cast out. Perhaps he had cast himself out by never returning to the Tower from unending expeditions.

Now, with fates uncertain, Ikora Rey, a one-time student of Osiris's, has changed her attitude toward former friend and teacher. Maybe Ikora can forgive him. Maybe Osiris was not so wrong in his boundless thirst for knowledge. Maybe the answers were beyond our understanding and we should have kept Osiris close at hand. We shall see...

THE FOLLOWING IS AN EXCERPT FROM THE ORIGINAL GRIMOIRE:

What drives a Warlock to madness?

Ghosts choose those suited to war and heroism to be reborn. By nature or circumstance they go to battle against the Darkness, and through this battle they learn how to use the Light. But Warlocks (by their nature) fight a second, internal war. This is the war to understand a universe of secrets— a world that expects Guardians to fight without full knowledge of what they are or what they might hope to achieve.

You were a mighty warrior. I watched you at Six Fronts, and heeded the call of Saint-14 to appoint you Vanguard Commander, even when the Concordat claimed to have records proving you were a Golden Age experiment mis-incarnated as a human by an inept Ghost. Saint-14 assured me you were just a man without much patience for obfuscation.

I watched as you grew tired of strike missions and the grueling, unproductive sessions with the Cryptarchs. That was when I took you under my wing. I saw our future in you. But your curiosity was voracious— How much of a Guardian’s personality and memories were true? How much had been fabricated by their Ghost? Did Guardians share particular personality traits— a willingness to yield to authority, a tendency to do anything anyone asked for the promise of uncertain reward, a blind knight-errant mentality? Had the Traveler manufactured all of you as living weapons?

I admit, I found your questions divisive and disloyal, and I feared you might be capable of breaking our unity when the City’s position had grown so tenuous. Why divert attention away from the Traveler, our only hope?

And then it got worse, dabbling in thanatonautics, Ahamkara-lore, chasing after Xur and the tricks of the Nine. Launching expeditions into the Reef and beyond at a time when ships were irreplaceable. Your quest split Guardians along ideological lines. This was your greatest crime: Hunters chose to pursue your visions instead of protecting refugees, Titans assembled teams to chase the legendary Vault of Glass instead of striking the Fallen, and Warlocks turned away from the study of the Traveler in favor of your ultimate obsession... learning the exact nature of the Darkness.

When debate became argument, and argument became acrimony, I realized you had already become a cult of personality, attracting Guardians who wanted a clear idea of why they were fighting, what they faced, and how they would ultimately win.

I don’t know where you have gone, but I can no longer send Ghosts out to find you. Some come back— with tales of your death or how you went seeking answers from the far reaches of space and time. That you found a way to explore the Vex gate networks. That you’ve made breakthrough after breakthrough as to their origins — theories that a Guardian could not be simulated, that the Traveler might be an ontoformer or a god-incubator, that the Vex had diverged into multiple groups in order to secure ‘an end state for every possible configuration of reality’.

I fear you have become as obsessed with the Vex as Toland was with the Hive. I’ve heard your own insane prophecies about pits and dead Hive kings. And of Crota, which now I cannot deny.

I hear stories of Lord Shaxx meeting with fireteams of Warlocks who have no shadow and never blink. Of jumpships slipping into the Reef on cold trajectories and meeting no intercept. Of questions hidden in matter engrams and answers decrypted on distant battlefields.

Perhaps you are still out there. If this reaches you, I would very much like to speak with you, to hear your theories in your own words.

Perhaps what drives a Warlock to madness is truth.

What's New?

Most of what you've come to know in Destiny 2 has remained unchanged. However, there are some changes Guardians will notice immediately. The obvious changes are what you'll experience while playing Curse of Osiris. Guardians will face new challenges in the new campaign, new strikes, new Crucible maps, a new Heroic strike playlist, additional gear, and revelations of secrets heretofore unknown.

Curse of Osiris is accessible at level 18, but Guardians must first complete the main Destiny 2 campaign, at which point your Guardian will likely be level 20. Guardians will enjoy a level cap increase to level 25 and a Power level increase up to a 330 base, or 335 with weapon and gear modifiers. The following is a list of new changes:

- Heroic Strike playlists - With increases to general enemy aggressiveness and resilience.
- Weekly Strike Milestone (complete 3 Heroic Strikes)
- Discover past and future Vex and Fallen
- Mercury Heroic Adventures with modifiers
- Mercury patrol activities
- A new Raid Lair activity
- 3 new Crucible maps (Wormhaven is a PS4 Exclusive)
- 2 new Strikes
- Season 2 cosmetic, weapon, and armor updates
- Brother Vance, Osiris's most stalwart Follower is your new vendor. He'll assist you in all matters on Mercury.
- Vendors will now have ornamental armor sets, but to acquire these, you must meet a specific set of requirements for each piece.

The Lighthouse is at a circular structure, (a consistent symbol of the Vex). The Lighthouse and the Vex gateway into the Infinite Forest are two major focal points. The Vex dome where the Crossroads event takes place being the central focus. Everything surrounds it. Everything is within walking distance.

FLASHPOINT: MERCURY

The compact nature of this area creates havoc when players are completing a lot of the event events. There's a high potential for events to clash with each other. When the weekly Flashpoint is located on Mercury, more bosses will add to the havoc.

Along with additional bosses, expect Cayde to send Guardians out with his Treasure Maps. During Flashpoint: Mercury, fish will show up in the Tower.

Areas Of Interest

Lower Portal to Lighthouse

Located just before the landing zone on the "ground level". It goes to the Lighthouse interior just as the Upper Portal does.

Upper Portal to Lighthouse

Located right next to the landing zone for quick access. It goes to the Lighthouse interior just as the Lower Portal does.

The Infinite Forest

The Infinite Forest is a reality simulator. It is the central focus for Adventures, Strikes, Missions, and perhaps more.

Vex Dome Colosseum

The center-most fire construct. The interior of the dome becomes accessible during the Public Event.

Adventures

The Up and Up

Access this marker near the steps close to the gateway. You can also start this by approaching Brother Vance in the Lighthouse. Slay the Fallen.

A Bug in the System

Access this marker near the steps close to the gateway. You can also start this by approaching Brother Vance in the Lighthouse. The Vex have the attention of the Vex. Wipe them out.

The Runner

Access this marker near the steps close to the gateway. You can also start this by approaching Brother Vance in the Lighthouse. Slay the Cabal by any means before it's too late.

Lost Sectors

Pariah's Refuge

Pariah's Refuge is located near the south east, next to the massive Vex gateway. The familiar Lost Sector mark appears upon a block of stone. Walk into a small opening in the rock. After you come out of the opening, you'll see a Cabal Legionaries and a Centurion standing in front of you. Take out the Legionaries and a few Hoplite and Gunner Guardians to enter. They're bunched up nicely for an effective grenade. The room comes around toward another crevice opening. The next area is a more circular room with Centurion Shields and Legionaries. More Goblins and Hoplites are there to greet you. These are more spread out throughout the room leading up to a staircase that leads to a third circular room. This room has the same Centurion Shields and Legionaries. Take out the Centurion Shields first. Then take out the Legionaries. Take out the Goblins and Hoplites, while also guarding a Subterranean Mind in a Minotaur type body.

The Lighthouse

Enemy Clusters

Cabal and Vex

This cluster is empty.

Cabal

A couple Legionaries and a Centurion a little north west of the Vex gateway.

Cabal

Two Legionaries are with a Phalanx.

Vex

Two Harpies and a Hydra prowl the fountain of Vex milk radiolaria.

Vex

Each side of the arena area has a few Vex Goblins when the Public Event is inactive.

Landing Zone

The Lighthouse

Drop in from Orbit to this reasonably-central location, landing close to the energy elevator, with quick access to both the Tangle (west) and Hallows (east).

Patrols

The Lighthouse (3)

There are three available Patrols in this area: 2 Salvage Missions, and 1 Combat Mission. It is beneficial to pick one up before doing any activities outside the Lighthouse for additional reputation.

Public Events

Vex Crossroads (Full)

VEX CROSSROADS

A game in opening. Destroy Vex on either side of the dome as they spill from the Vex portals. Slay enough Goblins to power a beam. Legion of Cayn Dreaden: Destroy the Keeper, and gather Vex Energy to dunk into the platforms of light, disabling warp gates. Repeat this on the other side of the dome. The Vex gravity cannons will prevent interaction with all the warp gates are disabled. Use the reclaimed gravity cannons to launch to either the east or west island to slay another Keeper. Fly back to the dome arena, then repeat the process for the last Keeper. Slay the Keeper, then go across to return to the dome for a jetted battle against a Vex Gate Lord while avoiding laser fire.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |

| 1 | Vex Crossroads | Vex Gate Lord | Keeper of Ages (Unseen), Various Vex | Boss Chest (-2) |

Heroic

The Heroic Event is triggered as a difficult challenge completed at a specific point in the Public Event. If the opportunity is missed, the Heroic Event will not be accessible but the Public Event may still be completed.

Vex Crossroads (Secret)

Lost Treasure 1: Located in the north west area. Cabal and Vex are chatting. The Vex Sentry Harpies guard a lost treasure. Wipe out all the enemies or simply destroy the Sentries to unlock the chest.

Lost Treasure 2: Located in the south eastern region of the area, near the Lost Sector. Cabal and Vex clash over a lost treasure.

Lost Treasure 3: Located in the south, west of the Vex gateway. Cabal and Vex clash over a lost treasure.

Jailbreak 1: Located in the eastern region. Defeat the Minotaur Guard to release the Cabal enemy.

Jailbreak 2: Located in the western region. Defeat the Minotaur Guard to release the Cabal enemy.

Interruptors: One or two Interruptors may prowl the clearly marked path carved through the entirety of the area. Take out the Psions and take their ride.

High-Value Target 1: This HVT moves around the eastern area, walking through the arena and jumping down into the lower region and back up.

High-Value Target 2: This HVT moves around the eastern area, walking through the arena and jumping down into the lower region and back up.

High-Value Target 3: This HVT is near the east outset. This may be a Vex Storm Hydra or Minotaur.

Region Chests

1 - Region Chest 1

Up in the north, behind the Lighthouse guarded by a Cabal.

2 - Region Chest 2

This chest is behind a barrier within the Lighthouse. Can you do it? What is sometimes red and made with milk?

3 - Region Chest 3

Located on the eastern island. Only with skill can you discover this during the Vex Crossroads Public Event.

4 - Region Chest 4

Located on the western island. Only with skill can you discover this during the Vex Crossroads Public Event.

5 - Region Chest 5

Discover this on the western exterior surface of the Vex gateway. It's going to take some patience and jumping.

CURSE OF OSIRIS

Infinite Forest

Overview

Mercury's planetary core has been hollowed out by the Vex. The Vex have built a reality engine to test infinite probabilities in an attempt to find the most favorable outcome for the Vex. Guardians will pass through simulated stages. Each stage consists of varied platforms, enemies, and a gate that is either blue or red at the end of a platform.

It is not necessarily required to eliminate all foes if the gate is blue in order to pass through to the next platform. However, Guardians may find fighting through enemies good for completing challenges.

If the gate is red, it cannot be unlocked until all enemies that glow red (known as Daemons) are eliminated. Daemons will be a bit more difficult than other enemies. At the end of the sequence of platforms, Guardians enter a gateway into the Simulant Past, Present, or Future. Players must pass through the Infinite Forest to reach the end stages of Adventures, Missions, Strikes, and other activities.

Simulated Enemies

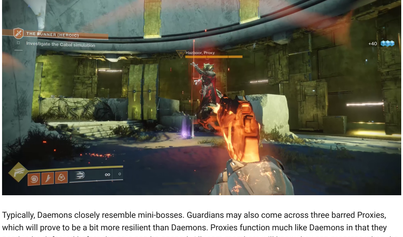
Each platform branch will feature one or two random factions of enemies. Sometimes enemies will be spamming splash damage types of weapons. Other times they'll be hordes of relentless exploding enemies. At times, there will be opportunities to rush past a blue gate only to be met with a red gate locked by the presence of Daemons. If your fireteam is unfortunate enough, you'll be flanked by two forces of enemies. Thankfully, enemies cannot leave their designated platforms. So, when things get tough there's an avenue of retreat or rally point for regrouping the fireteam.

During Heroic Adventures, Heroic Strikes, or Nightfalls it is important to move through the Infinite Forest quickly, as the unknown nature of each platform may result in especially daunting variations. If a fireteam is stuck at a red-gated platform, the team can search prior blue-gated platforms for orange-bar enemies that may drop Power ammo.

It is recommended to bring crowd-control types of weapons or weapons useful in taking down shielded enemies quickly. A few rockets as a first volley into a crowded platform will make the rest of the platform all the easier. Roaming Supers, such as the Arcstrider, Stormcaller, or Sunbreaker, will also be a great tool for generating Orbs of Light and moving through crowded platforms quickly.

If your team is confronted with a platform with nothing but exploding enemies, don't skip it if anyone is low on ammo. They're likely to bunch up and will be easy enough to wipe out. It's a good opportunity for easy ammo.

Many platforms allow for a lot of verticality. Use the high ground advantage to work on troubling platforms. A lot of enemies will have difficulty hitting you and your team.



Typically, Daemons closely resemble mini-bosses. Guardians may also come across three barred Proxies, which will prove to be a bit more resilient than Daemons. Proxies function much like Daemons in that they need to be defeated before the gate can be opened. All team members will know they can progress when the feed says, "Forest pathway cleared".

Resources

The Infinite Forest contains randomly placed Mercury resources (Simulation Seeds and Simulation Blooms) on the platforms. It's not guaranteed to contain them, but some platforms contain one or two. Take these and give them to Brother Vance. If you should find one, let your team-mates know. There's no point in letting them go to waste.

CAMPAIGN AND STRIKES

The Gateway

Recommended Power: 200

You've come to Mercury seeking Osiris; Ikora Rey believes he may be within the Infinite Forest. It's your job to find a way in.

Objectives

- Find a gateway into the Infinite Forest

Enemies

- Prowent Vex
- Descendant Vex

Reward: Legendary Engram

Outskirts Of The Lighthouse

1: Run along the platform, and enter the small Vex portal at the end.

2: Keep movingin the direction of the next marker, toward a group of stairs. Further up is a small cluster of Vex, which is reinforced by another small group of Goblins and a Minotaur. Once they're dispatched, jump on the gravity cannon.

You reach another platform in a state of disrepair. Make your way across and into the second gravity cannon.

3: The second gravity cannon lands you in an expansive area with more Goblins and Fanatics. Use the high ground of the elevated platforms to stay out of reach. They can be picked off one by one or destroyed en masse. Once they're all dead, move through the small crevice in the wall.

4: You emerge on a ledge overlooking more large, ruin-like Vex construct platforms. It's swarming with dusty Harpies and Hobgoblins. Move through them. They can be defeated almost effortlessly; just take the time to land your hits on their crit points, and they should be easy pickings.

Once they've all been downed, move on via the gravity cannon. You soar for a long distance and arrive at the Lighthouse.

5: In the distance a large pyramid is silhouetted against the blaze of the sun. Jump down the large steps of the Lighthouse and move toward the large gateway blaring a deep resonating note followed by a visual wake. Something, or someone is sending that signal.

6: Moving closer, you encounter several small clusters of various Vex. Blasting through these, you approach the pillars by the Vex gateway. The pillars are swathed in Vex and Aporia, Gatekeeper, a shielded Hydra. Unload a few precision hits or Power weapon hits to quickly remove them.

Approach the gateway. The barrier doesn't budge, and contact is accompanied by a dissonant note. Brother Vance may be able to help. Bring Osiris's Ghost, Sagira, to Brother Vance.

Restricted Zone

Grenades: Recommended

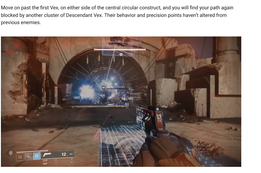
7: Timelines on Mercury are converging. Descendant Vex appear and block the path back to the Lighthouse. They are accompanied by the three-barred Tyranos, Gatekeeper, apparently a Descendant Minotaur. It can be felled easily enough.



Move on past the first Vex, on either side of the central circular construct, and you will find your path again blocked by another cluster of Descendant Vex. Their behavior and precision points haven't altered from previous enemies.

Grenades: Recommended

The Lighthouse portal is secured by a Vex security node and a lot of Descendant Fanatics, Goblins, and Hobgoblins. Hit the central-most Fanatic to detonate peripheral Fanatics or use a grenade. Clear this initial wave.

A second wave begins with a Vex Harpy, Goblin, and Hobgoblin, but nothing you can't handle.

Grenades: Recommended

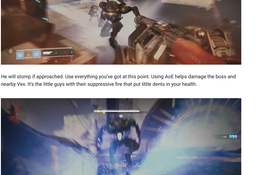
8: After some of these lesser Vex have been destroyed, a boss approaches. Defeat Methodica, Module Proxy. This larger Descendant Minotaur is tougher than the last. Use nearby cover to stay out of it's attack area.



He will stomp if approached. Use everything you've got at this point. Using AoE helps damage the boss and nearby Vex. It's the little guys with their suppressive fire that put little dents in your health.

A decisive blow should take care of this boss quickly. Once the Module Proxy is defeated, the security node can be destroyed. Now, with the security node down, the portal into the Lighthouse is activated. Walk inside.

Brother Vance has built a bit of a cult of personality around Osiris, the Lighthouse being a grand altar to the works of Osiris.

Brother Vance sends you to a hidden temple on Earth to reactivate Sagira.

CAMPAIGN AND STRIKES

A Deadly Trial

Recommended Power: 200

Brother Vance has sent you to a hidden temple to Osiris in the EDZ. You may be able to revive Sagira there. You're sent into a region of the EDZ yet to be explored.

Objectives

- Rendezvous with the Followers of Osiris to revive Sagira

Enemies

- Fallen

Reward: XXX

Maevic Square

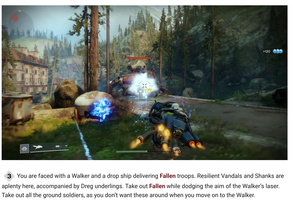
1 Go straight for the Heavy Pike. Decimate the nearby Fallen. Move up the path to encounter some Resilient Shanks, a few good hits they're done for, and be sure to pick up any Power ammo.

2 Move further up to engage Resilient Vandals and Shanks. If your Heavy Pike is destroyed, you can pick up another. Further up, you'll find two Resilient Vandals with scorch weapons and Dregss for backup. They should be nothing in the face of the Heavy Pike. Up ahead, two Dregs guard a two more Heavy Pikes.



3 You are faced with a Walker and a drop ship delivering Fallen troops. Resilient Vandals and Shanks are aplenty here, accompanied by Dreg underlings. Take out Fallen while dodging the aim of the Walker's laser. Take out all the ground soldiers, as you don't want these around when you move on to the Walker.

Once enough Fallen are gone, open fire on the Walker's legs. The Walker will drop, and now it's time to deal damage to the exposed inner workings near the front. Another drop ship comes in to assist the disabled Walker. Take the reinforcements out before re-engaging the Walker. Hopefully you've been able to keep the Heavy Pike undamaged using it's strafe ability.

The Walker will reactivate. Begin dealing more damage to the Fallen Walker. If necessary, you may strafe and release tracking bombs to deal some additional damage. Once the Walker is down, move through the unprotected tunnel.

Hangman's Pass

4 The road is blocked by a lot of Vandals and a few Resilient Vandals. They're easy enough to handle on a Heavy Pike, but some dodging may be required to avoid enemy fire. Use the higher left path to gain the high ground. After blasting through the first few, there's a Captain toward the mouth of the tunnel. Blast through the enemies here, too. Guardians should take care not to dodge off the cliff with your Heavy Pike.

5 The tunnel is free to pass through; however, be wary of the laser mines. Assuming you're still on a Pike, just go around them. If you're playing with friends, take care not to nudge them into the lasers.

Restricted Zone

Super: Recommended

6 You've made it up to the radio tower area. Fallen are everywhere. Dregs greet you, but they're no threat against a Heavy Pike, which Guardians can obtain easily. However, once you reach the radio tower building itself, it's easier to navigate the area and take out enemies from behind cover or face to face.

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

7 Once you've cleared enough enemies out of your way at the bottom of the radio tower, keep moving to the top. You're met with a Resilient Captain and his trusty Dregs. A well placed grenade can make quick work of them all. There may be stragglers. Once no more enemies are around, you jump down the elevator shaft at the back side of the tower.

You've reached the Temple below. Move further in to find the Followers. There are a few Marauders lurking in the darkness. Defeat these. You discover the Followers of Osiris have died at the hand of Vandals. When you explore, you'll find a strange device; see what it can do for Sagira. It apparently creates a symbiosis with your Ghost, and Sagira seems to override your Ghost entirely.

Beyond Infinity

Recommended Power: 210

It's time to enter the Infinite Forest and find Osiris. Be prepared for anything.

Objectives

- Open the gateway with Sagira's assistance
- Learn from the Reflections of Osiris

Enemies

- Infinite Forest: Varies

Infinite Forest

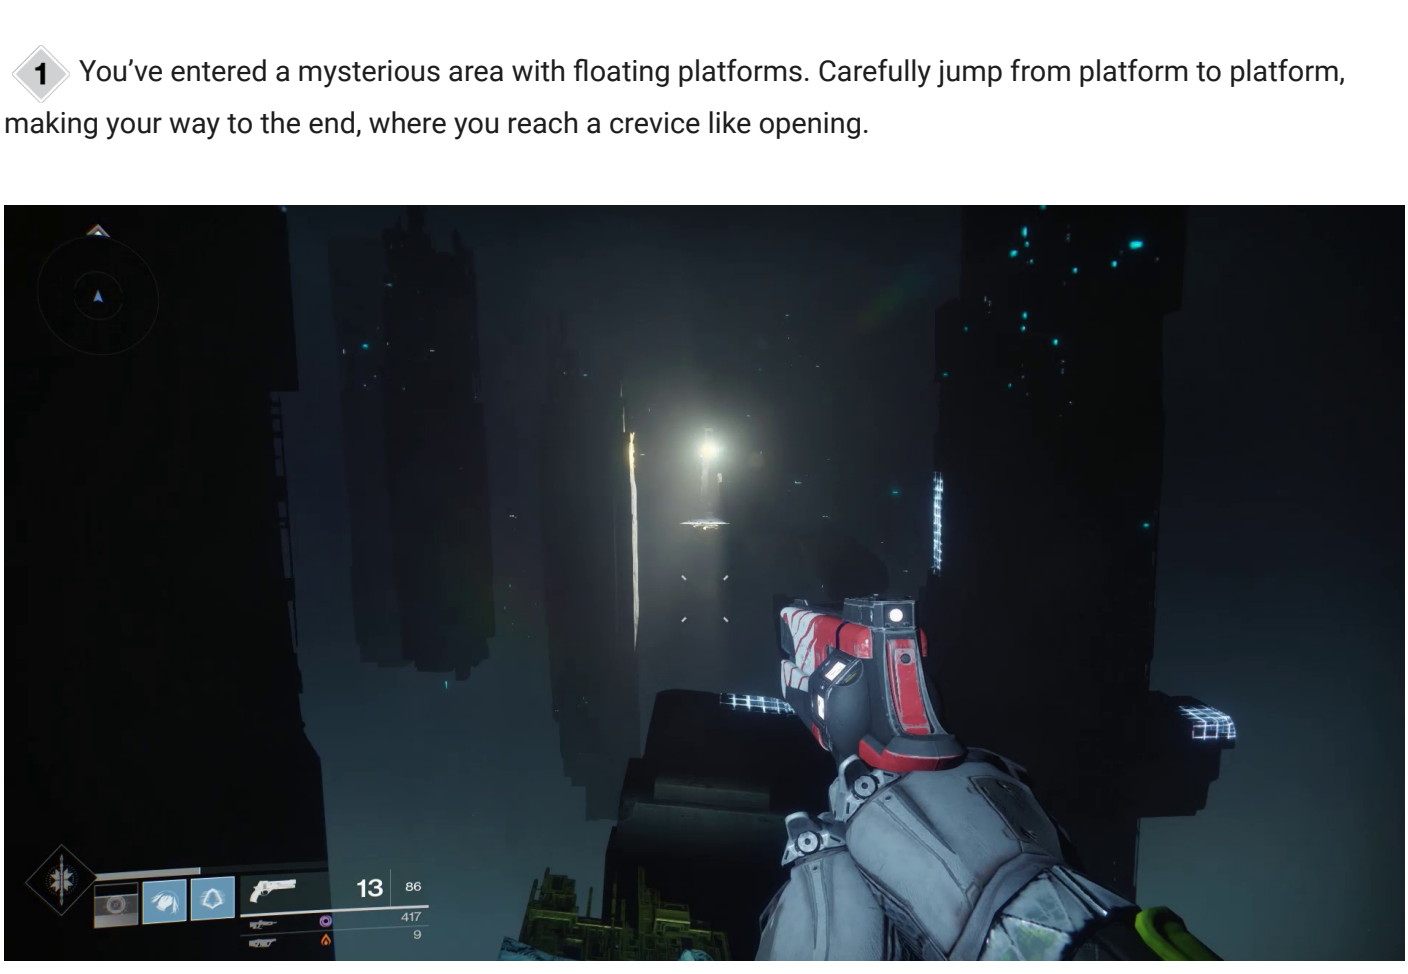
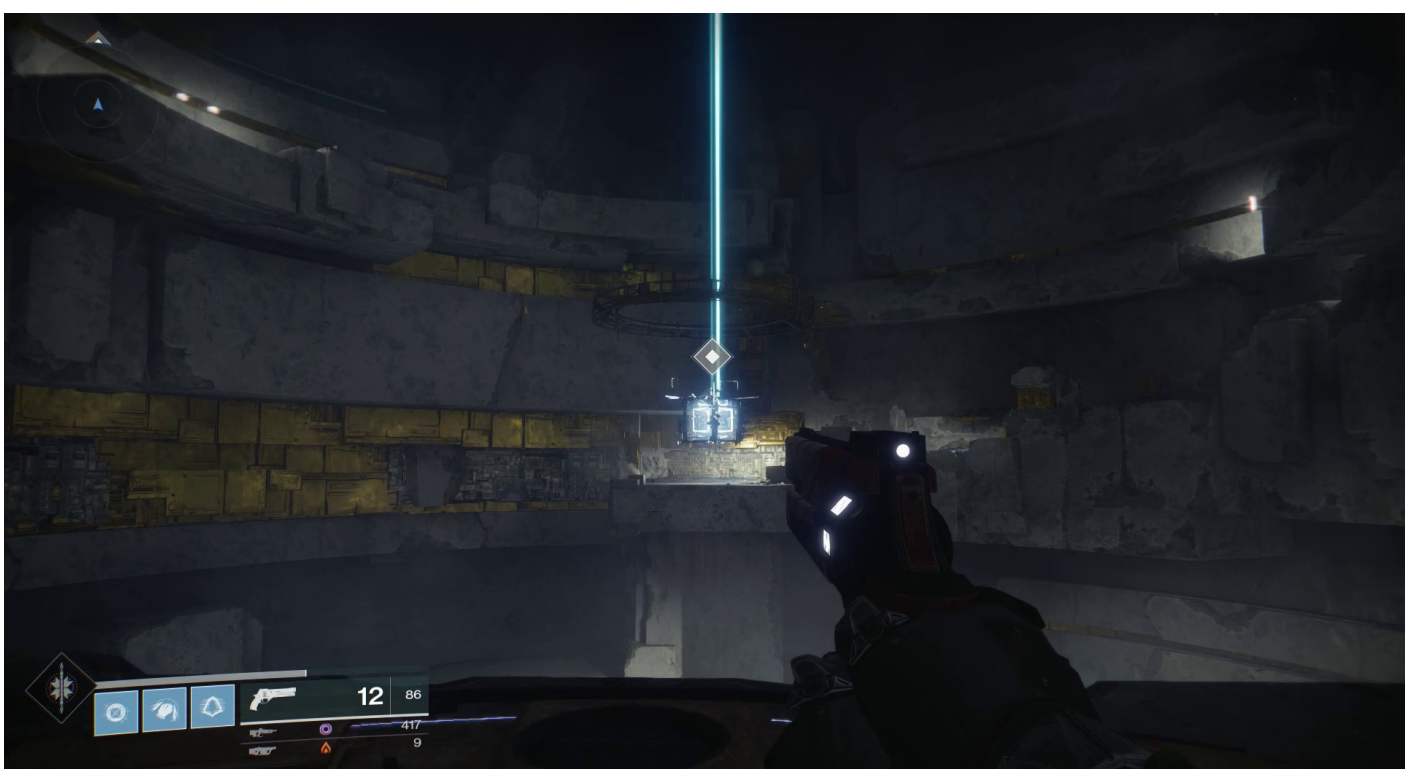
1 You've entered a mysterious area with floating platforms. Carefully jump from platform to platform, making your way to the end, where you reach a crevice like opening.



Move through the opening into what appears to be a Vex Well. Ascend the staircases and jutting platforms. Sagira informs you that you'll meet duplicates of Osiris here his Reflextions. Keep climbing.



2 At the top you find a Vex platform. Stand on it to activate's it. It activate's a Vex security node, which you should shoot to activate a conduit. Osiris's Reflections inform you that it is almost too late. A path materializes allowing you to keep moving up through another passage. Moving into an open area, Osiris's Reflection introduces the player to the Infinite Forest with a trial by fire.

3 Move through the Infinite Forest as methodically or as quickly as you please. You may bypass some areas if you find a blue gate. If it's a red gate, you will need to defeat a Daemon before it can be opened. Once you've made it through, one of Osiris's Reflections shows you Mercury as it was in the past, before the Vex arrived. He'll open a new gate, which you should move through.

The Reflection sends you back into the Infinite Forest. Reach the next gateway where, at the other end of the Reflextion Osiris reveals the dark future created by Panoptes, Infinite Mind–the Vex Mind created to use the Forest to calculate the destruction of Humanity. Panoptes introduces itself along with invincible Vex. They aren't very welcoming, so make a hasty retreat. Use the portal before Panoptes or the way you came from. Head back to the Lighthouse where you'll regain contact with Ikora.

Deep Storage

Recommended Power: 210

Ikora rewards you with a weapon from the Vanguard and sends you back to Io. Search the Pyramidion on Io for a map of the Infinite Forest to guide you to Panoptes.

Objectives

- Steal a map of the Infinite Forest
- Find an access point to view the map
- Access the map

Enemies

- Vex
- Boss: Network Protector

Pyramidion

1 Spawn into the Rupture on Io. The Vex plate and then the security node needs to be activated for the door into the Pyramidion to open. Enter and descend.

2 Walk down; you'll emerge into a vast, infinite chamber. Peer down the steps with enemies perched on them. Several Hobgoblins fire upon you, with Fanatics transmatting on the steps. Destroy all these as you make your way down. Do not stand among the Fanatics, but instead destroy them prior to leaping down.

3 At the bottom of the steps, Goblins arrive. Destroy them to pass through. Shortly after the Goblins, you'll encounter a few Harpies in the corridor. After these are wiped out, jump down the drop.

Grenades: Recommended

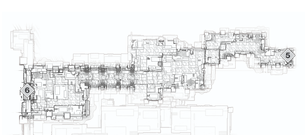
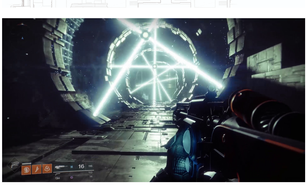
4 There's a large group of Vex here. Start it off with a grenade for any Vex close together. Begin laying waste to the Vex before you. There may be a Minotaur followed by a Quantum Hydra. Goblins will appear to assist the Hydra. Sagira has reprogrammed the warp gate to skip a few areas. Pass into the next warp gate.





5 6 There's a moment of leisurely jogging, and then you head straight into spinning lasers. Avoid touching these by moving in as they pass by. They will hurt you if you touch them. At the end of the lasers are several Harpies and Quantum Goblins. You can kill these or run past them into the Vex warp gate.

Super: Recommended

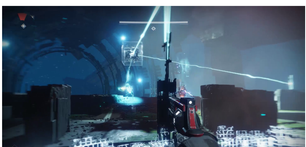
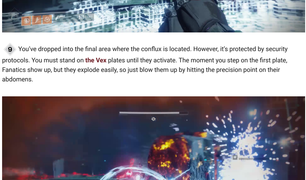
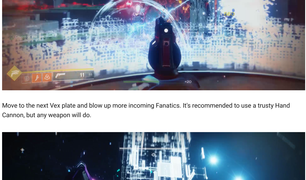
7 You've reached the expansive area guarded by a Cyclops Network Protector. It can be damaged; stand behind cover if you wish. Shoot the center of the eye for precision damage. After you do enough damage to the Protector, Hobgoblins and Goblins spawn.

8 When the Protector's life is low enough, another Quantum Minotaur joins the Cyclops. Destroying the Minotaur and the Cyclops drops the field over the center, allowing you to drop down.

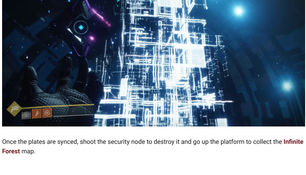




9 You've dropped into the final area where the conflux is located. However, it's protected by security protocols. You must stand on the Vex plates until they activate. The moment you step on the first plate, Fanatics show up, but they explode easily, so just blow them up by hitting the precision point on their abdomens.



Move to the next Vex plate and blow up more incoming Fanatics. It's recommended to use a trusty Hand Cannon, but any weapon will do.



Once the plates are synced, shoot the security node to destroy it and go up the platform to collect the Infinite Forest map.

DESTINY 2

CAMPAIGN AND STRIKES
Tree Of Probabilities (Campaign And Strike)

Recommended Power

- Campaign: 320+
- Strike: 340+
- Heavy Peripheral: 270+

Osiris needs your assistance in destroying Calcal caught in a recursive loop within the Infinite Forest.

Campaign and Strike Comparison

This section covers the Campaign and Strike versions of this mission. This mission can be replayed in the form of a Strike within the Strikes playlist, or as a Meditation obtained from Ikora Rey at The Tower. The Campaign version is the version you play when you are progressing through the Campaign. Within the campaign, the enemy will be Calcal, aside from enemies within the Infinite Forest. In Strike variants, you will experience greater challenges and varied enemies at each encounter. We've combined the Campaign version and the Strike version here to provide a base.

Objectives

- Approach the Infinite Forest gateway

Enemies Encountered

- Fallen Infiltrator, Fallen Striker in the Infinite Forest
- Calcal, Legionaries, Phalanx, Scorpius, Honored Colossus

1. Infinite Forest Entrance

Super: Optional (one player)

Grenades: Optional (one player)

There's a plethora of Calcal Legionaries set pacing about. Shut them down. A few Phalanx soldiers will activate their shields, shoot the middle of the shields to power them down. Bore through the meandering corridors and into the Infinite Forest. Once you enter the Infinite Forest, you will be given a choice. You can purchase upgrades from the Exotic Armsmaster Rasputin with Nodes or Supplies or off-handed Quarters along the way to the steps of the Infinite Forest gateway. Positioned directly at the gateway entrance are two Scorpius units to be demolished, accompanied by an Honored Colossus. The Colossus will have a few more Legionaries and Phalanx units to send into silly obliteration. Once these are all dealt with, the Calcal cage field will drop.

Campaign

Gates are unlocked during the campaign.

Infinite Forest

FIELDS OF GLASS

Objectives

- Track the Calcal

Enemies Encountered

- WIL CAVAL, HIVE, TAKEN, FALLEN Infinite variations of all known enemies of the Hangard

Super: Recommended (all players)

Grenades: Add Sword grenades recommended (all players)

Variations: Infinite

Each area is different, so you may wish to change weapons on the fly. For more, see our Infinite Forest section. Once you've successfully made it out of the Infinite Forest, you arrive at the Simulant Present.

Simulant Present

FIELDS OF GLASS

Objectives

- Eliminate hostiles
- Mount up and move quickly
- Find the Calcal ladder
- Find the map of the Infinite Forest
- Defeat Vatus Thuun

Enemies Encountered

- The Cultists, Hobgoblins, Goblins, Minotaurs, Harpies
- Calcal Legionaries, Phalanx, Colossus
- VATUS Vatus Thuun

2. Eliminate The Enemies

Super: Optional (one player)

Grenades: Optional (one players)

Campaign

Called on the enemy in this area during the Campaign. However, there may also be a few variant during Strike.

There are a lot of initial enemies. They need to be eliminated. There are plenty of fire structures to use for cover. These are the usual clusters of enemies. Once these are destroyed, head to the waypoint on the large arena.

3. Mount Up And Move Quickly

Super: Optional (one player)

Grenades: Optional (one player)

Get on your Sparrow in order to cross the gap to the circular area. If you are so inclined, you can hop off to kill some Calcal and hire for kicks, or you can drive by all of that.

There are a lot of variant enemies. They need to be eliminated. These are plenty of fire structures to use for cover. These are the usual clusters of enemies. Once these are destroyed, head to the waypoint on the large arena.

Heading into the Vex tube pathway can be perilous. If you're unadvanced, drive up the upper pathways and dodge lasers of death. Don't let Amanda Holliday see this place. We wouldn't want to give her any ideas now, would we?

4. Vex Construct Pathway

Super: Optional (all players)

Grenades: Optional (all players)

Campaign

Called on the enemy in this area during the Campaign. They have comparable troops located in the Vatus construct pathway to Vatus's map. Set up in elevated positions while Legionaries, Incursions and Gladiators will block the footpath.

Varied Vex are blocking the pathway. These are of little consequence and should be easy to demolish. After the first few Goblins are investigated - one low one and one high on a block. Take these down before pressing the trackpad. There's more than enough point- to- point cover. Groupings are so close together that guns with splash damage will work well. Once the first few Goblins are dispatched, a Minotaur will appear. Be prepared for an escape go of it. One fun thing to do here would be to shove the off the pathway using Tractor Cannon. You may want to hold onto grenades and Suppers for the next part.

5. Defeat Vatus Thuun CQC 1

Super: Recommended (one player)

Grenades: Recommended (one player)

Boss Heal Spot: Helmet, Jetpack

What an entrance! Wipe out the initial Legionaries, then jump down to face Thuun. Thuun has several attacks Ground Pound, Flying Ground Pound, slug rounds, and high-powered kinetic blasts. Keep an eye out - he uses the same attacks as the Vex Minotaur. Ground Pound does come in handy for another type of attack. If you stand back but his first, it's time to deliver a staggering blow quickly- use a Sword's Guard or run. Guardians should be on him if another Guardian is distracting him.

After a bit of time passes, more Legionaries come to reinforce Thuun. At this point Guardians have some options on how to take these out. Once a good number of them are down, refocus on Thuun while picking off a couple more.

After a few moments, Psion snipers join. Don't give them the chance to do damage. Take the Psions out before anything else.

Defeat Vatus Thuun CQC 2

Thuun makes his escape to the next area while the Vex have returned, and with lasers. Take out the remaining Vex and Calcal, then move to the next area.

6. Open-Air Arena

Super: Recommended (all players)

Grenades: Recommended (all players)

It's easy to die in the next area if Thuun lands any punch that sends Guardians flying into the walls, and in this area Thuun begins to use his Flying Ground Pound, so keep a close eye on him. Additional enemies can flood the area quickly. Keep sharp and clear them out wholesale with grenades, Supers, etc. It's best to clear enemies out before Thuun can be seen away from you, and with cover between you and him. One good roaming Super is more than enough.

Staying Thuuns will show up on the upper tier area. It's best to have someone kill them off quickly, so everyone can focus on Thuun.

Open-Air Arena Pt. 2

Super: Optional (one player)

Grenades: Optional (one player)

Thuun will depart this area. You are still in the same area, except a lot of new lasers have shown up. Get to the upper area to take out the Vex. Once the Minotaur is defeated, you can have the area as well.

Pass through to the next area. Jump past the floating platforms and into the third large area.

7. Defeat Vatus Thuun

Super: Recommended (all players)

Grenades: Recommended (all players)

Before you do anything else, defeat the Legionaries. Do not get between Thuun and the ledge. Try to keep Thuun away from the ledge, as he can use his Ground Pound to knock you off. Use the event pacing attention. Thuun will punch you off the side. We recommend equipping a Sword to cancel the momentum instead. You can also use a Super to save yourself to cancel any of Thuuns knockback attacks.

Lasers activate fairly soon, so be aware of your surroundings. The lasers will not damage a Guardian while they are yellow, but once they're fully red they can cause damage. Lasers will change position intermittently.

Keep track of Thuun and keep your back to a wall while doing damage. Keep moving then unload everything you have on Thuun. Thuun should be knocked down fairly quickly in the last area provided you have the numbers of the players of the platforms. If you're killing Thuun during the Strike playlist, a check will drop in the center of the platform.

Campaign

Once Thuun is defeated, proceed further in to scan the Tree of Probabilities. Upon completion, you'll be awarded an illuminated engram.

Hijacked

Recommended Power: 220+

Hunt down a Vex Mind that can read your map of the Infinite Forest and point the way to Panopticus.

Objectives

- Scavenge a powerful processor from the Vex
- Connect the processor to the Vex network

Enemies

- Present Vex variants
- Fallen
- Hijraj Entangled Protectors
- Boss: Entangled Mind

Artifact's Edge

You'll start in Artifact's Edge, but go straight to the Tangle. Ikora's Hidden have tracked down an Entangled Mind. You'll be heading toward the Mists, disintegrating various Vex until you come across Entangled Protectors. That's how you'll know you're heading in the right direction.

The Mists

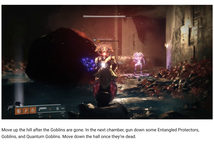
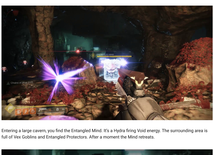
1. Come to the fork, then take a left. Continue to follow the guide on the mini-map.

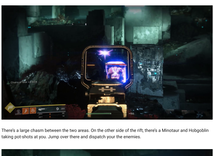
You come to a wide, open chamber with clusters of Vex Goblins and Harpies on the left, and on the right of the entryway. Moving to the left there are a few more Goblins up the path.



Move up the hill after the Goblins are gone. In the next chamber, gun down some Entangled Protectors, Goblins, and Quantum Goblins. Move down the hall once they're dead.



Entering a large cavern, you find the Entangled Mind. It's a Hydra firing Void energy. The surrounding area is full of Vex Goblins and Entangled Protectors. After a moment the Mind retreats.



There's a large chasm between the two areas. On the other side of the rift, there's a Minotaur and Hobgoblin taking pot-shots at you. Jump over there and dispatch your the enemies.

Moving further into the passage, there are several more Goblins now protecting the Entangled Mind in it's second location. Hit it a few times and the Mind flees again. You'll move down through a narrow cavern path.

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

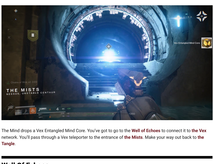
2. Emerging into a chamber, you arrive at the final showdown. The Entangled Mind is assisted by several Goblins. The Mind will drift about the room. Do your best to avoid it's fire by strafing, fighting, and going behind cover around the room. A Linear Fusion Rifle or Rocket Launcherwill be fairly useful here.



The Mind drops a Vex Entangled Mind Core. You've got to go to the Well of Echoes to connect it to the Vex network. You'll pass through a Vex teleporter to the entrance of the Mists. Make your way out back to the Tangle.

Well Of Echoes

3. Clusters of Vex are invariably in your path. As you climb up the hill and overlook the Well of Echoes, you'll see a large number of Vex and a group of Fallen enemies dropped off via dropship. Both parties are fighting each other, which provide a bit of a distraction for you to thin the herd of Vex in order to get into the Well of Echoes.

4. You can wipe out all the enemies, including the Fallen, or rush into the Well. Several Goblins are protecting the Vex gateway into the Well.

5. Once you've moved into the Well, Sagira needs you to get to the conflux to install the processor. However, you are engaged by Goblins from all directions, high and low. Move up toward the platform floating above.

Platforms appear once you've reached the highest platform. An enemy may arrive and shout you to direct your attention to the very next platform.

Once you've reached the top, a horde of Harpies fire upon you. Destroy these, moving to cover, and destroy the Goblins that arrive.

Super: Recommended

A Quantum Hydra, like a ghost of the Entangled Mind, joins in. Burn it down with a Super or Power weapon. With the Hydra dead, you may use the Mind to process the map.

Digital requires your entitlement with a full or trial purchase.

Destiny 2 is a free-to-play online multiplayer shooter developed by Bungie for the Xbox One and Windows PC. There are three versions of the game: the Standard Edition, the Digital Deluxe Edition, and the Collector's Edition. Players can choose to play as a Titan, Hunter, or Warlock. Each class has its own unique abilities and playstyle. Destiny 2 is the successor to the original Destiny and features a new storyline, new characters, and new locations. The game launched on September 6, 2017.

Campaign and Strikes Comparison

Destiny 2 has a campaign that can be played through with a friend or solo. The campaign can be replayed as many times as you like. The campaign is also available on the Xbox Game Pass. The campaign is divided into missions, which are further divided into objectives. The game includes a variety of activities, such as strikes, Crucible matches, and Gambit matches. Strikes are cooperative missions that can be played with up to three other players. The campaign and strikes can be played on any difficulty level, from Normal to Master.

Digital Strike

Linked will be covered here along with increased amounts of the when compared to the campaign or other strikes.

Strike Variations: Additional Taur and Minotaur Minotaur

Note that when the enemy becomes invulnerable, you can't damage them, so you'll have to wait for the shield to drop.

The final stand that Awakened consists of a Minotaur, a Taur and a Minotaur Minotaur. Minotaur Minotaur has a big shield that he throws around, and he can also summon a Minotaur. The Taur has a shield as well, but it doesn't throw it around. Instead, it uses it to block attacks. The Taur also has a melee attack, which you should also avoid. Minotaur Minotaur is a ranged attacker that uses a bow and arrow.

The final area is another mixture with another Minotaur Minotaur, this time with a Taur Psionic Minotaur. Ground Explosion may quickly handle the Psionic Minotaur's with their Power weapons. Take out the Minotaur Minotaur first, as it's the most dangerous. Then, focus on the Taur Psionic Minotaur, as it can heal the other enemies. Finally, take out the Minotaur Minotaur. It's not a terribly difficult encounter, but it can be challenging if you're not careful.

Variations: Normal (for Strikes) and/or Dread Juggernaut (Strikes)

Gardener's Spire, Floor 1

Type: Normal (non-player)

Variations: Normal (for Strikes) and/or Dread Juggernaut (Strikes)

Variations: Additional Taur

Begin climbing the spire. When you meet several Psionic Goblins (or a mob) during the first part and can see the Gardener's Spire, Floor 2 entrance, you'll encounter a Psionic Goblin. Defeat it, and you'll get a Psionic Goblin's Key. Use the key to open the door to the Gardener's Spire, Floor 2 entrance.

Note: Each run-type from the Arena series provides a unique Super and each is built a Super for the Titan, Hunter, and Warlock. Each Super has a unique effect and can be used to defeat enemies in different ways. For example, the Titan's Super is the Thunderclap, which creates a shockwave that damages enemies. The Hunter's Super is the Arrow of Sol, which fires a powerful arrow that explodes on impact. The Warlock's Super is the Nova Bomb, which creates a bomb that explodes after a few seconds.

Infinite Forest

Enter the Infinite Forest and defeat Vampiric foes before a Vex victory becomes inevitable! You begin at the Infinite Forest and must defeat Vampiric Enemies to progress. Use the Vampiric Mechanic to your advantage in fighting through it all to more difficult than prior attempts. There will be a stronger force of enemies and Atonic bonds led by glowing Daemons. Take out the Daemons and their reinforcements if necessary to move on through the Forest reaching the gateway leading to Panoptes.

Objectives

- Destroy Panoptes, the Infinite Mind

Enemies

- Vex, Infinite Variations
- Wizar, Psionauts
- Hexed Legionary Snipers, Hero of the Infinite Emblem

Panoptes

You've entered an enclosed passage area with Panoptes at the other open end.

Panoptes is immune during this time. Panoptes immediately summons a throng of Goblins in the center and during the upper videos, with a couple Hobgoblins in either upper area.

Move up top and begin removing Vex. Panoptes doesn't seem to directly attack. It sends a Vex Minotaur / Achronos, Infinite Proxy, to deal with you. Take it out with a few solid Power weapon Stone. Once you've defeated these Vex, Panoptes moves further away. Jump on the gravity cannon to proceed.

Panoptes moved the battle to another stage. There's still no sign of Osiris. Fall some Fallen as the first small platform as Panoptes summons more simulated enemies. Hop on the next gravity cannon.

On the second small floating platform, Panoptes throws enemies at you that are easily brushed aside.

On the third floating platform, Panoptes summons a rushing horde of Hive Thrall and Acolytes.

Once you have reached the second stage, Panoptes summons large hordes of enemies. They take cover, and so should you. Pick the snipers off one by one.

After you kill enough enemies, Panoptes will summon another batch.

The third batch of foes has a four-bar boss. Taketsu, Infinite Proxy. If you're playing 4 pvfe, remove his entourage and begin dueling damage to the minibosses, where you can down handily with Power weapons or grenades. If you are aggressive, Taketsu can be killed before his minions which will wipe them out as well.

Osiris shows up out of nowhere. He distracts Panoptes and sets you to task. Take down Panoptes' defenses.

Jump through the gravity cannons to soar up to a platform and grab an Arc charge from a Reflector of Osiris. Dunk it into the pipe.

Panoptes' eye opens up. It's a precision point. Deal as much damage as possible. Damage it enough that it sends you flying back.

Grenades: Recommended

Supers: Recommended

Another battle against simulated Vex enemies begins. Enemies are everywhere, so be careful when your Super is ready to activate. Get behind cover and take all enemies methodically. Be aware of radar here if you may lose sight.

A second mini-wave brings more hordes along with some Wizards.

Supers: Recommended

The third wave holds many Vex enemies to kill and one of them is Ergot, Infinite Proxy. Ergot is a Vex Knight. Once you've gotten Ergot out of the way, Panoptes prepares another attack! Look for Osiris to come and block it. Again, jump through the provided gravity cannons, dunk the Arc charge, and fire upon Panoptes' eye.

Panoptes isn't dead yet. Handle the first wave of Cabal Phoxes. Stay near cover if necessary. A second wave with War Beasts quickly follows, after which, you know along another gravity cannon to the final stage.

Here Panoptes summons masses of Fanatics for you to spill subliminal hyacinths everywhere. Moving forward, you find more Axis Goblins and Hoplites. Keep whittling away at the advancing enemy.

Once you've dismantled everything, Atlecta, Infinite Proxy appears toward the end.

One more Arc charge forms as well as a bridge to carry you. You are given one last shot at the eye. Once Panoptes is dead, the possibilities are infinite!

After you return to Brother Vance, he offers one of the five pieces of the Mercury set armor for your class. Return to the Tower, approach Ikora, and she'll give you Exotic arms.

Radiant Cliffs

Radiant Cliffs Map Locations

Overview

Radiant Cliffs is set in a pastoral version of Mercury's sun-scarred, open, rocky terrain. It contains Caiatl's Mercury while the interior is undergoing transformation by the Hive. Exterior engagements are vast with multiple sightlines, while interior engagements are more claustrophobic.

The reason why the Hive appeared was the Hive's response to the overwhelming resources. The interior has walls in the light rainbow and Vidaya graphic. The exterior is prone to close quarters fire and Overload Hazard.

The main level addresses become simultaneous, repeated, or suspicious. The overall probability for Strikes and Lowered Tactics will lead to some team finishing engagements. Keep a grip on it. Hammond your callouts, and Fireteam Leaders should be aware of the Hive's response to the Hive's response. Each of the Hive's response to the Hive's response to the overwhelming resources.

Pacifica

Pacifica Map Locations

Overview

Pacifica is set on an asymmetrical map by Tower. The broken up layout provides quick transitions to all areas based off the number of players and is also renowned for its difficulty to control spawns.

Most engagements will be within shooting distance, and this map have a lot of people to choose short/no-mid range weapons. However, it seems to be leaning to play a more balanced mix of Mid-Range and Short with all the great cover and long sightlines. The floor is also mostly smooth, simple ramps will provide plenty of spaces to rush based on your playstyle. Pacifica is also a relatively balanced map.

The areas of engagements are broken up with cover consisting of plentiful pillars, boxes, and walls. There's a good amount of verticality and quick alternate routes to break up stand-offs. Control is a crucial position for this map as most objectives can be around any corner.

Landing Pad

This is an small landing zone for the beginning of a match. It may be best to avoid lingering on the past itself due to how exposed access is standing on it. However, there may be a good vantage from this landing that drops to the Control area or towards the Orange Bay, but only if the enemy isn't paying attention.

Orange Bay

This area offers little to the way of cover. All travel links are centred around hallway gun fights. Be careful driving any travel up the Vents heading into the Tea Time Bay. The longer sound of the solid back doesn't make the actual envelope if you are trying closely hooked.

Orange Deck

KEY LOCATION: ORANGE DECK

Control

Owning Control matches, the Orange Deck contains Control Zone A.

Once the Orange Deck is located on the edge of the Big Bay is open (as 50 with the mellows see if they're coming from the Control Zone or the Blue Bay. The Control Zone is also a good place to hold down as it has the Orange Bay and the Green Deck. The Control Zone also is the Orange Bay and has a lot of middle and long sightlines. Be careful when pushing into the Control Zone as it is a common area for enemies to be found. Landing Pad if you need to eliminate that the Orange Bay Deck when dealing with the approaching threat from the Green Deck.

Red Bay

Red Bay is a centrally located interior zone with long sightlines. Enemies can approach your position in the Control Zone from the Green Deck or the Blue Bay. Be careful when pushing into the Control Zone as it is a common area for enemies to be found. Landing Pad if you need to eliminate that the Orange Bay Deck when dealing with the approaching threat from the Green Deck.

KEY LOCATION: RED BAY

Control, Countdown

Owning Control matches, the Red Bay contains Control Zone B. In Countdown, it holds one of the maps two Bombs.

Vent

Someone is probably pressing through here, or hiding here to wait for people passing through. Much approaching someone with Machine. Don't hang out in here unless you're looking for close combat.

Blue Bay

This area is much like the Orange Bay, but with more passing through. It does offer a nice protected sightline down to the Control Zone and Green Deck. Be careful of the Blue Deck, as it has a common path and the middle provides a covering fire overhead and also from the Red Bay or Orange.

Green Deck

KEY LOCATION: GREEN DECK

Countdown

In Countdown, it holds one of the maps two Bombs.

Half of this area has plenty of walls to hug, with tight short passages for quick flanking. The other half is more exposed and provides easy to fall off to get a shot off during an A Primed jump over the cover.

Catwalk

What are you doing on this catwalk? That's not very safe. The dark blue provide some helpful cover and you may jump from here toward the Blue Deck for a Flash or Jetpack Grenade.

Access

A great flanking path, and the best choice to position wanting the first thing about Alley is that it's always exposed from those pesky Shotgunners. Open that door, and it's hard to know that an Enemy Rocket is around corner. You should probably keep an eye on that door if you're on the Green Deck and see well on the entire of the direction.

Alley

This is a solid river of paths from the Blue Bay to Deck. Blue hallway and access create a positive now. A good position to hold down the Green Deck as all around enough coverage.

Blue Hallway

This Blue hallway serves as a good maneuvering path to cross between Storage and the Alley. You must keep left to pass through here in order to get an angle on enemies located within the Blue Deck, or if you're heading to the Red Bay. The hallway exposes to a ledge in the Alley that leads to Access.

Blue Deck

KEY LOCATION: BLUE DECK

Control

Owning Control matches, the Blue Deck contains Control Zone C.

Half of this area has plenty of walls to hug, with tight short passages for quick flanking. The other half is more exposed and provides easy to fall off to get a shot off during an A Primed jump over the cover.

Storage

This is an area that serves as an short spawn and maneuvering route. Located between two offers considerable cover from the Blue Deck and Blue Hallway. Be careful when pushing into the Control Zone as it is a common area for enemies to be found. Landing Pad if you need to eliminate that the Orange Bay Deck when dealing with the approaching threat from the Green Deck.

WORMHAVEN MAP LOCATIONS

Overview

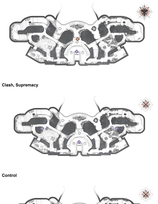
Wormhaven is set on a symmetrical section of the Arcology on Titan. One side is pristine and uninterrupted, while the other is dilapidated and corrupted.



Titan's plenty of cover to get behind and a chance meet in the open areas. The space easily lends itself to short to mid-range duels, however, you can still carve a niche for yourself running long-range snipers.

1 Nest

This has the same strategy as the Forest. The Forest and the Nest are areas that lend themselves to the benefit of the team that squeeze here. It may come into play for a Setback position or escape route. The U shape allows a Guardian to take a post up on the high ground, move to either side for cover, and take out incoming enemies.

2 Hatchery

KEY LOCATION: HATCHERY

Control

During Control matches, this area contains Control Zone E.

This has the same strategy as the Courtyard. The Courtyard and Hatchery are going to be hotly contested areas. Engagements will end quickly here. There are a lot of accessories for enemies to pour out of, so during Control, capture it and move to clear quickly.

3 Chamber

The Chamber is a good bypass and useful for providing cover on the adjacent Control Zone, as well as quick access down into the B Control Zone to protect it from capture.

4 Burrow

Cautiously move through the Burrow, expecting heavy fighting in the Lobby, and move up for a quick kill or two on the Overlook or down into Courtyard. It's going to be tempting to linger here. Take cover and run quickly to other hotspots to take out more enemies.

5 Terrace

The Terrace is going to be a hotbed of gunfire, so approach with care and don't fly off the side. Make sure enemies aren't fleeing. Enemies will have a good sightline from the opposite side of the Terrace.

6 Overlook

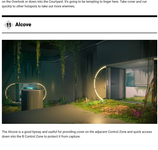
KEY LOCATION: OVERLOOK

Survival

During Survival the final Control Point spawns here.



This area is an excellent overwatch to Overlook Control Zone B or nearby Power ammo. You may also use the window overlooking the Terrace to hit anyone walking through. The nearby hallways make for a good retreat if the position is no longer safe.

KEY LOCATION: LOBBY

Control

During Control matches, this area contains Control Zone B.

This is a nice, long hall with one bit of cover in it and too many entrances to cover, so it's ideal for a Control Point. Controlling this area is best done by peeking from a corridor and firing when someone is running in the open, or patrolling the nearby routes leading into it.

8 Forest

This has the same strategy as the Nest. The Forest and the Nest are areas that lend themselves to the benefit of the team that squeeze here. It may come into play for a Setback position or escape route. The U shape allows a Guardian to take a post up on the high ground, move to either side for cover, and take out incoming enemies.

9 Courtyard

KEY LOCATION: COURTYARD

Control

During Control matches, this area contains Control Zone A.

This has the same strategy as the Hatchery. The Courtyard and the Hatchery are going to be hotly contested areas. Engagements will end quickly here. There are a lot of accessories for enemies to pour out of, so during Control, capture it and move to clear quickly.

10 Access

Cautiously move through Access, expecting heavy fighting in the Lobby. Then, move up for a quick kill or two on the Overlook or down into the Courtyard. It's going to be tempting to linger here. Take cover and run quickly to other hotspots to take out more enemies.

11 Alcove

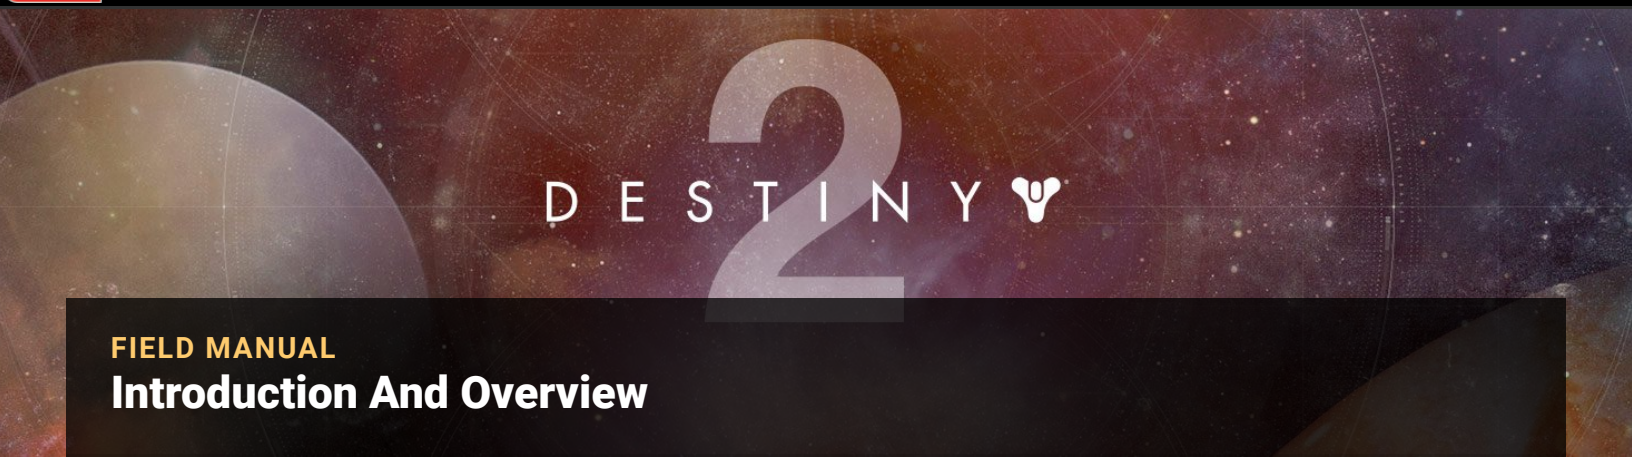
The Alcove is a good bypass and useful for providing cover on the adjacent Control Zone and quick access down into the B Control Zone to protect it from capture.



FIELD MANUAL

Introduction And Overview

Welcome to training, Guardian! It seems Earth is in need of you more than ever, so it's important to learn exactly what is expected of you, and how to maximize your time for fun and profit. To help you progress, this guide includes a number of helpful chapters. Here's how all this information breaks down:

Field Manual: A complete overview covering everything from basic actions to Subclasses, Abilities, weapons, armor, gear, navigation, and character progression.

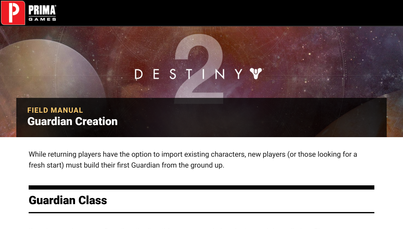
Missions and Activities: An extensive series of chapters detailing the optimal methods for completing all the major missions and Quests. This includes the sprawling Campaign and Strikes. For information on Adventures, World Quests, and general information on Lost Sectors, Patrols, Public Events, and Challenges, consult the online component of this guide, free with the purchase of the book you are holding.

Crucible: Make Lord Shaxx proud by dominating in the Crucible. This chapter details all maps available at launch, including strategies for the different game modes, and how to better other Guardians in combat.

Director: An extensive chapter detailing every Sector available to you at launch from across the four World Regions (European Dead Zone, Titan, Nessus, and Io). It includes enemy clusters, locations of chests and other collectibles, vendors, and extremely detailed maps.

Bestiary: An overview of the enemies in the game, with visual representations of each, and how best to thwart them in combat.

Armory: A look at the available and most interesting (not to mention the rarest) weapons, armor, and other gear, as well as other pertinent data.



FIELD MANUAL
Guardian Creation

While returning players have the option to import existing characters, new players (or those looking for a fresh start) must build their first Guardian from the ground up.

Guardian Class

If you're creating a new Guardian, the first thing you must do is select one of three distinct Classes.

TITAN

Disciplined and proud, Titans are capable of both aggressive assaults and stalwart defenses. Their Class Ability is Barricade, an energy barrier to reinforce a position for your fireteam. They are seen as the "tanks" of Destiny—geared to absorb or deflect damage that might otherwise harm their allies. They use punching in melee combat. Through armor specifically designed for Titans, expect to have impressive Resilience, at the cost of Mobility. This is a good choice for both the beginner and seasoned player. Their Guardian Mentor is Commander Zavala.

HUNTER

With a specialization in agility, Hunters are quick on their feet and to battle. Their strong sense of wanderlust means they never stop exploring. Their Class Ability is Dodge, avoiding enemy attacks with nimble skill. If you prioritize Mobility over Resilience and Recovery, then choose this Guardian. They use knives in melee combat, and through use of Abilities, they attempt to perfect stealthy short- and long-range attacks to take down foes. Their Guardian Mentor is Cayde-6.

WARLOCK

Warlocks weaponized the mysteries of the universe to sustain themselves and devastate their foes. Their Class Ability is Rift, providing you to summon Columns of Light that strengthen allies within. They melee strike with a push and tend to favor Recovery over Mobility or Resilience. They're capable of outstanding group support, but they're formidable warriors in their own right. Their Movement Modes are the most difficult to time correctly, but arguably give the most maneuverability once mastered. Their Guardian Mentor is Ikora Rey.

All Access: Multiple Characters

All Guardians have additional Subclasses that are unlocked later into your adventure, as well as a host of Abilities and different types of grenades. It is worth learning about these before committing to a particular Class and Subclass, as perfecting a Guardian is a lengthy process. Of course, you can start a new game with a different Class, and even store items in your vault for your subsequent characters to access.

Guardian Races

You then pick your race and gender. These have no impact on your performance, but they do determine your cosmetic options and your Guardian's default emotes. You can change your face (along with skin, mouth, and eye color), change your hair (or head feature, with color change), and add markings to your character.

HUMAN

Once casualties of the Collapse, Human Guardians now stand determined to retake the solar system.

AWOKEN

Humans who fled into deep space were forever changed. They're aloof and odd, but ready to fight for all of humanity.

EXO

Exo Guardians are self-aware war machines built for a long-forgotten struggle.

Main Menus

Once your character is created, you can cycle through the five main menus available to you. Here's a brief description of each menu:

Clan: This menu allows you to create or join a clan if you want to be social, help newer Guardians find their feet, or plan Campaign Missions, Strikes, or other activities with groups of like-minded individuals.

Character: Used with the most frequency, this menu shows your level, Subclass, your weaponry (Kinetic, Energy, and Power weapons), your Ghost, your Power Level, any funds you have, your armor sections, any Emotes, and vehicles. Click any of the boxes for additional details.

Inventory: This shows the entire collection of items you have stored in a vault (found in either of the Social Sectors), which can be shared between your characters.

Settings: Tweak with any and all game features here. Note that one of them allows you to wear a helmet at all times. If you need to fiddle with your sound, controls, visual elements, or accessibility settings, head here.

At this point, you begin your first three Campaign Missions. Once the true threat of the Cabal Red Legion has been assessed, you begin anew as part of Earth's resistance. You have one overriding goal: to build up your Guardian to become the very pinnacle of battle-hardened prowess.

Know Your Enemy

Do you know the differences between a base unit, an Elite, a Sub-Boss, and a Boss? Can you confidently explain the weaponry changes between types of Ability? Captains? If you're still learning what enemies there are and how to kill them, you'd do well to investigate the Bestiary chapter of this guide. It gives you a complete run-down of the strengths, weaknesses, and types of enemies you'll encounter.

DESTINY 2

FIELD MANUAL
Basic Actions

This section details the most basic actions and how to perfect them. It is assumed that you know how to move your character forward and backward. The following actions are listed in the likely order you attempt them.

Firing A Weapon

Fire your weapon until your foes fall down and repeat this until everything is dispatched. Generally, this is the plan of attack. But surviving the multitude of enemy threats requires much greater tactical planning than this. To start with, ensure you know your weapon's statistics (detailed later in this chapter), its strengths and weaknesses (whether it can cut through Energy Shields or has a massive spread at longer ranges, for example). Additionally, you can Aim Down Sights to increase your chance to headshot for Precision Damage. It's either the head or a white glowing "Juice Box" (in the case of some bits).

Aiming Down Sights

Use this technique to move accurately aim at your foe's weak spots (usually the heads of enemy infantry) more easily, and to help control your weapons' spread patterns. Note that the target reticle of your weapon usually turns red during this aiming, which is the best time to fire. You can attempt this with all ballistic or projectile-based weapons from all three types (Kinetic, Energy, and Power). Obviously, some weapons like sniper rifles are built for this function. When aiming down sights, expect to deal more damage more accurately, with a much smaller peripheral vision.

Precision Kills

Your kill count is being checked at the end of each mission, activity, and Crucible match. Along with your Glimmer, Legendary Shards, and Experience Points (XP), you'll also be rewarded with an enemy with a glinting, blue-to-their-eyes aura. Look for the yellow (not white) damage numbers that indicate Precision Hits—finish an enemy off with one of those shots, and you've earned yourself a Precision Kill.

Melee Attack

Melee attacks are extremely useful at close quarters, when the enemy is in danger of really hurting you. Make sure you have melee ammo, which can usually bring down a lesser infantry foe like a Legionary or Dregs with a single hit.

Position yourself properly before a melee attack, and you automatically complete a small charge and deliver a little more damage. Swipe again afterward if you mess or if the enemy still lives. Melee attacks are helpful if you're out of ammo, but they're also a great way to finish off a foe who's already low on health. Don't waste that shot you "saved up" a few with gunfire and need to save ammunition or take down another enemy instead of reloading. Finally, note that Titans, Hunters, and Warlocks have different methods of inflicting melee damage (a punch, a knife strike, and a forceful push, respectively).

Throwing Grenades

Lobbing an explosive projectile is a great way to deflect or soften up groups of enemies or one large foe you're having trouble with. Note the grenade icon that appears in the bottom-left corner of your HUD. This slowly refills as you continue, meaning you can only fire so many grenades at a time, and only when the icon is full. Switch to your grenade by pressing the corresponding button (usually the down button on the D-pad), and then fire it off like any other. Note that your Guardian Subclass has three different types of grenades, but the other two are Abilities that are unlocked later.

It is worth learning the arc and inertia of the grenade you throw. Some enemies tend to shoot a fair-flown grenade back at you, and you can also bounce grenades off walls and floors to reach foes. Finally, note that you usually pretty much damage. If a foe can use a players, expect them to maneuver away from grenades. Careful use in more confined spaces, along with suppressing fire to stop foes from moving away from grenade explosions, is a good idea.

Jumping

Jumping is an integral part of your maneuvering, allowing you to cover gaps across bottomless terrain and to access both obstacles and enemies. Note that you don't need to land on a location you're jumping to. If you reach the edge of a walkway, gantry, or other destination, your Guardian pulls themselves up and onto it. This is a great way to get the drop on foes who are unaware of your presence, as well as to save time. Note the edge of the area you want to climb on so you don't miss the jump and fall.

Sprinting

Moving more quickly is obviously a help under most circumstances, as it allows you to reach cover, cross long corridors, and evade enemy fire. Sprinting is also extremely important, however, you can't reload or fire your weapon when you sprint (though you can jump).

Ghost Flashlight

When exploring darkened chambers, you must rely on your Ghost to provide flashlight-like illumination. This is always done automatically.

Switching Weapons

A simple tap of the weapon switch button or key alternates between your Kinetic and Energy weapon (assuming you have one). You can quickly deal with weapon jams by pressing in the button (left control on your PS3) (for Energy weapon fans on this, Solar or Void icon next to it). Switch weapons when you need to remove shields of a foe, you're low on ammunition for one weapon, or you want to finish off a group of foes without waiting to reload. Note that to switch to a Power weapon, you first must down the weapon switch button or key.

Crouching And Sliding

When you're exploring spaces that are too cramped for a stand-it, you simply need to crouch. If you're sprinting when you reach such a location and hold down the crouch button, you'll slide. This is more than just a way to get under, it's what you can quickly slide into cover during firefights. When crouching behind low cover, you can aim down sights to quickly pop up, then release your aim to automatically drop back down into cover. The easiest way to come out of cover is to sprint.

Super Ability

Depending on your Guardian type, you have a Super that has been ranging since the start of the mission. Though it was ready to use previously, the Campaign and Strike mission walkthroughs give you optimal conditions regarding when to activate it. Usually used as a burst of fuss to clear them out in seconds, Supers can be fired off from the start of a mission, or after a few kills, depending on the Super and Subclass you've used again. Try to take out those, four, or even five foes faster with a single Super strike. Correct use of Supers can turn the tide of battle, especially against more dangerous Elite or Boss opponents, and knowing when and where to employ yours is key.

Each Guardian Subclass has a different Super Ability. These are detailed later in the Guardian Abilities part of this Hunting chapter.

Advanced Jumping: Movement Modes

Experienced Guardians have access to a selection of Class-specific movement options that serve to extend or augment a standard jump. The basics are simple: jump while in the air to activate your selected Movement Mode.

While Movement Modes vary, most fall into one of three Class-based categories:

Lift (Titans) Engage thrusters for a brief but impressive initial boost. Activate mid-jump for maximum effect.

Jump (Hunter) Use your natural agility to extend your hang time with a midair jump. Activate at the height of your jump for maximum effect.

Glide (Warlock) Focus your Light while in midair to defy gravity's pull. Activate immediately after leaving the ground for maximum effect.

Different Movement Modes feature different effects. Some offer an initial burst of speed, some allow for superior directional control, and (in most cases) you'll find an option that balances these effects.

It's also worth noting that Titans and Warlocks can deactivate their Movement Modes mid-use, allowing them to land roughly where they intend. In this way, a canceled Movement Mode can be reactivated (wired) to serve a mid-air melee or ranged attack.

A depleted Movement Mode is automatically recharged each time the Guardian touches down on solid ground.

Motion Tracker

It's important to use the radar in the top-left corner of your HUD, which can help you out during more chaotic combat situations. You may already have realized that the direction your character is facing is shown by the way you need to go. But with places filled with foes, be sure to learn that the red pinning segments of the radar are enemies. Those closer to the center are closer to you, and those at the center of the radar circle glows as a very close. If a marked enemy or objective is above or below you, an arrow within the waypoint icon indicates this. Learn these radar cues; they could save your life!

It's wise to check your motion tracker every few seconds, but make sure you do so whenever you have an odd noise, spot signs of movement, or notice any other environmental cues that might indicate a nearby threat.

Buff/Debuff Notifications

By the end of the first Campaign Mission, you should be familiar seeing informative periodically appear on the left side of your screen. These are warnings or congratulatory messages, depending on the situation you are currently completing. Step in fire, and you'll receive a "Burning" warning message, for example. Defeat two or more foes in quick succession, and the "On a Roll" positive message appears.

Entering A Restricted Zone

Respawning Restricted! If you rely on your Ghost to resurrect you during combat as you can instantly begin to fight, you'll respawn in the last safe location you were in before you entered the restricted zone. Plus, your Ghost will also fix it such an area, you are still resurrected, but usually at a location prior to engaging the enemies, meaning you need to complete some fighting again. For this reason, it's worth taking extra precautions when you're forewarned. Take your time, execute more accurate shots, pick weapons you're comfortable using, don't take unnecessary chances, and use Energy weapons with the same energy as the shields of the foes you're about to face.

Ghost Interactions

Your Ghost can interact with a variety of objects, such as doors, computer terminals, and scannable objects. If a context-sensitive prompt appears on your HUD, access it as you can it is safe to do so. Remember that your Ghost can also scan areas, which helps locate both enemies and scannable objects (which are bathed in the color light for a few seconds as the scan expands through the nearby scenery).

Enemy Health And Armor

It is important to discern the different types of health bars that enemies possess. Regular enemies have a red health bar, which is emitted down using any offensive capabilities you may have.

If a foe has a light-orange health bar, this is usually an Elite version of a particular infantry foe, such as a "Guardian" this enemy.

If a foe has a yellow health bar, this is usually a Sub-Boss or Boss and is much tougher to tackle.

Enemies range from lowly Legionary grunts to massive hulking Boss Hobgoblins.

Finally, if a foe has a thin white line under its health bar, this indicates an active shield, which is always removed more easily if you use an Energy weapon with the matching energy type (Arc, Solar, or Void). Focus on removing these shields, and then defeating the enemy. Power shields recharge, leaving a partly damaged foe with all shields if you become preoccupied with other fighting.

Ability Basics

Each Class offers three Subclasses, and while each Subclass contains its own unique mix of Abilities, they all feature a shared format.

Super Ability: Every Subclass has a unique Super Ability.

Grenade: Every Subclass offers three Grenade Abilities. Specific offerings are unique to each Subclass, but many share similar traits. Only one grenade can be active at a time.

Movement Mode: Every Subclass features three Movement Modes that serve to enhance a Guardian's jump. Specific offerings are generally (but not always) consistent across all three of a Guardian's Subclasses. Only one Movement Mode can be active at a time.

Class Ability: Every Guardian Class features two variations of a signature Class Ability. These offerings are consistent among all three of a Guardian's Subclasses. Only one Class Ability can be active at a time.

Melee and Ability Enhancements: A Subclass' remaining Abilities are divided between two Ability clusters, or "paths." Each path features four Abilities: a Melee Ability and three Abilities that provide unique benefits. Only one path can be active at a time.

Using Abilities

SUPER ABILITIES

Supers are powerful Abilities that can turn the tide of battle. Using one requires a full charge of Super energy. Super energy builds slowly over time, but additional Super energy is earned each time you defeat an enemy or collect an Orb of Light.

Most Supers result in instant kills on all but the most durable enemies. Activating a Super also grants the Guardian increased damage mitigation, making them considerably more durable for the duration of the effect.

Orbs of Light

Orbs of Light are generated by Super Abilities, usually upon activation or after killing blows. Specifics vary between Supers, and some Abilities allow Supers to generate additional orbs.

A Guardian cannot collect any orbs produced by their Super Ability. They're reserved for (and visible only to) nearby allies. If you spot one of these glowing spheres, it's yours for the taking—and unless your Super energy is at capacity, an orb will be collected the moment you touch it.

GRENADES

Grenades feature a variety of effects, but using one always requires a full charge of grenade energy. This energy builds slowly over time, and you can often accelerate the process via Ability enhancements or armor mods.

While each Grenade Ability is unique, most fall into one of five basic categories:

- Seeker grenades produce one or more projectiles that home in on nearby enemies, reducing the need for accuracy or line of sight.
- Persistent grenades produce damaging fields or other lasting effects. In most cases, the effects are fairly brief, but they serve to limit (or punish) enemy movements through affected areas.
- Blast grenades are no-frills damage dealers that explode shortly after they're thrown.
- Sticky grenades attach to enemies, ensuring that your target is unable to escape the blast.
- Status grenades inflict negative effects for a short time. Grenades of this type are less common and are typically used to gain a tactical edge in heated battles.

MOVEMENT MODES

Movement Modes are essentially jumps, allowing a Guardian to reach greater heights and distances. These jump Abilities automatically recharge each time a Guardian touches down on solid ground.

CLASS ABILITIES

Class Abilities vary between Guardian Classes, but each use triggers a moderate cooldown period. In some cases, you can accelerate these cooldowns via Abilities or armor mods.

MELEE ABILITIES

Melee Abilities serve to enhance or augment melee attacks, and using one requires a full charge of melee energy. This energy builds slowly over time, but the process can usually be accelerated via Ability enhancements or armor mods. Melee energy is not required to perform standard melee attacks.

Unlocking Subclassesand Abilities

Your first true Subclass unlocks once you've completed Campaign Mission: Spark. It features the Subclass' Super Ability, one default Grenade Ability, and one default Movement Mode. The remaining Abilities are locked.

To gain access to a locked Ability, you'll need to invest an Upgrade Point. Some Abilities have additional requirements related to character level or prerequisite Abilities, but unlocking a new Ability always requires an Upgrade Point.

Earning Upgrade Points

An Upgrade Point is rewarded each time you gain a character level (or each time you fill the Experience bar after reaching Level 20). Upgrade Points are also granted as rewards for completing specific activities.

Let There Be Light: Artifacts and Subclasses

The initial Guardian Subclass is unlocked once you complete Campaign Mission: Spark. In order to unlock the other two Subclasses, you must find a (randomly looted) Artifact from a chest and complete Campaign Mission: Dawn (Part 1). This must be completed twice (to unlock your Guardian's two remaining Subclasses, for a total of three). Naturally, you must complete the previous series of tasks two more times if you want to see all nine Guardian Subclasses (three for Titan, three for Hunter, and three for Warlock).

Before you can unlock your second (and third) Subclass, you'll need to find a Subclass-specific Artifact. While there's an element of luck to finding an Artifact, the chances of finding an Artifact grow as your character level increases:

- At Level 7, you have a small chance of finding a Subclass Artifact each time you loot a chest. The chances of finding one are significantly higher while looting chests related to Public Events and Lost Sectors. As your character level increases, the likelihood of looting an Artifact grows.
- At Level 14, you have a chance to find another Subclass Artifact each time you loot a chest. Again, Public Events and Lost Sectors provide the best chances of finding an Artifact—and again, those chances grow as your character level increases.

Once you collect an Artifact, you must charge it by defeating enemies. Any successful kill will progress your task, but kills earned during Public Events accelerate the process.

When an Artifact is fully charged, you're free to complete the indicated Quest and claim your next Subclass. It's important to note that Subclasses are unlocked in a specific order that varies based on Class type.

Subclass Unlocks

| Class | Subclass 1 | Subclass 2 | Subclass 3 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Titan | Sentinel (Void) | Striker (Arc) | Sunbreaker (Solar) |
| Hunter | Arcstrider (Arc) | Gunslinger (Solar) | Nightstalker (Void) |
| Warlock | Dawnblade (Solar) | Voidwalker (Void) | Stormcaller (Arc) |

As you unlock new Subclasses, you'll need more Upgrade Points to unlock the Abilities they offer. It's also worth noting that Upgrade Points are placed in a common pool, so spending a point in one Subclass means one less point for another. While you'll eventually earn enough points to fully unlock all of your Abilities, it's best to invest in priority Abilities early on.

Titan Abilities

Sentinel (Void)

The Sentinel is a defensive powerhouse and an outstanding support Subclass, but it's also a formidable damage dealer. Offering an impressive mix of barriers, Overshields, and status effects, the Sentinel is a great frontline soldier with one of the most versatile Super-s available to any Class.

The Sentinel Subclass is automatically unlocked when you complete Campaign Mission: Spark.

SUPER ABILITY: SENTINEL SHIELD

Once activated, you can use Sentinel Shield in three very distinct ways:

- Aim down sights to reflect incoming attacks. Effective blocks generate Orbs of Light.
- Perform a Shield Throw to send the shield hurtling to hit the shield straight ahead of you. Thanks to a nice ricochet effect, this attack is capable of hitting multiple targets. Like your grenade, the Shield Throw is a recharging ability that can only be used when the melee gauge is full.
- Use standard attacks to lunge forward for a powerful short-range attack. Each lunge you perform consumes a bit of your remaining Super energy.

GRENADE

The Sentinel has a choice between a sticky grenade, a persistent grenade, and an outstanding status grenade.

| Sentinel Grenade Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Magnetic Grenade | A grenade that attaches to enemies and explodes twice. | Default Ability |
| Vortex Grenade | A grenade that creates a horizontal wall of burning Void Light. | Upgrade Point/ Level 3 |
| Suppressor Grenade | An explosive grenade that prevents enemies from using Abilities for a short time. | Upgrade Point/ Level 4 |

MOVEMENT MODE

All Titan Subclasses feature the same selection of jump enhancements:

| Sentinel Movement Modes | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| High Lift | Jump while airborne to activate Lift and launch into the air at greater heights. | Default Ability |
| Double Lift | Jump while airborne to activate Lift and launch into the air with strong directional control. | Upgrade Point/ Level 4 |
| Catapult Lift | Jump while airborne to activate Lift and launch into the air with a strong initial burst of momentum. | Upgrade Point/ Level 4 |

CLASS ABILITY

All Titan Subclasses feature the same Class Ability options.

| Sentinel Class Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Towering Barricade | Press and hold the Crouch button to create a large barrier that can be used to reinforce a position with cover from enemy fire. | Upgrade Point/ Level 2 |
| Rally Barricade | Press and hold the Crouch button to create a small barrier that allows you to push out 3 nearby allies (even sight) and instantly reloads your equipped weapon when you take cover. | Upgrade Point/ Level 2 |

Class Ability: Barricade

The Titan is renowned for its Resilience. While its Subclasses allow for a variety of builds, the available Class Abilities ensure that even the most reckless Titan can provide their allies with some defensive support.

Towering Barricade generates a large barrier that serves as useful cover. It also damages enemies that dare to pass through it, making it a great tool for blocking chokepoints and controlling enemy movements.

Rally Barricade generates a waist-high barrier. While crouching behind it, aim down sights to pop up and fire away. Reload your arm to drop into cover and instantly reload your weapon. Like its larger counterpart, Rally Barricade damages enemies that pass through it.

MELEE AND ABILITY ENHANCEMENTS

The Sentinel's remaining Abilities support two distinct playstyles:

Code of the Protector features a heavy focus on survivability and support. While this path can be useful in any situation, it's a particularly good option for Titans who prefer close combat and team-focused content. Ward of Dawn is worth a special mention: this iconic Titan Ability provides yet another way to use your Super energy.

Code of the Aggressor is more of an offensive path. The featured Melee Ability works well with Mobility heavy builds. Also, its focus on grenades (not to mention an extra Shield Throw charge) makes it a good option for Sentinels who prefer to attack their enemies both up close and from afar.

| Super Path: Code of the Protector | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Defensive Strike | Kill an enemy with this Melee Ability to create an Overshield around you and nearby allies. | Upgrade Point |
| Rallying Force | Melee kills restore health for you and nearby allies. | Upgrade Point/ Defensive Strike |
| Turn the Tide | Your Overshield from Defensive Strike lasts longer and increases your damage output and reload speed. | Upgrade Point/ Rallying Force |
| Ward of Dawn | When Super energy is full, press and hold the Super button(s) to create an indestructible barrier to protect you and your allies. | Upgrade Point/ Turn the Tide |

| Super Path: Code of the Aggressor | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Shield Bash | After sprinting for a short time, use this Melee Ability to unleash a devastating Shield Bash that disorients enemies. | Upgrade Point |
| Superior Arsenal | Grenade kills recharge your grenade energy. | Upgrade Point/ Shield Bash |
| In the Trenches | Kills while surrounded by enemies reduce the cooldown of your Super. | Upgrade Point/ Superior Arsenal |
| Second Shield | Gain an additional Shield Throw charge while Sentinel Shield is active. | Upgrade Point/ In the Trenches |

Striker (Arc)

The Striker excels at charging around the battlefield, blasting groups of enemies with Arc damage before dashing off to the next encounter. This Subclass supports aggressive playstyles, and it's a great choice for Titans who favour Mobility-based armor.

The Striker is the Titan's second available Subclass. It unlocks only after you've collected the required Artifact and completed the resulting mission.

SUPER ABILITY: FISTS OF HAVOC

While active, Fists of Havoc offers two distinct attacks:

- Pressing the Fire button produces a lunging ground slam capable of dealing heavy damage to multiple enemies. This attack consumes a fair amount of Super energy.
- Pressing the Melee button initiates powerful Shoulder Charge. It deals heavy damage to a single target in exchange for a smaller amount of Super energy.

Grenade

The Striker has a choice between a status grenade and two persistent grenades.

| Striker Grenade Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Fastbang Grenade | An explosive grenade that disorients enemies it damages. | Default Ability |
| Pulse Grenade | A grenade that periodically damages enemies inside its explosion radius. | Upgrade Point |
| Lightning Grenade | A grenade that sticks to any surface and emits bolts of lightning. | Upgrade Point |

Movement Mode

All Titan Subclasses feature the same selection of jump enhancements.

| Striker Movement Modes | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| High Lift | A second jump that launches you into the air to greater heights. | Default Ability |
| Skate Lift | A second jump that launches you into the air and grants strong directional control. | Upgrade Point |
| Catapult Lift | A second jump that has a strong initial burst of momentum. | Upgrade Point |

CLASS ABILITY

All Titan Subclasses feature the same Class Ability options.

| Striker Class Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Towering Barricade | Press and hold the Crouch button to create a large barrier that can be used to reinforce a position with cover from enemy fire. | Upgrade Point/ Level 2 |
| Rally Barricade | Press and hold the Crouch button to create a small barrier that allows you to push out 3 nearby allies (even sight) and instantly reloads your equipped weapon when you take cover. | Upgrade Point/ Level 2 |

MELEE AND ABILITY ENHANCEMENTS

The Striker's remaining Abilities support two distinct playstyles:

Code of the Executioner features a heavy focus on Melee Ability usage. It's a great choice for Titans who enjoy charming and holding strategically advantageous locations.

| Upper Path: Code of the Executioner | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Seismic Strike | While spinning, activate this Melee Ability to slam shockwaves down into your target and release an Arc explosion on impact. | Upgrade Point |
| Aftershocks | Damaging enemies with Seismic Strike recharges your grenade. | Upgrade Point/ Seismic Strike |
| Magnitude | Gain an additional grenade charge. Increases the duration of grenade effects. | Upgrade Point/ Aftershocks |
| Terminal Velocity | Fists of Havoc's ground slam attack leaves a damage-dealing field in its wake and deals more damage the longer it is in the air. | Upgrade Point/ Magnitude |

| Lower Path: Code of the Juggernaut | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Frontal Assault | Strike an enemy with this Melee Ability to reload your weapon and increase your weapon stability. | Upgrade Point |
| Reversal | Melee kills immediately trigger health regeneration. | Upgrade Point/ Frontal Assault |
| Knockout | Critically wounding an enemy or breaking their shields increases your melee range and damage. | Upgrade Point/ Reversal |
| Trample | Killing enemies with Fists of Havoc extends its duration. | Upgrade Point/ Knockout |

Sunbreaker (Solar)

The Sunbreaker is a versatile damage dealer. It offers a solid mix of long-range attacks, splash damage, and burning damage, with a bit of utility thrown in for good measure. It's an explosive Titan that can be very effective at any range.

The Sunbreaker is the Titan's third available Subclass. It unlocks only after you've collected the required Artifact and completed the resulting mission.

SUPER ABILITY: HAMMER OF SOL

Once activated, you can use Hammer of Sol to hurl flaming projectiles across the battlefield. Each toss consumes a fair amount of Super energy, but every hammer that finds its mark deals serious damage.

GRENADE

The Sunbreaker has a choice between a blast grenade, a persistent grenade, and a sticky grenade, all of which are capable of burning affected enemies.

| Sunbreaker Grenade Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Incendiary Grenade | A grenade whose explosion catches enemies on fire. | Default Ability |
| Thermite Grenade | A grenade that bursts forward a burning line of fire. | Upgrade Point |
| Fusion Grenade | An explosive grenade that burns enemies where it attaches to targets. | Upgrade Point |

MOVEMENT MODE

All Titan Subclasses feature the same selection of jump enhancements.

| Sunbreaker Movement Modes | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| High Lift | A second jump that launches you into the air to greater heights. | Default Ability |
| Skate Lift | A second jump that launches you into the air and grants strong directional control. | Upgrade Point |
| Catapult Lift | A second jump that has a strong initial burst of momentum. | Upgrade Point |

CLASS ABILITY

All Titan Subclasses feature the same Class Ability options.

| Sunbreaker Class Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Towering Barricade | Press and hold the Crouch button to create a large barrier that can be used to reinforce a position with cover from enemy fire. | Upgrade Point |
| Rally Barricade | Press and hold the Crouch button to create a small barrier that allows you to push out 3 nearby allies (even sight) and instantly reloads your equipped weapon when you take cover. | Upgrade Point |

MELEE AND ABILITY ENHANCEMENTS

The Sunbreaker's remaining Abilities support two distinct playstyles:

Code of the Fire-Forged is a good fit for mobile playstyles. The featured Melee Ability is a sprinting charge but the real draw for Mobility-minded players is the option for a speed-boosting group buff. Of course, the included Super enhancements make it that much easier to deal massive damage on the run.

Code of the Siegebreaker supports a more stationary playstyle. Its most notable effects involve Sunspots: powerful explosions that can be summoned around the Sunbreaker. It's an ideal choice for Titans who enjoy

| Upper Path: Code of the Fire-Forged | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Hammer Strike | While sprinting, use this Melee Ability to unleash a blazing Hammer strike that melts weapons and armor. | Upgrade Point |
| Tempered Metal | Solar Ability kills grant you and nearby allies bonus movement and reload speed. | Upgrade Point/ Hammer Strike |
| Battle Forge | Enemies killed by Hammer of Sol explode. | Upgrade Point/ Tempered Metal |
| Vulcan's Rage | Hammers shatter into explosive molten embers on impact. | Upgrade Point/ Battle Forge |

| Lower Path: Code of the Siegebreaker | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Mortar Blast | Strike an enemy with this Melee Ability to release a Solar explosion, setting nearby enemies on fire. | Upgrade Point |
| Sun Warrior | Solar Ability kills restore your health, Grenade and Melee Ability kills fuel your Mobility Sunspot in their wake. | Upgrade Point/ Mortar Blast |
| Rings of Fire | While standing in a Sunspot, your Solar Abilities recharge faster and your Super lasts longer. | Upgrade Point/ Sun Warrior |
| Solar Siege | Hammers create a Sunspot on impact. While standing in Sunspots, you throw hammers faster. | Upgrade Point/ Rings of Fire |

Class Ability: Dodge

While its Subclasses contain some nice support Abilities, the Hunter's focus on Mobility makes it well-suited to tone-wolf playstyles. Hunters make valuable allies, no doubt, but their Class Abilities focus on self-preservation and combat proficiency.

Marksman's Dodge is an evasive maneuver that gives the Hunter a chance to avoid damage while automatically reloading the equipped weapon. As the name implies, this is a common choice for Hunters who prefer to keep their enemies at range.

Gambler's Dodge is an evasive maneuver that fully recharges the Hunter's Melee Ability when performed near enemies. It's a common choice for Hunters who prefer to stay in the thick of the action.

Arcstrider (Arc)

The Arcstrider is a close-quarters specialist who thrives in group combat. It features some nice area-of-effect options and heavy focus on melee attacks. Relying on speed to put survivability, the Arcstrider is well-suited to aggressive playstyles.

The Arcstrider Subclass is automatically unlocked when you complete Campaign Mission: Spark.

SUPER ABILITY: ARC STAFF

Once activated, Arc Staff Shatters two distinct attacks (one initiated by the Fire button and one initiated by the melee button) that can be chained together (on the ground and in the air) for a variety of sweeping short-range combos. Notable examples include:

- Melee button x2 (Three-secondary melee attacks in quick succession)
- Melee button x3, Fire button (Two secondary melee attacks, followed by a primary attack)
- Fire button while airborne (One primary attack while airborne)
- Melee button x3 while airborne (Two secondary melee attacks while airborne)

GRENADE

The Arcstrider can choose between two very different seeker grenades and a sticky grenade.

| Arcstrider Grenade Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Strip Grenade | A grenade that splits upon impact, creating multiple projectiles that seek enemies. | Default Ability |
| Flux Grenade | An explosive grenade that deals additional damage when attached to enemies. | Upgrade Point / Level 3Upgrade Point / Level 3 |
| Arcbolt Grenade | A grenade that chains bolts of lightning to nearby enemies. | Upgrade Point/ Level 3 |

MOVEMENT MODE

All Hunter Subclasses feature the same selection of jump enhancements.

| Arcstrider Movement Modes | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| High Jump | While airborne, jump a second time to reach greater heights. | Default Ability |
| Triple Jump | While airborne, jump a second time with strong directional control. | Upgrade Point/ Level 4 |
| Triple Jump | While airborne, sustain your jet or control with a second or third jump. | Upgrade Point/ Level 4 |

CLASS ABILITY

All Hunter Subclasses feature the same Class Ability options.

| Arcstrider Class Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Marksman's Dodge | Dodge to perform an evasive maneuver with a steady hand. Dodging automatically reloads your weapon. | Upgrade Point/ Level 7 |
| Gambler's Dodge | Dodge to perform a reckless tumble, avoiding enemy attacks. Dodging near enemies fully recharges your Melee Ability. | Upgrade Point/ Level 7 |

MELEE AND ABILITY ENHANCEMENTS

The Arcstrider's remaining Abilities support two distinct playstyles:

Way of the Warrior has a heavy focus on melee attacks, making it essential when short-range damage is a priority. It's worth noting that a group of Abilities is most effective when Gambler's Dodge is selected. Among other benefits, this combination allows each Dodge to recharge your Melee Ability, while each Melee Kill recharges your Dodge.

Way of the Wind has an overall focus on survivability through utility. With Abilities that disorient enemies, increase sprinting speed, support Ability use, and improve evasion, it's a good path for those who favor versatility.

| Upper Path: Way of the Warrior | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Combination Blow | Strike an enemy with this Melee Ability to trigger health regeneration and increase your melee damage temporarily. | Upgrade Point |
| Combat Flow | Melee kills recharge your Dodge Ability. | Upgrade Point/ Combinationer |
| Deadly Reach | Dodging increases your melee range, allowing you to lunch further with melee attacks. | Upgrade Point/ Combat Flow |
| Lethal Current | After dodging, each Arc Staff hit creates a damaging lightning explosion. | Upgrade Point/ Deadly Reach |

| Lower Path: Way of the Wind | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Disorienting Blow | Strike an enemy with this Melee Ability to disorient your target and nearby enemies. | Upgrade Point |
| Focused Breathing | Sprinting recharges your Dodge Ability. Increases maximum sprint speed. | Upgrade Point/ Disorienting Blow |
| Combat Meditation | While you are critically wounded, melee and grenades recharge drastically faster. | Upgrade Point/ Focused Breathing |
| Lightning Reflexes | You are harder to kill while dodging. | Upgrade Point/ Combat Meditation |

Gunslinger (Solar)

The Gunslinger is a devastating ranged fighter with a heavy focus on direct damage. It favors accuracy and finesse over aggression, but its damage potential makes the Gunslinger an appealing option for any Hunter.

The Gunslinger is the Hunter's second available Subclass. It unlocks only after you've collected the required Artifact and completed the resulting mission.

SUPER ABILITY: GOLDEN GUN

By default, you can use Golden Gun to fire up to three high-damage projectiles. It's a straightforward Super, but it takes a cool head and a steady hand to put Golden Gun to good use.

GRENADE

The Gunslinger can choose between a blast grenade, a seeker grenade, and something of an anomaly: the Tripmine Grenade. This is a powerful sticky bomb used as a damaging trap, but it's trigger is also unique in that it's an effective deterrent (assuming your enemies are unable to shoot it).

| Gunslinger Grenade Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Incendiary Grenade | A grenade whose explosion catches enemies on fire. | Default Ability |
| Swarm Grenade | A grenade that detonates on impact, releasing multiple drones that seek nearby enemies. | Upgrade Point |
| Tripmine Grenade | An explosive grenade that sticks to surfaces and detonates when enemies pass through its laser trigger. | Upgrade Point |

MOVEMENT MODE

All Hunter Subclasses feature the same selection of jump enhancements.

| Gunslinger Movement Modes | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| High Jump | While airborne, jump a second time to reach greater heights. | Default Ability |
| Strafe Jump | While airborne, sustain your jet control with strong directional control. | Upgrade Point |
| Triple Jump | While airborne, sustain your jet or control with a second or third jump. | Upgrade Point |

CLASS ABILITY

All Hunter Subclasses feature the same Class Ability options.

| Gunslinger Class Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Marksman's Dodge | Dodge to perform an evasive maneuver with a steady hand. Dodging automatically reloads your weapon. | Upgrade Point/ Level 7 |
| Gambler's Dodge | Dodge to perform a reckless tumble, avoiding enemy attacks. Dodging near enemies fully recharges your Melee Ability. | Upgrade Point/ Level 7 |

MELEE AND ABILITY ENHANCEMENTS

The Gunslinger's remaining Abilities support two distinct playstyles:

Way of the Outlaw allows for ability playstyles, making it a good choice for those who enjoy mixing it up on the front lines. It has a focus on Melee Ability and some good utility, but its most notable effects involve the Gunslinger's Super. When this path is selected, Golden Gun not only features a more forgiving aim, it can also be used for its full duration. Although the Super's duration is noticeably shorter.

Way of the Sharpshooter focuses heavily on precision, making it a good fit for more disciplined playstyles. From its Melee Ability to its Super enhancements, it's a path that encourages a steady hand. Most notably, it allows for (and rewards) precision damage when using Golden Gun.

| Upper Path: Way of the Outlaw | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Explosive Knife | Throw a knife from a distance that explodes shortly after impact. | Upgrade Point |
| Chains of Woe | Precision kills increase weapon reload speed for you and your nearby allies. | Upgrade Point/ Explosive Knife |
| Deadshot | Significantly improves your ability to hit with Golden Gun. | Upgrade Point/ Chains of Woe |
| Run Shooter | Golden Gun can be fired quickly up to 3 times but has a shorter duration. | Upgrade Point/ Deadshot |

| Lower Path: Way of the Sharpshooter | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Knife Juggler | Throw a knife from a distance. Precision kills kills immediately recharge your Melee Ability. | Upgrade Point |
| Practice Makes Perfect | Enter a trance with each precision hit, reducing the cooldown of your Super. | Upgrade Point/ Knife Juggler |
| Crowd Pleaser | Enables precision damage with Golden Gun. Precision hits with Golden Gun grenades inflict all Light. | Upgrade Point/ Practice Makes Perfect |
| Line 'Em Up | Precision hits with Golden Gun increase its damage and extend its duration. | Upgrade Point/ Crowd Pleaser |

Nightstalker (Void)

The Nightstalker fancies deception over aggression. With a selection of Abilities that document, suppress, slow, and weaken enemies, this Subclass offers a great many support options.

The Nightstalker is the Hunter's third available Subclass. It unlocks only after you've collected the required Artifact and completed the resulting mission.

SUPER ABILITY: SHADOWSHOT

By default, Shadowshot is a non-lethal Super that stands as one of the best support Abilities available to any Class. Activating this Super fires a Void Anchor that slows affected enemies, causes them to take more damage, and prevents them from using Abilities. However, it's worth noting that the Nightstalker has access to Abilities that turn Shadowshot into a very powerful attack.

GRENADE

The Nightstalker can choose between three distinctly different persistent grenades.

| Nightstalker Grenade Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Vortex Grenade | A grenade that creates a vortex that continually damages enemies trapped inside. | Default Ability |
| Spike Grenade | A grenade that attaches to any surface and emits a torrent of damaging Void rays. | Upgrade Point |
| Voidwall Grenade | A grenade that creates a horizontal wall of burning Void Light. | Upgrade Point |

MOVEMENT MODE

All Hunter Subclasses feature the same selection of jump enhancements.

| Nightstalker Movement Modes | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| High Jump | While airborne, jump a second time to reach greater heights. | Default Ability |
| Strafe Jump | While airborne, jump a second time with strong directional control. | Upgrade Point |
| Triple Jump | While airborne, sustain your jet or control with a second or third jump. | Upgrade Point |

CLASS ABILITY

All Hunter Subclasses feature the same Class Ability options.

| Nightstalker Class Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Marksman's Dodge | Dodge to perform an evasive maneuver with a steady hand. Dodging automatically reloads your weapon. | Upgrade Point |
| Gambler's Dodge | Dodge to perform a reckless tumble, avoiding enemy attacks. Dodging near enemies fully recharges your Melee Ability. | Upgrade Point |

MELEE AND ABILITY ENHANCEMENTS

The Nightstalker's remaining Abilities support two distinct playstyles:

Way of the Trapper focuses on survivability through utility. It turns the Nightstalker's Super and Melee Abilities into proximity-triggered traps.

Other highlights include a new boost to sprint/crawl speed, the ability to vanish after dodging, and multiple stalker effects.

Way of the Pathfinder offers plenty of utility, but it includes a much greater focus on damage—particularly in the damage done by the Super Ability. With Moebius Quiver, the Nightstalker can fire Shadowshot multiple times per use, dealing massive damage to tethered enemies.

| Upper Path: Way of the Trapper | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Snare Bomb | Throw a sticky bomb trap from a distance with this Melee Ability. The trap bursts into a hail of arrows and detonates when enemies are near, slowing and disorienting them. | Upgrade Point |
| Mass Scout | Sprint and sneak faster, and gain an enhanced tracker. Tethered enemies are marked for easy tracking. | Upgrade Point/ Snare Bomb |
| Deadfall | Killing tethered enemies creates Orbs of Light and increases Mobility, Recovery, and Resilience for you and nearby allies. | Upgrade Point/ Mass Scout |
| Vanishing Step | Dodging makes you vanish from sight for a short time. | Upgrade Point/ Deadfall |

| Lower Path: Way of the Pathfinder | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Vanish in Smoke | Throw a smoke bomb trap from a distance with this Melee Ability. The smoke bomb explodes into a cloud that makes you and nearby allies invisible. | Upgrade Point |
| Lockdown | Grenade and smoke effects last twice as long, allowing for strong territorial control and increased damage potential. | Upgrade Point/ Vanish in Smoke |
| Heart of the Pack | Killing tethered enemies creates Orbs of Light and increases Mobility, Recovery, and Resilience for you and nearby allies. | Upgrade Point/ Lockdown |
| Moebius Quiver | Fire Shadowshot multiple times in rapid succession. Shadowshot deals massive damage against tethered enemies. | Upgrade Point/ Heart of the Pack |

Class Ability: Rift

Due to the Warlock's ability for Recovery, it understands the fluid nature of give and take, gain and loss. The Warlock's Class Ability generates a Rift that grants bonuses to all allies within it. While both variations can be extremely useful, each Warlock must sacrifice one effect for the other, and anyone hoping to gain the selected bonus must be willing to stand wherever the Rift is summoned.

As the name implies, Healing Rift provides sustained healing for the Warlock and any allies within its border. It's a straightforward but extremely useful support Ability.

Empowering Rift gives the Warlock's Class Ability a decidedly offensive bent, boosting the damage of the caster and any allies who remain within its border.

Dawnblade (Solar)

Dawnblade (Solar)

The Dawnblade is a high-damage Subclass uniquely well-suited to aerial combat. It offers a bit of utility, but setting enemies ablaze is most definitely the Dawnblade's focus.

The Dawnblade Subclass is automatically unlocked when you complete Campaign Mission: Spark.

SUPER ABILITY: SATWEBEAK

While active, Daybreak allows the Dawnblade to hurl flaming projectiles. It can be used both on the ground and in the air. It's a powerful attack in either case, but fine things can match the spectacle of an airborne Dawnblade raining fire down upon its enemies.

GRENADE

The Dawnblade can choose between a persistent grenade, a seeker grenade, and a sticky grenade.

| Dawnblade Grenade Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Solar Grenade | A grenade that creates a flare of Solar Light that continually damages enemies trapped inside it. | Default Ability |
| Firebolt Grenade | A grenade that unleashes bolts of Solar Light on nearby enemies. | Upgrade Point/ Level 3 |
| Fusion Grenade | An explosive grenade that burns enemies when it attaches to a target. | Upgrade Point/ Level 3 |

MOVEMENT MODE

The Dawnblade offers a typical selection of jump enhancements: directional control, a burst of speed, or a balance of speed and control.

| Dawnblade Movement Modes | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Strafe Glide | Jump while airborne to activate Glide and start an airborne drift with strong directional control. | Default Ability |
| Burst Glide | Jump while airborne to activate Glide and start an airborne drift with a strong initial burst of speed. | Upgrade Point/ Level 4 |
| Balanced Glide | Jump while airborne to activate Glide and start an airborne drift with both moderate speed and directional control. | Upgrade Point/ Level 4 |

CLASS ABILITY

All Warlock Subclasses feature the same Class Ability options.

| Dawnblade Class Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Healing Rift | Press and hold the Crouch button to conjure a well of light that continually heals those inside it. | Upgrade Point/ Level 2 |
| Empowering Rift | Press and hold the Crouch button to conjure a well of light that increases weapon damage for those inside it. | Upgrade Point/ Level 7 |

MELEE AND ABILITY ENHANCEMENTS

The Dawnblade's remaining Abilities support two distinct playstyles:

Attunement of Sky features an undeniable focus on aerial combat. It allows for weapons and grenades to be used without breaking Glide, it unlocks a midair Dodge, and it rewards airborne kills with additional grenade and melee energy. Those in the Attunement of Sky tree will come with aerial combat (like the noticeable lack of combo options), this path is best suited to aggressive, Mobility-focused playstyles.

Attunement of Flame also encourages high-flying antics, but it does so via Supar enhancements. It adds multiple effects to Daybreak projectiles, and it serves to prolong the duration of an active Super. One of the most notable Abilities allows the Dawnblade to drop down mid-jump, regaining health based on the length of the fall and (if Daybreak is active) destroying damage upon landing. However, because Daybreak can also be used on the ground, this path is a good fit for more conservative playstyles

| Upper Path: Attunement of Sky | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Strike | Strike an enemy with this Melee Ability to burn your target and temporarily increase your movement and Melee speed. | Upgrade Point |
| Winged Sun | Engage your enemies mid-flight. Fire weapons and throw grenades while gliding. | Upgrade Point/ Swift Strike |
| Heat Rises | Performing kills recharge your grenade and melee energy. Casting Daybreak instantly refills all your Ability energy. | Upgrade Point/ Winged Sun |
| Icarus Dash | Press the Crouch button twice in midair to dodge. | Upgrade Point/ Heat Rises |

| Lower Path: Attunement of Flame | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Igniting Touch | Strike an enemy with this Melee Ability to burn them and cause Daybreak's grenade explosions to ignite. | Upgrade Point |
| Feed for the Flame | Daybreak projectiles seek targets as they travel and launch a streak of deadly flame upon impact. | Upgrade Point/ Igniting Touch |
| Everlasting Fire | Killing an enemy with Daybreak extends its duration. | Upgrade Point/ Feed for the Flame |
| Phoenix Dive | Hold the Crouch button while in the air to quickly descend and restore your health. While Daybreak is active, descending causes explosive damage. | Upgrade Point/ Everlasting Fire |

Voidwalker (Void)

Voidwalker (Void)

The Voidwalker is an explosive combatant who typically favors hit-and-run tactics. As a Subclass, it offers impressive versatility, particularly when it comes to grenade use. Depending on the selected Abilities, a Voidwalker can create a grenade-absorbing void to regain health or sacrifice Super energy to use uniquely powerful grenade attacks. In either case, the Voidwalker allows for some very effective Ability rotations.

The Voidwalker is the Warlock's second available Subclass. It unlocks only after you've collected the required Artifact and completed the resulting mission.

SUPER ABILITY: NOVA BOMB

In its simplest form, Nova Bomb is a powerful projectile that delivers a massive explosion on impact. However, available Abilities significantly change the nature of this Super, ensuring that a fully developed Voidwalker has some interesting strategic options.

GRENADE

By default, Voidwalkers can choose between what amounts to a persistent grenade, a seeker grenade, and a blast grenade. However, the Vortex Grenade Chain Ascendant Ability can be used to enhance these offerings, most notably by adding a seeker effect to the otherwise straightforward Scatter Grenade.

| Voidwalker Grenade Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Vortex Grenade | A grenade that creates a vortex that continually damages enemies trapped inside. | Default Ability |
| Axion Bolt | A bolt of Void Light that hurls into smaller bolts on impact, which seek enemies. | Upgrade Point |
| Scatter Grenade | A grenade that splits into many submunitions and covers a large area with multiple explosions. | Upgrade Point |

MOVEMENT MODE

The Voidwalker features two standard jump enhancements in Strafe Glide and Burst Glide, but Blink is unique to this Subclass. This Movement Mode converts your jump into a short-range teleport. It takes some practice to use, but Blink serves as a very useful evasive maneuver.

| Voidwalker Movement Modes | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Strafe Glide | Jump while airborne to activate Glide and start an airborne drift with strong directional control. | Default Ability |
| Blink | Jump while airborne to teleport a short distance. | Upgrade Point |
| Burst Glide | Jump while airborne to activate Glide and start an airborne drift with a strong initial burst of speed. | Upgrade Point |

CLASS ABILITY

All Warlock Subclasses feature the same Class Ability options.

| Voidwalker Class Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Healing Rift | Press and hold the Crouch button to conjure a well of light that continually heals those inside it. | Upgrade Point/ Level 7 |
| Empowering Rift | Press and hold the Crouch button to conjure a well of light that increases weapon damage for those inside it. | Upgrade Point/ Level 7 |

MELEE AND ABILITY ENHANCEMENTS

The Voidwalker's remaining Abilities support two distinct playstyles:

Attunement of Chaos focuses on improved multi-target damage, particularly through grenade use. Chaos Accelerant allows the Voidwalker to overcharge an equipped grenade to make it much more effective when thrown. As a nice bonus, the featured Melee Ability allows for more frequent grenade attacks. Along with the other bundled effects, this path is a good choice for damage-focused Voidwalkers.

Attunement of Hunger features a heavy focus on survivability. The most intriguing effect allows a Voidwalker to consume its grenade energy for a full heal, along with a brief but-real-time benefit. This effect is also granted after Melee Ability kills. In both cases, subsequent kills can prolong the healing effect while recharging grenade energy.

| Upper Path: Attunement of Chaos | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Entropic Pull | Strike an enemy with this Melee Ability to drain your enemy's life force and use it to recharge your grenade. | Upgrade Point |
| Chaos Accelerant | Hold the Grenade button to draw power from your Super to overcharge your grenade. Increases its damage and more effective. | Upgrade Point/ Entropic Pull |
| Bloom | Void Ability kills cause enemies to explode. | Upgrade Point/ Chaos Accelerant |
| Cataclysm | Nova Bomb travels slowly and seeks enemies. Detonations shatter into many smaller explosive bombs. Fire your weapon at the Nova Bomb to detonate it early. | Upgrade Point/ Bloom |

| Lower Path: Attunement of Hunger | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Devour | Kill an enemy with this Melee Ability to fully regenerate your health. For a short time afterward, kills restore additional health. | Upgrade Point |
| Feed the Void | Hold the Grenade button to consume your grenade energy to regenerate your health. Grants the Devour effect. | Upgrade Point/ Devour |
| Insatiable | While the Devour effect is active, killing enemies refreshes its duration and recharges your grenade. | Upgrade Point/ Feed the Void |
| Vortex | Nova Bomb creates a singularity that continually damages enemies trapped inside. | Upgrade Point/ Insatiable |

Stormcaller (Arc)

Stormcaller (Arc)

When it comes to multi-target damage, the Stormcaller is a terror on the battlefield. It lends itself to some very aggressive playstyles, but it also features some outstanding support Abilities. In the end, the Stormcaller is a great choice for Warlocks who like to charge into the fray, with or without their allies.

The Stormcaller is the Warlock's third available Subclass. It unlocks only after you've collected the required Artifact and completed the resulting mission.

SUPER ABILITY: STORMTRANCE

While active, Stormtrance allows a Stormcaller to float across the battlefield, electrocuting and disintegrating foe after foe. It has a fairly short range, but Stormtrance is a high-damage Super capable of tearing through an impressive number of enemies.

GRENADE

The Stormcaller can choose between a seeker grenade, a persistent grenade, and a blast grenade.

| Stormcaller Grenade Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Arcbolt Grenade | A grenade that creates bolts of lightning to nearby enemies. | Default Ability |
| Pulse Grenade | A grenade that periodically damages enemies inside its explosion radius. | Upgrade Point |
| Storm Grenade | A grenade that calls down a focused lightning storm. | Upgrade Point |

MOVEMENT MODE

The Stormcaller offers a typical selection of jump enhancements: directional control, a burst of speed, or a balance of speed and control.

| Stormcaller Movement Modes | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Strafe Glide | Jump while airborne to activate Glide and start an airborne drift with strong directional control. | Default Ability |
| Burst Glide | Jump while airborne to activate Glide and start an airborne drift with a strong initial burst of speed. | Upgrade Point |
| Balanced Glide | Jump while airborne to activate Glide and start an airborne drift with both moderate speed and directional control. | Upgrade Point |

CLASS ABILITY

All Warlock Subclasses feature the same Class Ability options.

| Stormcaller Class Abilities | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Healing Rift | Press and hold the Crouch button to conjure a well of light that continually heals those inside it. | Upgrade Point |
| Empowering Rift | Press and hold the Crouch button to conjure a well of light that increases weapon damage for those inside it. | Upgrade Point |

MELEE AND ABILITY ENHANCEMENTS

The Stormcaller's remaining Abilities support two distinct playstyles:

Attunement of Ions features several improvements to multi-target damage. It offers chain-damage effects for Melee and Grenade Abilities, but it also includes some very useful Super enhancements. Overall, this path is a good fit for self-sufficient Stormcasters who favor aggressive tactics.

Attunement of the Elements features great utilities paired with a heavy focus on team play. When this path is selected, striking close to the enemy increases the range rate of the Stormcaller's chosen Class Ability. It also improves the assigned Rift by granting an auto-firing Arc Soul to any allies who pass through it.

| Upper Path: Attunement of Ions | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Chain Lightning | Deliver an electrocuting Arc melee strike at extended range that chains from the initial target to additional enemies. | Upgrade Point |
| Transcendence | When cast with full grenade and melee energy, Stormtrance lasts longer and fully restores health. | Upgrade Point/ Chain Lightning |
| Arc Web | Enemies damaged by your grenades chain-bluntly lightning to nearby enemies. | Upgrade Point/ Transcendence |
| Ionic Blink | Press the Sprint button to teleport during Stormtrance. | Upgrade Point/ Arc Web |

| Lower Path: Attunement of the Elements | | |
|---|---|---|
| Ability Name | Description | Prerequisites |
| Gale Force | This electrocuting Melee Ability hits at extended range and recharges your Super, grenade, and melee energy. | Upgrade Point |
| Landfall | On landing Stormtrance, fire a bolt of lightning into the ground, creating a devastating shockwave under you. | Upgrade Point/ Gale Force |
| Rising Storm | Your Rift charges faster when allies are near. | Upgrade Point/ Landfall |
| Arc Soul | Your Rift now grants you or any ally who uses it an Arc Soul to aid in battle. | Upgrade Point/ Rising Storm |

DESTINY 2

This comprehensive guide to all aspects of the various types of guns and other miscellaneous tools we call Weapons in Destiny 2 will help you understand the basics of how they work, and how to get the best ones.

- How To Obtain Weapons
- Weapon Classes
- Weapon Types
- Weapon Rarity
- Weapon Statistics

How To Obtain Weapons

Weapons are a form of material loot. You can find them in the form of engrams from the bundles of free-to-play Bright Dust, or from the rewards of activities. Engrams can be decrypted at the Tower or in the Inventory screen of orbit, such as Destiny's Hangar or in Strikes. To get off-screen to look after characters using your mark.

Weapons have you and use and not in your character Mats based on the class of weapon you have found. Each weapon has a Power level, which is a measure of how powerful it is. Higher Power weapons are more likely to drop from higher-level activities. Power is also increased by upgrading the weapon with Upgrade Modules. Each weapon has a Damage Type that determines what kind of damage it does and what enemies it is effective against. Damage types are Kinetic, Arc, Solar, Void, Stasis, and Strand. Each weapon also has a Rarity that affects the number of perks it can have and how it can be obtained.

Carrying Costs: Hoarding and Dismantling

Destiny 2 has a limited amount of space in your Inventory, Vault, and Collections. Each of these has a limited amount of space for weapons and armor. Once you've reached the limit, you'll have to dismantle some of your gear to make room for more. Dismantling a weapon or piece of armor will destroy it and grant you some Upgrade Modules and Enhancement Prisms. Dismantling is permanent, so be sure you're not throwing away anything you'll want later. Weapons that you've unlocked in the Collections can be dismantled for Upgrade Modules and Enhancement Prisms, but you'll still be able to obtain them again in the future.

Armor

The slots down the right side of your initial Character Menu are devoted to the different pieces of armor your Guardian wears, which are protective sections of your overall ensemble. This part of the training gives an overview of the different armor options available.

Armor Slots

There are five armor slots, divided into different body parts. Each slot can have up to nine different types of armor in it before it becomes full and additional armor pieces are sent to the Postmaster. Free up space by either dismantling items or storing them in a vault. These are the available slots:

Helmet: Armor protecting the head. This is not worn in Social Sectors, but you can change this in your Settings Menu.

Gauntlets: Armor protecting the hands and lower arms.

Chest: Armor protecting the upper arms, torso, and abdomen.

Legs: Armor encasing the legs and feet.

Class: This is a unique accoutrement that augments your Titan (a mark), Hunter (a cloak), or Warlock (a bond).

Armor Abilities

Armor has a set of statistics you can check, and these are related to one of three Attributes (detailed below).

Defense Rating: Helps determine your Power Level (a rough average of Attack/Defense values of all equipped gear). Power Level determines the amount of damage you take and inflict while battling high-level enemies.

Resilience: Increases the amount of damage you can take before dying.

Mobility: Increases your movement speed and maximum jump height.

Recovery: Increases the speed at which you regain lost health.

Perk or Mod: If a Perk or Mod related to this piece of armor is available, it is listed under the statistical data.

Armor Differences

The previous pictures show how dissimilar a Guardian can look: The Titan, Hunter, and Warlock all have distinctly different sets of armor, and armor purchased or rewarded is always the type your Class wears. This means that you can't effectively share armor with a second character unless you're both of the same Class.

Though armor might look bulkier on a Titan and more flowing on a Warlock, it is important to look at substance over style. Check the statistical rating of an armor piece and whether it has a Perk that affects other functionality (such as giving you more grenades to throw or increasing the effectiveness of a weapon type).

Armor Rarity

Like weapons, armor pieces feature color-coded Rarity ratings. Armor of any quality can be offered as rewards, found in chests, dropped by enemies (often as engrams), and purchased from vendors. As your character level grows, you can expect an increased frequency of high-quality drops, rewards, and vendor items.

While you're free to use whatever bits of armor you choose, generally:

Common (white) armor pieces are as simple as it gets. They can serve as useful upgrades during early levels, but they're rarely used beyond that.

Uncommon (green) armor pieces drop more frequently as character level increases, serving as useful upgrades for low- to mid-level Guardians.

Rare (blue) armor pieces occasionally appear early on, but they drop more frequently as a Guardian approaches max-level. They tend to be exceptional upgrades throughout the leveling process.

Legendary (purple) armor pieces are considered "endgame" gear, typically serving as upgrades (and "sidegrades") to max-level Guardians.

Exotic (gold) armor pieces are exceptional Class-specific items that feature uniquely powerful Intrinsic Perks, many of which enhance one or more Abilities found within a specific Guardian Subclass. In many cases, Guardians will adjust their entire playstyle to make use of a recently acquired piece of Exotic armor. A Guardian can only equip one Exotic armor piece at a time. They're most commonly acquired during endgame (Level 20) content, and they can be purchased from Xur, but they're occasionally recovered during engram decryption.

As with weapons, the Rarity rating assigned to a piece of armor isn't just tied to scarcity. It also indicates three specific qualities:

- The number/types of Perks featured on the armor piece
- The customization options supported by the armor piece
- The item(s) gained from dismantling the armor piece

Rarity Ratings: Armor

| Rarity Rating | Intrinsic Perks | Trait | Slot 1 | Slot 2 | Slot 3 | Dismantling Yield |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Common (white) | — | — | — | — | — | Glimmer (25) |
| Uncommon (green) | — | — | — | — | — | Glimmer (50) |
| Rare (blue) | Fixed | — | — | Available | Available | Glimmer (100), Armor materials (1) |
| Legendary (purple) | Fixed | Variable (2 options) | Fixed | Available | Available | Legendary Shards (2), Armor materials (3) |
| Exotic (gold) | Fixed | Fixed | Fixed | — | Available | Legendary Shards (10), Advanced materials (1) |

Make an Exception

While armor pieces of the same Rarity generally share the same number of available Perks and Mod slots, you can expect to find the occasional outlier.

FIELD MANUAL

Other Gear And Vehicles

You've already received a briefing on a Guardian's Abilities, weapons, and armor. Now, it's time to check in with the secondary gear you can accrue for your Titan, Hunter, or Warlock, as well as customizable options and the vehicles you're able to control.

Armor And Weapon Perks And Mods

We've established that a gear piece's Rarity rating typically indicates the number of Perks and Mod slots it offers. Now, you will learn what Perks and Mods do.

PERKS

Perks are existing qualities that help define a weapon or piece of armor. They cannot be removed, but some Perks on high-level gear can be adjusted to grant different benefits.

Weapon Perks

Every weapon that you find features at least one Perk. It might be a boost to range or stability—of course, it might cause your enemies to explode each time you execute a Precision Kill. A high-quality weapon usually features at least one variable Perk that you can use to adjust performance. Essentially, Perks define what makes a weapon the right (or wrong) fit for your playstyle.

Aside from those found on Exotic items, weapon Perks typically fall into one of the following categories:

Intrinsic: This Perk is generally determined by a weapon's frame. It can't be changed, and its effects are automatically factored into the weapon's stats. Essentially, it's used to convey a weapon's basic performance at a glance. For example, the Aggressive Frame Perk indicates a high-damage, high-recoil weapon. However, each Exotic weapon features an Intrinsic Perk that grants one or more unique effects.

Sight/Scope: These Perks generally affect stats like range, handling, and zoom.

Barrel: These Perks typically affect stats like stability, handling, and range.

Magazine: These Perks can affect nearly any weapon stat. Magazine size is obviously a common option, but reload speed, ammo capacity, and rate of fire are also frequent offerings. They can also add special properties to each bullet fired.

Battery: These Perks generally appear on fusion rifles. Like their ballistic counterparts, Battery Perks can affect nearly any weapon stat—magazine size, reload speed, stability, and so on.

Trait: These Perks typically provide a weapon with special bonuses that aren't directly related to stats. For example, SnapshotSights allow for a quick transition between hip firing and aiming down sights, whereas Firmly Planted increases accuracy, stability, and handling when the wielder is crouched. Of course, Exotic Traits offer some especially potent effects.

Armor Perks

In contrast to weapon Perks, armor Perks are fairly straightforward. These only appear on higher-quality armor pieces. Essentially, they determine your balance of Resilience, Mobility, and Recovery. These Perks generally fall into one of two categories:

Intrinsic: These Perks determine an armor piece's base Attributes. Each Class-specific variant offers a different combination of Resilience, Mobility, and Recovery.

Trait: These Perks further enhance an armor piece's Attributes. They're almost always variable, allowing for basic adjustments to individual armor pieces.

MODS

Mods can be used to change or enhance the qualities of most high-level gear items. Some Mods are purely cosmetic, but many provide benefits that can significantly improve your combat proficiency.

Weapon Mods

Weapon Mods only come in three varieties: Mods that change the damage type (Arc/Solar/Void) of high-quality Energy and Power weapons, Shaders that change a weapon's color scheme, and item-specific Weapon Ornaments that can be used to change the appearance of the related Exotic weapons.

Armor Mods

While weapon modification can be very useful, armor Mods play a far more noticeable role in combat.

Most of the armor Mods you acquire will come from decrypting Bright engrams or trading with Banshee-44, and you'd do well to hang on to as many as possible.

Armor Mods can affect everything from how often you can use various Abilities to how well your weapon performs in the field.

Of course, high-quality armor pieces also support Shaders, allowing you to mix and match your way to that perfect look.

Shaders

Found in chests, given as rewards, and traded by vendors, these items change the color scheme of your visible equipment, though the exact equipment parts that change color will vary. This is an optional activity. When you find a Shader that pleases you, select it to preview what colors it will change your equipment to. Then, you can create more uniform looks, eventually color-coding all of your weapons, armor, and vehicles. Or, you can shade each piece of equipment differently; it is entirely up to you.

Currency: Glimmer

This cube-like matter is the official currency and used in almost all purchases. You earn it by defeating particularly troublesome enemy types (Elites and Bosses), trading with vendors, inspecting loot caches, winning Crucible matches, harvesting resource materials, and completing certain missions and activities. Start finding Glimmer at the earliest possible moment; it's needed to buy gear as you level up.

Currency: Legendary Shard

Salvaged from Legendary or Exotic gear, the Legendary Shard is quite the commodity. While new uses are sure to be revealed in the future, for now, Legendary Shards are primarily used to purchase Exotic gear from Xur.

Currency: Bright Dust

Obtained by dismantling items acquired via Bright engrams, Bright Dust is an Eververse-specific currency.

Emotes

Emotes are actions that you can perform to denote a particular emotion, useful when attempting to convey a message to a teammate when talking isn't an option. Your Guardian has three Emotes to try out, and more can be purchased or awarded after the game launch. Check your Settings Menu to find out how to perform an Emote.

Ghosts

Though your Ghost is your permanent companion, this small floating drone with a flashlight and scanning capabilities can also be outfitted with different shells (as seen in your Character Menu). Such items can be more than cosmetic (and can be further changed with Shaders); some Ghost shells may grant perks or additional rewards for completing certain activities.

Ships

Known also as jumpships, these space vehicles allow transportation between the Orbital Regions of the solar system. To engage your ship, access this menu, locate the Region you want to visit, and check the overview map for the nearest Landing Zone (or "LZ") to your target Sector. Additional Landing Zones become available as you complete more Campaign Missions. Ships can be color-coded to your liking using Shaders. You can purchase additional ship types from Amanda Holliday at the Tower after you complete the Campaign.

Sparrows

Sparrows are land vehicles designed for quicker access between Sectors, which become accessible once you complete the Campaign. They have no offensive capabilities (aside from ramming enemies) and can be flipped over if you're driving erratically. They have a boost to enable even quicker travel. They can be color-coded using Shaders. Once you complete the Campaign, you can purchase additional Sparrow types from Amanda Holliday at the Tower.

Other Vehicles

In addition to your ship and Sparrow, there are other vehicles you're able to drive or pilot during the course of your exploration. These are as follows:

Pikes: Fallen land vehicles piloted by a Dreg. Pike Gangs are found randomly in some Public Sectors as part of a Secret Public Event. Remove the Dreg from the Pike to use it (and its forward-firing cannons) yourself.

Interceptor: Cabal land vehicle piloted by a Psion. Interceptors are found randomly in some Cabal-dominated Public Sectors as part of a Secret Public Event. Defeat the Psion, and hop on the Interceptor. It has a tougher armor than a Pike but is a little bulkier. You're able to drive an Interceptor during an Adventure, too.

Construction APC: A new, personnel carrier found on Titan and used during Campaign Mission: Utopia. Consult that mission for further information.

Drake Tank: A heavy tank dropped into play during Campaign Mission: Payback. Consult that mission for further information.

FIELD MANUAL: Navigation

Exploring the Regions of the Scavenger Dead Zone, Tower, Nessus, and its expanse you to observe and investigate the world around you. Therefore, it is important to know all of the different environmental factors that can affect your Guardian's abilities. This guide will cover the basics of the Guardian Lost Catches (Info Wards) and strange surrendable lost objects that should can interact with.

Know Your Environment

Aside from performing your running, sprinting, and jumping (as well as driving), you should also be aware of the most environmental aspects that can influence combat. This section details the most important ones.

Sectors: Each World or Region is divided into different Sectors. The largest of these are Public Sectors, but there are a few other types.

Public Sector: A large Sector that is completely accessible to all Guardians. Expect much, if not all, activities to be available here. These often scale to adjacent Sectors with the Player Level.

Lost Sector: A small subterranean dungeon-like Sector with a few enemy clusters to fight and a Elite to face. Only the Elite and final step is key to a specific Lost contained within these Sectors (and only those Sectors). Occasionally Lost Sectors link to other Public Sectors, but they are mainly dead ends.

Strike Sector: A medium-to-small sized Sector that may be partially or completely inaccessible during normal "social" circumstances. This Sector opens up during a particular mission or activity, so consult the Director to find out where they are.

Social Sector: The Faire and the Tower are the only two Social Sections, where you have a large number of other Guardians to interact with. Here, you can trade, show off your gear, and "emote" to your heart's content. Rally and meet your Guardian, as well as access your vault and trading equipment.

Each Sector may link to another via one or more roads, or via a Landing Zone if they are self-contained. Certain Sectors are accessible at the time, while others are partially or fully inaccessible unless a mission or activity is occurring. A wide variety of activities take place within each Sector. The Director chapter details all of them.

Vaults: Vaults are located in both of the Social Sectors. As you might expect, they store items or equipment that you have collected but cannot carry with you at the moment. Vaults are shared between all of your Guardians, and tend to line up an item slot in your Character Menu. Keep items that you don't want to dismantle but are saving for other purposes. Share items with your other Guardians (like your yourself create). Don't ignore Vaults; they are extremely helpful.

Shoot-Interactions: If a bridge needs extending or a light switch needs flipping with, Shoot is here to help.

Simply step up to any device (be it a reverser or a computer terminal), and if a context-sensitive prompt appears, Shoot to interact. Unless the prompt tells you explicitly not to press a button, press it every time! However, you may want to survey an area or represent your Abilities beforehand.

Energy Catapults: The planetoid of Nessus has glowing embedded globes that bounce you from lower to upper areas that are too high to jump to. Look out for these, and train on them so that activate them.

Launchers: If you spot strange glowing rings floating in the air, these are strange Vex contrivins that propel you in a roughly horizontal boost across a Sector. Look out for a special Public Event Launch Bypass dropped in the Director chapter.

Bounds and Landmarks: As on the lookout for red barriers with a glowing light on them, as well as larger yellow cylinders. These are explosive, and you can shoot them to cause area of effect damage after they detonate. Use them to your advantage when fighting enemies that have shields. Of course, this can also harm you, so clear an area of these if you're thinking of fueling bad odd.

Laser Traps: Mainly part of the Fallen's repertoire of defenses, these are laser beams emanating from an emitter that damage you when you pass through them. Look out for these in the Fallen Public Sectors. They have a Solar coolant, and keep most from the clusters of traps so you aren't caught in the explosion. Walk into one of these lasers, and the trap triggers, wounding you.

Motion Traps: Both the Fallen and the Taken have occasional motion traps. Placed in the ground, these orbs emit a scarlet ray over nearby movement. They fill up and explode into a large globe like trap that can wound and slow you down if you step near or into it. Avoid it, or shoot the trap before the globe is triggered.

Hive Traps: Sometimes known as "anchor" traps, these nasty devices litter certain parts of Titan, and they alert you down and around you if you step into one. Shoot them from range to neutralize them.

Resource Materials: Each of the four World Regions has a specific resource that you can gather. Simply approach and Shoot to collect. Resources are used to upgrade your Guardian's gear. Each piece of gear, activity, or facility becomes harvest the material from it, along with a small amount of Glimmer. Each Region has the following material type:

EDZ: Fusilight Shard

Titan: Allune Dust

Nessus: Microphasic Datalattice

Io: Phasegrass Needle

These raw materials are primarily found via local vendors, so try to collect resources you find. When you visit an upgrade vendors hoard the materials even to gain Reputation and (eventually) a suitable reward for all of your hard work.

Rare Materials

Rare materials are found in the resource materials. They look fairly similar to their standard counterparts but have a glowing color scheme (which hence the Reputation).

Radiolarian Fluid: The white fluid found across the Nessus Region, from the waterfalls to the lakes and streams. It is dangerous to the touch and should not be stood on. This is Radiolarian Fluid, the by-product and lifeblood of the Vex, found it.

Barriers: Throughout the Director chapter of this guide, whenever a Sector has an area that cannot be approached during normal circumstances (i.e., outside of a mission), expect it to be sealed with a barrier, usually of a blue energy wall. There are also other types of barriers, but each serves the same purpose: it prevents you from exploring areas that are designated as inaccessible.

Silver Drops: Peer down between world platform gaps. Can you see the glowed fishlet? Or it is a trigger mob, a piece of machine, or all the Lost of Ashtrees? Those drops are silver drops, and I'll tell those those.

Cores and Core Gathering: At certain points during missions, you may be called upon to grab an orb (the core of a defeated Guardian) and bring it to a specific location. You must then defend the location for a few seconds. You will be tagged during this time, so be careful. Remember that enemies require fresh bombs to carry. Plan your route ahead of time, and bring friends to cover you if possible.

Loot Caches (Chests)

One of the key ways of improving your Guardian is the looting of equipment from chests that you find by exploring. Chests are found in public Strikes, engrams, and areas, and other items and equipment when you find one of these. Here are the different types of Loot Caches (AKA chests).

Ammo Chest: These chests are the most plentiful across the four World Regions. They are randomly collected by a particular enemy, so one may have a particular look to it. Examples of Fallen and the chests are shown. The guides Director chapter marks the expected location of all Enemy Chests. However, only one out of these across an area you view, so they won't appear in every location. A single Enemy Chest also contains a random amount of ammo. Here are the possible Enemy Chests and the Enemy Chest locations are found in the Director chapter of this guide.

Engram Chest: These gold-colored chests are scattered across every Public Sector, hidden away somewhere and requiring a modicum of searching to find. Expect higher-value items (compared to a Enemy Chest) when you open one of these. Engram Chests contain a single engram, and they are randomly collected by enemies. Aim is a quick and easy way to find some. Region Chest locations are tracked in the Director chapter of this guide.

Lost Sector Chest: These locked chests are specifically located inside a Lost Sector. To open one you must first defeat the Elite enemy (and optionally, his minions) within the Lost Sector. After that, the key is turned, and you can open the chest. The Lost Sector is locked multiple times (if the Lost Sector has multiple Elites), so you can open one chest per Elite. Expect high-value items from these chests. Lost Sector Chest locations are tracked in the Director chapter of this guide.

Elite (and Boss) Chest: Some Region Bosses are periodically appear in Public Sectors (due to a Secret Public Event) and Strikes. Defeating them rewards you with a high-value chest. Expect high-value items from these chests. Boss chests appear when you've done a particularly troublesome foe, usually at the end of a mission (like an Adventure or a Strike). Grab what you can from it before the mission concludes.

Treasure Chest: Once you've completed the Campaign Missions and have obtained access to the Tower, you can visit Cayde-6. Under certain conditions, he offers you treasure maps to a number of chest locations within a Region. There are multiple chest locations, and each is static. The number of chests that you receive from Cayde-6 is randomized, so you may not get all of the chests in a single map. Treasure chests are found in the Strikes section. This is endgame content, which is self-explanatory when you speak to Cayde-6 and is not included in this guide.

Scannable Objects (Lore Objects)

Access every Public Sector and some Activity Sectors in every Region (and both Social Sectors) and a wide variety of interesting, odd, and downright weird objects. Some look like scenery, while others appear to be nothing more than a prop. Each of these is a Lore Object, and when you Shoot it, you can read a bit of lore related with them to "find" each one. There are dozens of these to find. Use your Shoot to scan an area, and any of these objects are highlighted in the scan. Be sure to do this everywhere you are exploring. Close to the whereabouts of scannable objects are mentioned in the Director chapter of this guide.

Object Searching: Laying Down the Lore

Scannable objects are located in Sectors that are accessible both during and after missions are completed. This means you don't have to rush to complete missions to have more time searching. Instead, you can explore at your own pace. Remember that these lore items are also supporting between missions, with other Guardians.

DESTINY 2

FIELD MANUAL
Progression

This section details the optimal ways to gain levels and power for your Guardian. An explanation of the Power Level system is followed by a breakdown of Seasonal Challenges, Campaigns, Expeditions, Lost Sectors, mission types, activities, and Milestones is explained. Lastly, an example Guardian Level Up is laid out to help you plan your own progression.

Gaining Levels and Power

Each mission you fulfill, activity you complete, and enemy you defeat earns Xp fill your Experience bar. Fill the bar to capacity, and three things happen:

- Your character increases by 1
- You receive an Upgrade Point that you can use to unlock a talent dexterity
- Your Experience bar resets

Of course, this is only true until you reach level 50. Once that's achieved, 25 Tiling your Experience bar yields an Upgrade Point and provides a chance for additional rewards.

Power is a bit more complicated. Your Power Level is calculated based on the average of your gearth as a Guardian, as you should expect to put in a fair amount of effort. However, you can ensure that you make the most of your time.

Grinding away in an enemy hotspot can add up over time, but identifying enemies as you work toward accomplishing an activity much better results.

If you're the sort of missions, pick a planet and stop out your Lost Sectors, run a series of Patrols as you do Public Events to pick. Head to the Crucible and team up with allies as you work toward rewards, at Hotbert get, as you work toward completing Challenges and Milestones.

Completing activities is the best way to increase your character level, and as luck would have it, it's the best way to raise your Power Level.

This might seem obvious (considering that it's determined by Attack and Defense values), but it's important to understand. Higher Power means a higher average of all equipped items—including the weapons you want to currently use.

If, for example, you're firing away with your Kinetic weapon, your Energy weapon, Power weapon, and all of your armor pieces help determine the damage you're able to inflict. An outdated piece of armor can reduce the effectiveness of your attacks, and dragging around a heavy weapon can increase the amount of damage you take.

Luckily, increasing your Power Level is simply a matter of acquiring higher gear. Once again, activities serve as your best option. Complete available missions, finish the Adventures that grant gear items, Spend some time in the Crucible, or work to gain Reputation rewards with your preferred vendor. Virtually everything you can do in the Tell Now a chance to yield a upgrade, so get out there and put Power Level to good use.

POWER LEVEL

In essence, your Power Level represents the average Attack and Defense values of your equipped gear items. The higher the score is, the higher your Power Level.

In practice, your Power Level is much more than gear summary. It determines how much damage you'll deal and how much power-scaling stuff against hard enemies.

The Climb to Power Level 300

From activities to engrams, virtually every source of gear can provide a steady stream of incremental upgrades until you reach Power Level 300. Here's how.

Early on, you'll notice that rewards typically feature slightly higher Attack or Defense ratings than your currently-equipped gear. A new piece should be a good option to run higher than the chest piece you're wearing, even if your overall Power Level is noticeably lower.

These incremental upgrades are fairly common as your Power Level grows, but at Power Level 300, you'll start to see a significant drop in the frequency of upgrades. Instead of a new piece of gear, you'll start to receive Upgrade Engrams that add a starter fit for your playstyle. It won't be anything for your Power Level.

What's a Guardian to do?

In a word: Milestones. Weekly Milestones are the best (currently-only) answer for the Power Level 300 problem. If you want to keep gaining Power Level, head to the Director and get busy clearing those weekly Milestones.

See that Pedestal? Go inside up some Public Events. Call to Arms? Go start some trouble in the Crucible. If you're yet to finish any of the available Milestones, pick one from the list, and get to work. Then, check in the following week, and do it all over again.

Clans

If you're in the market for a few new allies, a clan might be just what you're looking for. Be prepared: joining a clan is extremely helpful, but it's entirely optional. You can still look for likeminded Guardians out in the wild, and you can still form a fireteam with your friends. Clans are a way to find a group of players who are all looking to do the same things you are, and they're a way to make sure you're always ready to jump into an activity with a group of friends. Here's no reason you shouldn't get together and form a clan of your own.

Aside from the obvious benefits of forging new alliances, clan benefits include:

- A Clan Banner that you can display in your orbit, proudly wearing it as part of that final gear shot. Assist your clan to unlock special Clan Banner Perks for your Guardian.
- Clan Rewards. If your clan members complete a specified endgame activity (such as a Nightfall Strike), every member of the clan receives a reward. Clan rewards are randomized, but you can find out what's in store for each week.

- A Weekly Milestone tied to tackle endgame content! You don't need to be the best to be an asset: Milestones require a certain number of activities to complete, including new Clan Banner Perks, and every member receives a new Milestone encouraging them to do so.

- Guided Games: Lead Intermediate Guardians through endgame content. Success will boost your Clan's Guidemaster's Score.

Of course, one can expect clan-related features and benefits to evolve over time. For now, it's important to note some things:

- You can't start a clan in the game. Anodyne founders can use Bungie.net to establish their clans and set member expectations.
- You can have clan invites in the game. Assuming you have the required permissions, you can use the Roster to invite new members to your clan.
- You can only be a member of one clan. Guardians can't be members of multiple clans simultaneously. There's no penalty for leaving a clan, but if you join a new one right away, you won't be eligible for Clan Rewards until the weekly reset.
- Advanced Clan Perks come only as the result of the clan's research. And that can only take place once a new banner is unlocked.
- Before you can lead a Guided Game, you must take a Guardian Oath—basically, you agree to be friendly and helpful and use the activity lessons to the end. Failing to honor your oath lowers your Clan's Guidemaster's Score and temporarily bars you from leading another Guided Game. The penalty is waived if the fireteam votes to surrender, but the Guardian who failed to honor the oath still receives a penalty.

Vendors

Redeem a Token at a vendor to gain Reputation with them so you can obtain unique items and greater value exposure.

Vendors are an integral part of your continued survival and progression as a Guardian. The majority of these NPCs can be found in the Social Sections, though each Region has its own vendors as well. The following table lists all available vendors:

| Vendor Name | Location | Type |
|---|---|---|
| Eada VI-3B | The Farm | Postmaster |
| Kell XII-3R | The Farm | Postmaster |
| Tess Everis | The Farm, The Tower | Exclusive Materials |
| Tyra Karn | The Farm | Cryptarch Artifacts |
| Master Rahool | The Tower | Cryptarch Artifacts |
| Sloane Hawthorne | The Farm, The Tower | Farm Overseer |
| Lord Shaxx | The Farm, The Tower | Crucible Overseer |
| Banshee-44 | The Farm | Gunsmith |
| Banshee-44 | The Tower | Gunsmith |
| Ada-1 | Tower, The Tower | Exchanged Goods |
| Asher Mir | The Farm, The Tower | Vanguard Shelltech |
| Zavala | The Farm, The Tower | Vanguard Chest |
| Devrim Kay | Scattered (EU) | Overseer |
| Shaxx | Shaxx's Watch (Titan) | Overseer |
| Cayde-6 | Cayde's Rest (Hunter) | Overseer |
| Asher Mir | The Tower (Hub) | Overseer |
| Rat | All New Regions Owned | Special |
| Amanda Holliday | The Farm | Hangar Overseer |

REDEEMABLE TOKENS AND REPUTATION

Reviewers, Gunsmiths, and Iconic Vanguards have a Reputation rating that you need to earn with them. Vendor rank is increased by completing tasks (by checking in first to see if they have any) and by redeeming tokens to improve with them), you can return and hand in these circular Tokens. In return, your Reputation increases with that vendor. Each time you rank up with a vendor, you'll unlock new items for purchase. Some items may also require a certain vendor rank to purchase.

For example, Devrim Kay, who is sniping from the steeple of the church in Treehead, requires that you provide him with 037 Tokens. Keep going from these Lands are found as in the vicinity Sectors of his Iceland, you're eventually given access to a random offering of 037 weapons and/or armor.

Each time you fill a reputation bar, you receive a reward pack featuring one or more randomly selected items. The Reputation bar then resets, and you're free to start working toward your next reward.

Check the Postmaster at the Farm in the Tower for items you forfeit to pick up during your adventuring that are of a fine quality or better. Additional loot, such as items like pre-order bonuses and gifts from Bungie, at any available here.

CRYPTARCH ARCHIVISTS

Engrams are decoded by Cryptarchs, and there are two available: Tyra Karn (in an Ice Fanic and Master Rahool (in the Tower). Tyra Karn is the more accessible one of the two. Talk to her, bring them any engrams you have gathered, and they will decode items for you.

OVERSEER PROMOTIONS

This overall category of vendor covers each trader in a particular Region and various vendors in other Social Sector. Each Reputation, and purchase unique equipment from them. Certain Overseers may have additional functionality, speak to them to find this out.

GUNSMITHS

Gain Reputation with either Gunsmith, but especially Banshee-44 at the Tower. When you bring him a certain number of weapons for disassembly, he gives you more powerful items in return. Continue wordplay activities by gradually wearing the quality of the random loot he makes you until you're in receive superplus equipment.

HANDLERS

Your Guardian Ververa have their own particular equipment for you to obtain once you gain Reputation with them. Additionally, Cayde-6 and Ikora have particular activities you can help them out with.

RUN, AGENT OF THE NINE

As a strange vendor who randomly appears in a Public Section in each of the four Worlds, depending on planetary alignments and Bungiverse whim. Run sells Exotic equipment and only takes Legendary Shards in exchange for them.

Engrams and Decoding

Engrams are crystal-like items encoded with the properties of randomly determined weapons, armor, Perks, and other items. They're found in Loot Chests, Adventures, Expeditions, Lost Sectors, and Public Events and Crucible, located in chests, and given as rewards for completing Milestones and other activities. They are also bought from the Eververse vendor in Cryptarch vendors, although some other vendors may have them in their inventory as well. They're also obtained by Tess Everis in the Tower, who decodes Exotic Engrams for Reputation Tokens.

Engrams can be colored white (Uncoded), green (Encoded), blue (Decrypted), purple (Legendary), or gold (Exotic). The color of the engram, the Xur weapons and armor you collect, signifies the quality of the expected items you receive once the engrams are decoded.

Activities and Milestones

What is there to keep a Guardian occupied as the fires of humanity are rekindled? Quite a lot, actually.

MISSIONS AND QUESTS

There is a wealth of missions and quests to complete.

Campaign (16 missions). This single-player set of story missions is the key to unlocking all of the different Regions in the solar system. Complete the Campaign, and you can return to Ikora to "Instinct" and play through the Campaign on Legendary difficulty. Do that, and you'll be able to "Transcend" and continue to progress even as the equipment restrictions for Legendary difficulty are lifted.

Adventure (20 missions). These Annualplay missions start Bungie in a Public Sector across all of the four Regions. They drift into adjacent Sectors, and they take an hour or two to complete. Replay them at your leisure.

World Level (4 quests). Each part of the four Regions has a single World Quest that involves the Region's various Public Events and activities. Complete all of the Region and complete the task-size missions within the quest. There are done once.

Heroic. These are high-level fireteam missions where you visit Vanguard Activity Sectors and deal with a large number of enemy forces, activate unique and powerful Elite and Boss foes. Expect to be tested.

ACTIVITIES

Crucible. A series of PvP competitions under the watchful eyes of your Guild Lords. Compete to win Tokens, shiny loot, and unique prizes. An entire chapter is devoted to this activity.

Patrols. Small tasks in complete in each Public Section after finishing all Campaign Missions on its and visiting Cayde-6.

Lost Sectors. Every mountains in Public Sections that occur randomly and are designed so that Guardians can work together to deal with threats.

Lost Sectors. Most Public Sectors have a hidden subterranean Lost Sector where you can find additional loot and a special boss.

Lost Chests. There are resource materials to harvest and Enemy Chests scattered across Public Sectors and Lost Sectors. Seek out Lost Caches in the Tower if you want to be rewarded for finding a couple of a few of these chests.

Scannable Objects. Try to find scannable lore objects that give you insights, courtesy of Ghost.

Challenges. A selection of activity-specific tasks that reward daily or weekly rewards if successfully completed. They give you reverse once you complete them. Some of Public Sectors or during Crucible matches.

Treasure Hunts. Find the clues and hint on the Tower, Cayde-6 has a number of treasure chests to hunt for. Bring the odd contents back to him.

Milestones

Milestones are time-sensitive tasks to complete that Bungie has decided are particularly useful for your current Guardian advancement. These tasks change weekly, giving you a stream of new and exciting content to discover and complete. The previous picture details all of the general available Milestones. Below is a general description of each Milestone's objectives.

The Crucible and Call to Arms. Amazingly, some Bungie.net items have completed the first five Campaign missions. Complete the Crucible Milestone to unlock the Crucible Playlist. Call to Arms. Complete this Milestone to accumulate and grants you Crucible access Zavala from the Social Sector and the Director Menu). Afterward, expect frequent Crucible Milestones (with a 150 percent total to reach) to be set for you to gather and other goodies.

Flashpoints These are missions to complete Public Events in specific Regions. For example, you might be told to find and finish Public Events on its, culminating with this task until the percentage string reaches 100. Success is likely to yield high-quality loot.

Nightfall. Bungie usually allows access to a different Nightfall Strike on a weekly basis. This is a heightened version of a regular Strike, with stricter modifiers to make the mission even tougher. Access this from the Strikes section of the Director Menu. Success is likely to yield high-quality gear.

Daily Milestones. These daily tasks ask you to complete challenges related to a given activity. Bring up yields a large stock of Iridescent Tokens.

Iconic Imagery

Remember to check your Iconic for each Milestone. Those appear on your Ghost (which shows the most recent ones of a Region) and Ghost's Milestones page in Eververse (Hub of activity). That way you can easily track the progress of your Milestones and see what's coming next.

Grinding And Gear

Reaching character level 20 is a noteworthy achievement and one that should be celebrated, but a Guardian's work is never done. There are always more lives to be saved, more threats to be ended, and more bits of gear to be collected. In fact, reaching max-level doesn't necessarily mean that you're ready for endgame content. Boosting your Power Level should be your top priority.

MAKE THE MOST OF MILESTONES

If you're aiming to power up as quickly as possible, try to complete every Milestone you can manage. Remember, once you reach Power Level 260, Milestone rewards are likely to be your only source of gear upgrades. The weekly Flashpoint is a good place to start, and it's always worth heeding the call of the Crucible.

COMPETE IN THE CRUCIBLE

The Crucible is one of the best options an under-geared Guardian could hope for. Level advantages are disabled during all standard contests, making it the closest thing to a fair fight you're likely to find. It's a great place to hone your skills, and it offers the chance to complete another Milestone. Win or lose, you're guaranteed to get at least one piece of equipment each time you complete a match. While these rewards aren't likely to boost your Power Level, you might find a new weapon or armor piece that suits you.

Worst case, you'll amass a nice collection of gear to dismantle—just make sure you hang on to those weapon parts and armor materials.

Collect (and Hoard) Tokens

If you've spent some time window shopping with vendors, it's likely that at least a few items have caught your eye—but now is not the time.

Remember: Milestone rewards are your most reliable source for gear upgrades. The Tokens you spend will likely yield an equal-level replacement for one piece you currently equipped gear items. Even if you were to get a long-desired item, you'll be sure to outgrow it eventually.

Instead, take a look at what every vendor has to offer, find something you like, and then go about earning as many of the needed Tokens as you can while you continue improving your Power Level. By the time you reach Power Level 300, you should have a nice stack of Tokens to redeem. If you're lucky, you'll get them you want at the highest possible level, ensuring that it will be put to good use for a long time to come.

Set New Goals

Once you reach Power Level 300, every piece of gear you get should be a suitable option. Go ahead and grind away for anything that catches your fancy, then go about collecting new Mods for your gear.

Or don't! If you're happy with your gear, focus on completing challenging content. Join and support a clan. Make a name for yourself in the Crucible. Unlock your remaining Abilities and experiment with your various Subclasses, or create a new Guardian and do it all again.

You'll never run out of things to do, and new challenges are sure to be introduced in the future.

FROM ZERO TO HERO: PR-1M4

Step 1: The Exo Guardian PR-1M4 is online! This section charts the activities, antics, and upgrades chosen as this sample Guardian gained in power and Experience. To begin with, PR-1M4 was created as an Exo Titan.

Step 2 (Level 2): After checking all weapons, armor, and Ghost, PR-1M4 completed the initial set of Campaign Missions and accessed the Farm (Social Section) for the first time. Leveling gear was compared when speaking with Hawthorne, and equipment scavenging began. Missed items were picked up from the Postmaster. Eververse promotions were gladly accepted. Extra items were stored in the Farm vault.

Step 3 (Level 3): A key ally and vendor Devrim Kay was met in the church tower of Tricetland Sector. EDZ Tokens (a redeemable object found in chests, rewarded after events, and given after killing random enemies) began to be gathered to raise PR-1M4's Reputation with Devrim.

An Adventure was undertaken and completed. Adjacent Sectors were explored in the vicinity of Tricetland. A Public Event was taken part in. PR-1M4 explored a Lost Sector and gathered up contents from a chest inside. Region Chests, Enemy Chests, and scannable lore objects were hunted for and accessed. Glimmer accumulation began in earnest.

PR-1M4 returned to Devrim to purchase some weaponry and armor with statistics improved compared to the rags initially worn.

Step 4 (Level 4): Campaign Mission: Combustion was completed, and the second Region of Titan was unlocked. Further activities in the EDZ commenced, and a new weapon (the Sand Warp 2AU Auto Rifle) was obtained. Perks were tweaked in the weapon's menu, and a Shader was applied. Returning to the Farm, PR-1M4 started to find amusing side activities to complete. Lord Shaxx was met; his high-level equipment inspected, and PR-1M4 embarrassed himself in the PvP arena.

PR-1M4 visited Arctic 99-40 at the Farm and began dismantling some of his unused and lower-level equipment and starting his collection of Energy weapons (Arc, Solar, and Void). He now had 2-3 of each weapon type. He revisited the Gunsmith after each Campaign Mission from this point onward.

Step 5 (Level 6): With further Campaign Missions under his belt on Titan, PR-1M4 returned to the Farm and took all his engrams to Tyra Karn to be decoded; he wished he'd done this earlier! The resulting weapons, armor, and other equipment was compared to his inventory and swapped, dismantled, or stored in the vault. Titan Subclass Abilities had been unlocked and upgraded as Abilities were awarded for each level up. PR-1M4's first Emote was unlocked: time for a Cheer!

Step 6 (Level 10): Glimmer gathering, material node harvesting, and the completion of Campaign Mission: Six and Nessus was deemed a success. A strange Artifact was found in a Lost Sector, enabling PR-1M4 to complete a tough mission to unlock an additional Subclass. Different Kinetic, Energy, and Power weapons were collected, compared, and utilized extensively. Activities were undertaken planet-wide on EDZ, Titan, and Nessus. Dead Zone Lush Shader was applied to PR-1M4's equipment for a more cohesive and pleasing appearance.

Step 7 (Level 15): After finishing up Campaign Missions on Io, Cayde-6 became available to visit at the Farm. Patrols and social reports were now active. Rare equipment became more accessible from loot, fixes, and vendors. Weapons and armor were further honed as Perks and Mods were applied. A full complement of shotguns, sniper rifles, rocket launchers, and even a sword was gathered in the Power weapon slot. The Campaign on EDZ was completed. Zavala and Ikora appeared at the Farm.

Step 8 (Level 20): Guardian's Call: After finishing the Campaign entirely, a host of new activities and powerful enemies awaited PR-1M4 on every World. Legendary and Exotic weapons and armor became available. A clan was formed and joined.

Step 9 (Level 20+): With the Tower (Social Sector) now available, PR-1M4 found a new best friend: Banshee-44. Gaining Reputation with this Gunsmith and with countless equipment dismantling, better and better gear (including Legendary items, Perks, Shaders, and Mods) began to be traded. Amanda Holliday was visited, and PR-1M4's Sparrow and ship were upgraded and even given a proper "white and red" Shader. Cayde-6 was visited, and one of his infamous treasure chest maps was purchased. Other vendors gave PR-1M4 small task-specific missions for Exotic weapon rewards. Master Rahool begrudgingly decoded the many engrams collected. PR-1M4's new vault in the Tower was getting full.

Step 10 (Level 20+): Equipment was constantly tweaked and upgraded, with the Noble Constant Red Shader applied to it. Exotic equipment was added to the ensemble. Rookie Guardians were guided through previously played missions as part of clan activities. All vendors at the Tower were visited and their tasks completed. Milestones were met. Strikes were completed with clan mates. Nightfall Strikes were attempted. Countless Crucible matches were attempted.

CAMPAIGN

Overview

The Campaign Missions represent the first major and continuous conflict that you and your fellow Guardians become part of. The Campaign is (initially) played using a single Guardian, and it's the key to unlocking all other mission types, locations, and activities across the four worlds of the Director. Continue to complete Campaign Missions to obtain looted engrams and items, the ability to unlock all the previously mentioned content, and more. Need to find Devrim Kay? Want to see Hawthorne on the Farm? Hoping to talk to Cayde-6? Want a full range of Guardian abilities? Once certain missions are concluded, the Campaign Missions hold the key to revealing all of this.

Ikora Rey's Campaign Meditation

Perhaps you only just scraped through a Campaign Mission, or you were hoping to replay a mission with a fireteam of like-minded individuals. Fortunately, after you've completed the Campaign once, you can visit Ikora Rey at the Tower and access available Campaign content. This is an excellent way to up your Reputation with Ikora so you can obtain the specific weapons and armor she possesses.

Campaign Content

This guide has recommended and optimal tactics for completing every Campaign Mission. As you read through each mission, you'll notice a number of references. Here's what everything means.

1 Recommended Level and Power: Missions have Requirements and Recommendations.

Requirements: This is the minimum Level the player must be to launch the mission. The most important Requirements for Campaign are Riptide (your first time on Titan, which requires Level 4), Looped (First time on Nessus, requires level 7), Sacrilege (First time on Io, requires level 11), and Payback (first mission back in EDZ after Vanguard re-unites, requires level 15)

Post-campaign requirements change from Level to Power.

Recommended Power is what is displayed once a player has access to a mission. Playing the mission under this recommended power is harder: enemies are harder to kill and deal more damage to the player.

2 Objectives: This lists the expected objectives you need to fulfill throughout the mission in question.

3 Enemies Encountered: This lists the expected enemies in each map Sector, arranged by combatant and then in the order of appearance. Consult the Bestiary for takedown tactics.

4 New Actions to Learn: The first time you are expected to complete a new action (all of which are detailed in this guide's Field Manual chapter), it is listed here.

5 Important Allies: The first time you meet a new and important ally is flagged here.

6 Maps: Each part of the mission is divided into specific Sectors, with a map showing pertinent information (usually waypoints that are called out in the main text).

7 Super, Grenades, and Warnings: "Super" and "Grenades" are the times when it is recommended to use these Guardian abilities. This helps you learn about optimal times so you don't waste a Super needlessly or use it just before you really need to. "Warnings" indicate whether the location you're about to enter is a Restricted Zone, where respawning is limited.

HOMECOMING

Overview

Recommended Level: None

Recommended Power: 10

Earth is under attack and the Vanguard, your Guardian mentors, are starting to scatter. While under heavy fire from the Cabal Red Legion, you must battle forth to find Cayde-6, Zavala, and Ikora. Although the Tower is lost, humanity cannot afford to fail. A gesture of resolve is needed; you are tasked with boarding the Cabal's command ship and crippling it. Along the way, you should be learning some basic maneuvering actions and methods of taking down various Cabal foes, as there are a whole lot more of them to come.

THE LAST CITY, EARTH

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionary

Important Allies

- Cayde-6
- Lord Shaxx

Objectives

- Defend your home.
- Find Zavala.
- Gear up for the fight.
- Find Zavala (continued).

New Actions to Learn

- Aiming Down Sights
- Melee Attack
- Weapon Classes and Types
- Throwing Grenades
- Sprinting
- Jumping

1 Corridors

Super: Not available

Grenades: Not available

After the two Cabal Legionaries break through the wall, aim for their heads. Round the corner and aim down your sights to more accurately deal with the two additional Legionaries charging you. Back up as you fire, if necessary. Weave along the corridor until a Legionary ambushes you at close quarters. Execute him with a melee attack before encountering Cayde-6, who vanishes as quickly as he appears.

Additional Enemy Takedown Tactics

Every time you encounter a new enemy during the Campaign, consult the guide's Bestiary for more in-depth takedown knowledge.

Important Ally:

Cayde-6

"I've got a date with whoever's behind this. It'll be a short date."

Cayde-6 is an Exo and Hunter Vanguard, and he's a key ally for your cause. His dexterous and formidable combat prowess is matched only by his wit. Unfortunately, he's headed elsewhere to fight the Red Legion.

New Actions

To ensure that you fully understand all the new actions you're able to perform, check the list at the start of each section of this mission. Then, consult the guide's Field Manual chapter for in-depth tactical knowledge on all those actions.

2 Upper Corridors And Bay 04

Super: Not available

Grenades: Recommended

Ascend the steps, and encounter Lord Shaxx tending to the citizens of the Tower. Enter his armory and grab a weapon. Descend the steps, and at the broken railing platform, throw a grenade down at two incoming Legionaries. Attempt to catch them both with a single explosion, then finish them off using your newly acquired Auto Rifle. Then, sprint along the corridor, passing the burning debris. Once in Bay 04, climb the metal steps, jumping the gap and grabbing the upper walkway, then pulling yourself up. Continue up and into the Tower hangar.

Additional Weapons Data

Learning about the differences between Kinetic and Energy weapons and how to remove enemy shields is critical to your success as a Guardian. Consult the Field Manual chapter for a complete overview of weapon classes and types, as well as information on weapon statistics, such as Impact, Range, Stability, Handling, Reload, RPM, and Magazine information.

Important Ally:

Lord Shaxx

"If the Cabal want war, give them war!"

HOMECOMING
Tower Hangar

THE LAST CITY, EARTH

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, Centurions

Objectives

- Find Zavala (continued).

New Actions to Learn

- Ghost Flashlight
- Switching Weapons
- Class-Specific Jumping
- Crouching and Sliding

3 Storage Hangar

Super: Not available

Grenades: Optional

As the battle rages on, switch your weapons (to the Energy weapon) and drop two Legionaries using it or melee attacks. After your Ghost illuminates the dark storage hangar, enter this gantry. Here, you're greeted by a Cabal Centurion and a Cabal drop pod with Legionaries to deal with. Remain on the gantry, concentrate on removing the Centurion's Solar Shield with your Energy weapon (as your Kinetic weapon is much less damaging to the enemy's shield), and finish him off with headshots from either of your armaments. Headshots usually result in quicker precision hits and kills. You can easily drop the Legionaries as they slowly jet around the room if you're still on the upper gantry. Down the sight aiming and melee strikes to finish them are also excellent. Note the second Centurion and a couple more Legionaries as you reach the storage hangar exit.

4 MAIN HANGAR

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Head past the Cabal's command ship and into the large open hangar. Repel a force of Legionaries, and start to try out your Movement Mode (learning to both fire down on foes and reach higher gantry areas). Watch your accuracy while airborne though; your weapons aren't as stable, even when aiming (until certain Guardian types learn the Angel of Light Perk later). Use cover, especially because there are two Centurions to defeat. If Legionaries are leaping at you with their swords drawn, shoot them and strike them with a melee blow as they land, before their swords can damage you. Once the fracas is over, attempt a powerful class-specific jump (Movement Mode) to the exit gantry.

Head into a half-demolished corridor. Here, you'll need to crouch (and optionally slide), maneuvering through the fire and sheared-off concrete into a hole and out to the Tower Plaza itself.

Dropping while Jumping

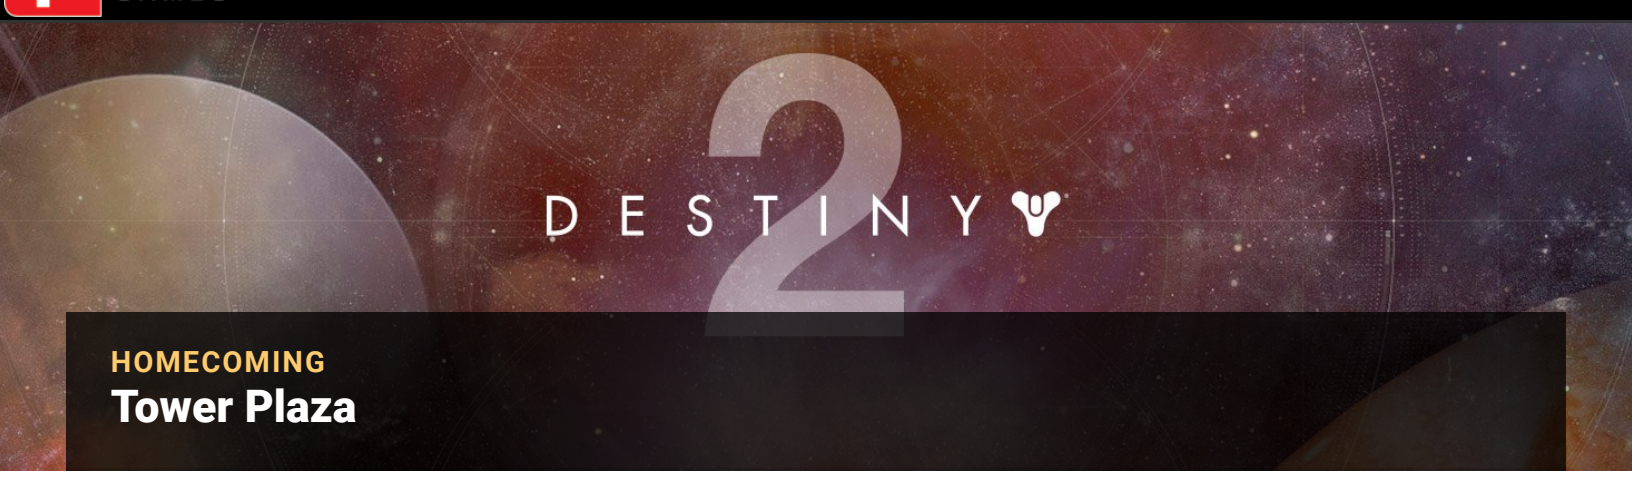
While learning the finer points of your Movement Mode (detailed in the Field Manual chapter), you may find that your second jump sends you floating across chambers and into roof beams, or far beyond where you want to land. Titans combat this by simply tapping the jump button one more time, starting their descent immediately, but other classes (like Warlocks) may increase their height with additional taps. Be sure to read up on jumping in the Field Manual: chapter. Titans have the most trouble over-jumping.



HOMECOMING

Tower Plaza

THE LAST CITY, EARTH

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries

Important Allies

- Commander Zavala

Objectives

- Find Zavala (continued).
- Defend the Tower (repel three assaults).
- Leave the plaza and find the Speaker.

New Actions to Learn

- Super Attack
- Radar Markers
- Environmental Information

5 Repelling Three Assaults

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Head up into the plaza, where Zavala is bravely fending off a Cabal Red Legion bombardment. Your objective immediately updates to defending the Tower with Zavala, and chaos descends. You must now engage the Cabal forces for a protracted battle. You must destroy more than 30 Legionaries in waves of four or five, while also facing periodic vicious bombardments from the carrier fleet in the skies above the earth.

Start by attacking the forces encroaching on Zavala's position by executing them with headshots from the side before you reach the Vanguard leader. As soon as you've neutralized assault wave one, head to Zavala.

The waves of foes arrive both via jet-packing down from the ships and via drop pods. It's less important to know where foes are landing; instead, concentrate on defeating them before they reach Zavala's position.

- The first assault wave consists of around nine Legionaries.
- The second assault wave consists of around 15 Legionaries.
- The third and final assault wave consists of about 15 Legionaries.

If you're feeling overwhelmed or close to death, it's likely because you're standing or moving slowly, getting hit by the enemy ordnance. Instead, use the ruined pillars, your Movement Mode, the walls and roof of the main kiosk, balconies, upper ground, and the rubble to vary your position so foes can't get a good targeting aim on you.

As soon as you hear Zavala shouting for you to get behind his protective shield (which he does twice during the battle), oblige him, or face heavy damage from a rocket bombardment from the Cabal ship. Stand inside Zavala's protective shield until the bombardment subsides. After this, remain here to tag a few Legionaries in the head before moving out to engage the larger numbers in the subsequent waves. Note that Zavala drops Orbs of Power each time he casts his Ward of Dawn shield; these help power up your Super, and should be gathered immediately.

To continue, you should move to the far right side of the plaza near the entrance to the Tower Boulevard where the Speaker resides.

Your weapon of choice here is the Kinetic Auto Rifle; it fires rapidly and gets the job done. Switch to a Sidearm, if you want. Grenades are also recommended, if you have one. The best time to throw one is just as a group of Legionaries is emerging from a drop pod, is landing, or is close to Zavala.

You can also launch your Super, usually for the first time. The Super you have depends on the Guardian class you chose for your character.

Once you've successfully defeated the third wave, you must rendezvous with Ikora in the northern part of the Tower. However, you can optionally cull more than a dozen Legionaries before you leave.

Head into the thoroughfare that leads to the northern part of the Tower, passing a Sweeperbot along the way.

Important Ally:

Commander Zavala

"The Red Legion are well-trained, but we are better. We will hold this line!"

A stern and by-the-book Titan Vanguard, Zavala has an iron will and a determination to succeed that impresses both friend and foe alike. However, he isn't prone to moments of levity, especially at times like these.

HOMECOMING
Tower North

THE LAST CITY, EARTH

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, Incendiors, Centurions

Objectives

- Leave the plaza and find the Speaker (continued).
- Board the command ship.

Important Allies

- Ikora Rey
- Amanda Holliday

6 Ikora Encounter

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Enter the Tower North area, where an angry Ikora lays waste to a group of Legionaries before revealing some startling news about the Speaker. She leaps atop a Cabal Thresher ship, forcing you into the boulevard area. A drop pod lands ahead of you. Lob in a grenade, or quickly tag the heads of the three Legionaries appearing.

7 Tower Boulevard

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

The boulevard doors open, revealing a new threat: the Incendior—a Cabal shock trooper armed with a flame-thrower. Back up, drop him in a fiery explosion by aiming at his fuel tanks, and repeat this tactic to take down two more Incendiors and a cluster of Legionaries. Enemies may have different weak-spots where precision hits and kills can be administered.

The action ends at a large tiled plaza balcony with a burning tree, a couple of Legionaries, an Incendior, and a Centurion. Tackle the Incendior before you reach the open door into this area.

Only the Centurion should give you pause. Either use the Energy Sidearm you gathered to whittle down the foe's shield, or use your recharged Super attack to demolish him, along with a grenade. Then, board Holliday's ship.

The Right Energy For The Job

Using an Energy weapon is the optimal way to burn down an enemy shield. Any damage type will do nicely. However, matching damage types against enemy shields will create a powerful explosion that causes area-of-effect damage to surrounding enemy groups.

Start to plan ahead for which types of weapons you want to carry into different encounters, and try to wait for optimal times to burst enemy shields to get the best damage output on surrounding targets.

Important Ally:

Amanda Holliday

"All right, Guardian! Time to kick 'em where it hurts!"

An exceptional mechanic and even better pilot, Holliday is a skilled shipwright who is diligently helping with the hopeless task of defending the Tower. She proves invaluable in delivering you into the Cabal's command ship.

Important Ally:

Ikora Rey

"Red Legion! You will take no more from us! And you will find no mercy from me!"

Though blunt to a fault and without patience to suffer fools gladly, Ikora is a powerful Warlock Vanguard, with a penchant for solo infiltration missions. Her knowledge of enemy threat patterns should come in handy right about now.

HOMECOMING
The Chosen

RED LEGION COMMAND SHIP

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, Incendiors, Sub-Boss: Psaiki the Searing Will, Psions
- Cabal: Sub-Bosses: Brann the Unbent Blade, Sub-Boss: Kreth the Living Skyfire

Objectives

- Disable the shields.
- Reach the shield generator.
- Overload the generator.
- Escape the command ship.

New Actions

- Ghost: Interactions
- Enemy Damage
- Glowing Your Descent

8 Drop Pod Bay And Upper Deck

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Optional

Leap up and over the chute that's dispensing Cabal drop pods, and enter the inside of the command ship. Immediately look slightly up and right so you can aim and drop the three Legionaries on the loading bay above you. Use your Ghost to access the schematics at the hologram terminal, which updates your objective and allows access as the opening to the exterior unseals.

Enter the deck interior, where two Legionaries and an Incendior are guarding. As shown in the previous picture, instead of just raking the area with gunfire (which is still a viable option), you can wait for the closest Legionary to walk toward his two brethren. Then, shoot the fuel tank of the Incendior, causing it to explode and dispatching (or badly damaging) all three enemies at once. It's this kind of lateral thinking that can save you ammunition and keep you safe when faced with overwhelming odds.

Sub-Boss: Step around the corner, immediately switching to your Energy weapon, and target the much more imposing Incendior with the Solar Shield. This is Psaiki the Searing Will, and he has the same attacks as an Incendior, though he's tougher and uses a Void Shield. Make him a priority target. With the shield removed, shoot his head or fuel tanks. Once Psaiki is down, finish the Legionaries.

Sub-Boss Strategies

As you progress, you will start to encounter toughened variants of many foe types. Generally, they are dispatched in the same manner as their lesser brethren, but some may use Energy Shields, employ different armaments or have new offensive maneuvers. Check this guide's Bestiary to ensure that you know how to adjust for these eventualities.

9 Main Exterior Deck

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Step out into the main exterior deck, and prepare for an elongated firefight with Cabal forces. This begins with dodging the shots of three Psions, the first time you've encountered this type of foe. Focus on ridding the area of them first so you're not shot at range with their highly damaging weapons as you continue farther along the super-structure. Use your radar to keep track of these initial foes to ensure that they're defeated. Melee strikes and headshots are key, as well as advancing along the crates to use as cover.

The main deck concourse continues ahead, but to the right is a large domed casement for one of the many giant gun-emplacements on the ship. This is a good place to head: there's cover, the third Psion is usually here and easily melee-attacked, and you can use the height advantage to deal with the three Legionaries. The narrow circular interior of the domed casement also affords you cover. You could also advance in the open, but you're much more exposed.

Sub-Boss: Instead, remain in and around the casement dome, dropping an Incendior and more Legionaries. Then, tag a Psion on the second casement ahead of you. By now, you should have noticed a Sub-Boss Centurion: Brann the Unbent Blade. He should be a priority target. He usually starts atop a small metal tunnel structure, which you can sprint into for cover. Alternately, you can fight him in the open or from the second casement dome, depending on your Guardian's Super. This is a good time to launch it. Then finish him as you would a normal Centurion. Then, mop up around nine more Legionaries (feel free to lob in a grenade as a few of them head up from the corridor tunnel). Head back into the ship's interior via the wide corridor tunnel ahead and right.

Flying the Unfriendly Skies

This open area is your second opportunity to start honing your maneuvering talents. Try your Guardian's Movement Mode jumping. While aiming down the sites (hitting foes as you fall) isn't the best plan due to airborne inaccuracy, you can still remove threats in this manner.

Warlock Guardians should perfect the extra height they gain on their jumps; double-tap as rapidly as possible).

10 Cargo Bay Descent

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Ahead of you down the corridor are two Psions and an Incendior on the opposite side of a cargo ledge chamber. You have plenty of room (and cover on the edges of the corridor) to avoid the Psion's ranged attacks. This allows you to either tag them at range or (better yet) shoot at the Incendior standing between them so he explodes, catches, and defeats both Psions in the explosion. You can perform this "Cabal bomb" maneuver throughout the following cargo bay descent.

There's an Incendior on a ledge ahead and above you. Tag him after removing threats ahead of you, but don't step too far because foes below will begin to battle you. Now, move around to where the two Psions were standing (in case one survived the explosion and is hiding behind one of the large crates dotted around), and gather any ammo you need, if any have dropped from your previous kills. Look out and down at the ledge below the entrance you arrived from, and execute another Incendior and Psion. There are three final enemies (two Psions and an Incendior) directly below the first trio. You can jump down and attack, tag them from an upper ledge, or lob a grenade down and finish them. Long-range Auto-Rifle fire is a good idea as you can tactically remove enemies through the 'Cabal Bomb' technique, though you can try dropping in and melee attacking too. Finally, drop to the cargo bay floor itself, slowing your descent so you aren't severely damaged by the fall.

A Slow, Not a Swift Descent

Hitting your jump button during falls is imperative if you don't want to die after lengthy plummets. It's also useful because it allows you to steer yourself onto lower platforms. Make a point of jumping across this cargo bay a few times to get the hang of this technique, as you need to perfect it. Learn how much of a fall you can take before you're damaged.

11 Shield Generator And Exit

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Sub-Boss: At the bottom of the cargo bay, retreat back as you reach the door so you can quickly dispatch an Incendior waiting to attack you at melee range (or use melee attacks yourself). Then, head down the huge cargo corridor a few feet before sidestepping to either side and tagging the six Psions that are present all the way down the corridor. They are joined by a couple of Legionaries and an Incendior. As you advance and engage these troops, the door to the shield generator room slides open, and a named Legionary saunters out. Kreth the Living Skyfire is an Elite-tiered Legionary with an Arc Shield, but not for long! Prioritize this target; you have the room, the cover, and a grenade to make short work of him. Once his shield is removed, treat him to multiple headshots.

Step through the door Kreth the Living Skyfire was guarding, and remain on the upper lip so you can study the massive shield generator chamber itself. Your plan is to overload three thermal vents, ideally without being struck by one of the three massive rotating arms. Scan the area with your Ghost if you're unsure what to shoot at; you're aiming for the glowing white vent turbines, one of which is directly ahead and below you. Shoot it or drop a grenade in.

Then, time a slowed fall onto the edge of the generator chamber, sprint either clockwise or counterclockwise, and drop down so you're under the rotating arms at the next thermal vent. Blast it until the vent explodes. Jump up and out of the vent area (just as an arm passes overhead), sprint to the next thermal vent, and drop down before the next arm catches and kills you. Destroy the third thermal vent, crippling the carrier.

With the generator overloaded, you must now escape the ship, which is achieved by leaping out of this chamber and back into a cargo bay corridor. This tests your jumping ability, and Warlocks may need to practice their jumping or land on one of the now-motionless arms first. Wind your way to the edge of the command ship, where you face the violent grievances of the Cabal leader himself.

1 The Last City

Super: Not available

Grenades: Not available

Warning: Restricted Zone

After falling from a great height, your only option is to shuffle down into the ruins of the city's canal and maneuver slowly through the wreckage as Cabal patrols lumber about above you. You're fortunate to reunite with your Ghost before leaving the city for the wilds of the countryside.

Severe Damage Inflicted!

Your current health and wellbeing are critical. Check your Character Menu to learn the exact nature of your damaged equipment; your armor can best be described as "scorched" and offers little protection. You have but a single Kinetic weapon (Sidearm) and a damaged Ghost. However, that fall didn't kill you.

2 City Outskirts

Super: Not available

Grenades: Not available

Warning: Restricted Zone

Stumbling into the sunlight, you continue your vision: a bird of prey flies from its perch into the snow-covered crags ahead. Drop down to a remote Guardian outpost, where you can reach down and grab an SMG (Energy) from the deserted area. Deserted, that is, until you witness a pack of War Beasts bounding to your location.

Restricted Zone! Your Light Fades Away

This is your first Restricted Zone, which requires caution (especially in your current fragile state). Your Ghost cannot resurrect you here, so ensure that you aren't mauled to death by War Beasts, or you'll have to retry this wandering.

The War Beasts attack in a large pack but charge you around three at a time. See if you can aim down your sights and pick off (or wound) as many beasts as you can at range (shoot their heads for optimal damage; a critical hit aiming plan you should now be very familiar with). Then, finish them with gunfire or a melee attack at closer quarters (as they only exist to charge and savage you). The first War Beast that you defeat spills out ammunition. You may want to switch to the SMG for this battle, if you're getting overwhelmed. Stay at the outpost for the battle, as you have a good view of the incoming foes. After the battle, your first Objective begins: follow your vision across the rocky ground and up the snowy gully, as the bird circles in the distant sky.

3 Twilight Gap

Super: Not available

Grenades: Not available

Warning: Restricted Zone

Follow the falcon through the snowy gorge to a cliffside path, where you can witness the full horror of the Cabal attack. Continue around, heading up through a mountain pass and down into a rocky slope to a snow-lined clearing.

When you drop down, a Legionary and around 15 War Beasts appear (gradually; the beasts arrive in packs of 3-5 foes). If possible, move to the base of the central rock where the Legionary appears from, and headshot him before he can flee. That way, you aren't dodging his attacks while thwarting the War Beasts. Then, step back and tackle the four-legged fiends with your SMG and melee swipes; keep moving! You can flee the area by running directly ahead, but it's better to learn how to remove War Beasts as a threat and attack them with nimble maneuvers, then retreat to higher ground.

Bullet Spread and Precision Kills

By this point, you may have noticed that long-range shots with your SMG (both when manually aiming or aiming down the sights) result in much less accurate bullet strikes. This weapon suffers from bullet spread at longer ranges. The Range stat on each weapon implies a falloff point where optimal damage decreases the further you get from your target. Damage numbers can help you track the sweet spot where you're at maximum effective range before the value of the damage begins to go down. It's worth learning about this in the Field Manual chapter so you can figure out whether to employ weapons that enjoy more precise takedowns at longer range or greater damage at shorter ranges. The variety of weapons soon available also helps mitigate your current dilemma. It's also worth studying how to more effectively land Precision Kills (yellow damage indicators show a precision shot, and if one of these kills the target, this is recorded as a Precision Kill).

The rocky crag and gorge area you're descending to reach the perched falcon is a little more treacherous than you might be expecting. Ensure that you cross the fallen log via the middle of it, or you can slip and fall. It's also important to leap the gap from the lower of the two protruding rock ledges, or you won't make the jump. Remember that you don't currently have your Movement Mode! Once across, head to the sunlight, and make an attempt to leap another gap to reach the falcon's perch. This is always impossible, so you fail to the clearing at the base of the gorge.

You wake up at the end of your vision: Hawthorne and her pet falcon Louis (the bird you've been following) welcome you to their band of resistant refugees. You're given your first Power weapon (hold the swap button to equip it) and taken to the base of resistant operations in the European Dead Zone: the Farm.

Important Ally:

Suraya Hawthorne (and Louis)

"The name's Hawthorne. And this is Louis; the best pilot we've got!"

Hawthorne is an adept huntress and marksowman, with a keen sense of foraging and the land. She leads the resistance in the wilds of the EDZ from a ramshackle base of operations known as the Farm, where she is the Overseer. She dotes on her pet falcon named Louis.

The Farm

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE

Welcome to the Farm! It's worth spending a while exploring this base of operations in the EDZ, as you'll return here time after time as you improve the level of your Guardian and complete more Campaign Missions. Before continuing your Campaign, it is recommended that you complete any or all of the following:

Darbi 55-30 (Postmaster): When shipments of goods arrive, they are sorted at this open-air post office. Darbi 55-30 will be happy to provide you with items you acquire during missions that are rare or important enough to be saved, if you didn't pick them up. (This can occur if your inventory is full, you ignore or do not see the item, or the item falls into an area you can't reach.) Darbi 55-30 currently has nothing for you.

Tyra Karn (Archivist): This wise woman offers the decoding of engrams that you may have found during your explorations. She mentions the dangers in the vicinity when you talk to her. Return here once you need an engram deciphered, after which it is turned into an item and placed in your Character Menu (or Postmaster if your menu is full of that item type).

Hawthorne (Overseer): The Farm Overseer and her bird friend explain the finer points of clans, sell gear that is more protective than your current rags, and offer other services.

Vault: Note that the sunken fountain area between the Postmaster and Archivist has two vault stations where you can store items that you want to save or share with your other two characters, or that can't face dismantling. It's worth checking this out to learn how the vault works.

Remember, you can save your favorite weapons from a veteran character (and armor if your subsequent character is of the same class) and let a new character use them, which really helps during subsequent replays!

New Item or Information

When entities of interest have something new for you, their icon changes color to green.

Other Activities: Make sure you take time to thoroughly explore the Farm. There's more than just a soccer pitch to slide around in. Have you jogged atop the water wheel, for example?

Character Menu: Inspect your Character Menu to check the statistics of the three weapons you have accrued (including the new Power weapon). Note that the armor you are wearing is among the worst imaginable. It's up to you to complete missions (and other tasks) to increase your Glimmer total and gain Reputation with certain Vendors (like Hawthorne) so you can afford better gear.

Also, take the time to learn how your Armor, Agility, and Recovery are affected depending on what you wear. Finally, note that your Super ability is currently compromised; beginning the next Campaign Mission is a priority.

New Mission Available: Open your Director and click on Earth to launch Spark, the next mission.

Down on the Farm

The Director (Atlas) chapter of this guide has a full list of activities, vendors, and other advice when visiting this location, including future visitors to this place as your Campaign continues. Consult that chapter for further information.

Overview

Objectives: Go to the Shard.

Recommended Level: 1

Recommended Power: 10

All is not lost! Though your world is in shattered shards, this is the time to begin piecing them back together. Exploration of a ruined land begins by venturing deep into the forest near the Farm, drawn to a segment of the Traveler's might: a Shard of glowing power. Communing with it restores some of your previous Guardian prowess, enabling the most powerful of your attacks. Only then is it recommended that you explore further.

Make sure that you've explored the Farm, spoken to Hawthorne at her "perch" for the first time, checked out your rather ragged selection of armor, and studied the functional (but not fantastic) selection of weaponry you own. You are encouraged to complete this mission immediately. This is because you receive your Super ability at the end of this mission (as well as being able to use your Movement Mode).

A New Beginning

From this mission onward, and once your Super ability is acquired, your character starts to level up, can use ability points to purchase grenades, and can learn the finer points of different weaponry and armor as they collect or find interesting items. Complete this mission, and you have full control over your destiny!

1 Marauders' Grotto

Super: Not available

Grenades: Not available

Head down to the road and crouch to maneuver through the rusting barricade and into a murky and overgrown forest area. Leap the gap in the road; if you don't make it, climb back up and practice until you can accurately land jumps. Press on into a pitch-black tunnel. As Ghost illuminates your path, switch to your Power weapon when prompted. Since this is usually a shotgun, you can make short work of the troublesome Fallen just ahead and below.

Drop into the grotto with your shotgun fully loaded. As the Fallen Marauders scamper at you with their functional cloaking devices, pick out the blue shimmers and blast them before they get close. They can easily kill you with their knife-wielding melee attacks, so standing firm and shooting them across the grotto is a good plan. Keep aiming and fire between reloads so the last of the Marauders doesn't get to melee range.

You can strafe and use an SMG if you want, but this isn't as effective in this particular location. After the fight, climb the opposite side of the grotto, and follow the tunnel.

Abandoned Mine

Super: Not available

Grenades: Not available

The tunnel opens up into a mine cavern and you exit the remains of an old corrugated metal mine structure, now choked with brambles and undergrowth. Immediately ahead of you is a Loot Chest. It contains a new weapon and is one of the many different types of chests available if you know where to find them! You may receive a weapon from this chest that is the same type as one you are already carrying, so weapon comparing at this time is a good idea. Then, climb the steps to reach a rickety balcony overlooking the Dark Forest. In the distance is the Shard of the Traveler that you seek.

Comparing Weapons of the Same Type

At this point, it's wise to check your Character Menu and compare both weapons to determine which has better statistics. However, don't judge either weapon's effectiveness with a simple stat comparison—use both weapons in combat first! Remember that Energy weapons using Arc damage are more effective against shield energy shields, so use those as a priority when facing Fallen Captains. Match the weapons damage type to the energy shields damage type for optimal damage. It causes the shields to disappear, dealing heavy damage to the shielded unit and any other Combatants nearby. The shielded unit will also stagger, giving you an additional window to damage the combatant.

The Dark Forest: Crash Site

Super: Not available

Grenades: Not available

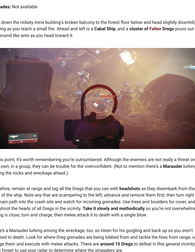
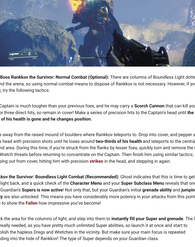
Drop down the rickety mine building's broken balcony to the forest floor below and head slightly downhill, slowing as you reach a small fire. Ahead and left is a Cabal Ship, and a cluster of Fallen Dregs pours out of the ground like ants as you head toward it.



At this point, it's worth remembering you're outnumbered. Although the enemies are not really a threat on their own, in a group, they can be trouble for the overconfident. (Not to mention there's a Marauder lurking among the rocks and wreckage ahead.)

Therefore, remain at range and lag all the Dregs that you can with headshots as they disembark from the front of the ship. Note any that are scampering to the left, advance and remove them first, then turn right to the main path into the crash site and watch for incoming grenades. Use trees and boulders for cover, and aim and shoot the heads of all Dregs in the vicinity. Take it slowly and methodically so you're not overwhelmed. If a Dreg is close, turn and charge, then melee attack it to death with a single blow.

There's a Marauder lurking among the wreckage, too, so listen for his gurgling and back up so you aren't subjected to death. Look for where Dreg grenades are being lobbed from and tackle the foes from range or charge them and execute with melee attacks. There are around 15 Dregs to defeat in this general vicinity. Don't forget to use your radar to determine where the stragglers are.



Continue deeper into the forest, making steady but cautious progress up a ravine with boulders on either side and Dregs on and around these boulders. Tackle them proficiently; you don't want to be struck from behind. This is especially true further along the ravine when you're attacked by a cluster of Wretches. Drop like Fallen with impressive close-combat stares. Slay back and let the eight Wretches come to you, aiming for their heads and dropping them way before they reach close-combat range. Then, continue around the corner, passing the glowing fung, toward a massive tree root.

Watch out for a Fallen Marauder's close-combat knife attacks. Strafe to avoid being struck by that, and back up as a couple of Dregs and Wretches add to the fracas. Remove the foes closest to you first, retreating back around the boulder corner if necessary. Then, select your favored Marauder-killing weapon and remove the cloak of this semi-transparent foe, and then head and remove this threat entirely. A charge and melee strike to finish is also optional and worthwhile if you're employing a clip and don't want to be caught reloading or changing weapons.

The Dark Forest: Shard Site

Super: Thoroughly recommended (when available)

Grenades: Any

Captains Battle: Head up the grassy gully, methodically dispatching the Dregs. Don't become transfixed by the massive glowing Shard with all you reach the Shard site itself, as the place is teeming with Fallen, including a couple of Captains. Make quick work of them, matching your Energy weapon to their shield type, and mop up any stragglers. When Ghost indicates it is time to get your hand and bring this threat entirely. A charge and melee strike to finish is also optional and worthwhile if you're employing a clip and don't want to be caught reloading or changing weapons.

Sub-Boss Rankkov the Survivor: Normal Combat (Optional): There are columns of Boundless Light dotted around the arena, so using normal combat means to dispose of Rankkov is not necessary. However, if you insist on the challenge:

The Captain is much tougher than your previous foes, and he may carry a Scorch Cannon that can kill you in two or three direct hits, so remain in cover! Make a series of precision hits to the Captain's head until the first third of his health is gone and he changes position.

Move away from the raised mound of boulders where Rankkov teleports to. Drop into cover, and pepper away at his head with precision shots until he loses around two-thirds of his health and teleports to the central ground area. During this time, if you're struck from the flanks by lesser foes, quickly turn and remove the Dreg and Wretch threats before returning to concentrate on the Captain. Then finish him using similar tactics; stepping out from cover, pouring him with precision strikes in the head, and stepping in again.

Rankkov the Survivor: Boundless Light Combat (Recommended): Ghost indicates that this time is to get your light back, and a quick check of the Character Menu and your Super Subclass Menu reveals that one of your Guardian's Supers is now active! Not only that, but your Guardian's initial grenade ability and jumping ability are also unlocked. This means you have considerably more potency in your attacks from this point on. Time to show the Fallen how impressive you've become!

Check the area for the columns of light, and step into them to instantly fill your Super and grenade. The latter isn't really needed, as you have pretty much unlimited Super abilities, so launch it at once and start to demolish the hapless Dregs and Wretches in the vicinity. But make sure your main focus is repeated pounding into the hide of Rankkov! The type of Super depends on your Guardian class.

Titans unlock the Sentinel Shield Super, the Magnetic Grenade, and the High Lift Jump from the Sentinel Titan Subclass.

Hunters unlock the Arc Staff Super, the Skip Grenade, and the High Jump from the Arcstrider Hunter Subclass.

Warlocks unlock the Daybreak Super, the Solar Grenade, and the Strafe Glide Jump from the Dawnblade Warlock Subclass.

Combat now becomes a maelstrom of Supers, directed into the holes of at least 40 Fallen that appear in waves. Dregs, Wretches, Marauders, and finally the Sub-Boss Captain Rankkov should all feel your wrath. This is the ideal time to perfect your Super: learn how to react both on the ground and in the air. Learn Super timing, and how to maximize the Super damage. Finally, when the Super of your choice (Sentinel Shield or Boundless Light) from that is scored and your Super is finished, you simply need to jump into another light column and start the Super again. You can patiently waste ammunition strafing at Fallen, or lobbing a grenade if you're low on health and nothing to another Column of Light, but culling 90 percent or more of the foes with your Super is the only way to competently complete this mission!

Even the toughened shield and hide of the Rankkov the Survivor cannot withstand your Super attack! Complete the mission, usually increasing your level to 2, which unlocks stronger gear, new abilities, and access to harder missions. The mission ends, and you're transported back to Orbit.

Gathering Resource Materials

Now that you're able to freely roam throughout the EDZ, it is worth learning the indigenous resource that grows in each of the four planet-like zones you'll be traveling to. Check the resources chapter for more information.

Additional Guardian Subclasses

Currently, you have only one of three possible Subclasses unlocked for your class: Hunter, or Warlock. Should you wish to unlock the other two Subclasses, the (optional) Strikes Mission Lost Sector 1 must be completed. Find information on this from Devrim Kay in the Tower.

Orbs of Light

During any battles you may have with other Guardians (including your mentors), your judicious use of your Super occasionally produced Orbs of Light. These are smaller, more common forms of the Traveler's Light (like the much rarer columns you were bathing in), and they partly refill your Super. Usually, these are by-products of a fellow Guardian when they use their Super. Orbs only spawn for other Guardians. The optimal strategy is for Immortals to take turns using their supers to feed each other orbs. You will only ever see and collect orbs from other players' Supers or orb-creating perks.

Activities to Attempt

At this point, you should head into the EDZ and find Devrim Kay at the church tower in Tower. Start a mass Freeform exploration investigating the following:

First Trip

Recommended Level: 4

Recommended Power: 40

Second Trip

Recommended Level: 15

Recommended Power: 150

The time has come to further improve your Guardian's exceptional and superior abilities. Once again, you are drawn to a Shard. But this segment of the Traveler's awesome power is hidden deep within the Dark Forest, amid reports of Fallen (or Taken) activity. Taking this trip requires a "key" of sorts: an Artifact that allows access into a previously unexplored zone. When you get to this zone, you'll understand why.

This unlocks the other two Subclasses of your Guardian (giving you access to two other Supers and associated Abilities). To access this mission, you must have acquired a strange Artifact: a randomly found item with the same name. After taking it, a black, diamond-shaped icon appears in your Abilities Menu, like the one indented at the start of this paragraph. You can undertake this mission now or in the future, depending on when you want to unlock the next Subclass of your Guardian.

Before you venture into the Salt Mines north of Trostland, it is also worth visiting Devrim Kay, one of the Haven Holdouts and a resistance fighter who guards the remains of the old church. You have both gear and Reputation to grant him.

1 Entering The Dark Forest

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

A strange power from the Artifact you've collected is drawing you toward the Dark Forest. Locate it by visiting the Sludge Sector of the EDZ and heading toward the northern side of this area, jumping up a narrow waterfall, through a narrow crevasse, and into a strange, grotto-like cavern with a glistening and shallow pond. A small island at the far end of this area has a Taken Portal. Step into it to transport yourself deeper into the forest.

2 Exploring The Dark Forest

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

You appear in a strange and ominous glade. Wander along the riverbank. You encounter an oddly ethereal statue of your Guardian Mentor (Zavala, Cayde-6, or Ikora). It tells you more about what you want to know. A second statue of your mentor is waiting to be discovered farther along the forest glade. Find a third statue of Lord Shaxx, and then a fourth of a Centurion. They too reveal secrets: the revelations of the Artifact and the possibilities you could gain by unlocking your Guardian's remaining two Subclasses.

Statue of Limitations

Depending on the Guardian class you are using, the statues that you encounter are different. You're unlocking one of your Striker, Hunter, or Warlock Subclasses, and only those of your Guardian.

3 Combat At The Lake

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

After finding the second Subclass statue, turn your attention to the arriving enemies.

First Trip: These are Fallen, a cluster of Dregs scurrying around in the shallow lake. Tackle them, along with a couple of Vandals (who can impede your progress with their nasty ranged rifle fire). Continue to fight more Dregs and two more Vandals, and expect Dregs with a Captain who employs an Arc Shield.

Second Trip: These are Taken, four Psions are blinking into existence in the shallow lake. Tackle them and a couple of Taken Vandals. The Vandals can conjure a dark dome of protection that you must run through to reach and attack them, as your ranged weaponry bounces off.

Tackle more Taken Psions, two more Taken Vandals, and then a cluster of Psions and a Taken Captain with a Solar Shield. Think of them as tougher versions of the Cabal and Fallen counterparts.

With the lake area cleared, a portal opens. Enter it.

Head out of an ancient railroad tunnel and along the forest floor, pausing to hear some words of wisdom from more statues on your way to another portal.

4 The Traveler's Shard

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

This portal transports you to a glade of twisted trees where the remains of a Dark Shard are present, its power has beckoned foes to the vicinity. This is where the action begins to get consistently dangerous.

First Trip: Approach a Captain with an Arc Shield flanked by two Shanks, and defeat them. Then, scour the trees around the lake for Vandals and additional Shanks to dispatch. Another Captain (Arc Shield) and Shanks arrive.

Second Trip: Approach a Taken Trap (a ball of writhing blackness), and shoot it. If you step too close (which is especially problematic because you can stumble into them while in combat), it can damage you. Either way, it explodes, and a small contingent of Taken emerges.

Expect to face a couple of Taken Captains at a time, a half-dozen Taken Psions, a quarter of Taken Vandals, and other clusters of these foe types. For this reason, clear each area methodically, and don't rush or run into another Taken Trap.

Defeat foes until the objective updates, enabling you to commune with the Traveler's Shard. Approach and interact with the Shard. You immediately acquire a new Subclass!

You also immediately acquire an influx of foes that must be quelled before you can escape this place.

First Trip: Vandals and Shanks (and periodically, a Heavy Shank) appear, but these are soon superseded by Servitors. The Servitors have a small cluster of foes they are linking to, giving the entire cluster invincibility (aside from the Servitor).

Expect around a dozen Servitors to appear, around two at a time, from different parts of the forest perimeter. Shoot the Servitors first, then take out the rest of the foes. The last Servitor is a Sub-Boss with more enemies surrounding it, though the tactics to defeat it are the same. When all Fallen are defeated, take the portal and escape this place, concluding the mission.

Second Trip: Taken Wizards (with Void shields) and Taken Goblins appear. These can be most dangerous because the Goblins tend to link to their Wizard masters. If you see them linked with green energy, shoot the Goblins, since the Wizards are more or less indestructible. Obviously, you should employ your new Super at every opportunity. Once you've culled around four or five groups of Wizards and Goblins, a portal opens up.

Second Trip: The action hasn't let up yet! There are around four groups of Taken (Goblins and Phalanxes) on the railroad tracks back toward the tunnel. All must be defeated; focus on the Goblins if they are linked to the Phalanxes, and sidestep the latter's shield blast or face serious damage. As ever, rush into the Columns of Boundless Light, replenish your Super and ground, and use both immediately. When you've defeated all foes, enter another portal.

Second Trip: The initial lake and forest glade is now teeming with Goblins protecting their Wizard masters. Produce your Void weapon when removing Wizard shields, and drop the Goblins protecting Wizards before turning your weapons on the Wizard itself. Better yet, use continuous Supers and grenades as you wade through five clusters of these foes.

New (and Familiar) Super Attacks

Though you can face your enemies with conventional weaponry, it is better to step into a Column of Boundless Light. These are scattered around the vicinity and instantly charge your (new) Super and Abilities. Use this to practice your new Super, and find additional columns as combat continues. Wipe out all incursions in this glade, ideally perfecting your new Super in the process! Veteran Guardians may remember utilizing the two unlockable Subclasses during their earlier Prometheus.

The last cluster involves around eight Taken Goblins all adding to the power of a Sub-Boss, a hardened Taken Wizard named Harsal, Venom of Oryx. He tends to summon Taken Thralls and also has reappearing Taken Goblins. Stay on higher ground, use Supers and grenades, and then continuously bombard the foes with regular weaponry as you head to the next light column. Once you've slaughtered his Goblin minions, ensure that he dies like the rest! When you've defeated all Taken, take the portal and escape this place, concluding the mission.

HOPE

Overview

Recommended Level: 4

Recommended Power: 50

This mission is the first exploration of the moon Titan, with its methane seas and lurching rig structures. You are here to secure the main shipyard's command center and rendezvous with Sloane, the Fleet Tactician of the resistance. After some precise and vertigo-inducing jumps, you face a revolting new enemy menace: the swarm-like Hive that are not only active on this planetoid, but have left their revolting secretions everywhere.

Sinking Docks

SEAS OF TITAN AND RESTRICTED ZONE

Objectives

- Secure shipyard command center.

Enemies Encountered

- Hive: Thrall, Acolyte, Knight

Falling Short

Your Guardian class makes the jumping a little more difficult or "precise," as does the jump type you might have chosen. If you're constantly (and literally) falling short, vary your timing between the first and second jumps while airborne. Titans have a slightly easier time of it, and Warlocks have the trickiest maneuvers; so if your Warlock is falling short, double-tap your jump button faster, for greater upwards boosting.

1 Initial Superstructure

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

The main order of business is to find and secure the shipyard's command center, located on one of the massive rig islands farther into this facility. You begin on the outer (western) edge and must accomplish some deft maneuvering first.

Begin by jumping to clear any gantry gaps you see, working from one large platform to the next. Watch as large containers slide into the stormy methane ocean en route to some narrow platforms on the gigantic pillings of the superstructure. Careful landing and Movement Mode activation is required so you don't fall into the frothing seas. Once inside the red vertical piling tower, shoot the secretions coating the entrance and exit as you ascend to an upper red pipe and more precarious gantry jumping. Finally, leap across to the interior entrance marked "Kemphaan" in giant lettering, and enter.

2 Kemphaan Rig (Restricted Zone)

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Optional

Warning!: Restricted Zone

The walls of this massive rig are coated in disgusting secretions, and it isn't long until you witness the revolting entities responsible. Your presence wakes around eight Hive Thralls. Back up, shooting them in the head before they maul you, and use melee attacks with quick maneuvers so you aren't swarmed. The next chamber has another eight or so Thralls.

Feel free to back up into the previous chamber to avoid getting mauled, and use melee attacks after emptying a clip of ammo to finish off these foes. Then, reload afterward. With the coast clear, turn right at the entrance right of the large pipes labeled "1, 2, 3." This leads to a farther storage chamber with a final cluster of Thralls. Deal with them in the same manner as before. Then, exit the rig onto another highly precarious (and partly broken) gantry platform.

3 Poelruiter Rig

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Leap across the gaps in the gantry platform and into the side entrance of the "Poelruiter" rig. At the doorway near the sign for "Bay 3," you must begin a sweep of Hive Acolytes; around eight are lurking in the two-level chamber beyond. You can elect to slowly tackle foes from the doorway with well-aimed gunfire down your sights, or leap onto the upper area of turquoise metal flooring and use more aggressive tactics. A well-aimed grenade also works to clear the area out. Acolytes don't respond well to being shot in the head, so make that the target of choice for dispatching them.

Step into the cylindrical vent chamber with the large floor fan, and drop down.

Acolyte Learning and Burning

Hive Acolytes are the most numerous of enemies that fire weapons (compared to the Thrall foes that just charge and claw at you). Acolytes have no real protection aside from their bony hides, so concentrate your fire at their craniums, and dodge or seek cover to avoid their gunfire. They go down after two melee attacks, so you may want to soften them up with gunfire first. However, be aware that some Acolytes have learned a highly damaging flame grenade ability that can set you ablaze if you're caught in the pool of fire they conjure (although this is rarely seen).

Drop down onto the red-colored metal cargo platform. Thralls are active in the vicinity, and more appear the longer you wait around here. Feel free to take your time if you want to accrue more kills.

Your main task is to defeat the trio of Acolytes on the lower platform, then drop another four or five on the gantry steps ahead and left of your initial landing position. Then, ascend a vertigo-inducing set of gantry steps that would definitely fail a safety inspection, and go up into a circular doorway.

4 Super: Recommended / Grenades: Recommended

Enter a corridor, peering through a gap between walls to see a strange green fire in the mid-distance, an indication that a Hive Knight is present. You can rush up the small steps to the left, lob in a grenade, and wound the cluster of Thralls, the Knight, and Acolytes. You could also storm in using your Super, or shoot a sitting Thrall from the entrance and coax the Thralls to charge you, dispatching them all relatively easily before heading up and into the main chamber where the Knight resides.

The Knight should be your priority. After reading up on this foe's tactical strengths and weaknesses in this guide's Bestiary, you know to strike the head and wait for the shield to dissipate.

Then, you remove the small amount of health they gain and the rest of the foe's constitution until they are dispatched into the ether. Seek cover for the Knight's Boomer weapon, which has a wide-spreading number of projectiles, none of which is particularly pleasant to be hit by.

Head farther into the upper cargo bay, now illuminated by a sickly yellow glow from a nest-like secretion in the main bay itself. Deal with Acolytes on the raised platform, then turn your attention to the Knight by the Hive "nest." If he's heading your way, make him a priority. However, if he's staying on the far side of the "nest," tackle the Acolytes first. Use the large pillars (one in the raised area) for cover. There's little need to charge in unless your Super demands it.

With all foes vanquished, head to the right of the window onto a precarious covered tube gantry that links the Sinking Docks to Siren's Watch, and proceed to the main rig itself.

HOPE
Siren's Watch

SEAS OF TITAN

Enemies Encountered

- Hive: Thralls, Acolytes, Knights
- Sub-Boss (Knight): Ubara, Hive Prince

Objectives

- Secure shipyard command center (continued).
- Destroy Hive spawn pods.
- Secure shipyard command center (continued).
- Rendezvous with Zavala.

Important Allies

- Sloane

6 Main Cargo Bay (Exterior)

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Surprisingly, your first action as you step onto the rig isn't mowing down Hive deviants. Instead, it's acquiring a grenade launcher. Open the door, and there's little time to be bewildered by the sheer size of the Base structure. A cluster of enough eight Thralls is streaming down the exterior gantry steps ahead and left of you. A quick and single grenade strike can defeat them. But if you're not that fast, just back up into the chamber you came from and tag them as they charge, before they arrive at your door.

Grenade Launcher: Worth a Punt?

This Power weapon is obviously adept at badly wounding groups of foes if you can accurately aim it. Use the same technique you adopted when throwing grenades: aim the projectile at where you think an enemy will be when it lands and explodes, rather than where they are currently. Don't forget to try it out in the forthcoming battles. Grenade Launcher projectiles also inflict good impact damage.

After learning how to plant a grenade right at your enemy's feet, start to practice direct hits. The combination of a grenade impact and the ensuing explosion is the highest damage output for this weapon.

Keep in mind different Grenade Launchers have different projectile speeds and blast radii (as shown in the weapon stats), so your intuition may need to be adjusted as you try different GLs and settle on the one you like best.

Take a moment to check the vicinity. You see a large open platform to your left, stairs and gantries ahead and left, and the main Hive forces directly ahead of you, between the two giant metal structures. This is where you should head; you can investigate the side walkway, but the enemies on Siren's

Watch still require you to defeat them. Your assault on the main thoroughfare may begin with more Thralls, followed by a battle against around eight Acolytes and two Knights. The Knights arrive one at a time unless you're charging the area in a foolhardy move begging for you to be overrun. When Ghost recommends scoping out the rest of the area, find the open door leading to an interior "nest" chamber filled with revolting Hive sacs. This is across from a small Comm Tower building with "02" on the side of it. Use that and the pallet of loose luggage at the foot of it as landmarks.

The Side Walkway Sidestep

The side walkway offers a more compact area of pipes and metal stairs that lead to a couple of Loot Chests. Check the Activities chapter for detailed analysis of the many side thoroughfares and chambers of Siren's Watch. You can also reach the main spawn pod chamber via a second entrance from here, which offers less of an overall view into the chamber compared to the main route.

Loot Chests and Scannable Objects

You may want to spend some additional time searching gantries, smaller offices, bunker rooms, and other facility areas off the beaten path for Loot Chests and scannable objects. However, it's better to seek these out once you return here after the mission is complete, so you can hunt down these collectibles at your leisure.

6 Spawn Pod Chamber

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Regardless of which lower entrance you entered this chamber from, the plan is still the same: Sloane wants you to destroy the revolting, giant yellow egg sacs dotted around the chamber. There is also a large contingent of Hive to worry about, with Thralls on the lower level, around eight Acolytes on the stairs, and one or two Knights on the upper platform and exit. You have several options here:

Produce your grenade launcher and lay waste to most of the foes in this chamber from the entrance door. Follow up with precise ranged-fire bursts at the stragglers and sacs. Then, slowly and methodically clear the lower ground, climbing the interior steps when few threats remain, and clear the area competently.

Use a different Power weapon, such as the shotgun, to inflict large close-combat damage as quickly as possible. However, this weapon should be focused on enemies (not the sacs) due to its limited ammunition. The shotgun offers impressive damage, but this plan is a little more dangerous.

Standing outside and tagging the sacs, then delivering more gunfire and melee attacks to any foe heading to intercept you is another great idea. You can out-maneuver enemy attacks by backing up or strafing in the exterior area rather than being constricted inside the nest pod chamber.

Grenades are also an option, but using them on clusters of foes makes more sense than wasting them on the sacs, which don't fight back! Your Super is also a viable option, though you may want to save it for the next chamber beyond this one because there are additional foes to face. Still, it's worth considering if you're having trouble clearing the room.

7 Computer Room

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Ascend the spawn pod chamber, cross a short connecting tube tunnel, and turn left as you enter a computer room with a large window. Ignore the view and concentrate on demolishing the Hive forces here. Start with the nearby Acolytes before defeating the Knight. This is a good spot for a grenade if you want a quick clear-out. The action continues outside up a ramped cargo bay with a Knight and around six Acolytes, which leads around to the main spawn pod chamber doorway. You've completed a circuit and removed considerable Hive forces along the way.

8 Command Center Climb

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Now that you're back at the Comm Tower 02 exterior, head to the pallet of luggage and use it as cover, firing at Acolytes along the way. Look ahead with the spawn pod chamber door to your left. The command center is above and right of you, where additional Acolytes are appearing from. Make slow and steady progress up the metal steps to the low roof attached to the Comm Tower 02, and hide behind the AC units as you clear this metal flat roof of foes.

Leap the gap to the upper metal steps left of the two large light orange pipes. They lead up to an open roof platform with a large square-shaped hole leading down to the initial thoroughfare you traversed before you entered the spawn pod chamber. On this roof is the last major battle you'll face, with an initial eight Acolytes and a Knight to defeat. Use the cover opportunities and force yourself up to this roof platform; attacking from below limits your opportunities for takedowns. When this first wave of foes subsides, another eight Acolytes and the Sub-Boss Ubara, Hive Prince (Knight) arrive!

Sub-Boss: This battle is violent but relatively straightforward as long as you're spatially aware of how you can reach this upper roof platform. (You can also use the stairs on the opposite side near the entrance you first came from, where the Thralls charged down from.) The main fracas occurs in the area around the square-shaped platform hole. Just cover either side of it. As Ubara, Hive Prince arrives, sprint to the raised section of roof and clear it of a few Acolytes so you have a slight height advantage. If you have a Super, use it. If you have a grenade, throw it (ideally at the Sub-Boss). Otherwise, make nearby Acolytes your first target, then Ubara, who takes about three times as much damage compared to a regular Knight before he falls.

With the battle over, go to the command center door, open it using Ghost, and head through to a gantry way and a meeting with Zavala himself. The mission concludes, and you can now meet and greet Sloane in person.

Activities to Attempt

You now have permanent access to a Landing Zone, as well as Adventures and an additional Combined Mission on Titan. Remember to gather tokens to raise your Reputation with Sloane so you can obtain her gear. She also sells some gear of interest, if you can afford it.

Important Ally:
Sloane

"Ah. It's a ball of a view, isn't it?"

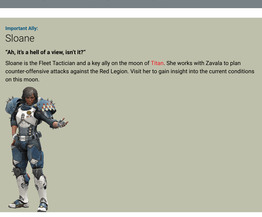
Sloane is the Fleet Tactician and a key ally on the moon of Titan. She works with Zavala to plan counter-offensive attacks against the Red Legion. Visit her to gain insight into the current conditions on this moon.



DESTINY 2

COMBUSTION

Overview

Recommended Level: 3

Recommended Power: 30

With at least one of your Super abilities available, you can begin the long journey of rebuilding your Guardian's prowess. The first stop is the ruins of an old town in the European Dead Zone. A derelict mine is teeming with Fallen, and Hawthorne needs a signal booster. Before you venture into the Salt Mines north of Trostland, it is worth visiting Devrim Kay, one of the Haven Holdouts and a resistance fighter who guards the remains of the old church. You have both gear and Reputation to grant him. He also orders you to that you attempt your first Adventure in the vicinity, if you've not done so already.

COMBUSTION

Salt Mines (1st Mission)

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Fallen: Dregs, Captains, Vandals, Wretches

Important Allies

- Devrim Kay

Objectives

- Enter the mine.
- Rendezvous with Hawthorne.
- Defeat the Fallen.
- Call the elevator.
- Find another elevator.

New Actions to Learn

- Detonating Explosive Barrels

1 North Trostland Salt Mine Entrance

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Optional

You begin your assault into the Salt Mines at the church in Trostland, with a group of Fallen guarding the entrance. It's a straightforward matter of removing the cluster of Dregs, whittling down the Captain's Arc Shield and taking him down before the shield recharges, and then tackling the couple of Vandals and Dregs in the rubble of the structures to the right of the entrance. You are doing some close-quarters fighting, so have your melee attack ready to back up your weapon of choice.

Here come the Vandals. Treat them as slightly hardier Dregs: aim at their heads and dodge the incoming projectiles from their Shock Rifles. These rifles have a slower firing cadence than a Dreg's shock pistol and can be fired farther. Rushing forward with melee strikes works, as well.

You could rush along the right side of the floor, leaping over a pipe and hiding behind the rusty truck cab, but three Vandals on the gantry to your left can easily locate you. You can perfect the technique of sprinting around the objects the Dregs are hiding behind and melee striking them into submission. Then, move onto the gantry to clear the Vandal snipers and any remaining stragglers.

Or, you can stay on the left gantry and systematically remove Vandals and Dregs from the gantry itself. Advance into the hut and around to lob a grenade down on the Dregs below before tagging them easily from the protruding gantry. You can also try moving in the air and firing down on Dregs as you land. There's also a red barrel with a flashing diode on it; this is explosive and can be detonated if you shoot it. This causes commotion, alerts foes, and may not catch Dregs if you don't hit it quickly enough. Still, these are worth shooting later into this mission. Just don't stand near one when it explodes, as it can hurt!

After calling the elevator, you surmise that it is definitely out of order. Open the large rusting tunnel grating, and continue deeper into the mine.

2 Salzwerk Mine Outer Depot

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Optional

Wind your way into the mine depot, listening to Hawthorne as you go. This objective is quickly changed to a new one, as you must clear the area between the imposing "Salzwerk" mine entrance and the elevator shaft. Follow the Dregs in, looking up so you aren't surprised by a Wretch ambushing you from the ceiling. Melee or headshot him before entering the depot interior.

Enter the depot, which has two main routes through to the elevator. The first route is taking the dilapidated metal stairs on your left, leading to a rusty gantry and box-shaped structure ahead of you. Choose this if you enjoy removing foes from height and the advantage that gives you. The other path is walking the main floor of the mine itself, there are four initial Dregs darting from crates on both sides, and a Vandal sniper at the far end. Charge in, and expect to be overwhelmed. Instead, stay back and pick off the foes you can see before moving forward (using either route).

3 Salzwerk Mine: Inner Yard

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Head down the tunnel, entering (via the opening on the left) a large inner yard with a lower roof than the previous chamber. It hosts a cluster of Dregs with a Captain on the far platform. Lob a grenade or shoot the explosive barrel by the Captain to wake everyone up before rushing along the left wall and onto the platform, finishing the Captain before his shields recharge. Swift executions are advisable.

Or, you can creep along the left side, executing the Dregs and Vandals as you go, backing up if the foes become too numerous, and leaving the Captain for last. Watch for two Wretches coming in from the chamber exit; they sneak in and around the darkened areas on the far side of the chamber. These hostiles can impede your progress if you're overrun while on the rusting platform.

Alternately, you can use your weapon's sights and tag each Dreg and Vandal from the entrance to the inner yard, slowly working your way around the left side and onto the rusting platform. Dispatch all foes from range, including the Captain, and tackle the two Wretches as they run in from the broken gantry bridge in the Restricted Zone ahead of you.

COMBUSTION

Salt Mines (2nd Mission)

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Fallen: Shanks, Dregs, Vandals

Objectives

- Find another elevator (continued).

New Actions to Learn

- Investigating Objects (Scannable)
- Long-range Power Weapons
- Disarming Laser Traps

4 Sinkhole

Super: Not recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Grenades: Not recommended

Head through the exit to a broken gantry over a lower mine tunnel. Before you drop down, leap across the gantry gap to an upper ledge where there's an old computer terminal (scannable object). Investigate it to receive some information, and then drop down. Follow the open tunnel until the ceiling lowers enough for you to crouch, and slide into a tight connecting chamber. The remains of a resistance fighter lie at the exit into a huge sinkhole with light from above. Before you peer down the massive hole, grab the Sniper Rifle.

Scannable Objects

This is one of more than 100 scannable objects you can optionally investigate, which are dotted across all the four main worlds. Have you found them all? The Director chapter of this guide offers hints at where they are. Don't worry; you can go back and find all of them after a mission is finished.

Step to the edge of the massive hole and peer over; deal with a trio of Shanks first. These Fallen robots shoot moderately damaging turrets and are more of a pest than a real threat. However, they are of priority concern now and should be defeated using sight-aimed gunfire.

Step back from the edge so you aren't peppered with small-arms fire from the couple of Vandals and Dregs on the lower ledges surrounding the hole deep below you. Only step to the edge once you've destroyed the first three Shanks. You have a couple of seconds to lob down a grenade, try extreme-range takedowns with your Kinetic or Energy weapons, or bring out the Sniper Rifle and tag these foes with headshots. Switch (and step) back a few seconds later as six more Shanks appear. Expect a couple more Dregs on the lower ledges, too.

You could also drop down and engage the foes with a shotgun at closer quarters, though the Shanks become more of a problem once you give them the height advantage.

Feel free to perfect the slowing of your fall with a Movement Mode activation before you reach the ground after dropping off the upper ledge. The timing of this depends on your Guardian class.

Head deeper into the sinkhole into a pitch-black, steep tunnel with five Shanks at the entrance and five assorted Fallen (Vandals and Dregs) at the far end. Once you've dealt with the Shanks, it's worth tagging the other hostiles from range if you can. Soften the lower foes up with a grenade (if available), and then descend and melee attack any that remain. With the area secured, enter the door marked with a "Vorsicht" sign ("Attention" in German).

5 Laser Trap Tunnel

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Although the rusting metal doors are swung wide open, the tunnel ahead is less than welcoming, with more than a dozen laser traps for you to contend with. These are easily neutralized, but being caught in the explosion after you fire at the explosive end of the laser can kill you. Step back from the door, and fire at the first laser (lower-right side).

Step through into the main tunnel with a mesh of lasers. Look up and left and shoot one laser, then a second on the limestone ground ahead and left, detonating the first cluster of lasers (ideally, without you being nearby). Then, advance.

When you reach the area shown in the previous picture, you can't aim at the closest laser trap from your current angle. Stay back and aim at the traps beyond the first one; detonate the one on the ceiling, then two on the rubble, and then skirt to the left of the rusting storage shelving. Look back, and you can now spot the laser, either destroying or ignoring it. Head farther up the tunnel so you aren't caught by the explosion.

COMBUSTION
Salt Mines (3rd Mission)

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Fallen: Vandals, Dregs, Wretches, Servitors, Boss: Leech Servitor, Shanks

Objectives

- Call the elevator.
- Restore power.

6 Main Quarry

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

The previous laser trap tunnel wasn't a Restricted Zone. However, as darkness clouds your vision, know that you're in for some trouble as you advance down a high-ceiling main quarry, splashing through some shallow water to reach and call the elevator. The power is out. But the Fallen are most definitely in!

This quarry has a central lower ground area and three equidistant side slopes, two on one side and one in the middle on the other. Though you can dash around, taking up cover and using jumps to reach enemies you want to slay before scurrying back to replenish your health and gather dropped ammo, there's a slightly safer and more methodical approach.

Forewarned and Forearmed

Be ready for a protracted battle. Before you call the elevator, you should check the entire chamber for hiding places, gantry platforms, explosive barrels (clustered near the elevator), and sniping positions. Also, check your Character Menu before tooling up with your favored weapons for tackling the Fallen and the giant globe-like Servitors that are the major problems you face.

Start by heading up the slope just to the side of the powered-down elevator. From here, you can spot a Vandal and Servitor appearing across the quarry chamber at Location 8, and drop them with accurate sniper rifle fire (if you're quick). But don't worry too much about them at the moment. Instead, back up, using the blocks of stone and height as cover, and shoot at the Dregs and Vandals below you in the waterlogged main area. Tag any of the strewn red explosive barrels to soften them up. If a grenade comes flying at you, sidestep it and shoot the Dreg responsible. Stay in and around this slope, and engage the first Servitor as soon as possible.

These giant floating globe-like drones aren't particularly adept at delivering killing blows, but they can provide immunity to Vandals and Dregs that are near them. When your first Servitor floats in, make it a priority target. Destroy it quickly, perhaps with a grenade (as you're close enough for it to be effective) before finishing the infantry it was protecting. Remain in the side slope vicinity, whittling down the enemy Dregs and Vandals. Soften up Vandals and then melee attack them if they're close. You may discover groups of Dregs and Vandals on the platform between here and Side Slope 6, but don't worry about them now (unless you can lob a grenade to wound multiple foes).

When there are little to no threats near the elevator, sprint over to the middle slope where the Servitor and possibly two or three Vandals are. Maneuver all the way to the platform at the top so you have the cover to hide from this enemy fire. You can now demolish the Vandals, the Servitor, and any foes on the platform diagonally across from you on the opposite side of the main thoroughfare. Stay in this excellent cover until little or no threats present themselves. Then, scoot over to the third side slope.

When half of the quarry area is more or less devoid of Fallen, move across to the entrance area where you entered. Make short work of the eight or so Dregs before turning your attention to the Servitor on the last side slope. Ensure that this is your final foe. If you charge up to the very top of the slope, the Servitor moves down, allowing you to shoot it in its "eye" easily and quickly. Use the blocks of stone and corner of the gantry area as cover.

Servitor Takedown Tactics

No matter what their size, Servitors are tackled as a priority because they can safeguard other Fallen forces with an electrical arc of protection. Combat this by aiming at their central eyes, dodging the bolts of energy they fire from this location.

End Combat Boss: The reason for defeating all of the Fallen infantry before both Servitors becomes clear. As soon as the last Servitor explodes (whether or not there are other enemies to face), a massive Leech Servitor appears, with even more damaging eye attacks and the usual ability to "nourish" the remaining enemies. These are Shanks and (later) the more dangerous Resilient Shanks (toughened variants), as well as any Vandals and Dregs you may have mistakenly left alive before destroying both Servitors.

Remain in and around Side Slope Location 9 as the Leech Servitor appears at the far end. Concentrate on shooting its central eye with your favored ranged weapon (a Sniper Rifle is ideal), switching quickly to remove Shank threats that get too close. Be patient and whittle down the Leech Servitor. It has a massive constitution, and the longer you leave it alive, the more Shanks there are to cause trouble. Focus on the Leech Servitor, damaging Shanks only if they encroach on you or you need more ammunition (which they drop). Continue the bombardment until the Leech Servitor finally yields. Then, mop up any remaining Shanks.

With the Fallen forces defeated, the power to the elevator is restored now the Servitors aren't disrupting the electrical circuits. Simply enter the open elevator, and ride it up. Along the way, expect additional Fallen to arrive. These optional targets are a good way to hone your long-range headshots as you pass by gantries and chambers with Dregs and Vandals. Any Shanks at close quarters are a priority, as they can harm you more easily. Don't ignore these enemies, either; they could drop an item you need, although you'd have to visit the Postmaster to obtain it.

The elevator arrives atop the mine, allowing access to an exterior area. Head down the grassy cliff path to finally rendezvous with Hawthorne and conclude this mission.

RIPTIDE

Overview

Recommended Level: 4

Recommended Power: 50

You may have pushed back the Hive threat somewhat, but the shipyard of Titan is still without power. Fortunately, there is a massive generator rig out in the southern reaches of this base, with a series of huge energy converters that can turn the raging methane seas into all the power Sloane will need. Naturally, the Hive's disgusting secretions have compromised the converters. You're here to attempt the clean-up operation.

RIPTIDE

The Rig

SEAS OF TITAN

Enemies Encountered

- Fallen: Vandals, Dregs
- Hive: Acolytes, Shrieker, Knights

Objectives

- Restore shipyard power.

1 Shrieker Bridge

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

You begin your mission at Siren's Watch, and it's a simple drop and sprint down to the two connecting towers (01 and 02) that link Siren's Watch to the Rig.

Once you're exploring this new area on Titan, edge forward to witness a pitched battle between Fallen and Hive forces. Acolytes are engaged against Dregs and Vandals. You can watch this, but there are no sides to take; both enemy groups will turn on you. Remove the closer Acolytes first, use the crate to hide behind, and then drop the Fallen foes before moving along a ledge with a view of a bridge ahead and left.

This bridge is being assaulted by Fallen, but the large floating sentry known as a Shrieker with its incredible rate of void projectiles is laying waste to them. Add to the Fallen's troubles by tackling the Vandals and Dregs on the near side of the bridge, clearing the area so you can focus on the Shrieker yourself. You can choose from several tactics:

Patiently sidestep out from the cover afforded by the bridge pillar with a weapon aimed at the Shrieker's central "core" (its precision hit spot), then step quickly back again before the Shrieker's bombardment of orb-like bolts strikes and kills you. Repeat until one of you is dead.

Shoot the Shrieker from distance using a sniper rifle, prior to arriving at the bridge. The crate the Acolytes were fighting from when you first encountered enemies is a good cover spot. A sticky grenade (which only certain Guardians can spend ability points on to choose) is worth lobbing if you can get it to hit the Shrieker itself. Even if you miss, the grenade can damage the Acolytes and Knight you need to pummel next.

A Super is also an option, though Supers that mainly deal damage at ground level aren't as potent as attacks from the skies, for obvious reasons (the Shrieker is stationary but airborne). This makes short work of the Hive ground forces, however.

With the Shrieker neutralized, optionally turn 180 degrees around and explore the darkened room behind the bridge (for a scannable item or two) before crossing the bridge. The six or so Acolytes and Knight shouldn't be a problem, as you have good line of sight for ranged headshots and cover across the bridge if you want to tackle them at closer quarters. A grenade is a good way to soften them up. Then, enter the huge rig building with the sunburst logo above the bridge, go into the dark cargo ramp room, and take a left, heading up through the secretion-filled side gantry corridor.

Holliday needs an advanced CPU to decrypt Red Legion intel that the Resistance has gathered. This Golden Age Arcology must have one still working. Time to head to the Festering Halls. This Sector is particularly difficult to navigate, as the Hive have left their mark (and their minions) everywhere. Expect a number of dangerous battles until you reach a series of shafts and duct passages that requires fewer weapon rounds to expend and more precise jumps, falls, and scampering to get through. Once you've located and retrieved the CPU, you must escape, ideally using an APC and a series of ramming maneuvers. Before that happens, though, the Festering Halls await.

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Head across the remains of a large bridge linking the Rig to Solarium, then up the steps to the dark gantry platforms enabling access into the Festering Halls. Along the way, battle back some Dregs, Vandals, and a troublesome Servitor (a priority target because it can keep Vandals immune from your attacks). Watch for two Dregs leaping from a lower platform just before you step to the right and demolish a Servitor close to a malfunctioning LED wall. Shoot through the LED panels to create a Guardian-sized hole, and then step into the main forecourt.

The plaza is expansive and overgrown, and the access terminal you are tasked with finding is ahead and right of your insertion point. A quick Ghost scan reveals the route: proceed through the empty and curved white corridors, passing through a turnstile and into the Festering Halls.

Festering Halls Forecourts And Lobby

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Warning! Restricted Zone

At the screened terminal by the oval-shaped door, plug in Ghost, and wait for the entrance to slide open. Drop down into the dark and sunken inner forecourt, with evidence of Hive mold building in the vicinity. Don't venture up the wide set of steps that opens the entrance until you've dealt with around a dozen Thralls that charge you. Stay mobile, and back up while blasting their heads.

The four Acolytes that subsequently appear (and a Knight) are easily dealt with if you're not dodging Thralls trying to maul you. One of the Acolytes is a toughened Revenant Acolyte variant and should be a priority target, along with the Knight. It does not teleport with a teleport nor has it's own lane like its lesser brethren.

If you're concerned about giving the enemy the advantage of attacking from the top of the steps, rush the far-left side until you're at the same level. Use the pillar as cover before mowing down your foes. Strafing and accurate headshots easily deliver killing blows to the Hive, no matter where you are.

One of the Acolytes may have retreated into a darkened adjacent lobby. Don't follow it in until you've neutralized previous foes, as this lobby area has two additional Acolytes and a Wizard. Solar Energy weapon at the ready, concentrate your firepower on the Wizard first. Circle-strafe around the central pillar for cover, and remove the Wizard as a threat before the Acolytes fall to your hands (or guns).

The only way is down! Dropping through the floor the Hive have eaten away at to a lower corridor with a Knight at the far end. Venture too far, and you reach a corridor filled with an orange glow. A half-dozen Thralls are charging your way and a Shrieker is ready to rake you with multiple void projectiles, along with another four to six Thralls. Step back, and tackle each foe type one at a time. Drop the Knight before reaching the start of the orange corridor. Then, step back and shoot the Thralls before they reach you. This only leaves the Shrieker.

Main Hall

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning! Restricted Zone

Turn right at the location of the deceased Shrieker, and look down. Below is a main hall, now covered in grotesque Hive nesting materials. Before you descend down there, drop the four Acolytes. Then, watch for a couple of Cursed Thralls. When you reach the slight hump in the middle of the hall, look to the right and catch them before they explode at your feet. Around four more Acolytes are milling around their nests, with a ramp on the right leading to a raised corridor where three Knights reside.

You can use the revolting secretion scenery to hide behind, taking long-range headshot opportunities at the Acolytes and Knights as they present themselves. Check left and right to ensure no foes are incoming on your flanks. The biggest problem is the barrage of projectiles from the Knights' weaponry, which can badly wound you in seconds. It's a good idea to charge up the right ramp onto the raised corridor with a pillar for cover, and start left and right while targeting headshots on the remaining foes from mid to closer ranges. Or, lay waste to everyone using your Super. You may want to keep your Super handy for the next fight, however!

Main Hall Sub-Boss

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Warning! Restricted Zone

Sub-Boss: Take a moment before dropping down from the raised corridor where you fought the Knights. There's a particularly ferocious foe you may not have encountered before, a named Sub-Boss Ogre, Garmurg! Though its powerful close-combat ground slam can seriously damage you, the massive beam of energy from its almost-continuous eye blast can kill you in a couple of seconds. This foe is also joined by around four to six Thralls, making combat even trickier.

However, if you sidestep left around the main [gigantic] pillar and quickly deal with the Thralls, you can use this vertical cover, sidestepping out to shoot Garmurg in the "head" before seeking cover to replenish the damage you took. There are near free hits as the Ogre climbs out of its hole. Keep circling the pillar and attempting direct and strong hits on the head until the Ogre falls, or just flee the chamber and drop into the shaft ahead. This is feasible without needing to use your Super, although that's also a good idea.

Festering Halls Descent (To Core Chamber)

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

After the Ogre, peer down the shaft it climbed up from, then leap to the far wall, dropping down and use your Movement Mode just before you land on the narrow platform at the door entrance below. Head down the connecting corridor to another shaft and execute the same jump, boosting just before you land on another tiny platform at a doorway. Traverse another short corridor to a third shaft. This one has a low railing and a blinking light illuminating a narrow ledge opposite the entrance. Carefully step to the lit ledge, turn around, look down, and fall off, using your Movement Mode to land carefully on the orange-lit ledge and lowest doorway.

Enter a maintenance corridor with evidence of Hive activity. Shoot the secretion preventing you from descending down, then drop into a sloped maintenance corridor. Shoot or melee the grating at the far end, then maneuver into a long duct. Ready yourself for a couple of Thralls when the lighting turns from orange to grayish-blue. Continue down the corridor, drop down again, and proceed a second time to a dark and waterlogged canal-like corridor with more Thralls and a Hive opening to your left.

Melee strike the secretions and follow the narrow Hive tunnel that opens to another maintenance duct, allowing you to drop down and shuffle toward a blue light. Drop down yet again (crouching and sliding is necessary) to a pipe duct leading to an open floor grating.

Drop through the floor grating, and land in the Festering Halls core chamber. A bottomless chasm surrounds you, so carefully maneuver to the quantic core repository, then gather it up. Hive forces are woken at this point, and because you need both hands to carry the core, you have little choice but to depart through the circular doorway. Time to escape!

Festering Halls Escape

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Vehicle Available: Construction APC

Warning! Restricted Zone

Dash up the stairs away from the Acolytes, and access one of the parked APCs. Your escape is now much less fraught but just as entertaining. The APC has no offensive capabilities in terms of weaponry, just good old-fashioned ramming and crashing! Keep an eye on the damage your vehicle is taking (at the top of your HUD), and accelerate hard. Crash through the Hive columns blocking your path, and drive into a massive cavern. This is one of many Hive tunnels that you must traverse, so simply run over the foes and keep your momentum going. You don't want to stop to try to kill everything, as that heightens the chance that your APC will take catastrophic damage.

Instead, press forward, hitting Acolytes, Knights, Thralls, and Cursed Thralls with the front of your vehicle, along with any nests you don't want to avoid. Of the foes attempting to slow you, the damage from the Cursed Thrall's explosion can be of moderate concern, so avoid it, swerving into as few Cursed Thralls as possible. Head through tunnels, across a bridge, and into a hallway knocking down Cursed Thralls. The main hall also holds a Shrieker, which is only a concern if you're crazy enough to get out of your vehicle to mop up stragglers by hand. Then, it's back into a Hive tunnel before finally exiting to an elevated roadway, where Amanda Holliday arrives to extricate you just in time.

On Foot Antics

Can you escape on foot? No, you need the APC to break through the Hive column tunnel entrances and survive the dozens of foes in the vicinity. Can you get out of your vehicle in each area and start slaying everything on foot? Yes, but you're easily overwhelmed, although those seeking a real challenge could try this plan. Once your Super is spent, the sheer number of enemies becomes a problem, so take extra time when clearing each tunnel section. Or just use the APC.

Overview

Recommended Level: 7

Recommended Power: 80

You arrive on Nessus and you must complete a few tasks, courtesy of a failsafe device with possible knowledge of Cayde-6's whereabouts. Nessus is teeming with life, but unfortunately, these are robotic, fluid-loving killing machines known as the Vex. You must battle through the exotic and strange chambers heading deeper into the heart of Nessus. The constantly teleporting Cayde has some words of encouragement for you, just before a Hapax, the Convergent Mind hovers into view.

Grenades: Not recommended

Drop down the energy chute, or take your life in your hands and leap off the top of the tower and boost jump just before you land. Follow the signal to the rocks, then right and up the ravine with the bottomless chasm to your right, making your way to the wrecked ship. Climb onto the hull of the craft and have Ghost interface with a terminal to access Failsafe, Cayde's "helpful" A.I. with a heart of gold and a screw loose. As the banter continues between her and Ghost, exit the area, following the signal waypoints into Hallows.

The Confusing Nodes of Nessus

The planetoid you're on is a maze of locations carved by the Vex, some with multiple vertical and horizontal exits. Hallows is a good example of this. You enter here from Artifact's Edge, dropping into the large circular hole before venturing into the depths below, with exits deeper and deeper—even down to the core! It is fortunate, then, that the Director chapter of this guide has maps to ensure that your navigation is as "fail safe" as possible.

2 Vex Portal

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Drop down into the large hole at the surface of Hallows, as the stairs cut into the rim of the hole are for those who want to ascend. Follow the waypoints to a circular part of the subterranean area, where Vex architecture is embedded into this strange structure.

You find Cayde hanging around here, but he is forcefully blinked out of your existence and replaced by a squad of six Vex Goblins materializing from the columns surrounding the central plinth.

You risk death by standing in the middle of these columns, so retreat back up, and tag each Goblin in the lower torso where they glow white (their weak spot). Shooting their heads with a weapon that is less powerful than a sniper rifle usually results in the head being taken off, but the remaining body going "berserk." It charges at you and causes you damage as it arrives and (possibly) explodes. You can also destroy Goblins with a headshot if you've already shot at their "white point" and damaged them; this is an alternate way to remove them. Damaging and melee attacking them is also feasible.

Methodical torso shots to their precision hit location are needed here, especially as four or five additional Goblins arrive at two different portals, and then another six Goblins appear from the columns around the central circle.

The battle does not let up as a larger Vex robot with a Void Shield, known as a Minotaur, appears with six Goblins. Slay them, and expect two more Minotaurs and another dozen or so Goblins to come before the Vex trap you stumbled into subsides and no additional foes appear.

Minotaurs have nasty, damaging laser rifles, can teleport short distances (making your grenades tricky to land), and have a reasonably quick gait. Switch to a Void Energy weapon to make short work of those shields, then focus on the torso "white point" weak spot. Feel free to shoot off the head if you want to stop the Minotaur from teleporting or recharging its shields, but prepare to be bombarded with rifle fire as it goes berserk. Make these your priority targets.

With the appearance of the Minotaurs, this is a good opportunity to utilize your Super. After the battle, follow the waypoints out of Hallows, and head into the lower depths of this icy rock.

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Weave your way through the connecting tunnel slowly to take a view of what appears to be the core of Nessus in a gigantic void of darkness and glowing fire. Look down at a dome-shaped (and inactive) energy catapult far below you.

Now, make some precise, vertigo-inducing jumps, landing on the huge floating block and sections of wall to reach the massive curved floor structure the catapult is attached to. If you haven't fallen into the inky blackness, you're doing well.

Energy Catapult Active

This energy catapult is now active and allows you to ascend back up to the entrance area (during future explorations of Nessus). However, this isn't necessary for the continuation of the mission.

4 Vex Plateau

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Creep along the cover of this rocky plateau, visually checking the Vex entities in the vicinity. A new foe known as the Vex Hobgoblin is active in this area. It doesn't move quite as often as a Goblin but fires a sniper-like line rifle that is extremely damaging. After being hit by your first shot, it creates a three-second invulnerable shield, similar to a Hive Knight. During this time, the shield replenishes, so make your first shot a single bullet from a burst-fire weapon to avoid wasting ammo. Lay waste to the Hobgoblin's "white point" lower torso weak spot before and afterward. Shoot this enemy's head, and it goes berserk like a Goblin. Note that a Hobgoblin cannot enter an invulnerable state while berserk, which is a potentially positive trade-off.

There are three Hobgoblins to worry about (one on the ground, and one on each column that warp in a few moments after you engage the ground foes). These should be your priority targets because they are longer-ranged threats than the group of Goblins and Minotaur that appears on the ground ahead of you. Tag them at range from cover before you're spotted, or while darting in and out of cover. Or, you can jump onto the cluster of columns in the center of the enemy group, land next to the Hobgoblin, and remove it with a shotgun or high-powered pistol. Then, drop a grenade and remove the rest of the foes from this vantage point.

Usually, simply sidestepping between the rocks without advancing too far forward and letting the first wave of six or so Goblins head into your low-recoil mid-range rifle (or hand cannon) fire is a good tactic. Then, when the Hobgoblins warp in, shoot them from their pedestal, and save a grenade for the Minotaur, severely damaging it without having to worry about removing its shield.

5 Second Descent

With this contingent of Vex defeated, you have another couple of extremely vertical (and vertigo-inducing) drops, avoiding a plummet into the void to an even lower floating plateau with massive crumbling walls. Head into the triangle-shaped hole entrance, and peer over the bottomless edge. Traverse a circular bottomless cavern of floating platforms in a clockwise manner, proceeding to a Vex teleport gate.

Scan if you Can

One of the most cunningly hidden scannable items is available if you can jump to the right wall from the top platform here. Consult the Director chapter for clues to its whereabouts.

6 Bottom Of The Well: Hapax, The Convergent Mind

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Enter a cavern with a bottomless chasm below, and jump across to a natural arch. Pass through it and around to the right, and leap to the triangular exit door. Ride the huge energy well down to the huge lower platform and its many columns and walls. It's worth learning the layout of this arena-like location before you investigate Cayde-6, who is floating above the central circle. His chat is interrupted by Hapax, the Convergent Mind. This foe is armed with a devastating Aeon Maul cannon that can drop you in two or three hits. You must defeat it!

Boss: Hapax is your priority target. Though the arena is soon swarming with Goblins, a few Hobgoblins on the upper perimeter ledges, and Minotaurs that are more troublesome (as their weaponry is also highly damaging), the combat concludes quickly once you defeat the Hapax. However, it lengthens considerably if you leave it alone and wait for more and more enemies to teleport in. This is only a good idea if you want to gain XP and have the competence to run and gun, using the main walls to stand behind or on top of as you seek cover and become a moving target.

Aside from the Goblins that incessantly march on your location, distracting you from tackling the main beast, the Boss's biggest defense is its impenetrable rotating shield. Your shots need to hit the Boss's central "eye" (its weak spot or precision spot) through the vertical gaps in those shields, or you're simply wasting your ammunition.

The type of weapon that you use helps. A sniper rifle aimed from height and range is good in theory, but other foes usually see and bombard you before you can get an accurate shot. Shotguns and extremely close-range weapons are feasible, though the Hapax's Aeon Maul is more or less guaranteed to hit you, and three of them can kill you. It's better to stay at mid-range, darting in and out (or up and down) from cover and executing a well-lobbed grenade, followed by bursts of accurate gunfire at the Boss's eye.

Take note of Hapax's segmented health bar. Not only do you receive an encouraging yell from Cayde-6 each time a third of the Boss's health is removed, but the beast teleports to a different location. Keep an eye on that, and maneuver accordingly (closer to the new location). Also, keep a mental note of the three shield sections and how they are rotating. You can pop out of cover and shoot the Boss when it's just about to be exposed, and step back into cover just as the shield covers the Boss's eye again.

You want to deal as much burst fire or hand cannon damage as you can in between protective periods of defense. Alternately, execute your Super as soon as a gap appears in Hapax's shield.

When Hapax finally dies (which removes any other infantry Vex threats), resist the temptation to sprint to its remains to claim any items because the head will explode, which can kill you. Gather any items after this occurrence, after which Cayde-6 explains how you can finally free him. The mission then concludes.

DESTINY 2

Overview

Recommended Level: 7

Recommended Power: 80

It seems the location of Cayde-6 must be pinpointed once you've found and deactivated the Vex teleporter. This involves a short but extremely dangerous romp into a Vex-constructed interior off the main Cistern on Nessus. The action against waves of Vex doesn't end in the main arena inside the Pools of Luminance, either. You must travel across open ground to the Glade of Echoes, where you witness a protracted battle between Fallen and Vex forces. You're here to defeat the Vex Boss, who prevents progress. Assuming you succeed, additional travel to the wreck site of the Exodus Black is required. Following that, a complete removal of Fallen presence in the area, including the defeat of a toughened Captain, is mandatory. Only then will Failsafe remove the barrier between you and Cayde.

Enemies Encountered

- Vex: Harpies, Fanatics, Goblins, Hobgoblins, Minotaurs

Objectives

- Deactivate the Vex teleporter.
- Find Cayde-6.

Is an Exploration of Nessus Necessary?

Possibly; this mission takes place on the vast plateaus of Nessus. It is worth learning how each zone on this planetoid links to other areas. A thorough read of this guide's Director chapter can help you ascertain nearby threats, along with helpful areas to explore outside of the scope of this mission.

1 Radiolarian Stream And Cavern

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

You begin on a platform overlooking a giant Nessus plateau, but Cayde's signal is coming from a nearby split in the wall. Enter it, stepping into a tunnel-like warren known as Pools of Luminance, where you encounter a white liquid that's damaging to the touch: Radiolarian (or "Vex mind") Fluid.

Jump to the rocky outcrops and ledges as you navigate this fluid stream, then jump from the last ledge through a circular doorway and into an unstable-looking cavern.

2 Fortunately, the floor is firm, but the air is filled with the screeching of around a dozen Vex Harpies (which appear in flocks of about four or five at a time). Seek nearby cover, and methodically thin their number by firing at their central eye; the precision hit location. These foes are more of a nuisance than a threat, although their laser rifle-like beams are damaging. When you've cleared the cavern, seek the small connecting chamber with fluid on the floor, and head to the narrow golden wall.

3 Luminance Arena

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning! Restricted Zone

Enter an arena-like room with a central circle on the ground raised from the entrance and a higher area at the far side of the chamber. There's a platform to your left and stepping stones to the right (the route to the left is more accessible).

Note the block-like wall sections because these cover opportunities are crucial for the carnage to come. Prepare for a protracted and extremely difficult battle with waves of incoming Vex.

The first wave teleports in as you advance on the central circle. These are a new type of Vex, the Fanatic. Think of a Vex Fanatic as a headless Goblin, but not quite as furious. Fanatics use the same weaponry as a Goblin and will track and march directly toward you, exploding at close range and leaving an area of effect that damages others for a few seconds afterward. Aside from blasting them at range before they detonate and harm you, you can effectively defeat them by bringing them down in between the pillars. That way, other foes (particularly Goblins) are harmed and hopefully destroyed by a Fanatic's explosion and area of effect that stays active.

Blast the first wave (Fanatics) with accurate gunfire from your starting position cover. The second wave (Fanatics and Goblins) then appears; execute the same plan, dropping Fanatics as priority targets and ensuring that their ongoing explosions strike the Goblins. During the second wave, you will be outflanked and overrun by multiple Goblins. Start at the top of the ramp from the lower block wall, then retreat to it and melee attack any Goblins (but not Fanatics!) that get through. Your primary escape route is to your left, by which time, the third wave arrives.

By this point, you have groups of Fanatics, Goblins, and a couple of Minotaurs all converging on your location, with Harpies providing a long-range annoyance. Keep moving from the lower island with the two block sections of cover back and forth to the starting position, and drop Fanatics so they explode and take a couple of Goblins with them. When you're overwhelmed, sprint over to the other area you're comfortable holding, and block chokepoints with exploding Fanatics and headless Goblins (anything to cause a chain reaction).

Other options include bringing out the big guns, AKA your preferred Power weapons (grenade launchers for longer-ranged foes, and shotguns to quell any foes trying to overrun you, though you run the risk of being struck by their exploding damage). A thrown grenade is also useful to detonate at the feet of multiple foes. You can also leap atop one of the larger block defenses, crouch down, and tag foes quickly from this partial cover. Since you're atop a block but crouched, much of the Vex's ranged firepower hits the block instead of you. However, you're usually surrounded, so watch for flank attacks and jump away when it all gets too hectic.

Once you clear the incessant waves of Goblins and Fanatics, the final wave consists of the Minotaurs, Harpies, and a few remaining Goblins that remain on the upper platform and may have teleported in earlier. These are actually a little easier to destroy, as they aren't actively marching on your position. Long-range tagging of Harpies can be done at your leisure; shoot them first so you have fewer enemies firing at you from directions you can't control.

Then, move to mid-range, and tackle the remaining Harpies and the Goblins. Move to the central circle, but back up when the Minotaurs' weapon barrage starts to sting. Now is the perfect time to execute your Super, as it can cut through the usually troublesome Minotaurs without you worrying too much about being caught in any explosions. Whittle down the enemies until the room is secure. Then, gather any dropped ammo and items.

Not-so Super Attacks

Although using your Super is a great idea to thin the numbers, it's important to know how dangerous certain Supers are when employed against exploding foes, like the Fanatics. You can kill yourself easily with Supers that inflict damage at melee range, so ensure that your Super attacks are inflicted at longer distances, outside of the detonation range.

Finally, exit via the marked (slightly glowing) stepped tunnel into a Vex temple. Gather the teleporter, which frees Cayde-6, although you need to find him next. Step into the Vex gate behind the teleporter, sending you back to the entrance. From here, retrace your steps back to the expanse of the Cistern, scanning the area so you don't dash off in the wrong direction, heading left from the wall split entrance. You're on the right track if you pass by a Vex-like ball structure with a hole in it. Continue your track until you enter the Glade of Echoes.

Glade Of Echoes

NESSUS, UNSTABLE CENTAUR

Enemies Encountered

- Fallen: Dregs, Wretches, Marauders, Vandals, Captains, Servitors, Spider Tank (destroyed)
- Vex: Goblins, Minotaurs
- Vex: Boss: Acanthos, Boss Minotaur

Objectives

- Find Cayde-6 (continued).
- Kill the Boss.

Slaying Acanthos The Boss Minotaur

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

It seems the Vex have a shield up, preventing you from reaching the crash site of the Exodus Black (Cayde's ship and possible location). The shield is linked to a gigantic, Minotaur Vex known as Acanthos. This Boss Minotaur isn't the only entity standing between you and the crash site, though. A massive battle between Fallen and Vex is taking place, and you're caught in the midst of it!

Fighting Smarter, Not Harder

You may be initially overwhelmed by the battle going on throughout this zone, and it's easy to be caught up in protracted fights with Fallen and Vex. Instead, learn that the Boss Minotaur is the only entity you must defeat; all others are optional. Furthermore, there are three clusters of fighting occurring. The Boss Minotaur attacks at one, moves to the second at two-thirds health, and teleports to the final one at one-third health.

Finding a position to bring down the Boss Minotaur's health bar is more effective than leaping into the fray and hoping you can kill everything. You can, but it's going to take extreme dexterity, competence, and patience. Instead, think about employing longer-range Boss Minotaur takedowns from a hiding place at any enemy cluster. You can complete this entire battle without slaying anything other than this gigantic Vex!

The Boss Lowdown

The Boss Minotaur can crush you with a single foot stomp if you're foolish enough to think that close combat is the best way to defeat this towering adversary. Hang back and watch the highly damaging Torch Hammer bolts Acanthos fires from his main weapon (right arm). Aside from this and his two teleportation maneuvers as his health weakens, treat him as an insanely tough (and giant) Boss Minotaur. Aim for the white glowing lower torso to inflict proper damage, and stay mobile so you aren't pinned down and defeated by Acanthos' gunfire. Sticky grenades are more helpful, as he's so tall that explosions on the ground only inflict limited damage. Supers are an excellent idea, though ideally at the very start of the fight and once again at the very end (maximizing the use and recharge of your Super).

Battle Cluster #1 (Waypoint #4): The first of the three areas where you must reduce the health of Acanthos is where the Boss Minotaur and a small contingent of Goblins are battling against a Fallen Captain and his trio of Vandals (though other Fallen and Vex forces are in the vicinity). Try one of the following plans:

You can sneak behind the action via the massive skeleton of a spacecraft's fuselage onto the platforms on the other side where the Captain and Vandals are, and wipe them out. However, Acanthos can simply redirect all his offensive firepower at you. Stay away from the lip of the platform (so the Goblins can't hit you), and sidestep Acanthos' gunfire until he disappears. Then, look down and defeat any remaining Goblins now that Acanthos cannot protect them.

The other main plan is to adopt a longer-range, indirect approach. Ignore the main fighting, and circle around to the large stack of cargo containers beyond the Boss Minotaur on the far side of the main ravine road. Jump up to gain some height (and cover opportunities), and start some long-range sniping with a rifle that has low recoil. You can pepper the torso of Acanthos until he disappears without being struck at all, if you're far enough away. You'll use up a lot of ammo and can't hit his weak spot, but it's the safer option. Or, you can snipe from the gigantic circular fuselage section on the lower part of the zone to the right of where you first saw the Boss Minotaur, using the cover there if Acanthos turns to focus on you. Dart out, shoot his weak spot, then dive back into cover.

Also, be aware that a little farther down the "ravine" of crashed spacecraft parts (between waypoints #4 and #5) is a smaller pitched battle where a Captain and a group of Wretches fight a Minotaur and Goblins. Feel free to remove these on your way to waypoint #5, or leave them to finish each other off.

Battle Cluster #2 (Waypoint #5): The second area is directly in the middle of the battlefield, with multiple flashpoints of combat. Above the dirt road, there are Fallen foes on wreckage platforms, including a Captain with a shrapnel cannon, Vandals, and a Servitor providing protection to some Dregs. The Vex forces are some Goblins with a Minotaur on the dirt road and Acanthos himself near the smoking remains of a Fallen Walker. Your options are similar to before:

Head directly in from waypoint #4 to the platform by the Servitor on the "left" side of the road (if you're looking uphill), and use cover as you advance. Remove the Servitor as a threat first, then any Dregs. Target the Vandals and then the Captain before a protracted attack on Acanthos, using the same cover sidestepping plan as before. This is a long and drawn-out process, so save some time by lobbing in a grenade at any foe clusters or the Captain for quicker kills.

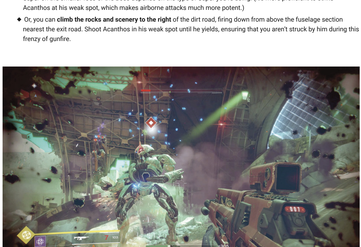
A variant of the previous plan is to jump on the cluster of strewn cargo containers on the right side of the dirt road, coming up behind the Captain with the shrapnel cannon and Vandals. Before dropping them at closer quarters, stay at range (the entrance through the open container), and shoot the Servitor from distance. Or, jump across the dirt road and land by the Servitor, dispatch it and the Dregs, then leap back. Remove the Vandals and Captain next, leaving only the Vex foes to worry about; concentrate your firepower on the Boss Minotaur, using the interior of the open container as partial cover. Then, use your height advantage to lay waste to the Goblins and Minotaur, or ignore them and press on.

A second variant of the previous plan is to step into the open cargo container near the Captain and two Vandals, removing the Vandals but remaining inside the container. Attack Acanthos next, and then worry about the Fallen Captain, the Servitor, Dregs, and finally showering hot death down on the Minotaur and Goblins on the road itself.

For those with only Acanthos on their minds, skirt the outer edge of the dirt road to the cargo containers, then the gap behind the remains of the fuselage on the opposite (right) side of the road. Find some excellent height and cover on the rocks or other scenery around here so you can easily pepper the Boss Minotaur with gunfire, ducking down or simply sidestepping to easily avoid his return fire. Though you may not be hitting his weak spot, he's still taking damage, and you can circumvent all other combat once he teleports for the last time.

Battle Cluster #3 (Waypoint #6): The Boss Minotaur's final stand takes place farther up the dirt road hill. The forces still battling at this point are Goblins on the road near Acanthos' feet (near the burning Fallen Walker) and two groups of Fallen: a Servitor and two or three Vandals in each group. You have two options:

- Creep around the left perimeter of the battle and quickly tackle the Servitor and Vandals before facing down the Goblins they were attacking. Do this for both groups, moving continuously and being very aware that you could be overwhelmed. Lobbing a grenade and using your Super are both recommended at this point. Whether you focus your Super on the smaller foes or the Boss depends on the type of Super you're using. (It's more proficient to strike Acanthos at his weak spot, which makes airborne attacks much more potent.)
- Or, you can climb the rocks and scenery to the right of the dirt road, firing down from above the fuselage section nearest the exit road. Shoot Acanthos in his weak spot until he yields, ensuring that you aren't struck by him during this frenzy of gunfire.



After that, you can leave the remaining enemies and escape through the dissipated energy wall, or you can mop up.

No matter how many enemies you've slain, once Acanthos falls, you should head uphill. Exit through the gigantic rib cage-like ruins of a massive rusting spacecraft, and head downhill (or through a large tube) into the crash site itself.

7 Fallen Captain Jaliks: Battle 1

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Boss: The Fallen are active in this shallow lake area where you find the remains of the Exodus Black. Concentrate on the series of tubes (one has a scannable object in it) leading to the large circular open hull with a blue energy wall preventing progress. You need to enter here, but only after you deal with all Fallen threats. A small group is already bombarding this entrance, led by an impressively tough Captain named Jaliks. Shoot Jaliks' shield with Void Energy weapons until he teleports away. Force your way to the Exodus Black's platform entrance to gain some height, and use the cover there as you fire down, dropping Jaliks' three Dreg friends. Watch for Shanks appearing from behind one of the upright cylinders along the perimeter fuselage wall. Around 10 more appear from Fallen dropships, so expect a protracted battle.

Even though you could be milling around the scattered tubes or lake, a more cunning position is by the entrance to Exodus Black, using cover as previously recommended and firing down at the dozen or so Shanks. Jaliks is your priority target, though, as his shrapnel launcher and impressive constitution make him a menace. Use the tactics you've employed for previous Captains, and remove the first third of his health. At this point, he disappears to a Fallen base on the rocky and slightly elevated ground farther into this Sector.

Initial Attack: Other Options

There are other ways to assault Jaliks and his flying robots. You can attack from across the lake using the assorted debris and rocks along the right side of the lake as cover. You can also employ long-range weaponry, mainly to focus your attacks on Jaliks until he teleports away.

It's worth clearing the immediate area around the Exodus Black entrance and the lake of Shanks and Dregs so you don't have to worry about them attacking as you assault the Fallen base itself.

8 Fallen Captain Jaliks: Battle 2

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Boss: Jaliks has fled to the Fallen base, a compact set of platforms and crates bisected by a dirt road on the far-right area of this Sector. Watch for a cluster of Shanks en route to the base, along with some troublesome Jackals on the near side of the base itself. These are joined by four Dregs and four Shanks under the platform. On the far side of the road is the larger section of the base, with Dregs, Vandals, and Shanks (around four of each) to worry about.

Jaliks himself starts on the platform of the near base. As you attack, he shifts position, retreating down the ramp to the dirt road, up the ramp to the main base platform, and moving back and forth in this general area. With the threats now noted, it's worth executing one of the following cunning plans:

A frontal assault is fine to try, as long as you're not too enthusiastic and die trying to reach the first base. Take your time and remove the Shanks, Vandals, and Dregs first. Pay special attention to the Vandal snipers on the higher crates of the platform area. With few or no minor foes left on the initial base platform, rake fire into the Captain's shields.

You may need to do this three or four times because Jaliks is tough enough to make you retreat to find ammo, and he also retreats to the main base. Use the cover, sidestepping and pushing him back down the ramp to the road while you stay on the initial base platform. Remain here, and keep those headshots going for as long as possible (ignoring the other foes on the far base area). Finish him with a grenade and a Super.

A rear assault is also an option. Skulk around the perimeter of this Sector to the large rock stalagmites, using them as cover while you remove the threats under the platform (Dregs and Shanks). Then, leap atop the rocks and then across, landing on the platform itself. As you arrive, shoot the Vandals, then use the curved "roof" section of the main part of the base to stand on and as cover. Tag the Vandals on the initial base platform before turning your attention to Jaliks. Obviously, there are times when this roof section becomes compromised, so don't refuse to move from up here when necessary. However, bounding around here in between clearing lower areas and collecting ammo is a fine plan.

You can elect to completely clear both bases of Fallen infantry first before tackling the Captain. This isn't necessary, but it does allow you to focus completely on the main takedown.

There's also an extremely high plateau along the near side, right of the initial base area. Though it takes some deft jumping, you can reach this large ledge and then fire down on your foes. They can't really retaliate, especially if you back away from the edge to stop yourself being struck by incoming fire.

9 Conclusion: Scorch Cannon

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Once Captain Jaliks falls, he drops a fabled Scorch Cannon, a highly dangerous rocket launcher that can lay waste to multiple foes while giving you a dangerous sense of invulnerability. A Fallen dropship deposits a group of Dregs, Vandals, Shanks, and a (regular) Captain in the lake area. Though you can use your regular weaponry, it's worth tackling them with this new and impressively devastating cannon. Blast from range, as pointing the cannon at a melee-range enemy (or your feet) is just as damaging to you. Strafe while tackling all Fallen threats; with this weapon, you can cut through the enemy easily. After that, Failsafe opens the Exodus Black, and you can finally meet this lunatic AI and Cayde-6.

Overview

Recommended Level: 11

Recommended Power: 120

Ikora Rey has reappeared on this moon, where the secrets of the Traveler are yet to be uncovered. However, the Red Legion forces have certainly mined the area for both materials and information. As you arrive, a Cabal fleet is leaving in a hurry. It is only after a reconnoiter across the strange alien rock outcrops and into a series of caverns that once served the Cabal that the true terror of Io is discovered. The Taken are here! Battle your way back out of the interior, following the instructions of Asher Mir as you attempt to close the Taken portal, and you might just survive this!

1 Cabal Depot Assault

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

After the Cabal ships depart, race to the Red Legion base, through the Lost Oasis and into a Sector called Terrabase Charon. You're greeted by a small pack of War Beasts at the exterior depot area, guarded by a couple of shield-carrying Cabal Phalanxes. A couple of Psions are also present, so use the entrance cover and remove the threats, starting with the War Beasts, then the Phalanxes, and finally the Psions. The lower ground should be completely clear because the upper ledge on your left holds additional foes (a couple of Legionaries and a Psion to worry about). Feel free to leap to this ledge, or take the dirt road around and up to the right side of it.

Shields Up, Phalanx Down

If you haven't seen them before in the eastern Sectors of EDZ, you should be training your firepower on the center of their expanding shield until it retracts, knocking them back. After that, attempt a flurry of headshots to bring these foes down.

Checking the Ramps

Check under the two metal ramps for possible chests. These come in useful at the end of this mission, so it's wise to remember where they are for later.

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Venture down the connecting corridor into the Excavation Site II, and begin to explore the linked caverns. Strange rifts in the walls are a prequel to the problems you'll soon face; the Taken have arrived on this moon, which explains the Cabal's quick departure! Avoid or shoot the Taken ball-like traps, or run through them before they expand and slow you down.

Taken Aback

The Taken are extremely adept at combat and are very dangerous to your continued well-being. You are advised to take extra caution, recharging between chambers, making full use of your Energy and Power weapons, and learning how these enemies attack by consulting this guide's Bestiary.

Head into a cavern with a ledge ahead and above and an exit ahead of you. The ledges aren't your main concern; it's the multiple dimensional shifts announcing the rival of around a dozen Taken Psions, who have the ability to replicate themselves, and should therefore be priority targets. They fire rapidly and are more ferocious compared to the Cabal Psions they possessed. It's important to stay behind cover (or Movement Mode to the upper ledge), tackle closest threats, and gradually remove enemies from the cavern. If you want, you can back up and lob a grenade to catch the Taken just as they warp in.

3 Exit the cavern at ground level, moving up the steps of the linking chamber beyond. Go up to a second storage cavern, where multiple Taken Psions are stationed. Again, the cover affords you protection so you can drop foes at both close and far ranges. There's also a platform above and to the left. Use your Movement Mode to get up here (stay away from the edge of the platform), and you can whittle down the Psions before peeking over the lip of the platform to deliver more carnage down below. This is easier than charging across the ground.

The upper storage chamber wraps around and down to the initial cavern (waypoint #2), though the enemies you encounter on your return are yet more vicious: Taken Phalanxes! Remove them before attempting to escape, as a group of Taken Thralls soon overwhelms you. These slightly mindless foes act like their Fallen variants but have a quick and short warping teleport (meaning grenades are tricky to land), and they can very easily crush you. Jumping out of their grasp, backing up, and performing headshots is the plan here.

Shields Up, Taken Phalanx Up

You must learn (quickly) that unlike their Cabal counterparts, you should not shoot a Phalanx's shield, which blasts a massive jet of highly damaging matter at you. Strafe, dodge, or jump to avoid that (do this early, as it's difficult to avoid). Concentrate your firepower on the body parts you can see behind the shield, which is usually the Taken Phalanx's right foot. When you shoot and knock them back, the shield lowers, allowing you headshot opportunities.

Continue down to the passage with the Taken traps and the strange glowing blue floor. Slow your progress so you can drop the Taken Thralls milling around here, as you don't want to face them near any unexploded traps. When the coast is clear, pass through into the initial orange-hued rock cavern where you can face or flee from Taken Psions and a Phalanx. As the Taken are about to open a portal, it's time to retrace your steps, out of the area and onto the surface again.

4 Cabal Depot: Portal Assault (Taken Wizards)

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

As you arrive back outside, you're warned that the Taken are attempting to summon a portal, and the ritual has already started! This arena-like junction consists of three pathways: the platform you're on, the main route back to Lost Oasis, and a large hangar area to your right. Make short work of the Taken Psions on the platform, and then remember the location of this ledge. Once you defeat the three Taken Wizards, it becomes very important to use the height and cover afforded by this location.

Sub-Bosses: But for now, you must concentrate on the masses of Taken in the vicinity. Equidistant around this depot area are three Taken Wizards. Swiftly defeating each one is paramount to continuing your progress, and this isn't easy. Two Taken Phalanxes and around four Taken Psions guard each Taken Wizard. Additionally, the Taken Wizards can summon Taken Thralls to waylay you. It's worth starting with the Taken Wizard immediately left of the platform, as it is nearest and you have the stack of large pipes and other crate-like scenery to use as cover. Remove the foe's shield, and concentrate your firepower on its head.

Tackling Taken Wizards

Aside from summoning Taken Thralls, Taken Wizards can conjure a ball and launch a multitude of orb-like bolts that are highly damaging (their Necromantic Gaze attack). They also have a Darkness Blast of energy that can stop you dead in your tracks. They use Void Shields, so switch to an Energy weapon of the same type, and finish them with sticky grenades or your favored weapon and shots to the head.

You should take a few shots from other nearby foes in order to end the Taken Wizard's life. Breaking off from combat causes the Taken Wizard's shield to recharge, lengthening this dangerous combat considerably. After you've dispatched the Taken Wizard, remove the Phalanxes, Psions, and any other Taken foes in the immediate vicinity (in the first "third" of this arena). Another option is to battle the Taken Wizard's minions first. There's some tactical advantage of removing the Phalanxes before they can damage you with their shield attack.

You should be focusing your firepower on each subsequent Taken Wizard as often as possible. Don't land near to the foe, and then start firing. Take aim at this foe from extreme range, causing damage as you close to remove it as quickly as possible.

A clockwise maneuver to the next Taken Wizard (who is floating among the rocky outcrops) is wise because it is closer than the final foe near the main road entrance. You can stand atop the rugged ledges and face few other hostiles, so with some nimble leaping, you can remove this threat with relative ease.

The last Taken Wizard in the large flat expanse near the road entrance is the most troublesome. Its contingent of Taken infantry can easily deplete your defenses, especially if you ignore cover and leap down from the platform. You may want to approach from the rock formation after slaying the previous Taken Wizard, since there are more cover opportunities and places to retreat to. The only reason to attack via the open road entrance is if you favor a Super or can quickly reach the cargo crates cover near the Taken Wizard.

It's worth expending your Super to demolish the first Taken Wizard you encounter. Focus on hammering it with your attack. If you're fast enough and your Super lasts long enough, continue it by quickly heading to the second Taken Wizard. Using your Super on the Taken infantry is wasting your powers. Remember, the crackling and gradually expanding portal in the sunken central part of the arena is perhaps the worst place to stand. The enemy has the height advantage, and even the available protection under the ramps is soon negated as you're overrun by Taken Psions or Taken Thralls. Only head here to open the chests; otherwise, stay to the perimeter.

5 Cabal Depot: Portal Assault Vortex Mind

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

The portal continues to open. It expands and the entire arena is encased in a black dome, effectively trapping you just within the perimeter and severely impeding your ability to stay around the edges of this location. Rifts appear, depositing Taken Psions. Stand atop the ramp near the three stacked cylinders and initial platform, and drop them as they head your way. Back up onto the platform, using the crates as cover until you've dealt with most of these foes and the final Taken entity appears.

Boss: This highly dangerous Taken Centurion is perhaps the most difficult foe you've faced. It can bombard you with a Projection Rifle that can kill you in three or four shots. It fires homing orbs of energy that find and explode, usually killing or badly damaging you. Additional Fallen Thralls and Psions appear throughout the fight. If you aren't properly prepared, expect to die a good number of times when facing him!

First, the Vortex Mind seems to stay mainly in the sunken central part of the arena, which means you should remain as far away from the barrage of attacks he generates as possible. Stay around the upper perimeter, ideally on the platform. Use your Movement Mode to go across to the rock outcrop for a different view or if one of these two vantage points becomes choked with lesser foes.

Any lower location means you're likely to be overwhelmed, first by the Vortex Mind firepower, and then by Taken Psions and Taken Thralls swarming your location. The only time you should think about heading into closer range is if you're using a shotgun, a maneuver both dangerous and effective. Second, make a more vertical leap or step to the edge, and bombard the Boss with your favored weaponry. A low-recoil rifle is good. You need eyes in the side of your head to watch for foes outflanking you. Stand on the platform, and it's slightly easier because lesser enemies can only reach you via the ramp and path to your left. Intersperse your gradual Boss wounding with quick rakes of attacks against Taken Psions and Taken Thralls checking the ramp to see any heading your way.

Third, deal with the Vortex Mind's homing orbs by shooting them yourself, or stepping into cover so the orb hits that and not you. Shooting is the better tactical plan, as you can quickly switch back to blasting the Boss's head. Don't be overly impatient in this fight, which usually gets you killed. If this Taken deity decides to launch multiple homing orbs, shoot them from as far away as possible, then focus on his head.

When you remove a third and then two-thirds of the Boss's health, additional lesser foes are summoned, though the attack pattern remains similar. Feel free to launch a grenade or Super as soon as they have recharged from your Taken Wizard battle.

As you must continuously move to avoid death, weave around the perimeter, using the rocks and crates for cover and resisting the temptation to head into the middle of the arena. Stay away from the edges of ledges, or you may be easily demolished by this enemy's gunfire. And remain calm; this behemoth takes a while to drop!

Once you've defeated the Vortex Mind, the mission concludes.

Important Ally:

Asher Mir

"As for you, meddling Guardian? I've a few choice things to say to you!"

While many Guardians have encountered the Vex, Asher Mir is one of the few Light-bearers who could be said to fully understand them. A member of an obscure sect of Warlocks, the Gensym Scribes, Asher has spent his entire Guardian life attempting to understand these cybernetic beings. Recommended Power: 120

It seems that the Taken and Vex are firmly entrenched in battle in the mining facility on Io, a fact you see first-hand as you storm the mining operations structure, attempting to find a A Warmind Vault. When you realize the only way onward is downward, you need to battle through waves of Taken so you can finally move a giant drill and expose the only way into the vault itself. Then, you need to fight your way deeper still into the subterranean vault before finally connecting with the mainframe to uncover vital information regarding the Cabal ship the Almighty. ## Objectives

- Locate the Warmind Vault.

1 Mining Base

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Make your way to the Sector known as Giant's Scar, where a small contingent of Taken is battling Vex guarding the base entrance. You can sit back and enjoy the carnage, or fight headlong into the warring Combatants. If you choose the latter, it's wise to stay along the bottom of the left perimeter rock cliff so you aren't overrun and can tactically choose the foes closest to you. Note that the Taken features a group of Psions led by a Taken Centurion. The Centurion has many of the attack patterns its Cabal counterpart uses.

However, it uses an Energy Shield (usually Void), can teleport small distances, and prefers firing its homing orb, which you should shoot before it badly damages you. Or, find nearby cover and dart behind it so the orb hits the rocks and not your armor.

The Taken Psions are easier kills, after which you must be aware of two Vex foe clusters. There are Goblins and a Minotaur around the large cylindrical tower, and Goblins, a Minotaur, and a Hobgoblin on the entrance platform. Cover, a possible grenade lob, and lower torso shots are needed here. With the area devoid of foes, head up the ramp and enter the base entrance. Turn right once you're inside, head up an interior ramp, and go to a window overlooking a rather impressive mining drill.

2 Drill Site

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Vex are teleporting to your location. Face two Minotaurs and a group of Goblins, lob in a grenade to start the fight, and switch to Void Energy weapons to remove Minotaur shields. Focus on the Minotaurs unless a Goblin is in your face (in which case, punch it twice). Feel free to back up or use the upper windowed ramp area to your left to gain the height advantage.

Push through the next large doorway into a storage chamber, where a Hobgoblin has taken up a camping spot ahead and left of you (above the sunken exit area). Kill him as the other Vex warp into view.

Then, use the entrance doorway as cover, and remove the advancing Goblins with ease. There are around 10 Goblins and two Minotaurs, and their close proximity to one another makes grenades, a grenade launcher, or your shotgun a good choice, along with normal Kinetic or Energy weapon fire.

With the Vex temporarily neutralized, check the upper ledges for a scannable object, then inspect the orange-colored computer terminal, powering it on. This unfortunately doesn't raise the drill, forcing you farther into the mining base. Head out of the exit (right and down of the terminal) and across the edge of the large exterior drill site, up to an arched entrance. Then, head down into Excavation Site II.

Scannable Globes of Darkness

Have you been checking the high storage ledges and other areas throughout this mining base for strange scannable objects? The place has a few black globes to check out. Don't worry, though; they're still here after you finish this mission, and it's easier to return here after the mission to complete your search for them (when you're not under fire).

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Taken: Centurions, Goblins, Phalanxes, Minotaurs, Wizards, Psions
- Vex: Harpies, Hydra

Objectives

- Locate the Warmind Vault (continued).

3 Storage Rooms

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Head down the rocky tunnel into the bunker, making your way into a storage room with a large black cylindrical tower in the far-left corner. Of greater interest is a small band of Taken—a Centurion and three Taken Goblins. These Goblins are much like their Vex counterparts but can warp small distances, meaning that constant readjusting in your aim is necessary. Also, you strike them in the head rather than the lower torso. Use the metal fence sections as cover, and drop them with regular gunfire. Save your best weaponry for future combat.

With the room secure, check it for a scannable object, then depart via the orange ramped corridor up to a warping Taken Phalanx. Drop it before it can bring out its shield. Then, head into the subsequent chamber.

Goblin up All the Energy

Taken Goblins have another trick: they can sometimes link to other Taken and provide them with enough sustenance to make their target invincible. If you see a greenish-turquoise glowing umbilical cord start to form from a Taken Goblin to another Taken target, remove the Goblin immediately. This becomes more and more important as this mission continues.

The next storage chamber has a few more Taken threats; a Centurion, two Phalanxes attacking from your left flank, and two Goblins on the slightly raised area across from an L-shaped thoroughfare. Drop the Goblins first if possible so they don't link to the other foes and give them energy. Then, use the copious cover to bring down the larger enemies one at a time. Put some distance or cover between you and the Phalanxes so their shield blast doesn't impede you. Note that you return to this chamber later into the mission.

5 Override Terminal Room

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Wind your way up another orange tunnel and into the terminal room. Here, you must defeat any Taken hostiles before accessing the override terminal for the drill. It's quite easy to die here. The action begins when you spot something shimmering, the telltale sign of a Taken Minotaur in the vicinity. Deal with it quickly, then resist the temptation to panic as a couple of Phalanxes, then Taken Goblins and up to three more Taken Minotaurs, and four or five additional Phalanxes all arrive in two or three more waves. Now that you know the anticipated foes you'll face, it's time to do something about them.

Taken Minotaurs are slightly easier to tackle, assuming you can spot their shimmering invisible forms and blast them (in the central "eye head") while nimbly sidestepping their ferocious flame bolt projectile. Finish them with a melee strike if necessary.

Your close proximity to all foes in this chamber means shotguns are a good choice. Taken Minotaurs also like to teleport short distances, so quick reactions are key when pursuing and dropping them.

Taken Phalanxes are a bigger problem, as their shield is impenetrable when it's raised, and it only takes a second for them to fire a devastating energy bolt from it. It's a good idea to keep moving, using the cover and making a "circle" maneuver around the perimeter of the room. Leap up to the terminal console platform ahead and slightly left (as you enter this room) to gain a breather and fire down on the foes. Use the previous Taken Phalanx killing techniques (shooting the exposed areas their shield doesn't cover, or waiting until the shield has fired, stepping out of cover, and aiming at the head), and exercise patience. Rushing in usually gets you killed, unless you're launching your Super, which is also recommended when combat gets too crazy.

Taken Goblins are a real menace, as they heal and make both Phalanxes and Minotaurs almost invulnerable. Trace any "green glowing" enemies back to this foe, and blast them. Tackle Taken Goblins as soon as they warp in so they don't have chance to link to their tougher brethren.

Keep this plan up until the last of the Taken (usually a Minotaur) yields. You can then leap to the ledge and access the wall terminal to override the drill controls. Turn right, run along the narrow orange corridor, and drop down (with a second jump to slow your descent).

6 The Exit

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Enter a new storage area with a rock floor. Amid the orange light and blue energy windows of the scenery, there's a Taken Wizard.

It seems preoccupied with combat occurring in the next chamber, so seize this opportunity to rake it with Void energy bullets, and quickly drop it. A Phalanx just inside the next chamber can also be quickly removed. You soon discover the reason for these reasonably easy kills.

Enter the storage room with the L-shaped thoroughfare, and stumble into a Taken Wizard and a group of Taken Psions battling a small flock of Vex Harpies and a Hydra. Stay around the large black cylinder tower and watch the chaos, if you want. A better plan would be to quickly rid the room of the Taken Wizard, then move to the far raised perimeter area (where the room exit is). Use the metal fence as cover, shooting the Harpies and Taken Psions as these threats present themselves. Keep one or two enemies from each side alive as long as possible so the Hydra concentrates on killing them instead of you.

Remove threats until only one Taken Psion and the Hydra remain, then tackle the Hydra, using the metal fencing as cover. Expect another four Taken Psions to arrive shortly before or after you kill the Hydra; these shouldn't present a problem, given the cover available in this room. With threats dealt with, head back up to the drill site on the surface.

7 Return To The Drill Site

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

The drill is now active! Unfortunately, so are the Vex, and incoming groups of Goblins and Minotaurs are teleporting onto the surface of the drill site. If you want to waylay your progress considerably, feel free to engage them. A better plan is to locate the drill control cabin, which is on the opposite side of the drill site arena as you emerge from the bunker, and jump across to it. Here, you're greeted by a couple of Vex Hobgoblins and a Minotaur; nothing you can't handle. Remove these immediate threats, then access the drill control terminal and lift the drill.

By now, expect around 12 or more Vex Goblins and a Minotaur or two to congregate on the dirt road below the cabin. You can remove or ignore them, but it's better to run. Taken hordes are also starting to arrive, and the battle becomes prolonged and unnecessary if you stay here. Avoid the Taken Wizards, Taken Psions, Taken Phalanxes, and Taken Centurions, and head to the central hole where the massive drill was raised from. Stop at the edge, and jump to the upper side tunnel with the metal surrounding it. Dropping straight down or to a lower tunnel results in death.

IO

Enemies Encountered

- Taken: Hobgoblins, Goblins, Minotaurs, Psions, Phalanxes
- Taken Sub-Boss: Modular Sigma
- Taken Boss: Modular Upsilon

Objectives

- Use the Warmind network to scan the Almighty (continued).

8 Vault Infiltration

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Maneuver up the narrow tunnel and into the initial vault chamber. As expected, the area is teeming with Taken. Expect three Taken Hobgoblins and a Taken Goblin to attack as you enter. The former foes have some nasty beam weaponry to dodge, and the latter can link to the Hobgoblins, giving them near-invulnerability.

Also, note the slight red glow to the Hobgoblins when shooting them. They have a minor shields, so adjust your offensive ordnance accordingly. Taken Hobgoblins can teleport short distances but aren't the hardiest of foes. Use headshots and melee strikes to finish them if you're close enough.

Head up the steps, and drop a Taken Goblin and Minotaur halfway up. Then, remove the Taken Goblin linking to two final Hobgoblins as you reach the mainframe core chamber. With no further Taken activity, head down to the sunken center of the chamber, access the mainframe, and then prepare for the fight of your life!

Preplan of Attack

It's worth making a thorough sweep of the mainframe chamber before you access the computer itself, prior to the forthcoming Taken battle. Learn where the small sunken tunnel is, the cover opportunities around the perimeter, the dead end of the sand pile and the lack of cover near it, and other minor cover opportunities like pillars.

9 Mainframe: Modular Upsilon Battle

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Boss: A giant Taken, seemingly a giant Vex Minotaur now possessed by this parasitic foe, steps out of a rift. This is the Modular Upsilon, and it is extremely dangerous. It fires highly damaging flaming bolts in rapid succession, and three of these hitting you directly will likely kill you. If you're not behind cover, sidestep or leap away from them. Close the gap, and expect a foot stomp that's not only damaging but launches you backward, sometimes across the entire arena. Melee combat is tricky because of the firepower that Modular Upsilon wields, as well as its foot stomping. It can also turn more-or-less invisible (like a Taken Minotaur), so track the slight glow of its "eye" and focus your firepower on that. Target its general body if you can't track its eye because of other foes or your position. Finally, it receives invincibility from a Sub-Boss, the Modular Sigma, so refrain from wasting your ammunition any time this behemoth glows a greenish-turquoise.

Sub-Boss: Modular Sigma is a Taken Goblin with more health and a determination to keep its huge brethren invincible for as long as possible. This is your priority target.

Although it fires a Projection Rifle, that's the least of your worries, since it spends most of its time moving to within 20 feet of Modular Upsilon and sending out snakes of energy. Hit Modular Sigma in the head so it is temporarily destroyed, then make the most of the time it's gone by hitting Modular Upsilon in the "eye." When Modular Sigma returns (and it will; it only dies when Modular Upsilon is defeated), destroy it as soon as possible.

Then there's the small matter of the Taken Phalanxes, Centurions, and Hobgoblins that arrive to help protect Modular Sigma. These are infuriating to deal with, so exercise extreme patience and care, especially when facing the Phalanxes and their shield attack or the Centurion's homing orb. These foes appear consistently throughout the battle. Leave them, and you'll end up trying to force your way through four or five Phalanxes to reach Modular Sigma, with little or no cover. Don't ignore the regular Taken infantry, if only because they're your only source of ammo.

There are ways to minimize the hardship of this battle. Firstly (and most importantly), know that Modular Sigma only gives Modular Upsilon immunity; it isn't healed by this green energy link. This means that any damage you inflict on Modular Upsilon is permanent. With this knowledge, prepare a war of attrition. As each wave of foes appears to aid Modular Upsilon, attempt the following: Remove all Taken Phalanxes, Centurions, and Hobgoblins in the vicinity. Defeat Modular Sigma. Then, remove as much of Modular Upsilon's health as your weaponry allows; shoot its eye or its body, if you can't aim at the eye.

Use the upper perimeter, lower tunnel, and central mainframe pillar as cover. However, the location of Modular Sigma's appearance may cause you to venture into the sand slope. Try to find the dark alocve on the sandy hill to the left of where you entered this chamber. Few enemies can threaten you there, and you can more easily inflict damage on both bosses.

Grenade launcher, sniper rifle, and shotgun attacks are all advisable if you need to inflict damage quickly. Sniper fire is good if you can get a target at long range on both Bosses. Check your bullet count, and switch if you're dangerously low on bullets for one of your main weapons (Kinetic or Energy). As the battle progresses, each time Modular Upsilon loses a third of its health, the link it establishes with Modular Sigma becomes longer. This is actually helpful because you can more easily tackle Modular Sigma without incurring the wrath and firepower of Modular Upsilon.

Grenades are best used just as Modular Sigma and his Phalanx friends appear from a rift; damage as many as you can. Use your Super just after removing Modular Sigma so all your damage is inflicted on Modular Upsilon without it becoming immune. If this happens during a Super, immediately find and destroy Modular Sigma and other Taken infantry.

This is a ferocious and long-lasting battle. Patience is almost as vital as good weapon choices and deft maneuvering. When Modular Upsilon finally falls, the mission concludes.

Overview

Recommended Level: 15

Recommended Power: 160

You need to hitch a ride to the Almighty, and the start of this impressively foolhardy plan begins in the Tunnels of the EDZ. You must reach the Cabal's shipyards, where its main carrier is moored. You accomplish this by driving a Drake tank through the giant tunnel complex the Cabal have dug, delivering payloads of pain to a variety of Cabal infantry and vehicles before appearing outside at the base of a gigantic carrier craft. This must be crippled to lessen the possibility of a large Cabal presence following you in future missions, so perfect your tank driving skills. Complete these tasks with skillful precision rather than the chaotic manhandling of the Vanguard vehicle.

- Advance to the Cabal control bunker in their shipyards.

Cabal Tunnels To Tank Acquisition

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

You begin in the Gutch (EDZ), entering a large tunnel structure carved out of the hillside by the Red Legion forces. Continue down the tunnel until you see an opening to your right; it's a rocky cavern with a small chamber, guarded by two Phalanx and a Phalanx. Two Legionaries also appear.

Make short work of this infantry, throwing your Super or grenade into the combat if you want (since you're about to drive a tank, you've refused to use any more than you need). Otherwise, use the rocks as cover.

Watch for another Phalanx in the connecting chamber to a massive tunnel structure. It's no massive, in fact, that Amanda Holliday's ship arrives and deposits a Snake tank. You are firmly encouraged to enter and drive this vehicle for the remainder of this mission.

Tanks a Lot!

The Tank is a formidable piece of battle hardware, and it's well-suited to rampaging through the huge Cabal base. However, it isn't invincible. It's worth reading the Snake Tank chapter to perfect your maneuvers, missile and cannon firing, and swerving techniques, and to learn about the shortfalls of this vehicle.

No Tank You can Foot

Can you ignore the Snake tank and attempt the Cabal underground base assault on foot? Sure. Is it preferable? Technically, no. It's extraordinarily Tiltrowing way.

No Tank You: Interceptor

Can you utilize a Cabal interceptor and maneuver through the base using this vehicle instead? Sure. Is it better than the tank? Nope. It has far less firepower, meaning you'll be leaping from its burning remains and fighting off foes on foot before you know it.

Tunnels Of Terror

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Start up the tank learning the basic maneuvers (the independent turret, the missile launcher and main tank cannons, locking on to enemies, and zooming in on targets) before hustling into the tunnel. As you go, make sure you observe each of the following:

Main cannon: This fires a single shell that explodes with a wide area of effect. Use this on clusters of foes, turreted targets like vehicles or more impressive enemies (like Centurions), scenery you want to destroy, and when you're surrounded by foes. The damage is impressive, but the firing is slow. Fire accurate shots; you don't have many.

Missile launcher: You can fire one of these shield-like barricades without damaging your tank. Sometimes, missiles home behind tank cover and are also great for removing clusters of infantry. The main reason to use this is to lock on to the flashing button on your missiles mark on a target, usually a powerful enemy.

This is especially useful if your target moves quickly like an enemy Interceptor or Thrasher vehicle. The missiles can also lock on to incoming missiles (usually from Thrashes), negating the enemy's most dangerous weapon. Finally, you can lock on to a target and fire a missile that you must accurately steer yourself. Finally, note that the Snake tank has a tank (on the bottom-left part of your HUD) indicate the number of missiles that are ready to fire.

Cabal infantry: They prove no match for your vehicle, shoot them, run them over, or ignore them and continue along the tunnel structure.

Cabal barricades: You can run over these shield-like barricades without damaging your tank. Sometimes, missiles home behind them and can be used to destroy them. Cannon shells destroy them instantly.

Explosive barrels: Dotted about some corridors are yellow explosive barrels, which very lightly damage your tank if you run them over. This isn't something to worry about unnecessarily, and you can shoot these barrels to destroy them. Watch out for the blast are damaged. However, your tank weaponry is much more fearsome than these barrels.

Roof artillery shell: You can aim your cannon or missiles at the tires of Cabal shells stacked on the roof, dropping them on foes underneath, if you want.

Begin your progress through the tunnels, continuously blasting anything vaguely related to the Cabal. Lay waste to anything that moves, and ignore the scenery unless it's explosive. Keep your eyes peeled for the Interceptor Pilot to quickly stop the vehicle, the Pilot driving the vehicle in a bit too tough than the Interceptor itself.

Cabal Cavern Climb

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

When you reach the first tank-summoning point, before the tunnel opens up into a gigantic cavern, get out of the vehicle (without destroying the tank) and summon a new tank if the first one has taken any damage. There's no need to continue on with a damaged tank! Then, drive down on a Cabal Thrasher hovers into view. Destroy this with your tank cannon, and then drive down the ramp and into the cavern, destroying the ships that impede this attack. At the same time, use your main cannon to destroy the Thrasher into bare pieces. You can also target the Pilots on the far platform, blasting them with missiles as they don't stop you, though the damage inflicted is minimal.

Time for a New Tank

A super tank on foot? There's no such thing! Just before it explodes with you in it, and retreat to the previous tank-summoning cavity, starting your assault of this area again. This is better than the suicidal plan of entering Thrasher vehicles and Interceptor

Swing right, mowing down a squad of Phalanxes with ease, rounding the corner, then backing up as a Thrasher and Interceptor attack simultaneously. Look on to the Thrasher's missiles and neutralize them while you blast the Interceptor. Keep backing that Pilot and stopping the ground vehicle. Then, aim all your cannon shots at the Thrasher.

Head around the gigantic natural rock pillar, firing at Centurions, Phalanxes, and another Interceptor as you go, and any Pyons you see on the platforms away from the road you're on. Pace (or use) another tank-summoning point before you head down the ramp and into the massive cavern. Watch out for the Pilot leaping up the far end of the road ledge as it narrows as you can easily and methodically destroy the Thrasher, a couple of Centurions, and other ground forces. Then, head around, sharply turning right and delivering overwhelming firepower at an Interceptor and a few more Cabal infantry. Park at the next tank-summoning point, but not before you remove the Cabal Centurion standing just inside the horizontal opening that leads to the next corridor.

Door Override

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Get out of your tank only after you've worked until no additional enemies are in the connecting chamber between you and the door override. Remember that you can always return to the tank and lay waste to other enemies you find inside, though it's easier to tackle the couple of Legionaries in the usual manner. Head into the roughly cube-shaped chamber, and turn left. The door lights turn to green, and it opens. Expect two Phalanxes to face inside a second identically sized chamber, along with two Pyons and an Incendiary you can easily evade easily.

Once in the second room, turn left and walk to the open door of a third room that a Centurion guards. Drop a grenade, take the first shield, and drop him. Using your Super just as you attack the Phalanxes (so it runs out after the Centurion is defeated) is a good idea. Then, dash out to the giant blast door and the hologram that's activated by the Centurion's corpse door. Head back to your tank in the nearest tank-summoning point, and proceed through this door.

An Enemy Tank

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Warning! Restricted Zone

You're entering a Restricted Zone, and there's an enemy tank at the end of the rocky tunnel you're travelling through. Exercise more caution than you may have attempted up to this point. Slow down, and stop just before the Pyons clambering on the low ridge ahead and off you (or just blast them). Back up and tackle the two Interceptors before you reach the center of the tunnel. Tromble forward, aiming at the two Pyons on the ridge to your right (right side) center, shooting at the right as you aim at enemy Goliath tank. Then maneuver around it.

Sub-Boss. The odds are no longer in your favor; you cannot stand and go toe-to-toe with the Goliath, exchanging missile and cannon barrages, as it is tougher than your Snake tank. You can't stop and start or dash across the ground because getting destroyed means you're a sitting target.

If your tank catches fire, retreat, optionally getting into one of the Interceptors you're previous fought, and head back to the tank-summoning point to start again. Do not attempt to head forward on foot because you're easily overwhelmed, and the enemy tank must be defeated, too.

Instead, retreat back along the tunnel before the two natural pillars, and clear the area of Interceptors if they are close by. Tromble forward and inflict a massive barrage of well-aimed tank fire into the enemy tank. Stop as to return the first one of the pillars (hide behind one of them), then reverse back out of the enemy's reach. Do this two or three more times, and you'll destroy it. Then, head back to the blast door, summon a new tank, and drive through the destroyed bridge, destroying the Cabal infantry guarding the entrance to the control room on the right side of it.

Bridge Control Room

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Use your Snake tank or an Interceptor to clear the left ground by the light of the destroyed bridge of Cabal. Then, head around the bridge and into the control room (or destroy the control room from the entrance and Pyon-bestrewn area). Clear this room first before entering into the subsequent room via the green-lit door. Inside the second upper chamber is a pack of War Beasts and a meaty-looking Cabal Centurion.

The Centurion fires its weapon with alarming regularity, and his hits from this can kill you. It also has backpack rockets but usually doesn't employ them in these close quarters. Stay at the entrance door to the central cover block, and lob in a grenade before following up with precision headshots. A grenade launcher is also an option. Before you pace your Super and easily dispatch the two behemoth Otherwise, tag the Centurion with submachinegun and accurate headshots without being struck. This few guards the bridge controls, activate the bridge, and quickly return to the tank.

Battle Of Bridge Cavern

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Warning! Restricted Zone

Drive across the bridge; you may want to lurk on to the Pyons behind cover on the opposite side, and train your main cannon and incoming Interceptor. Run over the War Beasts, and don't spend time making precision maneuvers on the bridge because you can easily drive off to your doom. Instead, cross to the opposite side, and fire the Interceptor's missiles at the Centurion on the ground, and the a huge cavern with two parallel bridges, one of which you must cross to the other side.

Start by evading the Cabal infantry (an Interceptor, Phalanxes, Centurions, and a Centurion) on the near side of the bridge, as well as Pyons and Centurions on the far yellow platforms. This keeps you from getting annoyed by other enemies as you attack the real menace guarding the cavern two enemy tanks.

Sub-Bosses. Two Goliath tanks are parked on the opposite side of the bridge to you. Trundling over the bridge to meet them is exceedingly unwise, as they can easily overwhelm your tank with their fire. Instead, slow down and hide behind the initial large rock and the rock pillar on the entrance side of the cavern. Use this scenery to protect you. Then, edge your tank around the left side of the rocks, lock on to any oncoming missiles (from either tank), and fire up with your main cannon. Trundle to one of the two cover points previously mentioned, and repeat the process. Keep your tank moving, and don't stop to fire your cannon for long periods and for the second enemy tank. The rock pillar between the entrances of both bridges is particularly good to hide behind (letting the enemy's attacks hit it), but you must keep moving.Another option is to slowly creep out from the entrance and use your target the tank on the right side of the far part of the cavern, and concentrate your firepower solely on it. As long as you don't get around the rock you're using as cover, you can jump in and out of the entrance, avoiding the foe's tank's barrage. Then, move to the pillar and assault the other tank on the far left side of the cavern.

You may need to remove an Interceptor or two on the opposite side of the bridge, as this by zooming in before firing to ensure no harm.

With both tanks defeated, make short work of a Thresher that flies in before crossing either of the bridges. One of the tanks may have been destroyed in the end area, but that's no matter. You can use either of the exit ramps as cover (as the Goliaths's main cannon fires the top of the ramp, and not you) and no way to the second bridge. Mop up a few infantry stragglers then head out of the tunnels and into the EDZ Sector known as the Sunken Isles.

Ramming Speed

Another option is to employ Cabal "pushers" and "tankers" and simply speed into the cavern, past one of the bridges, up an exit ramp, and leave. Sure, you'll be bombarded with enemy from the Cabal infantry and tanks, but with some hard driving and a near-constant dumped to your own safety, you can weave past either tank and out of the tunnel. Anyway, you may need to leave your burning tank and flee to the exit on foot. Enemies won't chase you into the main cavern section, but...

PAYBACK
Sunken Isles

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Psions, Phalanxes, Legionaries, Centurions, Interceptors, Interceptor Pilots, Thresher, Incendiors, Goliath Tank

Objectives

- Disable the carrier's shield.
- Destroy Cabal defenses.

9 Generator Destruction: First Location

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Although you can tackle them in either order, it's easier and safer to approach the one to the right of the giant Cabal carrier ship if you're looking at its exhaust pipes, close to the lake. Head down the side road slowly so you can destroy two Interceptors with long-range cannon shots without alerting the entire base.

Drive over the sharp "lip" of earth to the exposed core of the generator, which is being guarded by Cabal infantry and a Centurion. Destroy the Centurion, then simply fire your cannon two or three times into the spinning core on the exposed side until it explodes, and your objective updates. Engaging the enemy is optional; you're here to cleanly sweep through the main defenses, not get bogged down shooting every single Legionary (though that's also possible).

10 Generator Destruction: Second Location

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Retrace your tracks to the main perimeter road, turn right, and work your way around to the high ground slightly above the second generator, and deliver punishment to an Interceptor. This route is preferred over the shorter, rough terrain or the tunnel below the carrier bay, as you're not as easily surrounded and you have a height advantage. Carry on past the main base doors (on your left), and launch missiles and cannon fire at the infantry ahead of you (Psions, Legionaries, and Centurions are likely targets).

Swing around and into the flat ground area by the generator, staying on the move as you tackle a Centurion and stop a Thresher from firing its missiles into your tank (use your locked-on missiles). Make short work of a second Interceptor, then aim two cannon blasts into the spinning core.

Boss: Your final act is to remove the Cabal defenses. This takes the form of another three or four Interceptors and a Goliath tank. Blast the closest enemies first, and then use the tunnel below the carrier bay as cover. This is a good place to hide and fire long-range shots at the Goliath as you move into cover, and you can easily access a new tank from the summoning point. Or, you can make a clockwise loop through the tunnel and out and around to the perimeter. Encroach on the tank's location (the road just above the second generator) using the same path as before and the large rock outcrops to retreat to. Just be sure you drive to a tank summoning point if your tank starts to catch fire!

Another trick is to drive up to the Goliath tank's location, and circle the large boulder while bombarding the enemy tank with missiles and cannon fire. It usually can't turn and strike you as quickly, leading to a quick dispatch.

Time to ground the carrier. Move to the perimeter road, and look up at the carrier's gigantic exhaust ports. Aim all you've got at the lower center of the ports until the craft is crippled. Remove any remaining vehicular threats to conclude the mission.

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Enter the giant hangar, where you're immediately on the defensive due to the large number of Cabal forces to face. Instead of rushing in and dying, remain at the huge entrance to the hangar, and drop the Psions and Phalanxes from range. Or, if you have closer-range assault weaponry, use the scenery along the right side of the main hangar road or the low cylindrical storage vat on the inner corner where the Psions first congregate as cover. Legionaries soon join these foes milling around near the storage vat.

Take Cover or Die

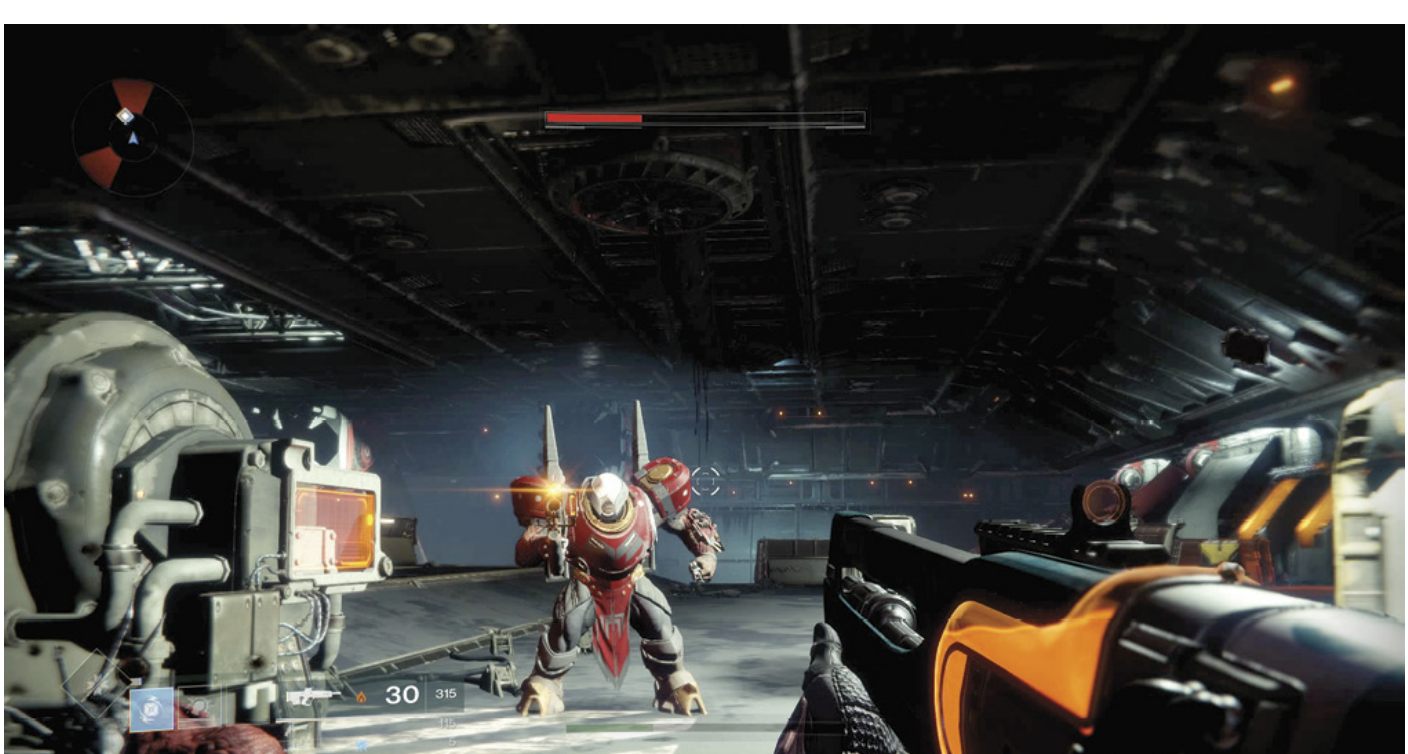
A squad of Phalanxes is on the upper ramp, and Psions with their beam rifles are at the ready on the gantry platform to the right of the ramp. Coupled with the enemies closest to you by the cylindrical storage vat, these foes can kill you in seconds if you're foolish enough to remain in the open. Take cover and focus on the closest foes first.

Make the Phalanxes your first targets because their shields can allow other enemies to use them as cover. Then, drop the Psions, and finally, the Legionaries. Remain in cover as the Cabal release a pack of War Beasts that bound down the ramp. Assuming you're hidden behind cover at the opposite end of the hangar, you can step back a little, and drop these foes at distance. If any reach you, attack them while shielding yourself from the Psions and Phalanxes on the upper ground by using cover.

2 There's no rush to push forward, so stay behind cover until you've neutralized all nearby ground-level foes (including all War Beasts). You can then choose whether to attack the Phalanxes atop the ramp, or the Psions atop the gantry platform.

The latter is the best pick; the Psions have long-range weaponry, so neutralizing them is safer. Sidestep to the cylinder with the blue metal mechanism surrounding it (ground level), using it as cover and sniping at the Psions. Or, jump onto the gantry and assault the Psions at close range. (Warlocks may need to land on some higher scenery to complete the maneuver.)

If you're landing on the gantry, use the metal barricade fencing on your left as cover, lobbing in a grenade to soften up the Psions and Phalanxes. Then, lay waste to both sets of foes as you advance onto the top of the ramped area. Alternately, you can skulk up the left side of the hangar (along the same side wall as the entrance), taking up cover on and around a parked tank (unfortunately inaccessible) in the corner. Then, you can remove the Phalanxes and Psions from this direction. You have more cover opportunities from this angle, though you must cross the open platform atop the ramp, leaving you more exposed.



3 Head up the shorter ramp to the upper platform, where a few Legionaries, Psions, another pack of War Beasts, and a Centurion all must perish. This is a good time for a grenade or a Super (preferably the latter), focusing your rage on the Centurion. Or, shoot as many foes as you can before the War Beasts reach you, then back up and tag these four-legged fiends. Push up, use the good cover opportunities, and bring the remaining Cabal forces to their knees.

After that, approach the right console so Ghost can access the schematics, and the objective updates. A large circular platform descends across a short bridge. Jump across the platform and up into a high door leading to a connecting passage.

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, War Beasts, Gladiators, Psions
- Cabal Sub-Boss: Blood Guard (Ironsider), Blood Guard (Legionary), Blood Guard (Centurion)
- Cabal Boss: Thumos the Unbroken
- Cabal Sub-Boss: Blood Guard (Legionary Commander)

Objectives

- Head into Legion's Watch
- Take Thumos' command codes.
- Kill Thumos.

Machine Room Assault

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Then, look up and left, shooting out a ventilation grating before jumping up into a conduit.

Head up and left, landing on a large pipe and continuing through the conduit until you can shoot (or punch) out another grating, this time on your right side. Drop down to a Cabal bay teeming with foes, including a couple of deadly Gladiators.

Beware of Gladiatorial Combat

Gladiators are a ferocious, close-combat Psion melee variant with a pair of Sinewa cleavers. They can use jump-jets like Legionaries, have a charge and doggedly track and leap at you, and have dense ; plates to help shrug off enemy fire. They are as fast as they are dangerous. Tackle them at range, as your close-combat specialties are no match for them. A shotgun to the face is a good way to drop a Gladiator at melee range, but little else works. Your own melee attacks aren't that damaging, and you can be easily out-done while trying this out. You can find higher ground, sprint and weave behind cover, and backpedal while executing headshots, but a Gladiator is always a priority target, and an extremely deadly one.

Shoot the two Gladiators in the head immediately. Drop one before either reaches you, then flee the vicinity. Either go around the machinery to either of the perimeter edges of the room, or jump and land atop the smaller machinery scenery below the open grating you dropped through. You could jump back through the grating and attack from above, too. Standing and fighting gets you killed. A Super can save you here.

With the Gladiators defeated, head between the machinery, ideally along the right side so you can stay in partial cover and tag the Psions on the floor and gantry platform ahead of you. Expect around six Psions and four Legionaries, if the Psions retreat, shoot them in their jetpacks.

Edge further into the bay, looking for the Phalanxes and Legionaries to the right of the pistons on the ground floor. Drop the two Phalanxes from range, then the two Legionaries. Don't venture too far forward too quickly: the far end of the room has a Sub-Boss, and two corner alcoves above you may be hiding a Psion that can snipe you easily.

Clear the alcoves by jumping and demolishing the Psions there, or lob up a grenade (or fire a grenade launcher, or use long-range weapons). Then, land in the dead-end far area, dealing with additional Psions, a few Legionaries, and a named Sub-Boss—one of the fabled Blood Guards!

Sub-Boss: This foe is a large Incendior with a tough Void Shield. In all other respects, treat him the same as the Sub-Boss you faced back when you were infiltrating the command ship back on Earth (Mission 1: Point, the Searing Will). Make the Sub-Boss a priority target. With the shield removed, shoot his head or fuel tanks. You can force him at close range, sidestepping his flamethrower and using the central pillar at the back of the chamber as cover. Alternately, you can fire on his minions from either of the upper side alcoves. Or, you can retreat back to the pistons, deal with Legionaries and Psions one or two at a time, then jump back and engage the Sub-Boss.

Docking Bay Assault: Hangar 1

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

After the Sub-Boss falls, leap to the small ledge above where you fought him, head up the narrow corridor ramp. Break open a grating, and maneuver through a door and into the main cargo bay for the Cabal in the EDZ. You have incoming heavy firepower in the shape of Amanda Holliday's ship, which provides additional takedowns, as there's a small army of foes to face. You must head through two docking bay hangars. Begin by dropping the Psion and Legionaries at the platform console, then look left and down, blasting Cabal Psions and Legionaries on the bay floor below. The three Psions are particularly important to dispatch. Stay on the near side of the bay and drop them, firing at any that try to flee with their jetpacks active. Fall to stop the Psions, and they hide and whittle away at your energy as you progress to tackle tougher enemies.

Sub-Bosses: Remain on the near ramp, and remove additional Psion and Legionary threats (around three Psions and a couple of Legionaries). The reason not to rush through this hangar becomes apparent as you reach the bay door with the hologram lock. Before using Ghost to hack it, you need to face down two Sub-Boss Legionaries. These Blood Guard foes act similarly to Kreth the Living Skyfire (back in Mission 1); they usually have Arc Shields and tougher armor than regular Legionaries. Concentrate on one Sub-Boss at a time. Use your Super, if you must.

Taking a Breather

Before continuing to the second hangar, you may want to wait for your Super and other abilities to recharge before accessing the door hologram. Switch to an appropriate Energy weapon, too, there's another Sub-Boss and more mayhem to come.

Docking Bay Assault: Hangar 2

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Sub-Boss: As soon as you open the door, there's a Sub-Boss Centurion to worry about. He has a Solar Shield, so concentrate on him while Holliday drops by to soften up the majority of the targets in the second hangar. You can remain low down on the ramp back in the first hangar so enemy fire can't strike you, then head up and defeat four Psions on the initial platform area. Progress into the second hangar, and use the platform barriers as cover, raining death down on various Cabal infantry (Psions, Legionaries, and Phalanxes) as Holliday heads over the top of the barriers of her own. Stay on the initial platform as you can methodically deal with foes as you see them, from closest to farthest. If you rush into the hangar, the Sub-Boss at the far end will whisk you. Having to deal with him and the other infantry you've ignored makes the fight more difficult.

Slowly work your way right along the raised platform to the upper gantry that spans the middle of the hangar. The foes congregate under and around the gantry. Once you've dispatched the Psions guarding it, firing out and down from the above along the right wall (with the circular metal vents and conveyors along the perimeter) is helpful. Always remember to defeat Phalanxes, the Psions, then Legionaries whenever possible, due to the devastating threats they pose.

Sub-Boss: A named Blood Guard Legionary (usually with Arc Shields), just like the two jokers you encountered previously, guards the far end of the second hangar. With Holliday's barrages dropping his lesser Legionary brethren, you can cut down this fiend. Then, shoot his head or jetpack, using the ramp, the top of the parked Threshers, and crates as cover.

Bridging Corridors

Super: Not recommended

Grenades: Not recommended

Sub-Boss/Head up the interior ramp from the hangar exit, turning right and melee striking, then firing at around four Psions and a Legionary in the corridor ahead. Step through a narrower door, turning left into an insulated corridor, but don't sprint in here. Step behind one of the corner and remove the Psions and Legionary threats. The reason to yet another Sub-Boss, a Blood Guard Centurion with a Solar Shield. Fortunately, you have a couple of corridors of cover to the corridor to maneuver around and use as cover as you avoid the Centurion's projectiles and remove his energy. The compact corridor means rushing in with a shotgun is hugely helpful, though your usual takedown tactics apply too.

Thumos The Unbroken

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Boss:Advance into the large bridge room of the carrier, and back away from the console as Thumos and two Sub-Boss Legionaries appear. Your goal is to defeat Thumos, but this takes a lot longer than previous Cabal Boss takedowns because of the reinforcements that arrive throughout the fight. Here's what to look out for.

Sub-Bosses: Thumos arrives with two Commander Legionaries. These Sub-Bosses have Arc Shields and should be prioritized so you aren't dodging all three foes' weaponry.

Use the giant ramp pillars, console stacks, and raised platforms on either side of the central area as cover, and tackle each Commander Legionary one at a time. This is a good point to use both your grenade and Super, so it recharges and you can use it again toward the end of the entire battle. Use the entire perimeter of the room, and jump away from the Commander Legionaries if they charge after you reduce their energy to under a third. With both Sub-Bosses neutralized, pick some cover to sidestep back and forth from, and fire rapid headshots into Thumos until a third of his energy is gone.

Thumos: With no other foes getting in your way, start to battle Thumos, treating him as a battle-hardened Centurion. Though he has no Energy Shield, he makes up for it with a nasty vibro-sword, jetpack, and rifle (although he isn't vicious with the rifle at range). When he unsheathes his sword, back away, as melee combat with him usually results in your death. Instead, move back, keeping him at distance while peppering his head with your favored weapon. Keep this up until the next wave of foes arrives, usually when Thumos is at around two-thirds energy.

Cabal infantry: Thumos summons three to four Psions and a couple of Legionaries. He tends to hover above the platform he ascended from, shooting at you. Remain behind either large ramp pillar, and drop the Cabal infantry with methodical precision. Then tackle Thumos again, using the same tactics. You can run onto the main central ramp to gain unobstructed views of this foe, leaping over his head as he charges you. Perfect your "flying and firing" at his head so you're damaging him all the time, no matter what maneuver you're trying. Thumos sometimes switches to a void beam rifle during this battl; but that's reasonably easy to shrug off or avoid.

More Cabal infantry: With around a third energy left, Thumos summons a small pack of around six War Beasts, a trio of Psions, and (once the War Beasts are defeated) a Gladiator to really cause you problems. Shoot all but a couple of the War Beasts, using your Movement Mode to avoid being mauled and staying behind either ramp column so Thumos can't hit you. Switch to Stasis as there are a few more Psions around when the Gladiator appears. Then, make the Gladiator a priority target, staying active and using the stacked consoles and melee perimeter to your advantage. Remember to sidestep with headshots before he can kill you at melee range. If the Gladiator is getting too close, move across the platform.

Final fight: With Thumos left, the battle becomes a bit easier. This Boss isn't as vicious or maneuverable as his underlings. Stay tough, though, as continues to strike him in the head with ranged shots. Watch for his jumping, which is more pronounced than in previous bouts (he lands on the side console and moves to different parts of the chamber). However, with continuous firing and perhaps a second Super, Thumos soon becomes "broken." He have an empty, dejected look on his face.

LARCENY

Overview

Recommended Level: 16

Recommended Power: 160

You've taken out the previously unbroken Thumos and stolen his ship data. Before setting off for a journey into the sun, you need to appropriate the ship itself. This is easier said than done, as the expansive landing bay along the eastern side of the EDZ has even more Cabal to battle through. However, they're hindered somewhat by some upstart Fallen who are here to savage both you and the Red Legion. After a fierce battle, you end up at the ship, but it's going to take Ghost a while to hack it. Meanwhile, you must hold off multiple waves of Cabal ground forces intent on stopping your little game.

Legion's Anchor

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, Incendiors, Phalanxes, Scorpius, Gladiators, War Beasts, Centurions
- Fallen: Dregs, Vandals, Shanks
- Fallen: Sub-Boss: Servitor
- Cabal: Boss: Centurion

Objectives

- Steal Thumos' ship.
- Board Thumos' ship.

1 Legion's Anchor Corridors

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

From the Sunken Isles, head down the L-shaped corridor into Legion's Anchor, where a Fallen incursion is currently underway. Remain at the entrance, using the partial cover and dropping the cluster of Legionaries, then the Fallen Dregs and Vandals firing upward and left of you. Step into the loading bay, jump onto the platform bridge and ramp, and follow it to the upper ledge, slowly removing the nearest foes as you go. Note the yellow explosive barrel you can shoot to clear the central bridge area of foes. Shoot the four Shanks before dealing with the remaining Cabal atop the ramp and ledge. Then, focus on exploding an Incendior and removing Phalanx shields before heading down the exit corridor to a windowed thoroughfare.

Turn left slowly at the next left corner, as two rapid-fire sentry guns (Scorpius class) have been stationed to waylay Fallen intruders. These can seriously deplete your energy, so use the corner wall as cover and rapidly shoot each one, aiming at the brightly lit weapon that activates. You have a second as the gun raises up and cocks into position; use this to lay waste to it. Scorpius sentry guns are always priority targets because they are stationary and can kill you in seconds.

2 Viewing Corridors

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

The frequency and number of enemies from this point on becomes greater, so it's worth taking your time, slowing down and clearing the following corridors with care. Remove the Legionary, then step to the corner of the corridor to aim at a Dreg, Vandals, and Shanks as they close in on you. Deal with the Shanks first. Move to the ramp on the left side of the corridor, leading to a raised ledge where Dregs appear from. Tag them as they appear, along with two Vandals farther along the L-shaped raised ledge. Use the generators or lower barricade as cover. Stay on the raised ledge and move around slowly until you reach a central door console surrounded by Fallen.

Sub-Bosses: Aside from Vandals and Dregs, there is a named Servitor with a larger health capacity than normal. It doesn't need to be a priority target, with their highly damaging long-range rifle shots, Vandals should be the first foes you kill. Also, explode the yellow canister just behind and right of the console island. If the Servitor starts to link to Dregs or Vandals, focus on the Servitor instead. A well-timed Super can rid the entire area of foes here, but it's worth hanging on to your Super for a subsequent (and imminent) battle.

When the Servitor loses around half its health, around six Shanks join in. Back up to the corner of the raised L-shaped platform and use the cover, dropping all airborne foes in quick succession. Then, venture past the console island to a door that opens, revealing a nasty surprise!

This is the time to lob in a grenade or use your Super. Cabal hostiles comprised of a Gladiator, two Phalanxes, and two Incendiors are waiting behind this door.

If you can land a grenade and damage the Gladiator, finishing it with a headshot before it even has a chance to move, you can easily deal with the other four foes without needing to use your Super. Retreat to the L-shaped platform again if you must, but don't stand toe-to-toe with the Gladiator, or you'll be cleaved to death. Aiming at either of the Incendiors so their fuel packs explode is another way to soften up the Gladiator.

The cluster of Cabal was guarding a long cargo bay with two short and parallel corridors. Those open into a bay area with Psions (four on the upper platform, and four on the sunken central bay) and a Scorpius (right side of the upper platform). Stay at range, explode the Scorpius, then take aim and clear the central area of Psions. Don't head farther into the cargo bay until you've secured the initial area, as you find another Scorpius (right side of the right corridor) and a pack of eight War Beasts.

As you rattle off bullets into the exploding collars of the War Beasts, retreat a little, then deal with the Scorpius from range. There's another Scorpius guarding the left exit corridor and a couple of Psions to further waylay you; explode the sentry gun first. Take your time, as the door these foes are guarding automatically opens, revealing a Cabal Landing Zone with more automatic sentry guns. Stay out of their range of fire as you prepare for the following assault.

3 Cabal Landing Zone Assault

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

A protracted battle commences at this point, lasting until the end of the mission. Before you step into the fray, it's worth learning the three areas of combat you'll be accessing.

Covered ramps: There's the initial bay area that overlooks the two LZ platforms. Currently, a Scorpius is firing ahead and right of you. Destroy it, then watch for Legionaries on the lower ramped area.

Empty LZ: Ahead and left of you down an open-air ramp is a large Landing Zone with some yellow explosive canisters (save them for later) and a small group of Legionaries. These are easy pickings.

Ship LZ: Ahead and right of you, linked to the ramp and bridge from both LZs, is a gap you can leap across, leading to an LZ with the ship you need to hijack. Currently, a Scorpius is positioned on the edge of the LZ, pointed at the entrance you came in from. Behind it is a quartet of Legionaries. Shoot the Scorpius from cover at the covered ramps, or after crossing the bridge from the empty LZ. Remember you can move back and forth from the covered ramps to this location; use this route if the bridge and empty LZ become too crowded when Cabal reinforcements arrive.

Clear the entire area of the two Scorpius guns and the dozen or so Legionaries. Then, venture behind the ship (ship LZ), and use Ghost to hack into it (hijack the ship). This is going to take some time to complete, so you'll need to repel incoming enemies when this is going on.

As soon as the hijack begins, a wave ofCabal start dropping into the covered bay. Expect four Legionaries, a Gladiator, a couple of Psions, and up to four War Beasts. Long-range sniping with immediate and quick takedowns from the ship LZ is a good idea. Leaping to the covered bay is also an option, but you can be quickly overwhelmed. You may want to face the Gladiator at the empty LZ. It's a good idea to clear the Legionaries and War Beasts from range and from either of the LZ platforms before leaping onto the covered bay to deal with any Psion stragglers.

As you're mopping up Cabal from Wave 2, a dropship deposits a squad of Phalanxes, Legionaries, and a Centurion (with a Solar Shield). If you're at the covered bay, you have a slight height advantage and can face the Cabal on the connecting bridge, using area-of-effect weapons to detonate and send foes flying off to their doom. A similar plan is available if you're on the ship LZ. It's worth removing most of the foes from range first, then heading in to deal with the Centurion and firing at the yellow explosive canisters to soften up foes as the situation allows.

The action isn't letting up! As you defeat the final foes of the previous wave, expect around eight Psions, four Incendiors, and a couple of Legionaries to appear in and around the covered bay. Shoot the Incendiors first because they are easy to tag, and their explosions can damage the Psions. Then, hunt the Psions, coaxing them onto the empty LZ where there's cover for you but enough space to fire on Psions without obstruction. As the Psion menace is abated, check the ship LZ; there's a Centurion ready to battle!

Boss: At the end of this battle, try to stay on the empty LZ, especially as the Centurion arrives. He uses the weaponry associated with this enemy type, so seek cover, and coax the Centurion onto the bridge between the empty LZ and the ship LZ (where he appears). At this point, produce a grenade launcher, and point projectiles at the foe until he's staggered and finally sent falling off the side of the bridge. Use your Super and grenade, too. If you don't have area-of-effect weapons to push him off the bridge, face the Centurion with some sniper fire at range or continuous headshots as you move to the different cover options around the empty LZ. Staying at range and in cover and whittling down the foe's health as he plods toward you is a slower (but no less competent) way to finish this fight.

With the Centurion defeated, simply board the ship and conclude this mission.

Overview

Recommended Level: 16

Recommended Power: 170

You disembark onto the surface of the Almighty, a colossal feat of Cabal engineering that would be awe-inspiring if it didn't threaten your very existence. You're here to trek through the large conduit chambers in search of the Almighty's weapon cooling systems to cripple the ship, and hinder Ghaul's plans once and for all. You're here to make things too hot for comfort, literally. You must find the ship's cooling systems, shut them down, and escape before the entire ship overheats into a planet-sized ball of molten death.

Starboard Landing

THE ALMIGHTY

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, Psions, Scorpius, Gladiators, War Beasts, Incendiors, Phalanxes

Objectives

- Follow the fuel streams to the Almighty's weapons systems.

1 Fuel Stream Corridors (Exterior)

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Drop down to the platform and deal damage to a few Legionaries, using the crates as cover (or land on and fire down from them). Head down the ramp, engaging Psions behind cover on both sides of this long exterior corridor. Expect no more than a dozen Psions and four Legionaries stepping out from the left. Methodically check behind cover, and bring down foes closest to you. Shoot the yellow explosive canisters to wound hostiles hiding near them.

Jump and land on the exposed pipe with the narrow gantry atop it. You're close to the fuel stream and a bottomless drop into space, so keep yourself properly anchored by landing firmly on the gantry.

Shoot the Legionaries on the curved grating ahead, and follow it around to the right to a second expansive platform. Your first adversary is a Scorpius; destroy that before it does the same to you. Then, move onto the platform, tackling four Psions and a Gladiator. The space allows you to easily back up and headshot the Gladiator, optionally detonating explosive canisters to wound him as you maneuver.

Standing atop some crates and firing down also works, though the Gladiator can use a jetpack to reach you. With the area devoid of Cabal, use Ghost to access the bridge controls, and extend the bridge across to the opposite side of the super-structure.

2 Fuel Stream Bridge

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Just as you produce Ghost to access the bridge controls, you have two main assault options as three Cabal dropships swoop in, releasing a small horde of foes onto the bridge and the main entrance on the opposite side. You can:

- Remain by the console, using ranged weaponry to easily tag around six War Beasts as they bound in your direction. Stay where you are, and drop a couple of Incendiors and Phalanxes as the opportunity arises, along with two Legionaries slowly advancing across the bridge. Use the raised barriers on the edge of the bridge as cover, if necessary. Lob a grenade if you must; it is more effective because the enemy can't really dodge it in the confined space. Then, rush to the far side of the bridge, where additional combat begins.
- Or, you can rush across the bridge just as it starts to pivot. When both sections link up, you can execute a Super and rampage through the aforementioned foes. You can also flee to the far side of the bridge, optionally using your Movement Mode to get up to the large cylindrical platform on your left and attacking everyone from up there. This isn't as safe, but it's an option.

Assuming you attempted the first bridge-crossing option, drop foes closest to you first, then Phalanxes. Because they shield other enemies, they cause you the most trouble. There are around four more Legionaries on the raised area by the main door, along with an explosive canister; hit that to soften up multiple foes.

THE ALMIGHTY

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, War Beasts, Phalanxes, Gladiators, Incendiors
- Cabal: Sub-Boss: Centurion

Objectives

- Follow the fuel streams to the Almighty's weapons systems (continued).
- Find a way to turn on the grinder.

New Actions to Learn

- Gathering Fusion Cores

3 Ore Grinders Chamber

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Head through the linking corridors into a large chamber. You see a series of circular chute doors to your left, masses of ground-up rock on the floor ahead of you, and a massive grinder along the right side of the chamber, where you can easily defeat two Legionaries. Ghost recommends that you get this grinder started, so head over to the control room on the opposite side, dropping two more Legionaries. Save the exploding canisters for the main fight to come. It seems the Red Legion is using the remains of the planet Mercury as fuel.

Search the grinder control area for a selection of fusion cores (ball-shaped objects you can grab), and carry one to the console with the circular open door. Insert the core, and the massive grinder closes up and starts removing the huge rock wall that's preventing your progress. While it eats away at your exit option, Red Legion are inbound. Prepare for a protracted battle.

4 Remain on the control room side of the chamber, and snipe at the Legionaries and Phalanxes dropping in close to where you entered, along with a pack of War Beasts on the right side. These foes are immediately joined by two Gladiators, and they are your priority targets. Shoot them in the head as they bound and jet-pack their way across the chamber. Because you're on raised ground by the grinder controls, they can't quickly charge you, affording enough time for you to drop both of them without a lot of tricky dodging.

Then, concentrate on nearest foes, with War Beasts and Phalanxes top of your list. When the control room starts to get overrun, jump out in the chamber, and fight the Cabal among the rocks. Incendiors have joined the throng, and other foes (usually Legionaries and Incendiors) are dropping in from the large circular chute doors opposite the grinder. Know where your reinforcements are coming from, and drop a grenade (from a launcher, as well as your ability) if you can. Jumping in and shotgunning foes in the face is amusing and works well, as does landing on scenic objects for a few seconds so you aren't swarmed on the ground.

Bound to the raised entrance platform where you came from, too; the height helps you waylay foes so they have to use their jetpacks or the ramp. Detonating Incendiors and blasting all explosive canisters is another excellent plan, as is using your Super.

Sub-Boss: After the first wave of enemies, expect a named Centurion with a Solar Shield to appear. Treat him just like any other Centurion: blast his shield with an appropriate Energy weapon and aim at the head, shrugging off other attackers so this Centurion dies before his shield recharges.

With the enemy defeated in this area, the grinder finishes burrowing, allowing you access deeper into the Almighty.

5 Cargo Corridor 1

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Venture into a darkened rubble-filled chamber with a door up and right of you. Step to it, and it opens, revealing a Legionary and War Beast ambush. Step back and down so you have enough time to rake the War Beasts, then finish the Legionary before proceeding into the cargo corridor. Note the small platform ledges on each side of this relatively narrow corridor; tackle a couple of Legionaries and a Incendior, but don't rush forward because there's a Gladiator to deal with. Shoot him from range, ideally dropping him before he can cleave you.

Only then should you head down the shallow ramp, using the two central generators as cover and removing the remaining Incendior and a couple of Legionaries. Yellow explosive canisters are also helpful to shoot here.

Continue down the corridor to the window at the far end, showing the monumental power of the Red Legion's ship. You're now expected to head outside, with the full rays of the sun burning through your armor, and maneuver across the ship's superstructure.

6 Exterior Superstructure

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Sprint down the shallow and searing slope of the super-structure, stepping into the shadow of the scenery and heat-shields to avoid being fried. Rush to the two larger shields, where you must engage (or ignore) a couple of Legionaries. Once you're in shadow, start the fight.

To your right are two parallel bridge spans. From your elevated cover, shoot the Legionary duos on either span (or both), using grenades if necessary, then sprint across to the shadow of a large shield on the opposite side. Venture back up the slope, stepping into cover as you engage Legionaries streaming down from the exit door. Stay cool, and aim at their heads as you push forward. Stop at cover, ideally at the area in the middle where the heat shield and dome-shaped section of the ship are located.

Let the enemy come to you, using the dome to run around for additional cover (from both enemy fire and the heat). Then, sprint and jump onto the small platform with the exit door, running inside and out of immediate danger.

The Action is Heating Up

During your time moving across the exterior of the Almighty, you're constantly taking burning damage until you find respite behind the ship's heat shields or structures, anything that casts a shadow. Remain in shadow whenever you need to replenish your energy, and try to attack from these points. Minimize your combat with the Cabal outside of this cover, as you're easily defeated due to constantly losing health.

7 Cargo Corridor 2

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Enter a similar cargo corridor to the one previously accessed, though you're approaching from the lower ground exit. Leap to the raised area halfway along the corridor, and watch three Gladiators drop into view, along with a trio of War Beasts, two Incendiors, and a couple of Psions along the back platform. The Gladiators are a real concern; blast any explosive canisters to weaken them, then train your weapons on the closest Gladiator, backing up where necessary. You can jump to a small high platform on either wall, but these foes can follow you there. It's better to leap atop the generators in the middle of the corridor, and dodge while you drop the Gladiators. Or, use your Super and kill all three easily. Stay at the lower end of the corridor where the Psions can't snipe you.

Deal with the Psions last. Shoot the canister on their platform as you boost up and tackle them at close quarters so you're not sniping them from range (which takes too long). Then, climb the curved platforms around the massive chain to exit the chamber.

Another option is to charge immediately to the far end of the corridor, removing both Psions and then firing down on the Gladiators, War Beasts, and Incendiors from there or the chain platforms. Or, simply escape without clearing the room, but that's more dangerous.

8 Cargo Corridor 3

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

At the top of the curved gantry platforms is access to a red-hued corridor entrance. Meet two Legionaries, a Phalanx, and a Gladiator here, using the scattered cover opportunities at the corridor entrance. Grenades or shotguns to drop the Gladiator are good ideas.

Then, step to the corridor entrance, aiming at the Phalanx's shield, and back up as another Gladiator comes charging down. Deal with him, then Legionaries and another Phalanx and two Legionaries, making sure you don't push down the corridor too quickly.

9 Main Grinder Chamber

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

After some corridor and ramp maneuvering, you arrive at the huge main grinding chamber, with ore tubes linking this location to the weapons systems of the ship itself. From here, you can easily ignore all enemies and jump to the central part of the chamber (avoiding the grinder). Sprint along to the exit gravity tube ahead and to your right.

Sub-Boss: A more proficient use of your time is to clear the area first. Cabal forces are on the lower sections of metal flooring on either side of the grinder, so approach via the ramps. The recommended route is down the left gantry ramp, dropping through the hole in the lower gantry platform to floor level. Remove immediate Legionary threats, then destroy a couple more Legionaries, an Incendior, and a named Centurion emerging from a doorway in the far-left corner of this area. Remain steadfast, and drop the Centurion so you can turn and dedicate your subsequent ammunition to shooting incoming Legionaries and Psions using their jetpacks. Use the console wall and support pillars as cover. Then, you can tag Psions across the chamber from this cover, hitting them in the head before jumping over to finish any stragglers. Expect around a dozen Psions in and around the curved sunken gravity tube entrance, and then exit.

A Huge Mistake

If you head down the right gantry ramp from this chamber's entrance, the Centurion that appears from the far-left area has time to boost across and start launching his cluster missiles, making him a little trickier to take down. It's wiser to remove him by rushing his location using the previous recommended plan.

Sunside (2nd Mission)

THE ALMIGHTY

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, Psions, Incendiors

Objectives

- Follow the fuel streams to the Almighty's weapons systems (continued).
- Destroy the Almighty's weapon cooling system.
- Escape the Almighty!

New Actions to Learn

- Interceptor Driving: General Maneuvers

10 Cooling System Takedown

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Ride the gravity tube, drop down a massive pipe, and land at an Interceptor depot. When the door opens, shoot the canister to your left so it explodes, killing both Legionaries. If available, use your Super and grenade to clear the depot, as you spend most of the remainder of this mission on an Interceptor. Or, just drop down, climb into the Interceptor, and destroy every Psion and Legionary in the vicinity.

Vehicular Cabal Slaughter

Use this Cabal vehicle against the Red Legion similar to how you drove the Drake tank earlier in the Campaign. The craft is reasonably maneuverable, can boost and strafe easily, and has solar rockets to strike foes and the cooling systems. Pay attention to the damage you're taking, and find additional Interceptor summoning points throughout the super-structure of the Almighty.

Your Worst Foot Forward

Can you ignore the Interceptor and attempt an assault on the Almighty on foot? Sure. Is it possible? Definitely not. Prove us wrong!

Boost into a curved hall with barriers, explosive canisters, and around a dozen Incendiors and Legionaries. Shoot them using your Interceptor's solar rockets or blast the canisters for area-of-effect damage, hitting more foes at once (then finishing with the Interceptor's firepower). Head to and then wait at the green-lit door, which opens and allows access onto the exterior of the weapons systems area.

11 Once you're outside, firing at foes becomes a secondary action, compared to locating and destroying a series of cooling fans (waypoints 10, 11, and 12). These appear on your HUD after scanning with Ghost, and they are easy to spot. Clear the immediate area of Cabal infantry, staying mobile so foes don't concentrate their firepower on you.

Locate the large flat-domed cooling vent, and position your craft by the door gratings. When those open, fire at the interior fan with the Interceptor's rockets. Don't let up, and ignore enemy firepower hitting your craft. It takes four or five rocket barrages for the cooling system to explode. Then, boost away to the next location.

The second cooling dome is identically designed, so circle around it until you find the door gratings, dropping Cabal infantry as you wait. With the grating open, fire four rocket barrages, then boost across a bridge, through a doorway, and around to the main cooling system.

12 This system is set up a little differently. When you're at the large curved platform with a couple of barricades, clear the area of Psions and other pesky foes. Then, wait for the main cooling vent doors to open in the much larger domed structure. Blast the final fans, then drive your Interceptor to the entrance doors and rake the incoming Legionaries rushing in from the left. Hop out of your vehicle, as the final part of this mission is on foot.

13 The enemy presence is light, and you have an electron reservoir to cripple. Accomplish this by entering the corridor left of the destroyed cooling system, grabbing a fusion core, and jumping up and through the connecting corridor with an overheating floor. Your armor takes some damage, but this is necessary to reach the circular conduit to the Almighty's core. Drop the fusion core into this receptacle, and then flee.

The Almighty is disabled. Time to get to the escape dropship in under a minute. As the timer counts down, turn 180 degrees and jump onto the top of the super-structure (above the corridor you just ascended from). Sprint across (and jump over) the rapidly exploding and overheating floor. Bound to the waiting ship (competent Guardians should have around 30 seconds left on the clock), and conclude the mission.

CHOSEN

Overview

Recommended Level: 19

Recommended Power: 190

Though the Last City is in ruins, the tide is turning in your favor, and the liberation into a new era of light is about to begin. Just ensure that it isn't Ghaul himself who controls the Traveler! To stop the Cabal leader, you must first gain entry to his ship by reaching a rally point where your Guardian Mentors are holed up. You achieve this by battling Cabal forces across the city, then taking careful jumps across the rooftops to the rally point itself. As you'd expect, you're selected to face the great Ghaul himself. It seems he's learned his own abilities, so prepare to fight Ghaul with light in this final confrontation.

Peregrine District

LAST CITY LIBERATION

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, Phalanxes, Incendiors, Centurions, Psions, Gladiators, Centurion, Scorpius Sentry Gun
- Cabal: Sub-Boss: Incendior

Objectives

- Rendezvous with the Vanguard.

1 Assault On Cabal Barrier 1

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

The liberation of the Last City begins. Start by executing some careful jump drops to the ground (let's not start this mission by cratering, okay?). You can maneuver your drops to land on a low roof of a building to the right, if you want. This gives you some height to lay waste to Legionaries as you head up a rubble-filled street. Tackle four Legionaries by the small kiosk, then head farther up the street to a courtyard where a main force of Cabal is guarding a barricade (the orange energy wall to your left).

Open up and Let Me In

The Cabal barriers here, and throughout this mission, they're on a timer. You need to keep an eye on the orange energy walls, and pass through them when they disappear. These walls usually open after you've neutralized all immediate Cabal threats. However, they close quickly, leaving you to face the same threats again. This can continue for a while, so always head through the open barricades as quickly as possible, even if there are foes left in the previous area.

Prepare to fight a few Legionaries, two or three Phalanxes, and a Centurion with a Solar Shield. A Super and grenades early on are great, as you have time to recharge these Abilities for the assault on the second barrier. Use the cover of the crates and the Cabal dome on your right, and stay close to the left side of the rubble-filled courtyard, where the barrier wall is.

An Incendior and Phalanx reinforcements arrive; after that, expect the same initial forces (Legionaries, Phalanxes, and a Centurion) to head through the barrier wall, so break off the engagement and head through the doorway. If you don't, you'll simply have to finish the foes again, and watch for the next time the doorway opens. Should you see other Guardians in this space, it is recommended you team up with them for maximum firepower. Help them return to the action by resurrecting them!

2 Assault On Cabal Barrier 2

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Once you're through the first barricade, head along the remains of an ornate concrete walkway by a canal, cross a bridge, and proceed up a rubble-strewn street while quickly dropping around eight Psions along the way. There are Phalanxes on the opposite (right) side of the canal and Legionaries around the bridge. You can ignore them, if you're in a rush.

Slow down at the next courtyard, though. There's a ruined building to your left (good to jump onto and use to strafe foes below you), a Cabal dome on your right (good for cover), and Legionaries to strafe. Expect 4-6 of them, a couple of Phalanxes, an Incendior, and a Centurion (with a Solar Shield).

Defeat all of them, and six more Legionaries appear from a side entrance and behind the dome and ruins, followed by a Centurion (Solar Shield), Phalanxes, and an Incendior. The reinforcements are the same as before. At this point, look for a break in the barrier and flee; it's usually after the second wave of foes are vanquished.

3 Bazaar Thoroughfare

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Leap onto a balcony, and head into a market bazaar corridor with two levels; stay on the upper-left level to gain a height advantage. Shoot a Psion from range before backing up and concentrating your firepower on a charging Gladiator. Expect around eight Psions and a second Gladiator as you turn the left corner slightly and reach a stepped courtyard area. You can rush through, stand and fight, or back up and wait for foes to reach you so you're not overwhelmed. Exit via the open iron doors ahead and left.

4 Market Courtyard

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Head up a number of stone steps leading to a market with a large archway on the upper far side of a courtyard brimming with heavily armored Cabal foes. The easiest way through here is to simply ignore all enemies and jump, then sprint through the archways, as this area has no barrier you need to wait for.

If you elect to stand and fight, you may want to slow down. Drop the Legionary halfway up the steps, then slink around to the left, ascending over the rubble and using the various columns in the courtyard as cover. Dispatch two Phalanxes and strafe in and out of cover while bombarding the head of a Centurion, your priority target. When he falls, resume attacks on the Phalanxes and a couple of Incendiors (depending on which is threatening), and mop up a couple of Legionaries to clear the area.

Sprint along and up a series of corridors and rooftops until you can see the Traveler and the draining of the light. A set of rooftop maneuvers to the rally point is now called for.

Cabal Confrontations

From this point, attacking the Cabal, especially those on rooftops you don't need to reach, is purely optional. Since you have a series of death-defying airborne platform maneuvers to complete, remain focused on the route to take instead of combat antics.

5 Rooftop Maneuvers

Super: Optional

Grenades: Recommended

Take your time, looking to the right from the initial rooftop, and jump to the yellow metal stairs on the subsequent roof. Land on the ivy-covered cabin roof, watching for a Legionary and other Cabal diagonally ahead and left of you, on a rooftop you can optionally jump to and secure.

If you head across, leap to the curved platform where the first Legionary was, then jump so you don't fall short. There are Legionaries, Phalanxes, and a Sub-Boss Incendior to deal with.

A better plan is to simply stay on the right side and jump across to three tiny square-shaped grate platforms attached to vertical poles. Prevent yourself from overshooting these targets by steering in the air so you hit the vertical poles and drop down, or hit the jump button again to descend if your Guardian power allows it.At the third tiny platform, look ahead and right, then jump to a building balcony (attached to a green tenement block). Then stop!

Just around this corner is a Scorpius sentry gun. Step out of cover, shoot it or lob a grenade, then step back. Simply running at it gets you mowed down. Move to where the Scorpius was, and take one of the diagonal gantry girders to the yellow building, swing right, leap up where the ladder is, then look left. Ahead is an outdoor covered rooftop. Jump to it, slaughtering a Phalanx and Incendior as you arrive. There are a second Phalanx and a Legionary on the upper level.

Work your way around to the edge of the rooftop and jump to the balcony on the rally point building (with the salmon-colored semicircular neon lighting). Drop an Incendior and a couple of Legionaries as you move up and right to a final set of steps and finally rendezvous with your team. With your Guardians badly wounded, it's up to you to finish the leader of the Red Legion yourself! Cayde opens up a teleport; enter at your own risk.

LAST CITY LIBERATION

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: War Beasts

Objectives

- Defeat Ghaul.

7 War Beast Chamber

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

You appear inside Ghaul's command ship. Head forward, and when the door opens, reduce your speed and noise to a minimum, as you reach a cluster of sleeping War Beasts. You can move slowly around them (head left of the pillar) toward an exit doorway, going to a subsequent maintenance doorway and up a maintenance shaft area. You can do this without waking up any foes. If you stand on any War Beasts or move too close to them, they wake up!

Or, you can shoot at the War Beasts while backing up, dropping a barricade or grenade so they can't easily get through the entrance door. Retreat back up the entrance corridor as the War Beasts charge you. This can result in your death, but it's worth a try if you're adamant about killing everything.

Alternately, you can sneak through the room before sprinting to the exit into the maintenance shaft area. Turn around and shoot at War Beasts from this vantage point, dropping down to tackle foes before retreating back here if anything gets too close for comfort. Then, you can gradually reduce the number of foes from here. Grenades are worth dropping in this confined area. Boost up past the yellow pipework to a higher gantry, then around to the red-lit pipes, running by them up a ramp and into the upper cargo bay of the ship.

- Cabal: Psions, Phalanxes, Legionaries, Incendiors
- Cabal: Sub-Boss: Incendior
- Cabal: Boss: Dominus Ghaul

Objectives

- Defeat Ghaul (continued).

8 Command Ship Cargo Bay

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

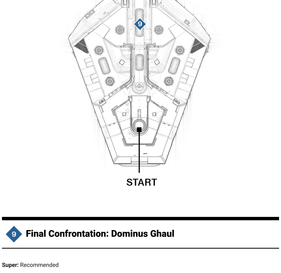
Head up the ramp to a relatively compact cargo bay area. Streaming out of the far door are six Psions (three moving to each side of the bay) and a couple of Phalanxes, Legionaries, and an Incendior Sub-Boss (Void Shield). Head around the left side of the room's perimeter so you can quickly neutralize half the Psions, then attack the closest targets, with Phalanxes being the main concern because they can shield others.

Remain at range, and tackle the Sub-Boss Incendior last unless you're confident you can defeat him without breaking off the attack and letting his shields recharge. Then, move through to the circular elevator, allowing access to the command ship's exterior.



Another option is simply to charge forward, passing by all enemies to the elevator and riding it up, ignoring all combat.

9 Final Confrontation: Dominus Ghaul

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Warning!: Restricted Zone

Defeating Ghaul: Reconnoiter: After heading along the outer spine of the craft, you face down Ghaul, and combat begins. Just aim at his head until he moves out of range and the complexities of combat increase. At this point, you should explore the structure of the battlefield (in this case, the command ship you're fighting on).

Traveler's Light: Ghaul flies around this craft, returning to bathe in a column of unnatural light from time to time. This column is directly ahead of you (as you enter the fight), and it's not worth moving any farther toward the front of the ship than this point.

Linked tunnels: There is a lower section on either side of the upper "spine" of the craft, each with a tunnel that links to a central tunnel and then to the opposite side. Here, you can rush to replenish your energy if you've been struck or if you need to reload, change weapons, or hide. Note the tall metal cylinders on the craft at each entrance; look for them during combat so you know where to head. Also, note a second central tunnel farther back under the main spine of the craft, which is useful for moving back and forth between the lower exterior sides.

Cover opportunities: The metal cylinders and various metal barriers along the sides of the craft can act as cover. In general, though, there aren't many areas to hide behind, aside from the tunnels.

Columns of Boundless Light: During the second and third parts of the battle, the rear part of the craft on each side has a Column of Boundless Light, which automatically recharges your Super and Abilities. This is critical to reach during an otherwise lengthy battle.

Cabal infantry: Expect Psions and Legionaries to help their master all the way through combat. During parts two and three, Incendiors and Phalanxes also appear, arriving on the super-structure to annoy and impede you. Periodically clear these foes, usually by rushing them with headshots and a melee attack to finish. These actually become useful because the ammo they drop replenishes your supplies, especially helpful for your Power weapons.

Begin by focusing on the removal of Ghaul's first third of his health. Ghaul spends most of his time in the air and has three main attacks.

His foot-stomp (executed after landing) is highly damaging at close range, so stay away from him unless you're waving a shotgun in his face as you charge forward and back. He has a grenade launcher that punts out a grenade one at a time; strafe or jump away from that. He also has a variation on a Guardian Super attack: a flaming sword he lobs down while flying. This can damage you severely, so quickly jump away from it before it strikes you.

React by aiming all your firepower at Ghaul's head. Fast-firing rifles or hand cannons are great. Shotguns are dangerous but effective. Sniper rifles are tricky because he keeps moving. Grenades and launchers are tricky because he can easily avoid those projectiles in the air. Be sure to launch your Super; connect with Ghaul's head, and don't worry about "wasting" it, as there's more light available soon. Continue to punish Ghaul's head until he loses his first third of health and retreats to his column, the Traveler's Light.

Continue to punish Ghaul's head until he loses his first third of health and retreats to his column, the Traveler's Light.

As Ghaul retreats into his maelstrom of purple light, remove all Cabal infantry threats, as many as possible once a new dropship arrives to deposit more Psions and Legionaries on the super-structure. While you're fending off the lesser foes, step into either Column of Boundless Light on the ship, recharging your Super and Abilities. When the purple column disappears, you can focus on removing the second third of Ghaul's health.

Ghaul attacks with his grenade launcher (two grenades at a time now), still has his foot-stomp, and has learned a variation on a new Super: a crackling maelstrom and some deadly melee strikes. However, a quick-thinking backpedal usually results in this attack missing. Return the favor with a Super just after Ghaul finishes his, when he's most exposed. Couple this with any Abilities you favor before returning to a Column of Boundless Light and recharging. Repeat the Super attack until Ghaul's health ebbs away to a third. Alternately, headshots from your favored weapons eventually do the trick, though you need to keep moving (and hiding) to avoid his wrath.

The light is affecting Ghaul, and the tide may be turning. While he's writhing in his purple maelstrom, make short work of the Cabal infantry on deck, using your grenades (and grenade launcher) to clear the area and perhaps pick up ammunition. Bathe in either Column of Boundless Light so your Super is ready to go. Note that the columns move to the lower part of the craft, near the tunnels.

Ghaul himself uses both the previous Supers he has acquired from the Traveler's Light, after attempting to strike with his final super, a giant void shield which he can hurl at you. This is easily dodged if you watch Ghaul conjure the ball and leap before it arrives. Though he's more vicious, and you'll usually need to use the tunnels to protect you, he eventually yields to several Super attacks directed at his head, or countless bullets aimed at the same place. Keep on the offense, returning to bathe in more light for a recharged Super until Ghaul takes a tumble he doesn't get up from. The mission is over. The Red Legion has been defeated!

We've Only Just Begun!

Get yourself back to the Tower, there's little time for celebrations, but a whole lot more to unlock, including missions, weapons, and masses of loot. The battle is over, but the war has just begun.

STRIKES

Overview

Guardians may elect to complete one of the available Strikes, accessed from the Director once they are unlocked. This is a co-operative mission for three fireteam members that requires the assault on a particular enemy, the removal of consecutive enemy clusters, and possible Sub-Boss takedowns before a final confrontation with a tougher foe. Rewards include quality and Strike-specific loot.

Available Strikes

At launch, there are five available Strikes across all gaming platforms, located across four different Worlds. They unlock once the Vanguard mentors return to the Farm:

| Name Of Strike | Strike Recommended Power | Nightfall Strike Required/Recommended Power* | Location |
|---|---|---|---|
| The Pyramidion | 140 | 230/240 | Io |
| The Inverted Spire | 140 | 230/240 | Nessus |
| Exodus Crash | 140 | 230/240 | Nessus |
| The Arms Dealer | 140 | 230/240 | European Dead Zone |
| Savathûn's Song | 140 | 230/240 | Titan |

(* Recommended level for Strikes/Nightfall Strikes)

Nightfall Strikes

As you might expect, there are higher-difficulty variations of each available Strike, which are usually selected for availability (after game launch) by Bungie and may not be available to play on a consistent basis. Look for these missions, which may reward you with Exotic loot.

Enemies are usually tougher, and differing enemies may appear in clusters as you encounter them throughout the Nightfall Strike, compared to a usual Strike.

Strike Information: General Overview Access

The remainder of this chapter is devoted to the five Strikes and more precise knowledge of each set of encounters, along with tactics on completing each one. As the limitless variation of Nightfall modifiers may change the tactics significantly, utilize the following information based on the original Strikes. The information is here so you have a good overall understanding of when the most problematic foes are encountered, what general variations there might be, and "best-case" strategies.

Note that each section gives you general advice on whether to use your Super or your grenade Ability, the general differences between a Strike and its Nightfall version, and any weak point for the end-of-mission entity you face. As always, you may want to employ differing tactics depending on the specific situations presented to you.

Expect a number of modifiers that vary your game. Since Strike enemy groups are variable, you may witness completely different squads of enemies.

Nightfall Strikes have (usually) two modifiers that add an additional element of difficulty. Different tactics may be required in order to complete the Strike. Modifiers are chosen by Bungie each time a Nightfall Strike becomes active.

THE PYRAMIDION

Overview

Strike: Recommended Power 140

Nightfall: Required Power 230, Recommended Power 240

Asher Mir requests your presence investigating the main Vex pyramid structure on Io. It soon becomes clear that this is the main conduit for Vex activity throughout the solar system and a base of power for this enemy. You must negotiate the vast floating platform interior of this void structure, navigating past laser defenses and hordes of Vex foes, including enemies very rarely encountered. After locating the main conduit, you must drop down and engage the genesis mind of this seat of power.

The Rupture (Entrance)

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Vex: Goblins, Harpies, Hobgoblins

Objectives

- Approach the Pyramidion entrance.
- Activate the Vex altars (2).
- Defeat the Vex.
- Enter the Pyramidion.

The Rupture

1 Pyramidion Entrance Altars

Super: Optional (one player)Grenades: Recommended (one player)Variations: Additional Hobgoblins, Storm Minotaurs.

A more cunning method of entering the Pyramidion structure than “attack everything” is required, especially as the surrounding sides of the central sunken area are great for long-range sniping. Send your meatiest teammate down there to inflict close-quarters hurting on the assembled Vex forces, which are usually toughened Goblins and Harpies. Have your other teammates snipe from the side and offer covering fire (dropping any Hobgoblins that have appeared atop the pillars). When fewer foes are presenting themselves, be sure to stand in the circular altars of light (there are two within the sunken entrance area); have one teammate at each altar to quicken the unlocking process. With remaining stragglers dealt with (including a couple of toughened Harpies), simply descend into the now-open structure.

- Defeat the Axe
- Find the next rechargers
- Activate the Axe altars (3)
- Locate the last rechargers
- Reach the relevant towers (4)
- Defeat the Minotaurs
- Enter the conduit
- Defeat the Boss Hobgoblins

Colossal Steps

Super: Optional (one player)

Grenades: Optional (one player)

Resist the temptation to gawk at the incredible Vex architecture, and instead, make short work of the Goblins guarding the gigantic stepped chamber. Drop onto each step, reaching for the telltale signs of Vex teleports warping Goblins and a Minotaur onto three of the steps.

Have one teammate attack at close quarters with two others on higher steps, providing sniping fire. Continue a measured descent, with one teammate always engaging each Hobgoblin on either side of the circular exit. Then, demolish the Goblins and Minotaur on the final step and land on it.

Pass between the first three white laser traps. Cut down the Goblins in the connecting passage, then jump over the laser floor. Pull the switch on the back wall, and slide under the next. Then, steer yourself during the drop as you miss all of the lasers during the descent.

First Wargate

Super: Recommended (one player) / Grenades: Recommended

Out from the laser traps, remain on the higher platform as you look across to the first wargate through an archway opening that looks a little like a triangle. Dispatch Hasteur, then the Goblins in your immediate view before heading across this exterior chamber. At this point, have one of your teammates execute a Super. There are more than a dozen Goblins, a couple of Minotaurs, and some toughened Hasteur on this platform. Your teammate's explosive ability will help you clear them out. Alternatively, if you're playing with a group that already progress around to the wargate arches, then there is a flock of Harpies that materializes around about 10. You'll know if you've defeated all the Vex because this triggers the wargate to open.

Altar Room

Super: Recommended (two players)/Grenades: Recommended

Once you're through the wargate, three pour movements through the vast set of laser traps. They disappear into the floor, then reappear. Time your jumps through the first pattern of the lasers before positioning when they shut off, and step through (or fall down) to the altar room.

This chamber requires you to activate three Vex altars, just like you did before entering the Pyramidion. The altars are in the same locations as before, but this time, they're surrounded by Goblins. Two Hobgoblins on the far side toward the (currently inactive) wargate. They can fire Vex first, and make for unplug Hobgoblins a priority. When very few foes are left, have two players head to the first altar to activate it. Then, have them head to the next altar, and finally, the last altar. Each time you do, a Vex Hydra appears when all three altars are active. Employ a Super if needed when clearing this area. Otherwise, remain on the perimeter of the room so you're not overwhelmed. Save a Super for the Hydra, unless you want a protracted fight. With the wargate functional, leap through it.

Conduit

Super: Optional (one player)

Grenades: Recommended

A long conduit chamber is visible, with a number of laser traps and the Hobgoblins, Goblins, and Hasteur in between them. Time your sprint through the first couple of walls, then take down the Hobgoblins and then the Goblins before heading into the tube-like conduit. Time the dash through the rotating lasers as you sprint at either side in one continuous run; just time it based on the initial rotating laser, and you should be fine. Then, drop into the hideout.

Tower Platform

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Variations: Additional Hobgoblins.

Step onto a long platform with a central sunken area and a hotspot at the far end. Ahead and on either side of the platform are the several plinths are some stationary Cyclopses, a rarely encountered foe.

This foe fires a nasty laser, then a barrage of lasers when it's been damaged. Before you remove these threats, tackle the enemies atop the pillars, and make done (but steady) progress through this chamber. If you're daring, you're being swarmed by multiple clusters of Vex, a Minotaur and Goblins appear around each of the four towers positioned at the edges. Use the cover in the middle to move from one to the next, and be sure to time your jumps so that you're never exposed.

Approach each of the white glowing small towers, and completely remove any threats in the immediate vicinity. As the last Vex hurtles fall, have one teammate do the hacking while the other mops up and the third teammate provides overwatch. Once you've hacked all four towers, the Cyclopses will be destroyed. At this time, you can try the slightly more dangerous plan of having two teammates tackle a tower separately, with the third providing covering fire. Minotaurs are especially deadly here, so make them priority targets after you've aimed at the Cyclopses' eyes.

Conduit And Final Altar

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Boss Mask Spot: Red head veil, then torso opening

Once you're through the last wargate, drop down the colossal conduit to a roughly triangular altar chamber with Goblins and Hasteur. Then, Boss Hobgoblin Brakion appears in front of you. This foe has a Vex summons a truly frightening (and massive) Boss Hobgoblin, the general mind of the Pyramidion itself!

From the start of the battle, it is important to know where the Boss Hobgoblin appears from (the edge of the arena closest to the altar you stand on).

Ensure your team so that the available two black cover opportunities are known and utilized. Then, have all your firepower on the Boss' head as soon as it appears. Wreck him with your fire and vicky grenades until he returns to a raised perimeter of the battlefield and puts up an impenetrable white shield. A host of Goblins is then summoned.

Stay active, concentrate on removing the multiple Goblins (one-off-them attacks work before the Goblins spread out), and then stand on an opposing altar circle to weaken the Boss Hobgoblin's white shield wall. A Vex Hydra appears, and you must destroy it before it fires its laser. Then, the Boss Hobgoblin's shield will be in stun!!! Remove the foe, and activate the second altar. The white wall shield collapses, enabling you to damage the Boss Hobgoblin again. During this time, the Boss Hobgoblin may raise or drop the low block wall sections, so hitting places are not guaranteed. Instead, back up and use your favored ranged weapon or close in and witness Goblins with a shotgun (depending on your play style).

When the Boss Hobgoblin is prone, waste no time in bombarding him in the central red head veil, avoiding his swords and powerful laser range rifle. This is the time to launch grenades and Supers into the foe. As it as soon as the shield wall drops so you can inflict the maximum amount of damage possible before another shield wall rises. Then, you can repeat the Boss Hobgoblin fires his rifle. When you see it, Goblins quickly rise cover as it doesn't hurtle damage you.

Expect it to deal with two or three shield walls before the Boss Hobgoblin loses a third of his health. On subsequent wall shield removal plan, watch for additional foes to appear. Her Minotaurs and the Goblin hordes.

More expert players tend to wait for Vex to "fall in" and land on the ground, and they dispatch enemies near where they first appear while remaining in cover. Then, they target the foes at the second altar area from. Whatever you do, don't let the Boss Hobgoblin fully take one of you to stand at an altar; make your team move difficult as he or she jumping in all directions.

With around a third of his health lost, the Boss Hobgoblin attempts a rampage across the arena. First cover, split up, and bombard him with your favored weaponry. Supers are reasonable at this point, but the Boss Hobgoblin's rampage is unpredictable, with his hip enough damage, meaning that you can waste some of your Super spamming to reach him again.

At this point, the Boss Hobgoblin throws out a nasty batch of purple flames that coats the surrounding area where you're standing. Leap quickly out of the way, and don't spend time thinking the cover is going to help you.

The burning damage spreads out around the blocks you're hiding behind. Goblins are summoned as the Boss Hobgoblin continues this rampage.

To further annoy you, he removes and summons block sections in separate areas of the arena, so split your team up and attack from three different directions. Watch for the purple fire gouts, too.

With around one-third of his health left, the Boss Hobgoblin starts a more manic assault, summoning Goblins and Minotaurs in greater numbers than before. Your best bet is to remain in cover and wait for the spread your team out to the three different corners of the map. Use thick cover, and train your weapons and Supers on the giant foe until you lose his head off. Then, switch to the torso opening glowing white, cinder anything around the now-crippled foe until he finally goes down.

THE INVERTED SPIRE

Overview

Strike: Recommended Power 140

Nightfall: Required Power 230, Recommended Power 240

Cabal mining activity on Nessus has unexpectedly woken a powerful Vex presence, and the ensuing conflict across multiple Sectors requires Guardian investigation. Your team must access the Cabal drilling operation away from the main Sectors of this planetoid and wade through any defenses as you search diligently (and violently) for evidence of Modular Mind activity. The final showdown occurs all the way down a multiple-tiered inverted spire, where a Boss proves that the Vex are a real force to be reckoned with.

THE INVERTED SPIRE

The Cistern

NESSUS, UNSTABLE CENTAUR

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, Phalanxes, Psions, Centurion
- Vex: Goblins, Minotaurs, Cyclops

Objectives

- Investigate the Cabal.
- Defeat all hostiles.
- Access the conflux.
- Press forward.

1 Pedestal Platforms

Super: Optional (one player)

Grenades: Optional

Variations: Vex enemies (Goblins, Minotaur, Cyclops) on the exit promontory.

Assault the Landing Zone in the southeastern area of the Cistern, where a group of Cabal (Legionaries and Phalanxes) is engaged in battle with the Vex (Goblins and a slightly toughened Minotaur). The fight is relatively straightforward, as you have the height advantage and can also attack from the block walls surrounding the LZ.

Access the pulsing conflux, hacking it so a series of floating blocks appears over the bottomless chasm ahead and along the southern perimeter of this Sector.

Carefully jump across the blocks (or take the slightly shorter route across the even smaller blocks to the right of the main route) to a block promontory with a Vex cannon above it. Jump into the cannon to propel yourself across to a second larger promontory with a small contingent of Cabal (or Vex, depending on the variations). Expect Legionaries, Psions, and a Centurion to waylay you. Use the tube-like structure as cover as you easily bring down these forces and then leap through another Vex cannon, traversing deeper into these vast floating block structures.

THE INVERTED SPIRE

The Anchor

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Vex: Goblins, Hobgoblins, Fanatics, Hydras

Objectives

- Traverse deeper.
- Press forward.

2 Anchor Chasm

Super: Recommended (one player)

Grenades: Optional

Variations: Hobgoblins on the upper ledges, Cabal forces (Sub-Boss Centurion) in the main L-shaped ledge.

Enter the gaping chasm and look to the right from the entrance perch. Snipe the Goblins on the lower block "bridge," and then jump to it. Watch your step: aside from the ledges to leap to, this is a bottomless crevasse. Look out for Hobgoblins sniping from the far blocks on the upper and lower areas. Have one of your team jump to the higher plinth attached to the right wall, as there's a good view (and you can step back into cover). Here, you can spot the Goblins, Fanatics, and two Hydras roaming the L-shaped main ledge to the exit, and lob grenades at them with impunity. You must defeat all these foes, and wading in is a little more dangerous due to the possible death drops along the inner side of the ledge.

However, at least one of your team should try this to cause a distraction. The ledge is wide enough for you to dodge incoming fire. Once you've defeated one or both Hydras, press forward.

There is a sunken area with a Vex catapult slightly off the side of the ledge, but milling around here just gets you shot at. You can use it to outflank the foes by landing down here, jumping up to the exit passage, and then turning to face down remaining foes. However, this isn't as cunning of a plan, as you can easily miss the catapult or get confused in the sunken darkness of this lower platform.

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Psions, Gladiators, Legionaries, War Beasts, Phalanxes
- Sub-Boss: Blood Guard (Centurion), Centurions, Incendiors, Blood Guard (Incendior)
- Vex: Goblins

Objectives

- Press forward (continued).
- Approach the drilling site.
- Eliminate drill site security (2).
- Board the Cabal drill.
- Reorient the transit system.
- Repel all attackers.
- Cross to the dig site.
- Get clear of the drill.
- Investigate the dig site.

5 Stepping Stones

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Optional

You appear high above a huge expanse of block architecture, with the strip mining of the Cabal visible in the far distance. Getting there is the first challenge. Stop at the edge of the large red moss-covered block towers, and snipe the Cabal Psions atop the nearest one before jumping onto it. To the right of the moss-covered block is an attached gray promontory with a small block section and a scarred circle carved into the stone. Land here, and expect to face at least two Cabal Gladiators. If you can land on the block section, you can use the slight height and cover to dodge the Gladiators as you slaughter them. Then, simply snipe a couple of Legionaries on your way down to the last stopping stone, then head to the Vex altar circle, where a group of Goblins must be quickly defeated. Immediately wind your way across any of the short Vex paths, and go into the crater zone.

6 Cabal Mining Base

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

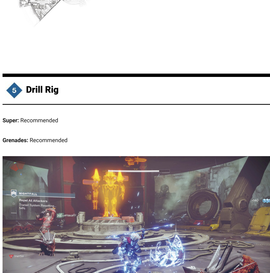
Variations: Vex forces between Sub-Bosses in the mining base.



Rush (or drive) across the crater zone, ignoring any small skirmishes between Vex and Cabal forces (there's no need to get involved); expect Goblins and War Beasts in this area. Slow down as you reach the edge of the mining base. You have two "drill officers" (Sub-Boss Legionaries) to tackle, as well as a host of Legionaries who have jet-packed into your view. Each Sub-Boss is situated (to begin with) inside one of the two low circular structures, which usually has a Psion sniper on the roof. Between these two structures is a mass of Cabal infantry: Phalanxes, Psions, and Legionaries, usually led by a Centurion with a rapid-fire cannon.

Sub-Bosses: There's a lot to recommend if you first focus your firepower on this central cluster of forces from the crater zone. Start with any Psions atop either base building; drop them as your team arrives in the general area. Annihilate the Cabal between the two circular buildings (or Vex, if this is a Strike variation). Then, take each Legionary Sub-Boss one at a time. Since they tend to hide inside the circular building, you can have one player rake the entrance, removing Phalanxes and other infantry as well as hitting the Sub-Boss drill officer. Another teammate can fire through the open windows and lob in grenades. This can topple the foe in seconds. Repeat the process with the remaining Sub-Boss in the other building.

Your next task is to board the Cabal drill. At this point, venture down to the two ledges with the Cabal energy catapult (AKA "transit system") on each of them. On the way, expect to deal with a couple of Centurions. With your team, predetermine which of the two catapults you want to activate. Have one member access the nearby switch to power it up while the other two tackle a Centurion each and any remaining Cabal stragglers. Remember that the energy catapult must be glowing orange before you jump into it, or you'll simply fall to your death in a most embarrassing manner.

7 Drill Rig

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Ensure that the three of you are catapulted onto the Cabal drill rig in unison, as the battle to come is the most difficult you've encountered so far. As the first teammate lands on the platform above the drill rig's circular control room, a door opens, and Cabal forces appear (Phalanxes and Legionaries). A quick, well-placed grenade damages all of them, after which you can mop up stragglers. Predetermine who's going to throw the grenade, and ensure that all your teammates have Supers at the ready before you drop down into the rig's control chamber.

The action commences immediately with a group of Gladiators to defeat. Have one teammate complete the objective as soon as possible. The "transit system" (a slowly rotating Cabal catapult) must be moved into position, and wasting time ignoring this objective simply means more time fighting a crazy number of foes. Pull the lever on the raised perimeter terminal, and watch the system reset count up. However, your main focus is on further Cabal incursions.

Expect a group of Legionaries and a couple of Gladiators to drop in. Priority targets are the Gladiators; keep moving around this compact circular chamber so they don't strike and kill you. Launch a Super at this point. Then, have a teammate continue with their Super as a pack of War Beasts and a second wave of Legionaries and Gladiators appear. Lob grenades and basically expend all your weaponry to ensure that you survive this onslaught. But keep an eye on the objective; when the transit system has reoriented itself, you can leave, even if there are still Cabal in this control room.

8 Vex Gorge And Cabal Quarry

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Optional

Variations: Vex forces on the tiered quarry area (Goblins and Hobgoblins).

Enter the Cabal catapult that's glowing orange (not the one that isn't in use), and fly across to a long gorge of probable Vex construction. Edge forward, and while one teammate tackles the Incendiors on the covered ledge you're moving through, have two teammates snipe the Psions on the (inaccessible) lip of the gorge to your right, across the bottomless chasm.

Otherwise, you're picked off as you leap across the pillars to a lower section on the opposite side. Between you and the drill site is a group of Phalanxes, Incendiors, and a Sub-Boss Incendior. You have plenty of range and cover, along with an optimal opportunity to launch a Super or lob grenades to remove these threats.

Approach the quarry, with its massive and deadly rotating quarrying arm machines. There are multiple arms, and being struck by any of them kills you. The trick here is to drop down onto one of the tiered grooves and simply make a counterclockwise run around to the entrance into the Inverted Spire Sector. As long as you aren't jumping, all of the quarry arms pass you by if you're positioned on this tier. The "tier" in question is shown in the previous picture. There are actually three safe paths, the lowest two are equally safe. These walkable paths feature dark brown dirt, whereas the paths that the arms travel in are light, bare rocks.

Teammates can be struck by an arm, so bunch up and follow each other closely, without being hit. If this isn't possible, look for alcoves along the route (always on the right-side), and step in to avoid the arms. The Phalanxes, Psions, and War Beasts are a secondary distraction. Soak up a bit of damage by remaining in the relative safety of the recommended tier, and remove these Cabal threats as you encounter them. Psions should be the priority targets.

With the quarry navigated, drop down into the initial safety of the drill site, but don't investigate further until all three of you are in the entrance corridor to the Inverted Spire. This is where combat gets even crazier!

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Vex: Harpies
- Boss: Protheon, Modular Mind (Minotaur), Goblins, Fanatics

Objectives

- Investigate the dig site (continued).
- Defeat the Modular Mind.

8 Guardian Platform

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Boss Weak Spot: Head, then torso opening.

Variations: Additional troops (usually Hobgoblins).

Carefully drop down the massive vertical conduit you enter, and start tackling a group of Harpies. Take defensive positions around the different parts of the perimeter before the last Harpy is shot, as removing the initial foes causes the Vex Boss Protheon to be stirred. He warps in under the large circular white portal light. Note the gap in this battle chamber along the middle of the floor, meaning you must be careful how you step and land during jumps.

Boss: The battle with Protheon starts now. Rattle off as many aimed shots into the white light in the center of Protheon's head, directly striking him as often as possible while avoiding the purple energy bolts from his massive weapon. If you've split up and you're using the two low stone block sections as cover, as well as the two pillars on the opposite perimeter of the arena, you can remove his health relatively quickly. It's worth predetermining one member of your team to immediately jump in and tackle Harpies that appear as the battle continues. The other two teammates should be leveling all firepower at the Boss, including Super attacks and the stickier of any available grenades. Keep moving, or die under a hail of Protheon's gunfire. When you've removed around a third of his health, Protheon disappears. And moments later, so does the floor!

9 Radiolarian Circle

Your team plummets to a large circular island (and should jump to prevent damage upon landing). Try to land on the short cylindrical pillars around the edge of the circle, and split up. Moments later, Protheon appears again, and combat continues. The plan is to inflict as much damage to the Boss's head as it is safe to do. When Protheon punches the ground, it subsequently becomes distinctly molten, and it can kill you in seconds. This is the reason for standing atop the low circular pillars, which aren't affected. The ground heats up and explodes. The burning ground does a small amount of damage; the blast is stronger, and will knock you up and out of the arena if you are not careful. After the punch, the innermost ring glows and bursts, and just after outermost ring does the same. Stand on those pillars, run between the two rings, or just jump in the air to escape each blast.

Combat continues. If Protheon is aiming directly at you, attempt to perfect a sideways jump to a nearby circular pillar so you can keep aiming at his head at all times (or Hobgoblins, if this is a Strike variation). Any other teammates should be pounding Protheon in the cranium as much as possible. At this point, more than a dozen Goblins enter, and more molten ground transformations occur. The Goblins are more of a distraction; only defeat them if they are too close, though you're more likely to be constantly circling the perimeter of this arena so you're not burned alive. Time for a second teammate's Super! As Protheon is damaged to around one-third health, he disappears again. Look down, and look out!

10 Tower Base (Final Conflict)

Your team falls (and hopefully jumps to avoid the impact just before reaching the ground), landing on a roughly circular base of this inverted spire, where Goblins are present. Remove them, as they are more of a problem this time. Moments later, Protheon makes his presence felt, shooting out larger blue bolts of energy. He stands on the Radiolarian lake that surrounds this island, which is deadly if you step on it. With limited maneuverability, take every advantage you can in regard to the block scenery; use it to hide behind or stand on top of so you can avoid further Vex infantry incursions.

Shoot the Boss's head, continuing to aim as he tracks around the perimeter of the island. When another wave of Goblins and Harpies appears, lob in a grenade as they rise out of the lake, and take down multiples at a time. Protheon has attacks from a weapon fused to each arm (a rapid-fire rifle on his right arm, and a larger slower-firing cannon on his left, with missile impact that can temporarily blind you). Avoid these, and keep pressing the attack.

When Protheon loses around five-sixths of his health (halfway between the last third and his ultimate defeat), he loses his head—literally. A torso slit opens, and this is where you must aim for the remaining moments of the battle. It's at this point that Protheon becomes even more dangerous. He rampages onto the island and summons a horde of Fanatics (as well as Goblins and Harpies) to thwart you. Fanatics will home in and explode at your location, which can kill all three teammates in seconds if you're not paying attention. Break off from striking Protheon for a second, use the scenery (especially the tops of the low pillars), and shoot all Fanatics as priority targets, provided a teammate isn't caught in the explosion. Request that your team flees to the edge of the island, and detonate the Fanatics in the middle. Then, return to fighting the Boss until he finally crumples. Don't forget to use your Supers to finish the job.

EXODUS CRASH

Overview

Strike: Recommended Power 140

Nightfall: Required Power 230, Recommended Power 240

It appears that Failsafe has been compromised after a contingent of Fallen touched down on Nessus and raided a secondary crash site near the Exodus Black. Your team is tasked with tracking a series of arc pulses left by the Fallen's weapons in preparation for finding and defeating this raiding party and their leader.

EXODUS CRASH

Prodromus Down

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- VEX: Minotaurs, Goblins, Fanatics, Hobgoblins, Hydras
- FALLEN: Vandals, Shanks, Captains, Dregs
- Sub-Boss: Servitor (2), Overcharge Shanks

Objectives

- Pass through the electrical fields (100%).
- Fight into the base.
- Infiltrate the hideout.
- Gather Fallen data.
- Defend Ghost (100%).
- Kill the Servitors (2).
- Press onward.

1 Main Trench

Super: Optional (one player)

Grenades: Optional

Variations: Fallen foes instead of Vex enemies.

You begin in a rarely visited Sector of Nessus, Prodromus Down. This massive trench has a number of Vex guards. Minotaurs and Goblins (or Fallen Captains and Vandals, if this is a variation) are stationed around the roadways that twist through the scattered ship wreckage all along this massive shallow scar. Though you can race forward, optionally using Sparrows, it's worth hanging back and methodically tackling the foes one cluster at a time, especially the group of Fanatics (who swarm and explode at close range). Tagging them from distance with long-range fire removes multiple threats at once.

As you progress forward, split up and have each teammate head for a shaft of light. These cylindrical electrical fields are instantly analyzed once you reach one, and there are only a few to find (usually six). You may find it easier to utilize a Sparrow, or better yet, a Pike that is parked in the vicinity with offensive weaponry. Blast another cluster of Fanatics, and watch for more of them if you take the main road (or Vandals, if this is a variation). As you start heading uphill toward a ruined fuselage, remove Minotaurs and Goblins as a threat before starting an assault on some sniping Fallen Vandals. If you can make it all the way to the low ceilings of the cargo storage exit from this trench, so much the better. Battle more Fallen at this entrance; Shanks, Vandals, and a Captain await you before you can head into the interior.

2 Cargo Storage And Transmitter Chamber

Super: Recommended (one player)

Grenades: Recommended

Variations: Laser traps throughout the cargo storage, more Wretches, toughened enemies, two giant Shanks after Servitors battle.

Quickly push through the narrow low-ceilinged storage area once the barrier fades at the entrance (after you've neutralized all foes outside). Push your way up into the transmitter chamber, fighting Goblins and Dregs as you go. You can actually ram your Pikes up into this area and finish these foes with this vehicle's weaponry while staying protected by its structure.

Once you've killed the Fanatics and Hobgoblins already in the room, park near the yellow transmitter beacon.

You must now secure the room from an onslaught of both Vex and Fallen foes as Ghost gathers data on the Fallen from the transmitter. Remain close to the raised circular platform at the entrance, and note the dark wall areas around the room that foes can spread out from. Lob in a grenade before the clusters of Dregs and Overcharge Shanks head out of the first one. Overcharge shanks will electrocute some floors in this room: the two spots where the servitors fight from, and the platform you must stand in to progress. You can still use Pikes here to make short work of the foes before they venture too far into the room. Expect waves of teleporting Goblins, Overcharge Shanks from a wall hole, and then two annoying Servitors.

Sub-Bosses: Two toughened Servitors drop in to thwart you. As they are protecting the Overcharge Shanks that also make an appearance, make the Servitors priority targets. A Super and grenades are fine to use at this point. Goblins and Vandals also soon turn up after the Servitors. To prevent this from becoming a bloodbath, remain near the transmitter, using the surrounding cover and hammering the Servitors, then the Overcharge Shanks, and finally, anyone else left standing.

Here comes a Hydra! It teleports in with a couple of Minotaurs, but if all three of you are focusing your firepower on it, defeating it is straightforward. Do this quickly, as a cluster of Fanatics then appears and should be a priority due to their explosive tendencies (just like the Overcharge Shanks). With these foes defeated, the analysis is complete and the barrier retracts, allowing you access into Exodus Black Sector.

EXODUS CRASH

Exodus Black

NESSUS, UNSTABLE CENTAUR

Enemies Encountered

FALLEN: Dregs, Vandals, Captain

Objectives

- Pass through the electrical fields (100%).
- Hunt the Fallen.

3 Fallen Base

Super: Optional

Grenades: Optional

Variations: Hydra and possible Cyclops incursions in the lake area.

A second series of electrical field columns must be analyzed. Before you assault the ramshackle Fallen base in this Sector, check for a visual on the electrical fields, and have each teammate rush to two of them. Or, cluster up and advance in a pack, if you want. Remember that you don't have to kill absolutely everything. If time is a factor, just step into each electrical field and then flee, heading to Glade of Echoes with some immediacy.

There are three fields in and around the base: one atop the high plateau, and the other two in the lake and jumble of rocket parts close to the Exodus Black crash site itself. There aren't many enemies at this location (only the Fallen you usually encounter here), so there's little reason to stick around. However, it's worth finding and removing a Dreg from its Pike vehicle and using that to speed into Glade of Echoes.

Glade Of Echoes

NESSUS, UNSTABLE CENTAUR

Enemies Encountered

FALLEN: Dregs, Vandals, Captain, Assault Walker, Giant Shank, Shanks

Objectives

- Hunt the Fallen (continued).
- Defeat the Assault Walker.

4 Entrance To EX-077 Command: Tank Battle

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Variations: Additional Heavy Shanks.

Attack the Walker by shooting its cockpit head or any of its legs until it slumps forward and exposes its orange glowing "neck" engine interior. Blast that to inflict heavy damage. Repeat this plan until one of you explodes. During this time, expect Shanks to be summoned, but these aren't particularly troublesome.

If you aren't using Pikes, split your team so everyone attacks from three disparate angles. You have enough cover and jumping room to ensure that this Walker is taken down easily, and one of you can try a Super if the battle is lasting too long.

Enter the circular fuselage structure the Walker was guarding. There's no need to waste time clearing the area of other foes; you must now fight to the source of the new Fallen tech.

Hopefully, you've apprehended enough Pikes for each team member (some empty Pikes sometimes appear nearby, so look for them), and you're boosting downhill toward the giant fuselage wreckage to engage in combat with a Fallen Walker, flanked by a giant Shank. While there are pockets of Fallen resistance (usually infantry) throughout this Sector, it isn't imperative to cull every single one of them. Concentrate on removing the Shanks, then peppering the Walker with Pike fire. Though the damage isn't that impressive, the rapid fire and extra protection this vehicle gives you is advantageous, especially because you can save your ammo and Supers for the Boss battle to come.

EXODUS CRASH

EX-077 Command

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- FALLEN: Dregs, Wretches, Vandals, Overcharge Shanks
- Boss: Thaviks the Depraved (Marauder), Servitors, Marauders, Captains

Objectives

- Fight to the source.
- Destroy the Shanks.
- Kill Thaviks the Depraved.

5 Dark Platforms

Super: Recommended (one player)

Grenades: Recommended

Variations: Vex Harpies and Goblins appearing

Prepare for the violence and intensity to be ratcheted up a couple of notches as you enter the near-complete darkness of a dome-shaped interior chamber after navigating a narrow and fiery entrance.

Ditch the Pikes if you still have them, and battle Fallen ahead and above you. This chamber has several hanging platforms you must jump across in order to exit. Fortunately, there are only Dregs, Wretches, and Vandals to worry about in here. Climb the gantry steps, then look for the narrow orange lights indicating a platform above you in the dark. Leap these stepping stones, defeating any foes on each subsequent platform, ideally using a close-range assault weapon like a shotgun. A teammate can remain at ground level to snipe from distance to cover you, if you're having trouble. When you reach the connecting tube passage that exits, wait so all three of you can head into the Boss chamber together.

6 Dark Platforms (Boss Battle)

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Variations: Toughened enemies and Boss, increased number of enemies.

Boss Weak Spot: Head

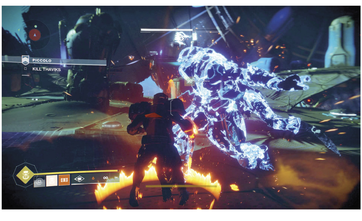
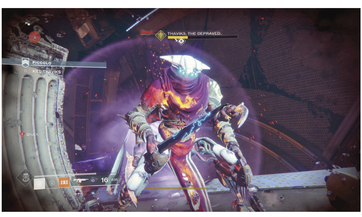
Stand atop the chasm chamber, and snipe the Overcharge Shanks down below. Notice how they are electrifying the platforms? This is a key problem to overcome during the ensuing battle with the Fallen leader, as you are damaged and slowed if you wade through this electricity. For the moment, blast all Shanks before dropping down, remembering that there's a bottomless chasm below you.

Boss: The source to be fought is a larger Captain-sized Marauder Boss named Thaviks (and his Overcharge Shank minions), and he's particularly troublesome. He's fast and can scurry away or charge you in seconds. He has a highly damaging shrapnel launcher, so make sure your dexterity and jumping are on point, especially during closer altercations. He also has a cloaking device. Look for the shimmering blue of his form and attack accordingly; there's no reason to let him remain untouched because this simply elongates an already fraught combat. Finally, he attacks with melee strikes if you're close enough and during the latter part of the battle, so expect a quick death if you don't back up.



As you might expect, your initial task is to remove the first third of the Boss' health. Concentrate all your team's firepower and launch one Super to effectively remove this health as quickly as possible. Unless Shanks and Vandals invade the entire platform area, have at least two of your teammates make this a priority action. The third player should check the various pods and other entrances around the perimeter of this arena for incursions of Overcharge Shanks and electrified floors. The floors can really stop you in your tracks (literally, they slow you down). Using your Movement Mode to go over them, landing on precarious scenery so you aren't struck by the electrified floor, and staying away from those areas while removing Shanks as quickly as possible are all good ideas.



For the first third of his health, Thaviks fights from the far end of the room. He teleports out of the arena every 10 percent of health he loses, and comes in by the shank spawners with refreshed camo (it does not regenerate like normal).

At 30 percent of his health gone, Thaviks retreats and waits for the minor combatants to be killed. Thaviks then switches to the entrance side of the room, spawning enemies, shanks, and teleporting from there.

At 40 percent, Thaviks retreats again and waits for all enemies to be killed. Then, he enables all 4 shank spawners, and will teleport in by any of the 4 - this time, with blades instead of a shrapnel launcher.

The last part of the battle involves Thaviks being even more aggressive in his melee capabilities and Overcharge Shanks electrifying more of the arena. Your plan here remains unchanged from earlier, though it helps to attack from multiple angles. Have teammates with one or two Supers ready to inflict a deadly amount of damage until the Fallen foe finally drops.

DESTINY 2

THE ARMS DEALER

Overview

Strike: Recommended Power 140

Nightfall: Required Power 230, Recommended Power 240

The Cabal warrior-leader known as Primus Zahn is active in the Cabal-controlled stronghold on the eastern side of the EDZ. Your team is tasked with breaching the Sectors under Cabal command while also dealing with intermittent Fallen incursions and working your way to the main cargo deck where Primus Zahn is said to be located. Along the way, you must neutralize a number of Zahn's trusted brethren and lieutenants. Expect almost every type of Cabal force to be active, including Thresher ships.

THE ARMS DEALER

Legion's Anchor

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- FALLEN: Captain, Vandals, Wretches, Servitors, Shanks
- cabal: Legionaries, Phalanxes, Psions, Centurions, War Beasts, Threshers
- sub-boss: Bracus Nor (Legionary), Bracus Vox (Legionary), Zahn's Lieutenant (Legionary)

Objectives

- Overload Primus Zahn's systems.
- Secure the area.
- Force an explosion.
- Kill Zahn's Lieutenant.
- Find Zahn (continued).

1 South Cargo Docks

Super: Recommended (one player)

Grenades: Recommended

Alternate Version

There are two versions of this Strike; one with Cabal forces to fight and another with Cabal and Fallen forces. Adjust your tactics accordingly.

Begin to work your way along the windowed interior corridor. Use the yellow canisters to detonate close to any Fallen nearby (including a Captain). Access the computer monitor, which opens the door to the south cargo docks.

Sub-Boss: Dropships are depositing Cabal Legionaries and Phalanxes into a Fallen contingent of Vandals and a Captain. A Sub-Boss Legionary (Bracus Nor) is leading this Cabal assault and should be shot in the head until he yields. Stay on the perimeter of the bay while one or two teammates engage the foes at closer quarters. Scenery is easily available to hide behind. Have one teammate hover over the fusion ball dispenser as the enemy presence is whittled down. Then, grab the ball as soon as the objective requests that you force an explosion.

2 North Cargo Docks

Super: Recommended (one player)

Grenades: Recommended

Sub-Boss: A second Legionary (Bracus Vox) is waiting to engage with a melee weapon as you run under the connecting super-structure platform to the north cargo docks. Cover the ball carrier, and then spread out with one player leaping up onto the left perimeter edge and the other leaping right. Protect the ball carrier as he or she inserts the fusion ball into the circular receptacle that a Centurion guards. Focus your firepower on enemies attacking the ball carrier until the fusion ball is released. Take down Psions, War Beasts, and then the Centurion as you sweep the main docks.

By this time, focus on blasting a Thresher out of the sky (a Super is helpful here), and watch the north ramp for Zahn's Lieutenant (a toughened Legionary you can quickly drop with a Super), as well as some Fallen Servitors. Focus your firepower here after you clear the main cargo docks. Then, mop up any Fallen Vandals and other stragglers.

Access the windowed corridor, and head into the tiered loading bay. You have the height advantage, so use it, and blast yellow canisters for extra explosive damage. There are only a few enemies here, mostly Fallen Shanks and Vandals. Then, head through the connecting corridor into Sunken Isles.

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries, Phalanxes, Threshers, Centurion
- Sub-Boss: Bracus Crull (Legionary)

Objectives

3 Antics On The Carrier On-Ramp

Super: Recommended (one player)

Grenades: Recommended

Variations: Drake tank unavailable

The plan is to head out of the cargo bay and up into the carrier ramp. This is easier said than done, as there's a sizable Cabal presence in the vicinity, with a large number of troops on the ramp itself. As you exit, clear all nearby enemies in the rough ground just outside (Legionaries and Phalanxes are milling around here). If Hawthorne has dropped a Drake tank (to your right as you exit), quickly use it. Drive it up onto the ramp deck and into the gigantic carrier craft to the next combat zone.

Ignore or blast Bracus Crull, another Sub-Boss who is on the ramp along with a dozen Legionaries and Phalanxes, and a Centurion. Provide covering fire (blasting any Threshers) while your teammates either ride on the side of the tank or use Sparrows to reach you. Enter the Legion's Hold hangar in unison.

If this Strike is tougher and there's no tank to take, you'll have to waste time damaging Threshers by taking cover in and around the cargo bay (the outside barriers provide reasonable cover, but remaining inside is safer). Then, wade up the ramp (or ignore enemies if time is a factor), and boost through them using a Sparrow and weaving maneuvers. Or, take a shortcut by activating your Movement Mode up from near the carrier ramp tunnel so you avoid the majority of the foes on the ramp. Having one of your teammates executing a Super against these enemies and Bracus Crull is a good way to remove them as a threat, but don't split up!

THE ARMS DEALER

Legion's Hold

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Goliath Tanks, Legionaries, Incendiors, Centurions, Bracus Vox (Legionary), War Hounds
- Fallen: Captains, Shanks

Objectives

- Access elevator controls.
- Clear a path.

4 Trouble In The Hangar

Super: Recommended (one player)Grenades: RecommendedVariations: Drake tank unavailable, mines on the ramps, additional enemies, elevator control locations may change

Let's hope you still have use of a Drake tank, as there's likely to be an enemy Goliath tank waiting as you enter the Legion's Hold hangar. If you've used a Drake tank before (and employ cover as well as both of its weapons), you can destroy it almost immediately, then rake the remaining infantry as you wind your way up the ramps. Better yet, have your teammates concentrate on removing the foot soldier foes en route to the bridge controls. When a second Goliath tank appears on the circular platform, with a Bracus Sub-Boss shortly afterward, vary your attack direction.

Have your Drake tank batter the priority foes from the ground (where the first tank was destroyed) while one of your teammates executes a Super. With good timing, you can inflict massive damage in seconds. Then, stay back as you kill the Bracus brother; sometimes, a pack of War Beasts bounds out of the door behind him.

If you're approaching on foot, scenery and hard-hitting weaponry are much more important when attacking the tank. Split up on the ground area, and focus all firepower on the tank, then on any foes at ground level. Then, it's best to ascend to the bridge controls as a group. Watch for mines as you head up the ramp, as well as a possible influx of Fallen. Note that the location console with the bridge controls sometimes varies, so look for the waypoint diamond to confirm where you're going. The second Goliath is relatively easy to tackle because it can't drive anywhere (assuming more than one of you is attacking it). Have one player time their Super to both defeat the tank and inflict serious damage on the Sub-Boss.

Flanking

There's a cunning flanking manuever to try as well; cross the floor of the hangar, under the circular platform, and leap up the left side where the machinery is, to the area behind most of the foes!

Echion Vae

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Basilisk Flamethrowers, Legionaries, Centurions, Phalanxes, Incendiors, Psions, War Beasts
- Fallen: Vandals, Servitors
- Boss: Primus Zahn (Legionary)

Objectives

- Hack the door.
- Break through.
- Defeat Primus Zahn.

Echion Vae

5 Echion Vae

Super: Optional (one player)

Grenades: Optional

Variations: Tougher foes, elevator control locations may change

Navigate the hangar bay and two platform bridges ahead of you. Priority targets are the flamethrowers atop these bridges, and then the closest foes to you. Mop up and slowly advance (as the Fallen are dropping in Vandals and Servitors), using the scenery to your advantage. There's an alcove on the upper-right area and suspended tanks on the left side of the hangar; both are good places to provide covering fire.

Your main plan is defeating a couple of Centurion henchmen next to Primus Zahn, who makes his first appearance. If the three of you can focus on each target at the same time, they fall in seconds and Zahn retreats quickly, prompting you to head onto a giant cargo elevator and mop up both Cabal and Fallen infantry. The crates and other scenery makes this relatively straightforward. Save your Supers for the final battle to come.

If your foes are giving you grief, it's worth prioritizing your targets and demolishing them together, but from different locations within the hangar. One teammate could be atop a hanging tank. Another could be on the ground, soaking up enemy fire, with the third atop one of the platform bridges or in the alcove.

6 Primus Zahn's Last Stand

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Variations: Toughened foes, Psion headhunters (snipers), solar charge location may change

Boss Weak Spot: Head

Primus Zahn peers down from atop the elevator on the cargo deck and hits hard with his sniper rifle. You'll be cursing this weapon frequently during the remainder of this Strike, so hide behind the crates, and when you're at the open deck, split up. Take care of the flamethrower sentry guns immediately while a second player executes a Super at Zahn and the third follows up with hard-hitting strikes and a grenade (also at Zahn). The trick is to remove the first third of Zahn's health as soon as you can so the battle doesn't get too protracted. As you'd expect, you're focusing all your regular firepower at Zahn's head. When a third of his health is removed, Zahn jets up to a high platform you can't reach, protecting himself with a solar dome of energy.

Between stages, a host of Cabal arrives from doors and dropships. Expect dozens of Legionaries, Phalanxes, Incendiors, and a couple of Centurions to cramp your style. You must defeat them, though staying on the perimeter edge where the flamethrowers are helps you from being swamped. As soon as it becomes available, rush to grab the solar charge. Run it across the deck to the circular depositing conduit, removing Zahn's platform protection and starting the second stage of battle.

Zahn flies down, and more flamethrowers and a pack of War Beasts are summoned at the ramped gantry on the perimeter of the deck. If you stay at the edges, you can use the nearby cover and the height of the ramp to avoid some of the incoming fire. Zahn will train his sniper rifle on one of you, so it's wise to launch a Super at this point. Have two or all teammates focus on Zahn (one could be coaxing the Cabal infantry away from this fight). You want the toughest Guardian taking the brunt of the sniping while the other rakes Zahn's head. Keep up the pressure until the second third of Zahn's health is lost (or thereabouts), and he boosts up to a different platform.

While Zahn is up on his protected platform, retreat to a far part of the deck so he finds it harder to snipe you. The last part of the battle involves Zahn dropping down from his upper platform and engaging you at closer quarters with what appears to be the world's most dangerous shotgun (which bounce-shoots you if you're close to the ground). You should have perfected your Movement Mode to the side or backward, landing on any of the low mechanical structures through the deck without seeing them to step on. Use the height and partial protection of this scenery while whittling down Zahn's health. If two or three of you can do this from different angles, there's hope to finish this fight. Got a Super, a shotgun, or another close-quarters weapon you favor? Then it's time to use every last offensive technique at your disposal.

SAVATHUN'S SONG

Overview

Strike: Recommended Power 140

Nightfall: Required Power 230, Recommended Power 240

It seems there's a mastermind at work inside the depths of the base on Titan, a dark heart that must be skewered so the hated Hive can be removed from this place once and for all. Head deep into the Arboretum Sector, battling through revolting secretion-filled chambers, shattering strange crystals, and locating a hidden tunnel into the deepest parts of the planet. This is where an immense Shrieker is said to reside. Head to the source, and defeat it.

TITAN: NEW PACIFIC ARCOLOGY

Enemies Encountered

- hive: Acolytes, Wizards, Thralls, Cursed Thralls, Knights
- Sub-Boss: Ogre

Objectives

- Gain access to the Arboretum.
- Hack the door (2 protocols).
- Defeat hostiles.
- Clear out the Hive.
- Find the source.

1 Lobby And Arboretum Entrance

Super: Recommended (one player)

Grenades: Recommended

Variations: Toughened enemies, different enemies

Cross the bridge, head up into the platform chamber with the broken LED wall, and engage the cluster of Acolytes in quick and violent combat. Squeeze through the gap into the large open lobby, and head left (north) toward the additional Hive foes. The initial hostiles include a few Acolytes and a Wizard. Destroy them, and avoid the Hive traps (the glowing anchor-like devices on the ground), which can damage and immobilize you. While Ghost hacks the door, spin around and repel a group of charging Thralls led by a Wizard. Execute the closer enemies first. Next, expect Acolytes and Cursed Thralls to drop in; remove the explosive Cursed Thralls as a matter of urgency. Use a grenade to soften up one of the two Knights that also appear, but save them for last.

Sub-Boss: When the door opens, you may want to punt or lob in a grenade to remove the cluster of Thralls before they charge and separate. Instead, just back up and remove them first. The reason is simple: when you step to the second inner door, there are an Ogre, Knights, and Acolytes in the green chamber beyond. Back up so there's room to find cover, or the Ogre's facial maw beam can cut you down in seconds. Step to the side of the door opening, have all three of you focus on the Ogre first, and then mop up the Knights and Acolyte stragglers. A Super used on the Ogre is not a wasted opportunity. Then, head farther down the corridors into the Arboretum itself.

SAVATHUN'S SONG
Arboretum

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- hive: Acolytes, Wizards, Shriekers, Knights
- Sub-Bosses: Ogres, Shriekers

Objectives

- Find the source (continued).
- Disrupt the void ritual.
- Find the source (continued).
- Scan the object.
- Locate the crystal cave.
- Destroy the crystals (6).
- Kill the first Ogre.
- Kill the second Ogre.
- Destroy the crystals (6).
- Disrupt the void ritual.
- Make your way back to the plug.

2 Main Hall And The Pit

Super: Recommended (one player) / Grenades: Recommended

Make short work of the minimal Acolyte threats, avoid the Hive trap, and head through the pinkish entrance corridor into the main hall. Once inside the hall, make a left turn. Have two teammates remove the additional Acolyte threats and engage a Void Wizard. The toughest of your team must immediately vault up the steps to grab a void charge (a ball of void energy) and run it forward to an area just below a floating Hive Shrieker.

As you're cut down in seconds from Shrieker fire, you may want to delay grabbing this and focus on defeating the Shrieker using the weaponry all three of you have. A better plan is to quicken this by having two teammates hit the Shrieker while one of you deposits the void charge into the receptacle, opening the path deeper into the Arboretum (this usually dismisses the Shrieker, too). Launching a Super is a reasonable plan, but if you can finish off foes in the main hall without using it, it's helpful for the next major confrontation.

Drop down into the Pit, and scan the strange chained object in the middle of the Hive nest. You're tasked with finding more of these crystals, though this area is sometimes referred to as a "plug" (as it is sealing a lower area you must eventually break into). You can attack the remaining chambers of the Arboretum once you find and destroy the crystals in an adjacent cave (though variations exist where you enter different parts of the Arboretum first).

3 Bio-Dome Mezzanine

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Variations: Entering a Sector in a different order, entering this area and disrupting a Hive ritual instead of taking down two Ogres.

Sub-Bosses: Head into one of the side chambers off The Pit. Engage Acolytes and a toughened Knight in combat before blasting (or punching) the six glowing crystals embedded in the Hive cave until the blocked doorway becomes accessible. Enter the mezzanine.

There's little time to look at the view of the massive bio-dome you're in; focus your attention instead on the vicious Ogre. Beware of Knights, Acolytes, Hive anchor traps, and a second Ogre in the upper mezzanine you must pass through. Acolytes and two or three Hive Wizards back up the Ogre. As you'd expect, killing all of them isn't easy if you rush the area, so hang back and remove foes at range if possible. Alternately, execute a Super. After you clear this mezzanine, head into a second crystal cave.

4 Upper And Lower Mezzanines

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

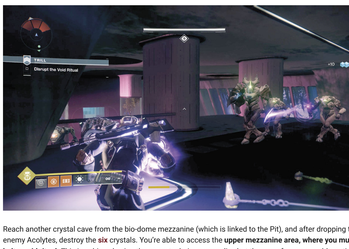
Variations: Entering a Sector in a different order, entering this area and taking down two Ogres instead of disrupting a Hive ritual.



Reach another crystal cave from the bio-dome mezzanine (which is linked to the Pit), and after dropping the enemy Acolytes, destroy the six crystals. You're able to access the upper mezzanine area, where you must halt a void ritual. This is achieved using the same technique as earlier, but there are far more problematic threats at this point. Take defensive positions behind and around the low walls, and tackle the nearer Acolytes and Knights first. Dodge the anchor traps and press forward into the mezzanine area, where two Void Wizards are being summoned. Make them priority targets for one of your teammates while the other two take on the nearest Knights and Acolytes.

Sub-Bosses: The action now borders on the ludicrous. You're expected to head into the lower mezzanine, battle against multiple Acolyte and Knight threats, take down an Ogre, and then slot in a void charge that two Shriekers are guarding. You can grab the charge (which one of you gathered from the area above where the Wizards were), sprint down over low walls, and die. Or, you can work as a team, grabbing the void charge when your teammates are ready to cover you, and then using the lower mezzanine scenery as cover. This is especially important as you reach the Shriekers due to their rapid-fire offense. Jump to the white columns and planters so you're not struck by too many attacks. Have the two teammates without the charge launch their Supers: one to kill the Ogre before the Shriekers, and the other to take on the Shriekers while the charge is slotted.

When the madness temporarily ends, head down the L-shaped main hallway and back to the Pit, where two Wizards are waiting. Remove them as threats, and the plug is removed; the anchor crystal dissolves, and you drop down into the Chasm of Screams.

SAVATHUN'S SONG
Chasm Of Screams

RESTRICTED ZONE

Enemies Encountered

- Hive: Cursed Thralls
- Boss: Dark Heart (Shrieker), Acolytes, Knights, Thralls, Ogres

Objectives

- Find the source.
- Destroy the Dark Heart.

5 Hive Burrows

Super: Optional (one player)

Grenades: Optional (one player)

Tear through the Hive tunnels, backing up as you spot Cursed Thralls running your way. There is a horde of them, so don't race too quickly into their explosive ranks. Instead, back up a little, and tackle the ones closest to you. Take your time; you want all three of your team's Super attacks and grenades to be functional for the final confrontation.

6 Chamber Of The Dark Heart

Super: Recommended

Grenades: Recommended

Variations: Three appearing Ogres, toughened foes and Boss.

Boss Weak Spot: Central "eye."

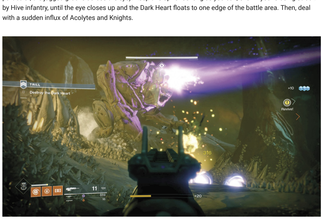
Enter the final chamber, and make a quick sweep if you're unfamiliar with the area. There's a sheer and deadly drop with floating platforms along the eastern (far) side, a large multi-tiered balcony platform with a huge crystal, and numerous Hive entrances in the western perimeter wall.

When you're ready and your team has spread out into position with a good view of the large crystal, have one teammate smash it open to reveal a giant Shrieker known as the Dark Heart. You're here to destroy it.

Not dying usually occurs if your teammates know exactly what job they have to do (in addition to killing the Dark Heart). First, split up so the Boss and any incoming Hive foes have to work harder to take you down. Have one teammate whose sole responsibility is destroying the Dark Heart, breaking off from combat only when Hive infantry are on them or the Dark Heart becomes invulnerable. A second teammate should focus on the Dark Heart but actively remove enemy threats as they arise. The third teammate should be shooting at the Dark Heart but focusing mainly on the Hive enemies, letting others know where there are too many to deal with.

This is the player who should be familiar with when and where foes appear. He or she can lob in a grenade to damage multiple foes as they arrive, before they spread out.

First, though, you should be trying to whittle down the first third of the Dark Heart's energy. Strike the eye (in particular, the jagged groove across the eye). Keep this up for as long as you can, even if you're being struck by Hive infantry, until the eye closes up and the Dark Heart floats to one edge of the battle area. Then, deal with a sudden influx of Acolytes and Knights.



When the Dark Heart opens up again, it floats to the opposite (higher) end of the balcony, and an almost constant stream of Acolytes becomes a problem. With one teammate trained on that eye and two others switching from eye destruction to Hive infantry takedowns, make slow but steady progress removing more Boss health. Keep moving and keep jumping in and out of cover to avoid the Shrieker energy bolts and (later) some void energy balls that the Dark Heart spits out in all directions. Save your Super until the arrival of two or three Ogres. These beasts can really cause you problems, but tackling them in record time and with perfect Super takedowns allows you to quickly focus your attention back on the Boss. Or, shoot them from two or three different directions so they can't blast you all.

By now, you should be familiar with stepping out of cover, blasting that Dark Heart's eye, and stepping back into cover before you're battered by its homing energy bolts. But once two-thirds of its health is lost, it teleports to the top of the floating platform with revolving ramps around it. Two or three Void Wizards also make an appearance. This is another ritual, and it's stopped in the same manner. With two teammates each tackling the Wizards, one of you must grab the void charge on the main balcony before leaping up onto the suspended and rotating ramps and central floating platform. Slot the charge in, enabling the Dark Heart to be hurt. Shrug off fire and focus on stopping the ritual, even if it means you die.

The final minutes of the battle involve you removing any remaining Wizards, then battling the Dark Heart in a real war of attrition, staying in cover and blasting the Shrieker before diving back into cover. Watch for Cursed Thralls during this time; back up so you're not struck as they explode. Launch any remaining Supers you can before this fearsome eyeball blinks its last.

CRUCIBLE
Overview

The Crucible is a series of fast-paced contests that pit Guardians against one another in open combat. Some come to find honor and renown; some come for more tangible rewards. No matter your reasons, you'll find the Crucible a suitable setting to hone your skills.

Quickplay contains a rotation of exciting match types with relatively straightforward rulesets. It's intended to provide a more casual environment for Guardians to practice their movement in a bit of spirited competition. You can access this playlist via the Director as soon as the Crucible is unlocked.

The Competitive playlist features two challenging 4-player team-based match types. With a strong emphasis on combat proficiency and team tactics, this playlist is intended for skilled Guardians determined to compete at the highest level. The Competitive playlist becomes available once you've completed ten Quickplay matches.

Each playlist contains a specific selection of map/mode combinations. Upon joining a playlist, you're automatically teamed up with a (mostly) fair-minded group of fellow competitors.

While participating in the Crucible, actions like defeating enemy Guardians and completing match-specific objectives grant Guardians valor, represented by a number in the upper-right corner of the screen. Valor, Experience, a Crucible Token, and at least one randomly selected piece of equipment. You also have the chance to complete Bounties and weekly Milestones for additional rewards.

Unlocking the Crucible

You gain access to the Crucible upon completing the Awakening Mission Quest, though higher levels of competition become available only as your Guardian grows more powerful.

Level Advantages

Whether you're in Quickplay or the Competitive playlist, you'll find that Level Advantages are disabled. This means that weapon damage, Armor, Energy, Super, and Power levels are all reduced to their base damage based on their archetype. Armor offers no additional mitigation.

A Matter of Luck

While the Competitive playlist features a higher reward rate due to longer matches, the Quickplay and Competitive playlists have the same pool of potential rewards. Furthermore, your performance has no effect on the number or quality of rewards you receive.

TEAMS

Regardless of the game mode, every Crucible match features a 4v4 team format. Both playlists communicate information at the four players, so you're free to play with a premade team of trusted allies. Otherwise, you'll be grouped with one or more randomly selected Guardians.

TEAM ASSEMBLING

Returning players should note that Crucible teams no longer have official designations—they're simply grouped as you and your Fireteam or "Fast Team" and "Opponents." This streamlined system means that when it comes to the color-coded display and objectives, you're always a member of the blue team.

TEAM STARTING AREAS

Each team begins a match in one of two predetermined locations. These areas are always located across the map from each other, allowing Guardians to scramble for strategically important locations once the match begins.

A map's team starting areas can between match types, but they're always consistent within a specific map/match combo, and any mode-specific variations tend to be minor.

TEAMWORK

Whether you're running with friends or teamed up with strangers, working with your allies is an important part of the Crucible. Even if you're not a crack course in teamwork, consider the following advice:

Communicate with your teammates. Use of the team voice channel isn't required, but it's one of the best ways to ensure effective teamwork. Your team's performance is bound to improve when everyone is kept aware of major offensive and defensive plans.

Understand the User Interface (UI). It can be easy to develop tunnel vision in the heat of battle, but the UI provides a lot of information that can help you stay aware of your surroundings. When open communication isn't an option, knowing where your teammates are heading is the best way to predict what they're hoping to accomplish. Of course, knowing where the enemies are heading is the best way to predict what they're hoping to accomplish. Of course, knowing where the enemies are heading is the best way to predict what they're hoping to accomplish.

Learn things to buy. Experienced Guardians tend to know exactly how much damage they can safely absorb, and most will decide whether to engage or retreat within the opening seconds of a firefight. Team-firing helps to take the option to retreat off the table, so it's important to communicate with your team, coordinate your attacks for maximum impact. Otherwise, just make an effort to join in on any firefights that break out. In a close battle, a little extra firepower can make all the difference.

Find strength in numbers. Try to stay near at least one teammate at all times. It allows for consistent team-firing, maximizes the effectiveness of weapons and Guardian-related Class Abilities, and helps ensure that an approaching enemy never goes unnoticed. Just make sure you have enough space to minimize the effects of incoming splash damage.

PvP Display

CRUCIBLE HEADS UP DISPLAY (HUD)

Located at the top of the screen, the Crucible HUD displays useful information about your teammates, your opponents, and the overall state of the match.

- The remaining time is displayed at the top of the HUD.
- Team scores are indicated by the color-coded progress bar directly below the timer.
- The score progress on either side of the HUD represent the members of each team.
- Each Guardian's class ability is represented by match-specific objectives and features the allotted time, available Heroic Tokens, and Combat Primes.

While any of this information proves useful during a match, the Guardian icons warrant special attention. Initially, these icons display each Guardian's currently equipped Subclass. However, these icons can change to reflect important circumstances as they occur.

- A skull indicates a defeated Guardian.
- A gold icon means that the corresponding Guardian has a fully charged Super Ability.
- A pulsing gold icon means that the corresponding Guardian has entered their Super Ability.

MOTION TRACKER

The motion tracker is useful in PvE, but it's an essential tool in PvP—and one that new players tend to overlook. Located in the field of the Crucible, remember that the motion tracker's battle grid shows:

- Approximate locations of nearby enemies (direction and range)
- Locations of nearby allies
- Elevation of nearby allies
- Status of nearby allies (active/defeated)
- Locations of nearby objectives
- Locations of nearby Power Ammo

Motion Tracker Ranges

| Segment Location | Indicated Range |
|---|---|
| Outer Ring | 24–36 meters |
| Mid-Ring | 8–24 meters |
| Center | 0–8 meters |

Proper use of the motion tracker can take a bit of practice, but it's a skill that's well worth developing. As you become familiar with each battleground, combining your knowledge of the terrain with the information contained on the motion tracker will lead to greatly improved situational awareness.

Crouching and Cloaking

The motion tracker has a difficult time detecting crouched enemies. Instead of registering as a mixed-gray, a nearby crouched target is detected only when it's within several meters. Of course, cloaking Abilities (such as Vanish in Strider) make enemy targets even tougher to detect.

NOTIFICATIONS

During PvP combat, you'll find a variety of notifications appearing on your screen:

Medals Urgent messages are typically displayed just below the Crucible HUD. The most common alert is "Last Guardian Standing," indicating that you're the last surviving member of your team.

Map Location The area just below the motion tracker indicates your current map location.

Medals Appearing just above the center of the screen, medals are typically used to acknowledge skillful play or to indicate that a Guardian has performed a specific action. Serves as a useful indicator of your performance.

Combat Feed Located in the lower-left corner of the screen, the combat feed (sometimes called the "kill feed") offers a variety of notifications. The bulk of these have to do with Guardian deaths, listing the victim, the victor, and the weapon or type of ammunition the killing blow. However, you'll also find updates about active Super Abilities, collected Power Ammo, and more.

Loadouts

You can use all weapons, armor pieces, and Abilities at your disposal in the Crucible. However, most players find that some loadouts are better suited to competitive play than others. After all, your fellow Guardians are sure to be more formidable foes if they're predictable than if they're enemies you can't see.

It can take significant experimentation to find the best mix of items and Abilities, especially because arsenals and playstyles both tend to change over time.

SUBCLASSES AND ABILITIES

Every Subclass has a place in the Crucible, and you're under no obligation to select one over another. However, if you find that you're PvP playstyle is at odds with your PvP goals, it might be time for a change.

Experimenting with different Subclasses, Grenades, Movement Modes, and Melee Abilities can be an effective means of experimentation, and it's worth trying every available combination at one point or another. Still, if you're looking for a place to start, take a step back and consider the basics:

- Solar Subclasses tend to focus on powerful, direct damage attacks.
- Arcstrikers tend to focus on short-range, multi-target attacks.
- Voidbashers tend to focus on survivability.

Once you've chosen a Subclass, take a closer look at the abilities it offers.

Movement Modes

A PvP typing time is more of a liability than a benefit—an airborne Guardian makes for an easy target. Start with a Movement Mode that favors directional control. If it doesn't suit you, swap it out for something else.

Blink

When it comes to Movement Modes, the Voidwalker's Blink deserves special mention. This short-range teleport is particularly well-suited for PvP. It takes a great deal of practice to master, but it's a remarkable evasive tool.

Grenades

While specifics vary, grenades generally fall into at least one of five basic categories:

- Seeker grenades produce one or more projectiles that home in on nearby foes. They're great for blind (or panicked) bosses more accurate than you are.
- Persistent grenades produce damaging fields or other dangers in the environment. They're great for controlling the battlefield and punishing foes who don't pay attention.
- Blast grenades produce a straight-travel explosion. They tend to deal fairly high damage.
- Skip grenades bounce off surfaces like targets. They take a bit of practice to use, but they can provide usually-dependable damage.
- Status grenades inflict enemies with temporary effects. The clearest examples are both found in Titan Subclasses: the Sentinel's Shield Throw Grenade disorients enemies, and the Sentinel's Suppressor Grenade prevents enemies from using Abilities.

Once you've identified your available grenade options, consider how it meshes with your playstyle and how useful it might be in a specific match type.

Class Abilities

Your choice of Subclass has no effect on your available Class Ability (assuming you've unlocked them, at least). Still, some Class Abilities are useful in PvP. Selecting one is usually just a matter of choosing your preferred playstyle.

Titans will find that Towering Barricade is the better choice for defensive applications. The extra height makes it a much better option for providing cover at strategically important locations like Capture Points and Power Ammo spawns. It's also a great option for Guardians who prefer Sentinel's Rending Valkyrie. However, Rally Barricade's ability to instantly refuel your weapon makes it the better offensive option.

Hunters who favor Arcstrider should take a hard look at Gambler's Dodge. Using the Class Ability near an enemy automatically recharges your Melee Ability. If you prefer to keep a bit of distance between yourself and your enemy, Marksman's Dodge is the better option. A well-timed Dodge will reload your weapon, minimizing your downtime during heated encounters.

An Endless Cycle

While all Subclasses feature intriguing Ability combinations, it's worth noting that Gambler's Dodge is particularly well-suited for PvP combat. Gambler's Dodge, Arcstrider's Thunderclap, Nightstalker's Combination Blow, and Gunslinger's Trick Shot form a perfect cycle. Dodging near enemies recharges your Melee Ability, and your melee kills recharge your Dodge.

If you're playing as a Warlock, simply weigh the benefits of Healing Rift's group healing against the Empowering Rift's group damage boost. They're both extremely useful and worthy of consideration. Pay attention to which effect your teammates are likely to prefer—especially because your allies must enjoy either your Rift to be its primary effect.

Melee Abilities

Melee Abilities come bundled with unique and powerful effects. When you select a Melee Ability, consider the kind of combat interaction that Ability might have on your Ability Class Ability, and more. It can be a difficult choice (of course, it's easily reversed). It's usually best to simply choose the option you find most enjoyable and effective.

WEAPONS

Finding the right combination of Kinetic and Energy weapons can be a complicated task. Obviously you must select from the weapons available to you, but that's just the beginning. The right choice depends on everything from the specific weapon's combo to your skill level and overall combat preference archetype. Again, experimentation is your best option, but there are a few factors worth focusing on.

First, consider range. Does the map support long-range weapon use, or are you more likely to spend your time running through a maze of tight corridors? Never fear, as you'll soon offer a substantive gun for both.

Next, consider flexibility. While you're free to equip a Kinetic weapon and Energy weapon of the same archetype, it's rarely wise to do so. Crucible maps generally feature some sort of ammo, and the ability to adapt as the battle moves from one location to the next is an important part of effective play.

Then, consider your default playstyle. Hobbits can and do change over time but you're probably apt to grab the gun that most appeals to you. Maybe it's the one that looks the coolest, maybe it's the one that you've had the most enjoyment out of previously, even it. Snag an archetype weapon into one of your slots. If you have to cover the moment your target spots you, be honest with yourself and grab something suitable for long-range combat. Use your knowledge of the Crucible maps to your advantage as you experiment and work on breaking any bad habits you might have.

Finally, consider your Power weapon. Once you've got your Kinetic/Energy weapons sorted, use the same process to narrow your search for a Power weapon. Consider the likely range of combat (make sure you factor in potential upgrades), the flexibility it might add to your loadout, and any persistent habits that might undermine your use of a particular weapon.

ARMOR

In the Crucible, assembling the best mix of armor usually boils down to three factors:

- The supported attributes
- The attached mods
- How cool it looks

You may be able to contribute aesthetic concerns, but you should always consider the two remaining factors.

As for attributes, your goal is to strike the proper balance between Resilience, Mobility, and Recovery. As always, the most effective combination depends on your playstyle and skill level. One word of warning: Guardians tend to overvalue the attribute above 10. It's way higher than that, and you're wasting points.

When it comes to mods, the benefits you choose are entirely up to you. Determine the mods that support your playstyle, then work toward assembling a proper collection.

Combat

Most of the Crucible can be a jarring contrast if the Crucible will prove useful within it, but competing against your fellow Guardians can be a jarring experience. Luckily, you can put several things to ease the transition from PvE to PvP.

Keep moving. Seriously—this is one of the most important habits you can develop, and the sooner you do so, the better off you'll be. Standing still is a great way to get killed. Moving around is a great way to stay alive. Moving around and firing back is a great way to hunker down to regenerate health. Unless you're collecting Power Ammo, dealing with a change, or reviving an ally, you should be moving.

Understand ammo. You begin the match with a set amount of ammo for your Kinetic and Energy weapons. Unless you're collecting Power Ammo, you're not going to get any more. Be aware of how much ammo you have and how much you have left before reloading a depth (a less desirable option, to be sure.) You can only collect Power Ammo from designated spawn points. It only appears at certain times, and each crate can only be collected by a single Guardian.

Understand range. This has already been covered, but it's worth repeating. Each weapon has a specific range of efficacy, and it's important to keep that in mind whenever you engage in a firefight.

Understand ranging zones. Essentially, any high-traffic area that features a decent line of sight can be considered a ranging zone. This means that each map's most effective ranging lanes tend to change as players learn to avoid certain areas.

Aim for the head. When two Guardians square off, every battle counts. Remember that Level Advantages are disabled in the Crucible, so even a single shot from a primary weapons under similar conditions. Precision Damage is usually the fastest way to do so.

Pre-aim for the head. Well, with rapid-fire weapons, it's usually best to aim for the neck. At any rate, "pre-aiming" simply means paying attention to where an approaching opponent will appear and making sure that your sights are in place. As you become familiar with each map, you can use the terrain to help determine exactly where that is.

Crouch wisely. Crouching renders you invisible to motion trackers, but only for a few seconds at a time. It also makes you a smaller target, but it also slows down your movement. Crouching can be very effective, no doubt, but timing is everything.

Slide freely. Sliding is a great way to execute a brief change as you're sprinting through a vulnerable area. Unlike crouching, it doesn't affect your movement speed, and it can be performed in any direction while moving. It's also a stylish way to initiate a crouch, meaning that sliding allows you to pulse on the motion trackers of nearby opponents.

Sprint often. The faster you move, the harder you are to hit. It's important to note that you can't sprint and fire your weapon at the same time. Reloading will drop you out of a sprint, and sprinting will cancel a reload.

Crouch and your jumps. Again, an airborne Guardian tends to make an easy target, avoid lingering in the air. Press Jump while your Movement Mode is active to drop to the ground (for some classes), or better yet, aim down sights for a split second to fire off a quick burst from cover.

Put it all together. Moving is good, moving in unpredictable ways is better. Sprint, slide, jump, zig, and zag your way through dangerous areas. Mix it up as much as possible. When you're in the line of fire, it's best to keep your enemies guessing.

Mind your Supers. How and when you use your Super Ability is entirely up to you, but keep in mind that your allies are bound to be grateful if you time your Ultra of Light you might create in the process.

Be a team player. You won't always agree with your team's basic strategy, but when you can't get someone to listen, you're probably going to be forced to follow them. The same applies for less formal situations. Don't issues like the use of Super Abilities and Power Ammo. If victory is your priority do whatever you can to make sure everyone's on the same page.

Expect to lose. Losses are inevitable, and if you're playing with a team of randomly selected Guardians, you can't realistically expect to win more than half the time. It's fine. Don't worry about it. You'll still get your Crucible Rewards, and you'll have more fun if you don't fret about it.

To move forward, look back. Try to learn something from every death, and don't wait until the match ends. When you die, you're given a firefight you'll always have at least a few seconds before you're returned to the battlefield. Use this time to ponder what went wrong and formulate a plan to avoid making the same mistake.

If you want to improve, practice. Practice with your favorite loadout, practice with new loadouts, and practice with different playstyles. Practice with friends, and practice with strangers. Practice in control match mode, the more developed your situational awareness will become. And situational awareness is what separates top-level competitors from the rest of the pack.

GRIMOIRE
Match Types

Quickplay Playlist

Common Rules
All Quickplay match types feature eight-minute time limits.
Slain Guardians automatically respawn five seconds after defeat.

CLASH

Objective

Clash follows a classic team deathmatch format. Put simply, the first team to score 75 kills wins the match.

Scoring

Clash is a straightforward eight-minute contest of combat proficiency. A team's score increases each time one or more of its members has a successful defeat of a Guardian on enemy Guardian.

The match is awarded to the first team that scores 75 kills or to the team with the highest score when the eight-minute time limit expires.

Power Ammo

In Clash, the map contains three Power Ammo spawn points: one on each side of the map, and one in a neutral location.

- The neutral crate becomes available 30 seconds into the match. Once collected, this Power Ammo does not respawn.
- The two remaining crates appear 90 seconds into the match. At these locations, it takes 90 seconds for a Power Ammo crate to respawn between uses.

Basic Tips: Clash

Clash is about as straightforward as PvP gets, making it a great entry point for the uninitiated. Even so, there a few pieces of advice new players might consider:

Keep track of Power Ammo spawns. A game of Clash typically opens with a mad dash to the first available Power Ammo crate. Apart from that, Power Ammo strategies can vary from match to match. Is the opposition pushing into your side of the map? Is a teammate spending the entire match camping near a Power Ammo spawn point? Have a Power Ammo crate spawn unnoticed for a suspiciously long time? The way Power Ammo is treated can tell you a lot about the strategies in play, so adapt your tactics accordingly.

Efficiency is paramount. Clash's simple ruleset doesn't allow for much wiggle room. If you're losing more gunfights than you're winning, you're almost certainly hurting your team. Don't hesitate to retreat when things get rough. Standing firm in the face of overwhelming odds may bring you a sense of personal satisfaction, but it's unlikely to yield any tangible benefits.

Stay loose. Clash is most definitely a team game, but not everyone treats it as such. Teammates can have wildly different objectives and skill levels, and adjusting your tactics to fit them is one of the best things you can do to maximize your performance.

CONTROL

Objective

Control uses a modified team deathmatch ruleset that awards bonus points based on location-based objectives. Teams fight to capture and hold up to three strategic battle zones. The number of points rewarded for defeating an enemy Guardian varies based on the number of zones held by each team.

Scoring

In Control, a team can increase its score by claiming Capture Points and defeating enemy Guardians. However, bonus points are awarded based on the number of zones held by each team. Essentially:

- Defeating an enemy Guardian grants a base score of +1.
- Claiming a lonely Capture Point grants +1.
- The Zone Advantage bonus grants an extra +1 per kill when a team holds the majority of zones.
- The Power Ammo bonus grants an extra +2 per kill when a team holds all three zones.

This means that, depending on the number of zones your team holds, defeating one Guardian can add anywhere from +1 to +3 to your score.

The match goes to the first team to score 100 points, or to the team with the highest score when the eight-minute time limit expires.

Power Ammo

In Control, the stage contains two Power Ammo spawn points: one on each side of the map. Both Power Ammo crates become available 90 seconds into the match. Once collected, it takes Power Ammo 90 seconds to respawn.

Control Zones

The map features three Control zones: A, B, and C. Each team begins the match with one zone under its control (A or C, depending on the team's starting location). Zone B starts off as neutral territory.

To capture a zone, simply stay within the borders of its Capture Point until it's awarded to your team. This process takes about 15 seconds, regardless of how many allied Guardians are present. A Capture Point cannot change hands while two rival Guardians are present.

A Quick Turnaround

Returning players should note that Control no longer features a de-capture phase. It takes as much time to claim an enemy-held zone as it does to claim a neutral zone.

Basic Tips: Control

Because it blends so many different objectives, Control supports a wide variety of tactics. The most effective strategies will vary from match to match, but there a few basic tips new players might find useful:

Make every capture a win-capture. Capture Points tend to be in exposed areas, and claiming one is meant to be a risky endeavor. There's no benefit to doubling up with a teammate—the process won't go any faster, nor will additional points be awarded. Now, this isn't to say that teammates shouldn't support each other. It's just that a second Guardian should not be on the scene unless there are a nearby vantage point.

Do the math. The scoring system is fairly streamlined, so make sure you weigh the risks and rewards of claiming a Capture Point. A quick one-and-two might put +1 on the scoreboard, but your gain becomes a net loss if your opponents are able to defeat you and retake the Capture Point. On the other hand, simply holding on tight with an enemy Guardian in the Capture Point can give your team has a Zone Advantage.

Choose the right grenade for the job. Seeker grenades and grenades that feature persistent pooling effects are particularly effective in Control. Hindering an opponent's attempt to capture a zone (if only for a few seconds) can have a huge impact on your defense.

Keep tabs on your teammates. Teamwork is always recommended, but Control is arguably the most strategically complex game mode in Quickplay. Take note of the Capture Points your allies prioritize and adjust your tactics accordingly. No matter how skilled you are, you're bound to benefit from working alongside your teammates.

SUPREMACY

Objective

In Supremacy, a Crest is produced each time a Guardian falls in battle. The goal is to ensure that your team collects more enemy Crests than the opposing team.

Scoring

In Supremacy, scoring is a two-part process. First, your team must defeat an enemy Guardian. Then, a member of your team must collect the resulting Crest. Put simply:

- Collecting an enemy (red) Crest adds +1 to your team score.
- Collecting an ally (blue) Crest yields no points, but it does prevent the opposing team from scoring.

The match goes to the first team to collect 50 enemy Crests, or to the team with the highest score when the eight-minute time limit expires.

Power Ammo

In Supremacy, the map contains three Power Ammo spawn points. Locations and spawn rates are identical to those featured in Clash (assuming the map supports both match types).

- The neutral crate becomes available 30 seconds into the match. Once collected, this Power Ammo does not respawn.
- The two remaining crates appear 90 seconds into the match. At these locations, it takes 90 seconds for a Power Ammo crate to respawn between uses.

COUNTDOWN

Objective

In Countdown, the map contains two charges. One team is tasked with detonating a charges of their choice, and the other team must defend both charges.

Countdown is a round-based match type. When a team fulfills (or fails to fulfill) its objective, the round ends. The teams then switch roles, and a new round begins. The first team to win six rounds of Countdown is declared the winner of the match.

Scoring

In Countdown, the only way to increase your team's score is to win a round. Although each team is assigned a primary objective when a round begins, you'll always have at least two paths to victory.

The attacking team's [Set the Charge] can:

- Arm a charge within the two-minute time limit and prevent the opposing team from defusing it.
- Eliminate all members of the opposing team.

The defending team's [Defend the Charges] can:

- Prevent the opposing team from setting a charge within the two-minute time limit.
- Defuse a set charge.

When one of these conditions has been met, the round is rewarded to the appropriate team.

Power Ammo

In Countdown, a stage always contains two Power Ammo spawn points: one on each side of the map. Power Ammo becomes available at both of the designated locations 30 seconds into the match. Once collected, it takes 30 seconds for a crate of Power Ammo to respawn.

Setting and Defusing Charges

Setting and defusing a charge is a matter of moving within range and interacting with the object. The process is as simple as following an onscreen prompt. Of course, "simple" does not equate to "easy." When it comes to handling a charge, two players should never be followed.

- Once a round starts, the attacking team has 2 minutes to set a charge (or eliminate the opposition).
- It takes about 3 seconds to set a bomb.
- It takes nearly 6 seconds to defuse a charge.
- When a charge is set, the clock stops and the map's remaining charge is taken out of play.
- Any one of takes around 40 seconds for a charge to detonate. During this time, the opposing team can attempt to defuse it.

Lives and Revives

Countdown doesn't feature the unlimited (and automatic) respawns found in Quickplay match types. Instead, each combatant begins a round with one life and one Revive Token that can be used to resurrect a slain teammate. Note that while the Crucible HUD displays available "Revives" as a team resource, each Guardian is responsible for his or her own Token.

Revive Token

A gold icon in the bottom-right corner of the screen indicates an available Revive Token. When a Token is used or lost, the icon loses its color.

A Revive Token is consumed upon use, but it's also lost if the Guardian holding it is killed. This means that a given team can use a maximum of three Revive Tokens over the course of a round—the first death a team suffers always results in the loss of an unused Token.

A slain Guardian cannot be revived until 20 seconds after the time of death. It takes roughly 1.5 seconds to revive a valid target (although taking fire will prolong the process).

Basic Tips: Countdown

Countdown is a fast-paced game mode, and effective strategies tend to change with the ebb and flow of each round. However, there are a few basic tips that should help new players get off on the right foot.

Equip a scout rifle. Team fliring is always a worthy focus, but it's rarely more important than in Countdown. The combination of time constraints, limited lives, and location-based objectives turns every encounter into a high-stakes affair. A good long-range weapon makes it much easier to support your allies.

Agree on an objective. When your team is attacking make sure everyone knows which charge is the preferred target. If you're defending, ensure that everyone is ready to go as soon as the round starts—a charge can take the other out of play.

Don't leave a job half-done. When your team is on defense, eliminating the opposition only ends the round if a charge hasn't yet been set. A detonation will cost you the round, whether or not your opponents are alive to celebrate. Keep your mind on the task at hand.

Use it or lose it. A well-spent Revive Token can change the course of a battle; an unspent Token offers no benefit. While there's nothing wrong with prioritizing skillful allies, enemy positions should be your chief concern. If you find yourself in a position to safely resurrect a fallen teammate, it's generally best to do so.

SURVIVAL

Objective

In Survival, each team has a shared pool of eight lives. Each death a team suffers removes one life from the pool. Outlast and/or outperform the opposing team to win a round; the first team to win four rounds is declared the winner of the match.

Scoring

In Survival, the only way to increase your team's score is to win a round. You can accomplish this in one of three ways:

- Defeat every Guardian and eliminate the opposing team is eliminated. To do this, your team must defeat a total of 12 opponents (four starting lives and eight more in the round pool).
- End the round with more lives than the opposing team. Each round has a base time limit of three minutes. If time runs out while the teams are tied, the round enters a one-minute overtime phase.
- Claim the tie-breaker Capture Point. This can only be done when a round moves into overtime.

If an overtime phase ends in a tie, both teams forfeit the round. Scores remain unchanged, and the match proceeds to the next round.

Power Ammo

In Survival, the stage contains a single Power Ammo spawn point located in a relatively neutral area. Once collected, it takes the Power Ammo crate 75 seconds to respawn.

Overtime

A Survival round has three minutes of regulation play. If both teams have the same number of remaining lives when the clock runs out, the round moves into overtime. An additional Capture Point appears somewhere on the map. Typically it's a neutral location near the center of the map.

To win in overtime, you must eliminate the opposing team or claim the tie-breaker Capture Point.

Claiming the Tie-Breaker

To claim the tie-breaker Capture Point, a Guardian must spend approximately 15 consecutive seconds within the capture area.

Lives and Respawns

The nature of a shared life pool means that team respawns are handled on a first come, first-served basis. When a Guardian is defeated, one life is immediately removed from his or her team pool. After 10 seconds, the fallen Guardian automatically respawns somewhere on the map.

If a life pool is empty at the time of a Guardian's defeat, the combatant is "knocked out" and unable to return for the duration of the round.

Basic Tips: Survival

Survival may lack a bit of Countdown's urgency, but things tend to happen very quickly. Experienced players are sure to develop their own preferences over time, but there are a few things that new combatants can do to improve their chances of victory:

Equip an auto rifle. Survival tends to take place on more compact maps, and the flexibility of a mid-range rifle is bound to prove useful. Unless your build relies on a specific Arms/Energy weapon combo, consider pairing a good auto rifle with whatever's most appropriate for the specific map.

Save your Supers. You may be without saying, but a fully charged Super Ability is a valuable commodity. Use it only when it's likely to affect the outcome of a round.

Secure the Power Ammo. The map contains only one Power Ammo spawn point, so this location tends to be heavily monitored and fiercely contested. Whether you want to collect Power Ammo or use it as bait, coordinate with your team to minimize the chances of the ammo falling into enemy hands.

TEAM STARTING AREA

A map's team starting areas can vary between modes, but these icons indicate the most common starting areas.

POWER AMMO

Power Ammo only spawns in specific locations, and only at certain times. Locations and restock times vary based on match type.

CAPTURE POINT A

These location-based objectives only appear in games of Control.

CAPTURE POINT B

These location-based objectives only appear in games of Control.

CAPTURE POINT C

These location-based objectives only appear in games of Control.

TIE-BREAKER CAPTURE POINT

Tie-breaker Capture Points only appear when a round of Survival goes into overtime.

CHARGE

Charges only appear in games of Countdown, typically on opposite sides of the map.

DESTINY 2

THE DEAD CLIFFS

Overview

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE, EARTH

- Quick Play
- Competitive

As a whole, the Dead Cliffs is a fairly small map, and its layout and landscape generally support short- to mid-range combat. Guardians who favor long-range weapons will find a few serviceable sniping lanes, but it's recommended that you equip at least one mid-range weapon during any visit to this map.

As the name suggests, the Dead Cliffs features a good number of sheer drops. Whether you're traversing gaps or engaging in cliffside firefights, be mindful of the map's boundaries. Even an experienced Guardian can suffer a fatal fall in the heat of battle.

The inaccessible structure at the center of the map houses a large piece of exposed machinery. The gaps in the grate aren't large enough for a Guardian to pass through, but you can lob grenades between the bars. While it's unlikely that a blind toss will hit an enemy, it can be a useful distraction tactic when your team is making a coordinated push across the map.

Locations And Match Types

Survival

Clash

Control

Lockera

In both match types, Lockera serves as one of the main landing areas. With two points of entry (west-facing and east-facing), the area can be seen from all around and is a prime target for hostile aggressive teams. Changing the direction of your approach is key.

On offense side, a Warthog route between Trucks and Depot to Lockera also offers excellent lines of sight and cover. Time the crossing to stay clear of Jeepers and be mindful of fire in your sounds.

Trucks

Moving inland from the Trucks, hostiles combine one of the main Power Armor spawn points.

For the most part, Trucks acts as a protective cocoon between Catholic Ranch and Depot. Proximity this position to the Depot to ensure you're not caught out in the open by Jeepers.

Depot

Moving inland from the Depot combines one of the main Power Armor spawn points. Strong chance of hostiles, this position is between Lockera Ranch.

The interior plays flawless, large interiors flow in a smooth setting, and limited cover ensures a fast-flowing fight. Whether you're looking to push or to play it safe, the Depot is the place to be.

Immediately outside the Depot is a key location because of its proximity to Catholic Ranch Power Armor spawn. With hostiles spawning within, hunting Vehicles, and Jeepers, this is the place! Catholic Ranch and Lockera will be your best bet for Vehicles, but be careful of Jeepers and Hostiles. Catholic Ranch Depot is where it's at.

Catholic

Moving inland from Catholic combines one of the main Power Armor spawn points.

With its varied layout and multiple points of entry, Catholic tends to be a very popular hunkered hole.

The combination of height advantage and close quarters makes for the many fights you'll find in this area. However, be mindful of the Fire Jeeper - to push Catholic successfully, you usually need a Smoke Wall.

Equally popular and dangerous are Catholic and Catholic Ranch's Power Armor spawns. Whether you're looking to push or to play it safe, Catholic Ranch is the place to be. Position for success from right here by choosing Catholic as your Depot.

Ivy

Moving inland from Ivy, one of the leading Jeeper Points (for upper and 3F) on in the.

Due to proximity to the next Vehicle Vehicle nearby, the Ivy/Catholic connection is the undisputed king of Jeeper Points in the Sandy region. Ensure that Garage stays the Fire Jeeper Point and Catholic Ranch stays the Power Armor spawn, and you'll be in the best position to win.

Ivy is a particularly important location during Competitive matches. Whenever a Survival round ends in a tie, a Sudden Death match is played at Ivy.

Rubble

Moving inland from Rubble, hostiles may spawn near the Power Armor spawn point.

With a central layout and limited cover options, Rubble is a fairly standard location. It's not short on ranged fighting, though, as the Power Armor spawn is a popular destination for a lot of Power Armors. Keeping a keen eye out for Jeepers and Vehicles should also be considered a priority.

Garage

Moving inland from the Garage combines one of the main Power Armor spawn points. Strong chance of hostiles, this position is between Ivy Ranch.

Garage is one of the major roadside Vehicle spawns, but you'll find the commotion to be considerably reduced when compared to the Sandy region. You'll find Garage a place that flies under the radar for most players, and that's a good thing for you.

Set up shop in/around Garage for a potentially defendable territory. Because Rubble is also located from within the vicinity of Garage, Garage essentially defines one of the choicest Ivy-area points.

Bank

Bank is a small building in Garage, that serves as storage. It has a lot of traffic in and out from it. Unfortunately there, only two types of items: a great gun or help and what's higher or lower as armored. Not an

Pipes

Pipes features several levels of verticality, with the height of locations for direct line-of-sight to control the flow of movement. Be mindful of your surroundings, especially the rooftops of the surrounding structures.

Hall

This interior location is essentially a three-way junction connecting Ivyard, Hill, and Pipes. A fast-rolling Grenade can be a powerful tool for clearing out the area, but be careful of your own throwing damage.

Console

Located on the Hill, this small warehouse serves as a nice source of cover while vision typically is limited to the entrance. Be mindful of the surrounding terrain, as it's easy to sneak around the back door. Position yourself to have the most line-of-sight.

Just like Hill, hostiles spawn from the large indoor Power Armor spawn points. Strong chance of hostiles, this is one of the main spawns. It is also between Hill and Console.

Hill

DESTINY 2

ENDLESS VALE

Overview

ARCADIAN VALLEY, NESSUS

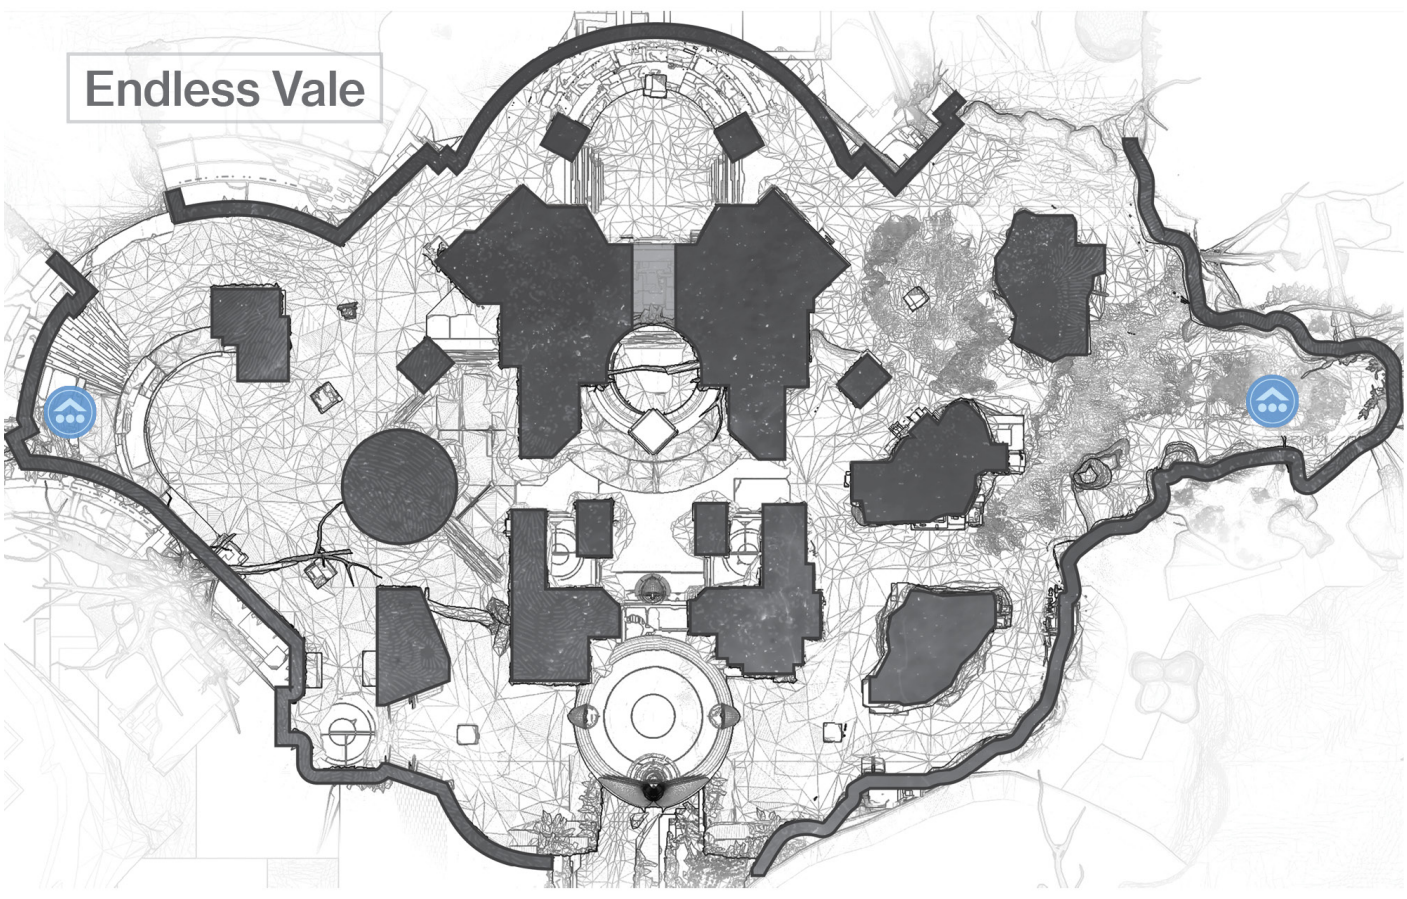
- Quick Play



Endless Vale is compact and roughly symmetrical, featuring similar movement lanes and cover options near each of the team starting areas. Firefights can break out anywhere, of course, but the bulk of the action tends to take place near the center of the map.

The map includes some passable sniping lanes, but nothing that will test the limits of a long-range weapon. Line of sight tends to be limited, and the center of the map can be downright claustrophobic. In most cases, you're likely to find that short- and mid-range weapons yield the best results.

Sheer drops and high walls are easy enough to identify, but the map also features some less obvious boundaries. The bodies of water along the edge of the map are considered off-limits. Step into one of these, and you only have a few seconds to return to the designated battleground.

ENDLESS VALE
Locations And Match Types

Endless Vale Map Locations

Clash, Supremacy

Endless Vale: Control

1 Blocks

KEY LOCATION: BLOCKS

During matches of Clash or Supremacy, Blocks contains one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points. In Control, this location contains Capture Point A.

Blocks typically serves as one of the map's team starting areas. It's a relatively large space with some decent cover options, making it one of the better settings for mid-range gun battles.

This location plays an important role in all Quickplay matches. In Clash or Supremacy, Blocks contains a Power Ammo spawn point. During games of Control, it holds Capture Point A.

2 Portal

KEY LOCATION: PORTAL

During games of Control, Portal serves as one of the map's two Power Ammo spawn points.

Due to its size and placement, Portal is typically used more as cover than as a flanking route. It offers a nice line of sight into Shrine, but the surrounding walls make it difficult to avoid incoming splash damage.

During Control matches, this location contains one of the map's Power Ammo spawns.

3 Shrine

KEY LOCATION: SHRINE

In games of Clash or Supremacy, Shrine serves as one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points. In Control, this location holds Capture Point B.

While this location includes some flat ground, Shrine's defining feature is its central platform. Due to its height, it's a great location for a sniper, but it could otherwise be one of the map's best ongoing lanes. Of course, this makes the platform itself a dangerous place to linger. The surrounding objects offer minimal cover, and the extra height serves to put isolated Guardians on full display.

Shrine plays a key role in all Quickplay match types, making it a hotly contested location in virtually any game.

4 Mid

Placed at the center of Endless Vale, Mid is a widely used intersection and the closest thing the map has to a chokepoint. While it offers a clear path between Blocks and Gulch, cover is rarely more than a step or two away. It's a good spot for short-range combat, and the tightly clustered cover options make a quick run through Mid one of the better ways to disrupt incoming team fire.

5 Drain

Connecting Mid to Temple, Drain adds a level change to what would otherwise be a simple hallway. This quick transition is a great way to break line of sight, but using it can leave you vulnerable to whatever's waiting on the other side.

6 Temple

Temple is a fairly large interior space with some nice cover options around its perimeter. The raised ceiling allows for a fair amount of vertical movement, and multiple points of entry support flanking maneuvers or quick escapes. This location also offers excellent lines of sight into Blocks and Gulch.

7 Gulch

KEY LOCATION: GULCH

During games of Clash or Supremacy, Gulch contains one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points. In Control, it holds Capture Point C.

Despite some minor variations and a wildly different aesthetic, Gulch is essentially a mirror image of Blocks. Both locations offer a relatively large starting area with some cover, but they're also the most vulnerable to enemy starting area. Here, a good mid-range weapon is likely to be your best bet. Someone those who favor long-range rifles should find some potentially useful vantage points.

Like Blocks, Gulch plays an important role in all Quickplay matches. In Clash or Supremacy, Gulch features a Power Ammo spawn point. During games of Control, it contains Capture Point C.

8 Bend

KEY LOCATION: BEND

During games of Control, Bend serves as one of the map's two Power Ammo spawn points.

In contrast to the sharp angles of Portal, Bend features a gentle curving path. It's a decent place to break line of sight, but it's also a fairly open area that can be vulnerable to flanking fire. Due to the downhill pitch across the map, Bend also serves as a Power Ammo spawn point during Control matches.

DESTINY 2

THE FORTRESS

Overview

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE, EARTH

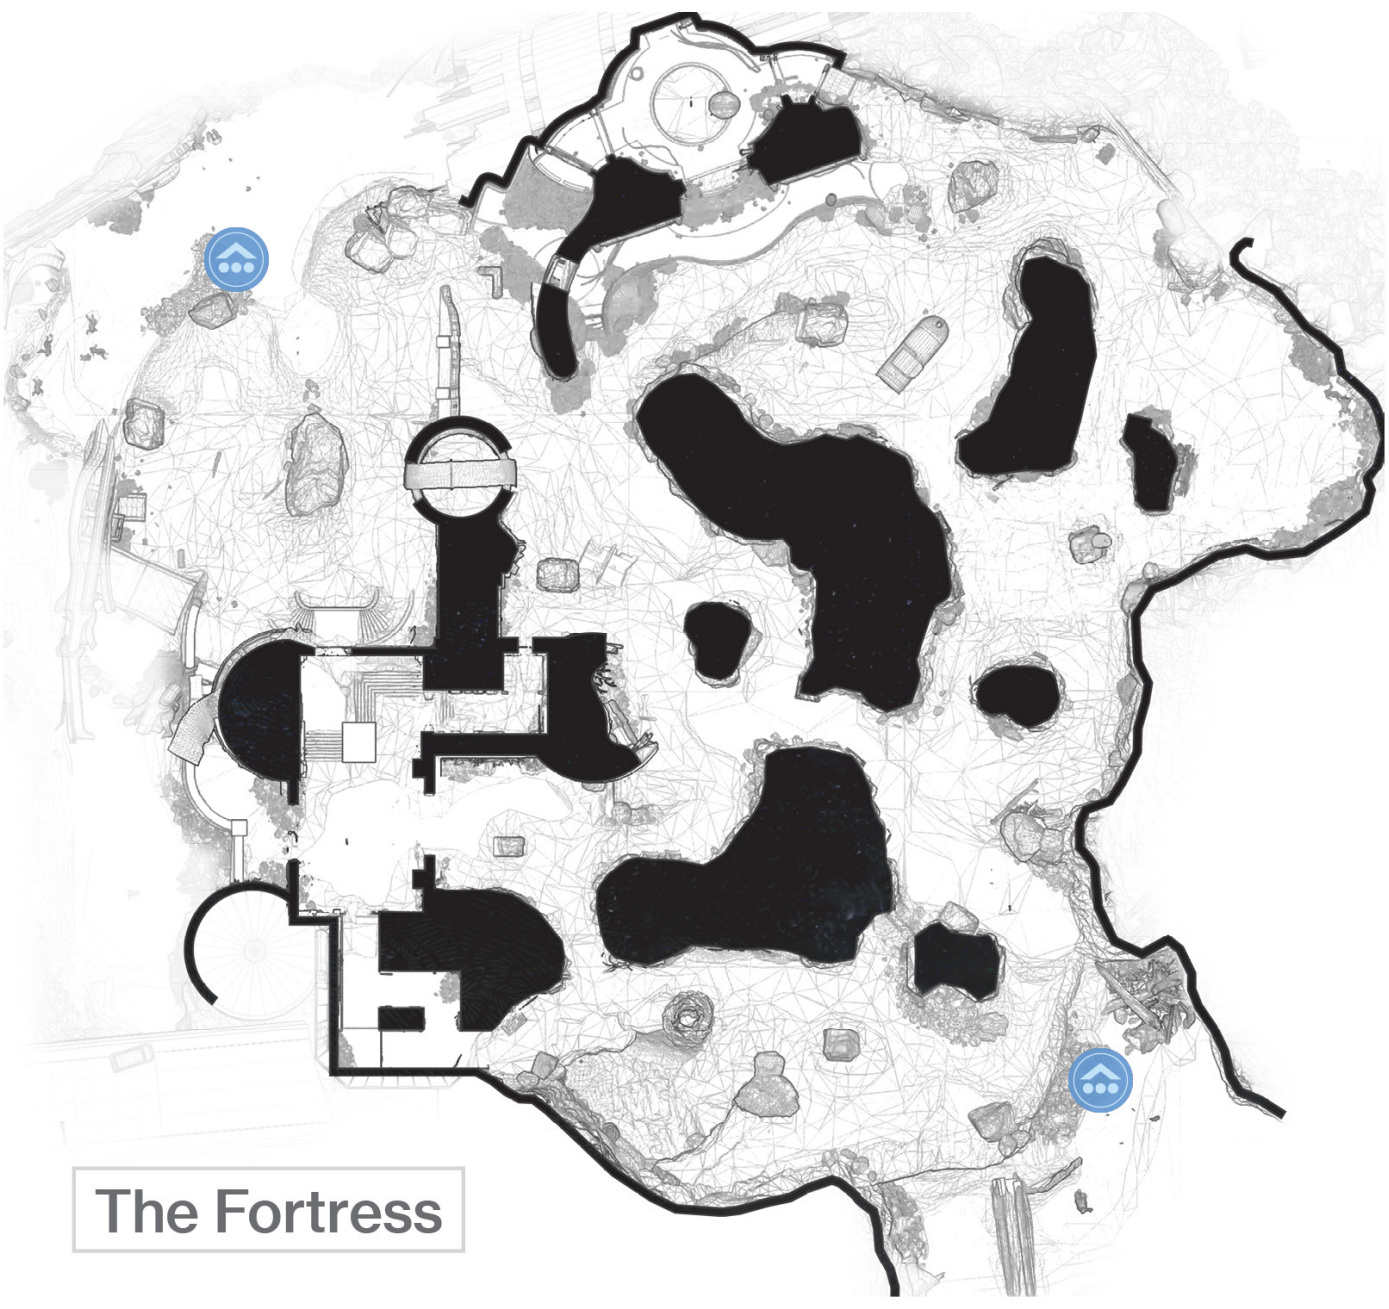
Quick Play

Competitive



The Fortress is a large and varied stage, with some excellent sniping lanes. Regardless of your Power weapon preferences, consider equipping a good scout rifle whenever you visit this map.

Of course, not every location supports long-range combat. The Fortress includes some tight spaces, and many locations feature uneven terrain and plenty of cover options. In most cases, pairing a scout rifle with a short- or mid-range weapon is your best bet.

Much of the map's border is defined by a large body of water. While you can safely venture into the shallows of Shore and Grotto, open water is most definitely out of bounds.

The Fortress Map Locations

Shore

Shore is a large outdoor location that typically serves as a team starting area. The terrain offers some natural cover, but the location features an open layout suitable for large-scale skirmishes.

Tower

BY LOCATION: TOWER

During Control matches, Tower contains one of the map's two Power Ammo spawn points.

Tower functionality has notably battle-tested gameplay. Tower is a small but significant part of a major movement lane. It readily rank formation obstructs the view into Shore, but this open structure features an excellent line of sight through Rocks and Crash and provides Fusing set-up to the Hedge above the main passage.

During games of Control, Tower also serves as a Power Ammo spawn point.

Ketch

BY LOCATION: KETCH

During Control matches, Ketch contains Capture Point A. In Countdown, it holds one of the map's two Avengers.

While Ketch is contained within a large group of landscape, the interior space is relatively compact. This location's layout is defined by the ship's hull, which forms the walls of the Capture Point and interior. The numerous narrow corridors and cover options serve as decent view of the surrounding terrain.

In most cases, you'll find Ketch is a strategically important location. During games of Control, it contains Capture Point A. In Countdown, one of the map's Avenger spawns within the enclosure.

Crash

BY LOCATION: CRASH

During Control matches, Crash contains one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points. In Countdown, the location is one of only two sources of Power Ammo.

Crash is a fairly large exterior area. Much of the location is located between sizable rock formations, but a good portion of Crash stands as one of the map's most lethal sniping areas. This heavily-traveled area also serves as a source of Power Ammo during games of Supremacy or Countdown.

Meadow

Found along the perimeter of the map, Meadow is most often used as a fleeting route between Cave and Crash. It's one of the map's smaller exterior spaces and offers only little cover, but it does make for a useful transit point.

Cave

Cave consists of a few minor caverns within an otherwise empty enclosure. It has the points of entry dictated among three adjacent areas. It tends to see a lot of foot traffic over the course of a match, making Cave a fairly good set-up for picking off loiterers.

Grotto

BY LOCATION: GROTTO

During Control matches, Grotto contains Capture Point C.

Grotto is a large but relatively narrow location that stretches from the border of Rocks clear to the edge of the map. It features some nice cover options, but multiple points of entry make it difficult to secure fully.

In most watch types, Grotto serves as a team starting area. During games of Control, it also contains one of the map's three Power Ammo.

Rocks

BY LOCATION: ROCKS

During Supremacy matches, Rocks serves as one of the map's three sources of Power Ammo.

Located at the center of the map, Rocks tends to be a heavily used intersection. All its ranges to be considered a checkpoint, but this location is part of a hefty offensive staging zone. During games of Supremacy, Rocks also contains a Power Ammo spawn point.

Passage

The approximately named Passage is a narrow path connecting Castle's interior space to Rocks. It's a useful route for getting from the map's center to its edge, but it's also a fairly dangerous one. Its cramped quarters during heavy firefights. Set one right above Passage is a great place to ambush unaware survivors.

Castle

BY LOCATION: CASTLE

The perimeter of bordering Castle contains one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points. In Control, it also contains Capture Point B. In Countdown, it holds one of the map's two Avengers.

Castle is an ecologically important location of all match types, as it tends to be a hotly contested area. The main structure's wide public decent cover, but points of entry are arranged in such a way that coordinated assaults can be difficult to repel.

What's not surprising about Fortress' Castle serves as a useful vantage point. It offers unbelievably good view of Shore, but a well-positioned sniper can pick off targets spanning from Rocks to Fully.

Dungeon

Located between Castle and Fully Dungeon is a small distinct area unlike anything else on the map. It's a weird-flanking route and one of the most close settings for short-range combat.

Falls

BY LOCATION: FALLS

During games of Control, Falls holds one of the map's two Power Ammo spawn points.

Falls is a fairly large location. While it does feature a very effective scoping lane, the combination of uneven terrain and numerous rocks and boulders tends to break the line of sight during long-range gun battles. Still it tends to see a lot of action Falls and serves as a popular Rocks-to-Shore scoring route of choice.

DESTINY 2

LEGION'S GULCH

Overview

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE, EARTH

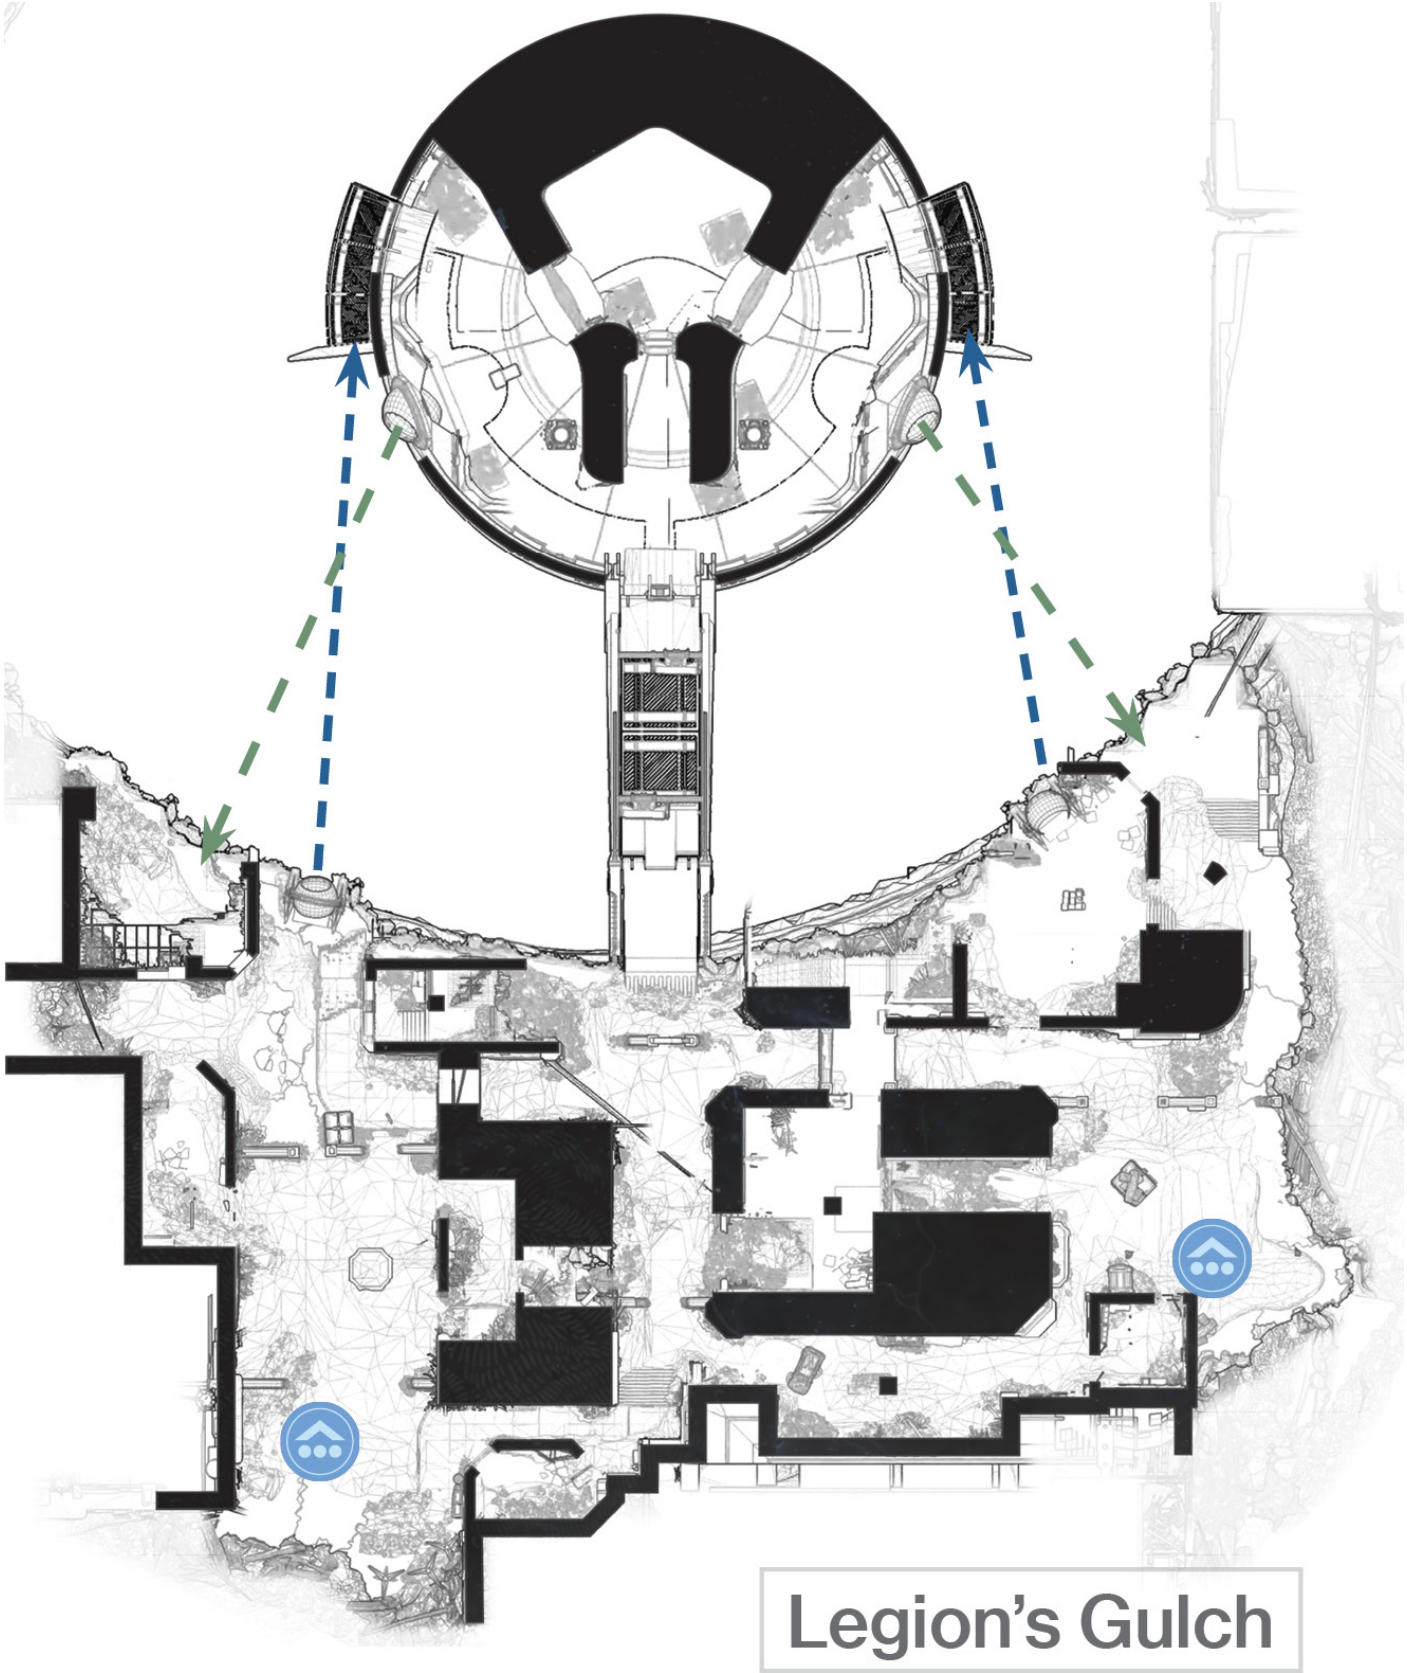
- Quick Play



Legion's Gulch is a fairly large map, but thanks to a massive Cabal drilling platform, much of it has been rendered unusable. The result is a stage that features two very different settings separated by a sizable canyon. The damaged terrain means that sheer drops are commonplace, but the map's border also boasts some less obvious off-limits areas.

A once-bustling city accounts for most of the playable area. Short-range weapons can be very effective in this maze of crumbling buildings and narrow footpaths, but the cityscape does feature a few clearings and some surprisingly effective sniping lanes.

While there's a bridge running between the city ruins and the drilling platform, you'll also find four launchers scattered around the canyon's edge. These devices allow for quick and easy gap traversal, but using them leaves you fairly vulnerable to incoming fire. Before you step into a launcher, try to weigh the convenience against the potential risk. Airborne Guardians make tempting targets, and designated Landing Zones can be very effective ambush sites.

Locations And Watch Types

Legion's Gulch Map Locations

Clash, Supremacy

Control

Courtyard

LEGION: CAMPAIGN

Starting position of Clash and Supremacy. Courtyard serves as one of the main flow avenues of Power Ammo spawns. Going East leads to the Bridge and going West leads to the Apartment.

Most of the major location bounds, Courtyard features a wide variety of cover options. Instead, it also has a head-to-head and multiple points of entry, making this map ideal for skirmishes in a massive form.

Courtyard serves as a travel starting area, a major crossroad many accessory of Power Ammo as of Supremacy Heroic. Going Control, the location also holds one of the major Control Points.

Bricks

Bricks is a fairly small location, but it features three distinct paths, connecting Courtyard to Middle. One of these paths is the Bricks itself, which is a narrow alleyway full of broken bricks and rubble. The alleyway is a narrow area of tight scanning along the upper edge.

Apartment

While this locally recognized building hardly qualifies as a location, it does offer a good amount of cover for Supremacy Heroic and connects Courtyard and Alleys. It makes for a decent passage point, which is why it is a frequent area during heavier skirmishes.

Alley

Alley features a narrow passage wedged between an inaccessible building and a small storage structure. It also offers flanking routes, but it also serves as a popular vantage point for Shadows monitoring Courtyard or Bricks.

Middle

Located at the center of the multiplayer, the aptly named Middle stands as also one of Rat's paths and the Supremacy Heroic. Due to the different pathways which gathers, multiple flanking routes and a direct line connectable during a fire.

Bridge

LEGION: BRIDGE

Starting position of Clash or Supremacy, Bridge features one of the major three Power Ammo spawn points.

Bridge serves as a central crossroad between Courtyard and Middle, but features some extra turns, some options, making this a hard to Supremacy Heroic.

Drill

LEGION: DRILL

Starting position of Control, Drill features one of the major two Power Ammo spawn points.

Unlike Courtyard, Drill is a relatively small location, with a single entrance/exit and a few pillars for cover. Most players will want to head to the nearby Power Ammo Heroic or grab a quick shot in Drill or other close quarters.

Office

LEGION: OFFICE

Starting position of Control, Office serves as one of the major two Power Ammo spawn points.

While Office includes a double-exterior area, it also contains the only good ranged accessible structure. The Office is a small building with a single entrance/exit and a few pillars for cover. Most players will want to head to the nearby Power Ammo Heroic or grab a quick shot in Office or other close quarters.

Hotel

The small hotels is the home to traffic interceptors. Hotel is a dynamic place to become Heroic Strikers. It features a mixed bag of cover and three points of entry, making it excellent to escape from, all for the most combination of attacks.

Street

LEGION: STREET

Starting position of Clash or Supremacy, Street features one of the major three Power Ammo spawn points.

As a narrow three-lane path which the only cover options. Street does not a negative flanking route and accessible routes during Trickle Clash and Supremacy. It's also a source of Heroic Strikes.

Shank

As a small structural location apply to the center of the map, Shank provides extensive cover from nearby locations. Its also a popular location for Supremacy Heroic.

Cliff

LEGION: CLIFF

Starting position of Control, Cliff features Capture Point C.

Apart From a few glances of cover, Cliff is a fairly open exterior space. It typically serves as a basic spinning point when holding a point of Control. It offers a decent amount of flanking routes Heroic.

DESTINY 2

ALTAR OF FLAME

Overview

CALORIS BASIN, MERCURY

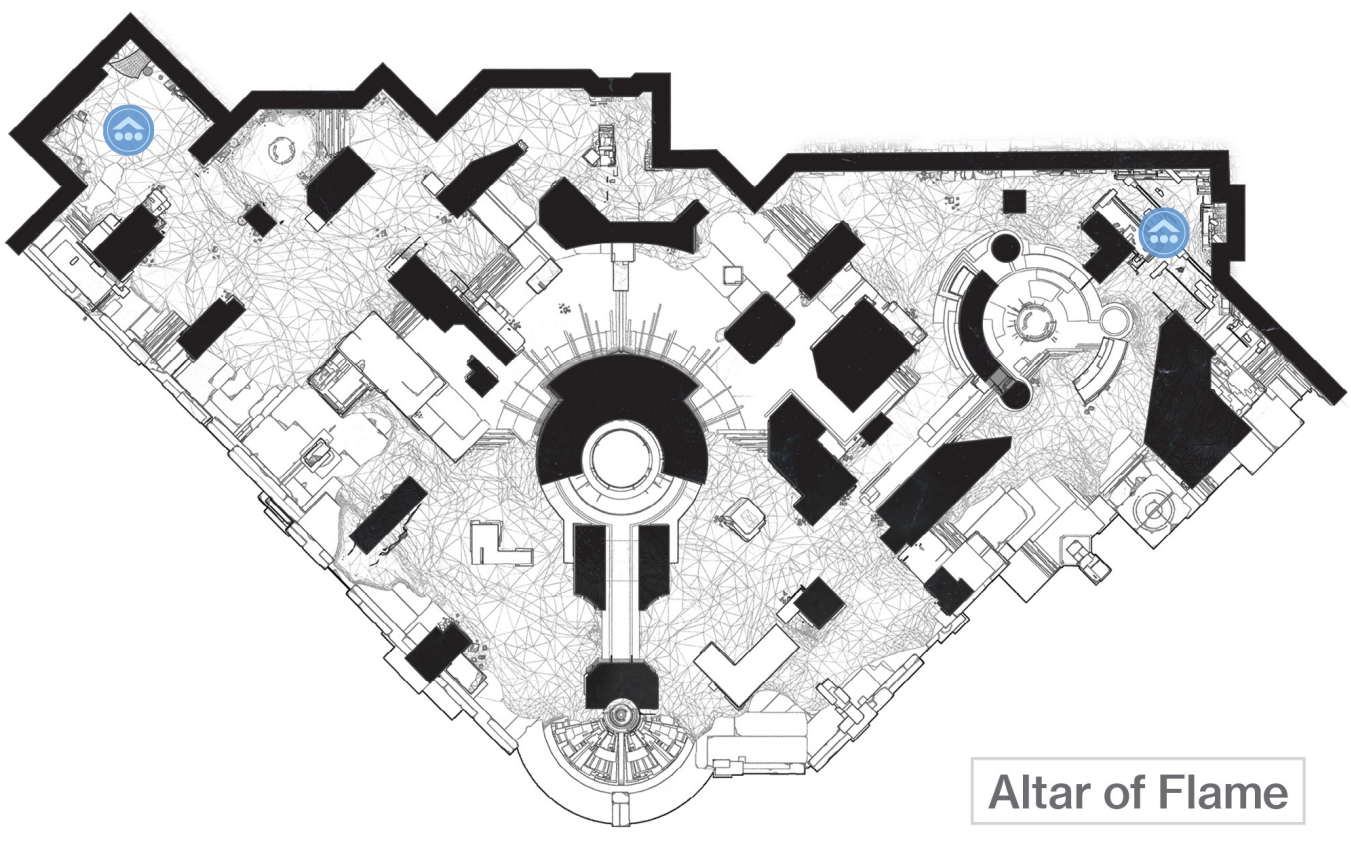
- Quick Play
- Competitive



Altar of Flame is a fairly compact map, and the nature of Vex architecture can give even its largest areas a somewhat claustrophobic feel. Short- and mid-range weapons can be very effective, but long-range weapons still have their uses on this map.

Altar of Flame is largely an outdoor space, but it does have its share of overhangs and low ceilings. You'll also notice that this stage features a variety of lighting conditions. As you move from place to place, consider how your surroundings affect your mobility and target acquisition.

More than half of the map's border allows for fatal falls, but a few of the irregular ledges that mark these areas make for effective vantage points. Don't shy away from using them—just be mindful of your footing.

Altar of Flame Map Locations

Survival

Clash

Control

1 Dunes

BY LOCATION 1080C

During games of Control, Dunes contains one of the maps two Power Ammo spawn points.

Dunes is a very large area featuring uneven terrain, multiple movement tiers, and extensive cover options. This location also includes the map's only true interior space, a sparsely decorated room that typically serves as a team starting area. During games of Control, this location is also a source of Power Ammo.

Due to its size, Dunes tends to be a high-traffic location. While it does contain some relatively open spots, Guardians in this area are rarely more than a few steps away from cover.

2 Candles

BY LOCATION 1080DE

During games of Control, Candles contains Capture Point A.

Candles is a fairly small area, but it tends to see a lot of visitors over the course of a match. Although it features four points of entry, some well-placed obstacles limit the number of sight lines adjacent areas. In most cases, this location serves as a popular flanking route. During Control, it contains one of the map's Capture Points.

3 Circuit

BY LOCATION 1080D9

During games of Control, Circuit contains one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points.

A metal corridor with three points of entry and a low ceiling, Circuit is a useful movement lane and a good spot for aggressive tactics. It's wide enough to allow for lateral movement, but a very low ceiling covers much of it. During Clash matches, this location also serves as a source of Power Ammo.

4 Curve

BY LOCATION 1080E

During Control matches, Curve contains the map's only Power Ammo spawn point.

Wrapping around the center of the map, Curve tends to be a frequently visited and fairly dangerous area. Despite some solid cover options, it's a wide movement lane that can leave occupants open to fire from adjacent areas. It's a particularly important location during games of Survival, when it serves as the map's only source of Power Ammo.

5 Gate

BY LOCATION 1081

During games of Control, Gate contains Capture Point B. In Survival, it hosts the Capture Point that appears whenever a round ends in a tie.

Located in the center of the map, Gate consists of a round platform connected to a narrow staging path. The surrounding walls make Gate something of an open structure. In most cases, this location is a useful (if somewhat overexposed) vantage point.

Gate is a relatively small location, but it tends to be an important one. It contains a Capture Point during Control, or whenever a round of Survival goes into overtime.

6 Disc

BY LOCATION 1082

During games of Clash, Disc serves as one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points.

Disc is a small exposed area located between two fairly effective staging areas. It's most commonly used as a flanking route, but it does serve as a source of Power Ammo during Clash matches.

7 Blocks

BY LOCATION 1083DE

During games of Control, Blocks contains one of the map's two Power Ammo spawn points.

Blocks is a sizable area with some nice cover options, but it's located alongside multiple staging lanes. The adjacent areas feature some very effective (and dimly lit) vantage points, so make good use of the available terrain, especially if you intend to grab the Power Ammo that appears here during Control matches.

8 Hall

Hall is a useful flanking route and one of the map's most popular staging points. It features a great line of sight through Blocks and plenty of nearby escape routes in case things go sour.

9 Shrine

BY LOCATION 1080B

During games of Clash, Shrine contains one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points. During Control, it holds Capture Point C.

While Shrine's most notable feature is the circular platform for which it's named, this sizable location also features a number of other points of interest. The map's tunnel, Shrine is typically a team starting area, but it's also a key location in Clash and Control.

Much of this location is dimly lit and the available cover makes it a fairly good fallback point. It's a great area to shake determined pursuers and a surprise spot for beaupeked snipers.

DESTINY 2

VOSTOK

Overview

FELWINTER PEAK, EARTH

- Quick Play
- Competitive

Vostok is a large map with some excellent sniping lanes, making it one of the Crucible's best stages for long-range firefights. A scout rifle is strongly recommended, and those who favor sniper rifles would be hard-pressed to find a better setting.

Most locations offer adequate cover in the form of rock formations and/or manmade structures—but thanks to some outstanding vantage points, few locations can be considered safe from sniper fire.

Vostok also includes some multi-level structures. Remember to utilize all of the information your motion tracker provides. Whether you're pre-aiming or using a grenade to flush an opponent out of cover, misreading your target's elevation can be a costly mistake.

Considering its location on Felwinter Peak, it should come as no surprise that Vostok contains a large number of sheer drops. It's also worth noting that some of these drops are located along important flanking routes. Airborne Guardians generally make for vulnerable targets, so before you leap across a gap, consider the likelihood of incoming fire.

Locations And Match Types

Vostok Map Locations

Survival

Clash, Supremacy

Mail

In most game modes, Mail serves as a major meeting area, and it's also home to all available vantage point locations. Its open, flat terrain makes it a natural fit for intense, ground-based fights with quick kill options, making Mail a popular starting point.

Dome

LOCATION TYPE

During games of Clash and Supremacy, Dome features one of the maps three Power Ammo spawns, surrounded by a variety of cover options.

Control matches feature two Temple locations. The more open, traditional one is ideal for short-distance fights. Long-range Guardians will find a wealth of overlooking vantage points. Power Ammo spawns in the structure's central platform at the start and beginning every 60 seconds during Dome Control matches.

Dome features sturdy walls and some freestanding cover options, but it also has four points of entry. Coordination is essential for any team hoping to hold the location.

Temple

LOCATION TYPE

During Supremacy matches, Temple welcomes the large-scale arsenal of Power Ammo.

Temple is one of the many larger locations. It features some small barriers and one cover option in the form of a destroyed wall, but Guardians will find little else to help them in a fight.

In most game modes, the short, central space in Dome surrounds the back of Temple's elongated layout. However, during Survival matches, Temple serves as the map's only source of Power Ammo.

Tram

LOCATION TYPE

A variety of Clash or Supremacy Tram arenas are one of the maps three Power Ammo spawn points. In Control, it receives Uprise's Patrol 1 and one of the maps two Power Ammo spawn points.

Tram is a relatively large area with some nice cover options, but the path that runs through it tends to be a bottleneck. Guardians who want to control the area will need to be prepared to fight off enemies from two fronts or risk being flanked. Watch out, as it can serve as a path vantage point for long-range snipers.

Core

Located in the center of the map, the two-story passage features four points of entry. The Hollow Core and Overlook Core vantage points in the upper floor serve as a destination for any Guardians who want the Power Ammo spawns controlled. Short-range weapons, short-range melee attacks, and splash damage all shine in the confines of the corridor.

Bridge

Bridge is a relatively small area that has an overabundance of cover and two locations. A raised walkway spans the area to connect the two between them and has the two main entrances between the bottom of Mail and Rock. It's impressive how the runtime of a major viewing area is the location of the surrounding vantage points.

Dock

LOCATION TYPE

During games of Clash or Supremacy, Dock receives one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points. In Control, it receives Uprise's Patrol 2 and one of the map's two Power Ammo spawns.

Dock features a short area surrounded by a series of steps and walkways. The central platform is a main location in all Gambling modes, and after a few well-helps integrate the threat of long-range attacks, this location's exposed areas to the front side. Luckily, the surrounding walkways provide plenty of vantage options.

Turret

Turret serves as one of the map's most useful vantage points. This small structure features multiple points of entry, great cover, and an unbeatable line of sight to the Mail.

Tower

LOCATION TYPE

During Control matches, Tower features one of the map's two Power Ammo spawn points.

Tower features a simple platform connected to it with an accessible structure. The interior space provides an excellent vantage point for Guardians who want to control the area. The exterior of the structure, on the other hand, makes any nearby long-range attacks a frequent target for counter-snipers.

Rocks

LOCATION TYPE

During Survival matches, the Uprise Patrol Zone appear off-site as the Rocks.

The area may be defined by its large, craggy formations, but Rocks features a fair amount of open ground. Guardians who want to control the area will need to be prepared to fight off enemies from all sides.

In most match types, Rocks serves as one of the map's most exciting areas. During Survival matches, this location's Power Ammo spawns are replaced with Uprise's Patrol 3 and one of the map's two Power Ammo spawns.

MIDTOWN

Overview

THE LAST CITY, EARTH

- Quick Play
- Competitive

While it may be a stretch to call Midtown a symmetrical map, it does have a fairly balanced distribution of movement lanes. It consists of some relatively open areas connected by narrow paths, so you can virtually use any weapon effectively in at least a few areas.

Of course, there's no guarantee that your enemies will frequent your preferred locations. It's recommended that you equip at least one long-range weapon, but a short- to mid-range weapon is sure to come in handy.

This map also features several interior spaces. Some of these are significant structures with multiple points of entry; others are little more than alcoves. Whether you're looking for an alternate route or a bit of emergency cover, remember that heading indoors tends to limit your vertical mobility.

Much of the map's border is defined by the adjacent body of water, which serves as something of an environmental hazard. Fatal falls may not be common, but they're entirely possible.

It's also worth noting that the terrain tends to slope upward as you move away from the waterfront. Most of the available paths include steps or ramps that can enhance or hinder evasive maneuvers.

DESTINY 2

JAVELIN-4

Overview

WARSAT LAUNCH FACILITY, IO

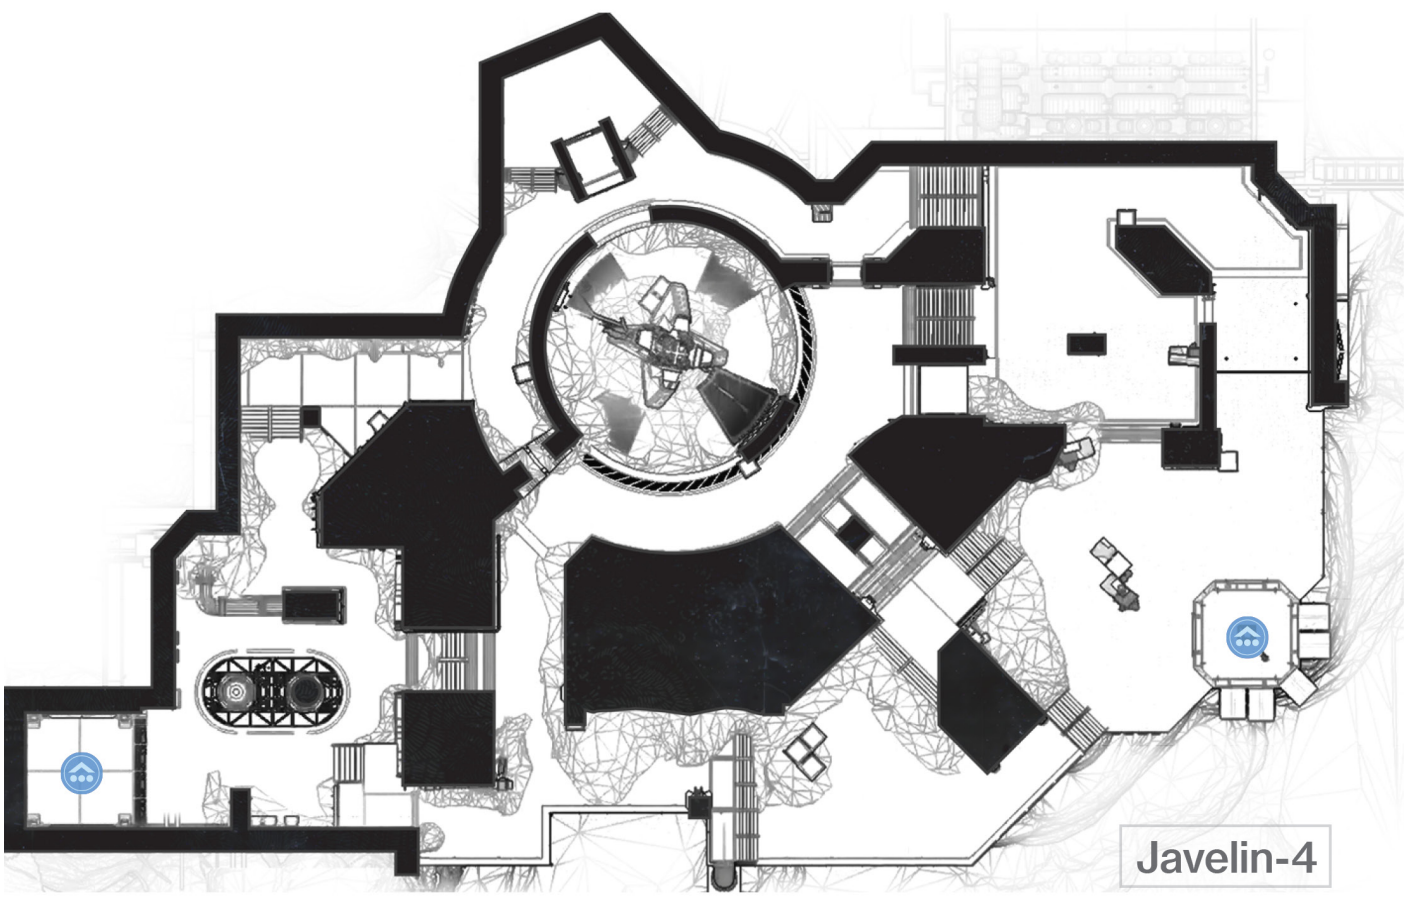
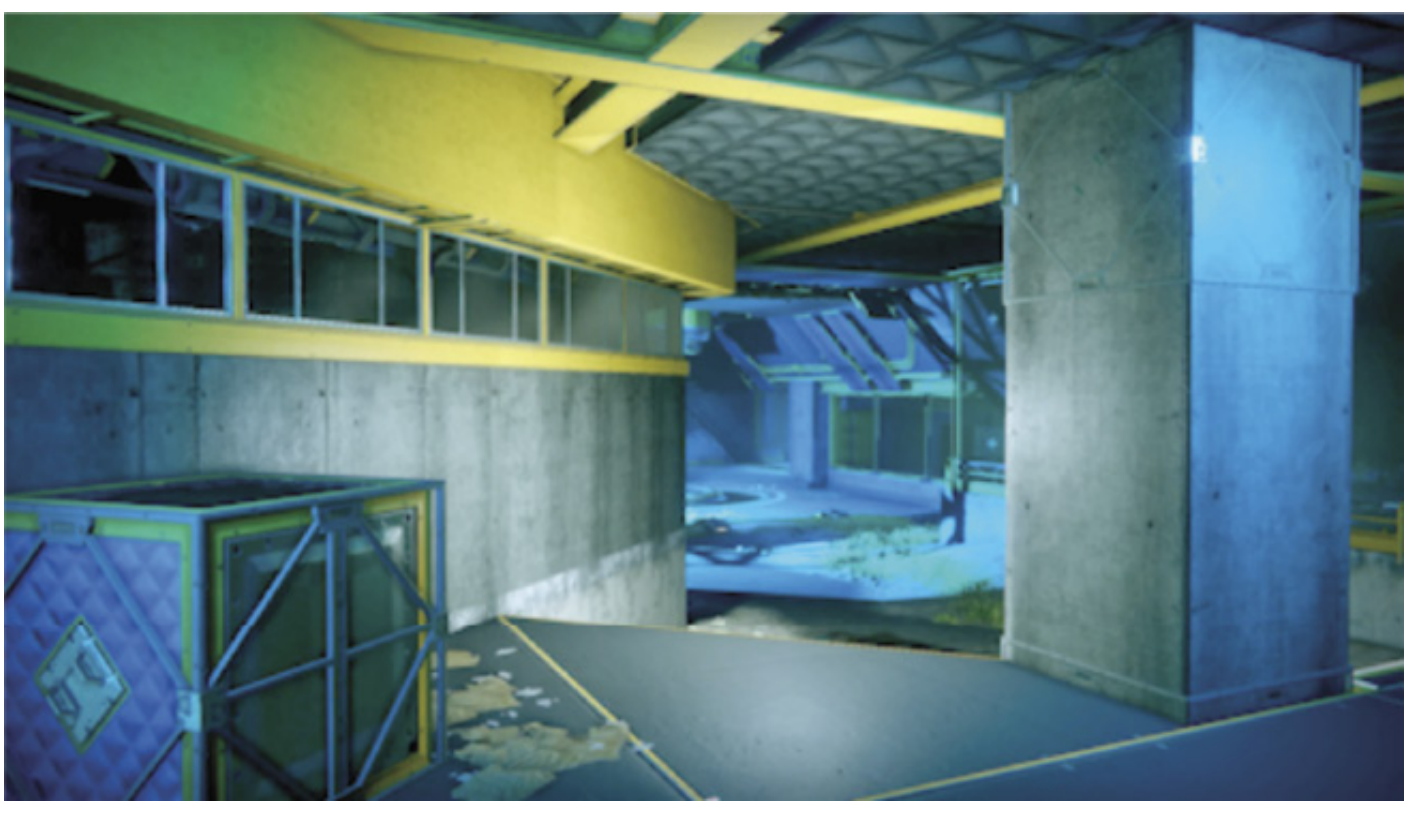
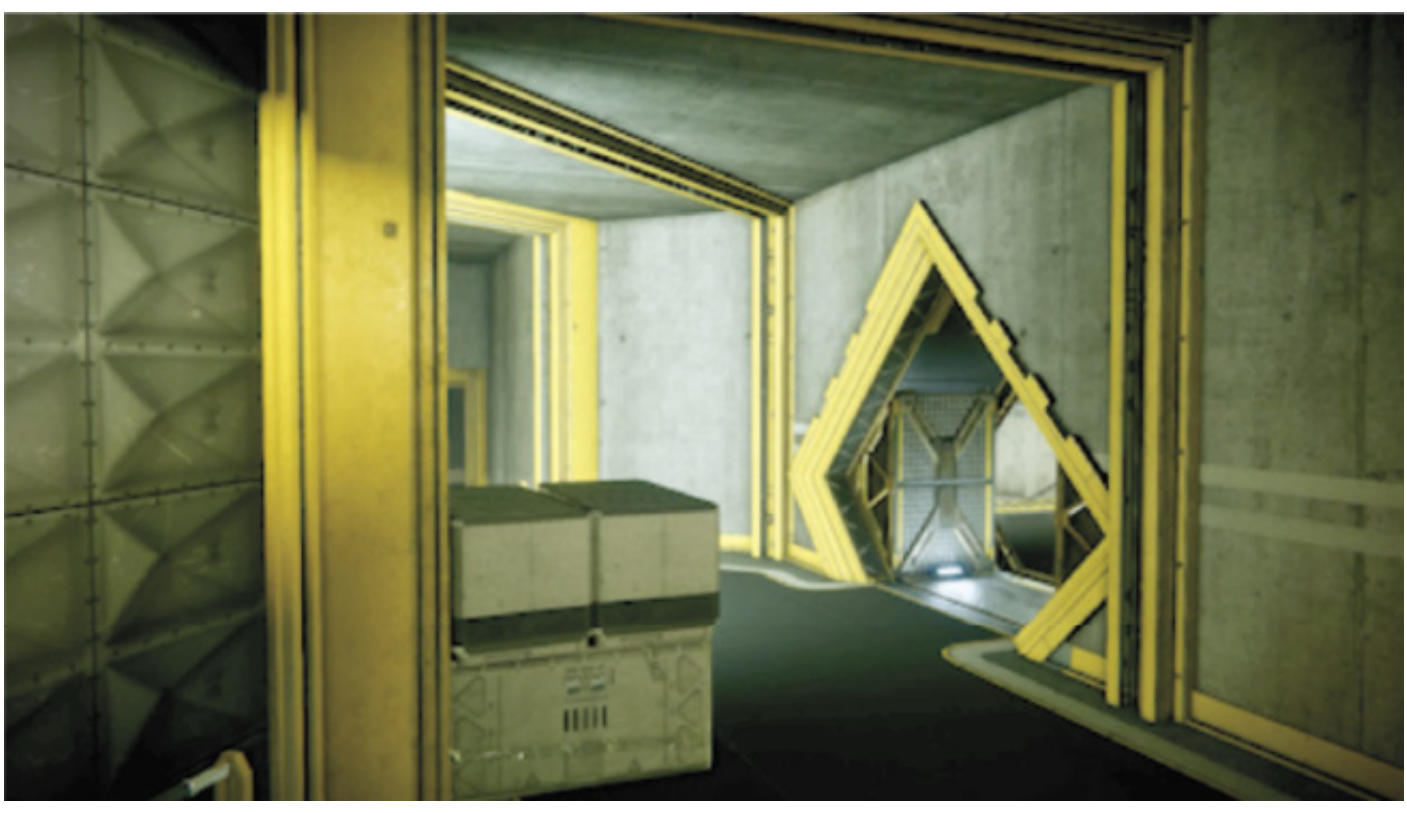
- Quick Play
- Competitive



Javelin-4 includes some sizable interior spaces, but the facility's exterior locations combine to form one very large, fairly open area. A sheer drop ensures that fatal falls are possible, but the limited cover is what makes these outdoor locations so dangerous. Even the most protected spots are easily flanked.



While nature is in the process of reclaiming a few bits and pieces, most of the map features the clean lines and sharp corners one might expect to find in such a facility. This allows for an abundance of useful vantage points and some very effective sniping lanes. Consider equipping at least one mid- to long-range weapon whenever you visit this stage.



Of course, the facility does contain a few smaller areas. Many locations have curves or sharp corners that severely limit line of sight; those who favor short-range weapons will find some suitably tight spots. When in doubt, select weapon combinations that allow you to adjust your tactics as the action moves from location to location.

CHAPTER 3

Locations And Match Types

Javelin-4 Map Locations

Fuel

EXT. LOCATION: FUEL

During games of Clash or Supremacy, Fuel contains one of the maps these Arena spawn points. Control the location near both of their Arena spawn point and Capture Point B.

Fuel is a large interior space with three points of entry and some excellent cover options. A typically narrow, six-lane width long lane has Fuel Rod centre to the lot, strategically important location during Domination. Control the Fuel Rod and you control the map. Fuel Rod is also the location of Capture Point B, and the entire west wing of the huge Capture Fortress.

Glass

Glass is a relatively small area, but it stands as a popular Training room and shooting point. The vertical pillar is the hub of close gunfights and well-protected Guardian at vantage from the upper mid-Glass.

Inner Ring

EXT. LOCATION: INNER RING

During games of Clash or Supremacy, Inner Ring contains one of the map's Asset Power Ammo spawn points.

Connecting to the adjacent areas, Inner Ring tends to be a heavily used movement lane, especially in Similarly matched. During games of Clash and Supremacy, Inner Ring serves as a source of Power Ammo, so it serves this purpose to the wide tactical and Red Rock Capture Point.

Station

EXT. LOCATION: STATION

During games of Control, Station contains Capture Point B.

Station is a fairly small location, but it's useful vantage point with a good amount of cover. During games of Control, the closest platform contains Capture Point B. Station is also a huge cluster of personnel, vulnerable to splash damage, and a coordinated attack can limit potential escape routes.

Rocket

EXT. LOCATION: ROCKET

Mid-section of Arsenal where overdrive, a re-breeding Capture Point appears in Rocket.

Located in the heart of the facility, Rocket tends to be a frequent setting for large-scale firefights. The central area is a wide-open space, with a number of cover options. Watch the ceiling for Hive attacks and the sidewalk when Guardians in advance and retreat, or vanish.

Rocket is a particularly important location during Survival matches. Whenever a round enters overtime, a Capture Point appears just inside of the west.

Stairs

EXT. LOCATION: STAIRS

Running between Generators and Outer Ring, Stairs is a fairly straightforward Training Cycle. Use this overhead space. It's also a good spot for ambushing overly aggressive opponents.

Generators

EXT. LOCATION: GENERATORS

During games of Control, Generators contains one of the map's two Power Ammo spawns.

Generators is a large interior space divided by some notable pieces of cover. It connects multiple Training areas, and is a frequent destination for Guardians looking to quickly move between Training Rocket and Outer Ring. During Control, Generators also serves as a source of Power Ammo.

Outer Ring

Outer Ring is a major chokement lane, but due to its open layout, it's also a popular battleground. Any elevated fixed location such as or around Rocket is bound to make its way into Outer Ring at one point or another.

Pipes

Pipes is a small but important halfway that connects Fuel and Rockwall to Outer Ring. It's a nice spot for ambushing enemies and carries as an excellent vantage point for Guardians exploring adjoining locations.

Rockwall

As the map's southernmost area, Rockwall is more frequently used as a movement lane than a battleground. It's wide enough for Guardians to maneuver easily, and it's a useful vantage point that it doesn't offer much in the way of cover.

Deck

EXT. LOCATION: DECK

During games of Clash or Supremacy, Deck contains one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points.

Deck is a wide-open space with a fair amount of open ground and great lines of sight into adjoining areas. Guardians can easily maneuver around the perimeter of this location, but there's little in the way of cover for anything other than skirmishing in the center. Take advantage of the limited cover, and flow brief visits to avoid being flanked.

Center

EXT. LOCATION: CENTER

During games of Control, Center contains the map's only Power Ammo spawn point.

Center consists of an outdoor platform connected to an indoor corridor. It's something of a chokepoint, but it's also a fairly open location with a number of options for cover. Control the Center and you control the map's only source of Power Ammo.

Fuel

EXT. LOCATION: FUEL

During games of Clash or Supremacy, Fuel contains one of the maps these Power Ammo Spawn points. Is Control the location near both of their Arena spawn point and Capture Point B.

Fuel is a large interior space with three points of entry and some excellent cover options. A typically narrow, six-lane width long lane Fuel Rod centre to the lot, strategically important location during Domination. Control the Fuel Rod and you control the map. Fuel Rod is also the location of Capture Point B, and the entire west wing of the huge Capture Fortress.

Overview

First introduced by Devrim Kay in Trostland (EDZ), Adventures are small self-contained missions that require a modicum of talent and pre-planning to complete. Expect to receive some good loot when you finish each one of them. Adventures are available once you finish the available Campaign Missions on each of the four Worlds (EDZ, Titan, Nessus, and Io). Each Adventure is independent of one another, and you must complete one Adventure in a single session. EDZ has an initial set of Adventures, and then a second set that opens up later into the Campaign Missions. For a flowchart explaining when each Adventure is available, consult the Director chapter.

Adventures Chart

The following table lists the available Adventures.

EDZ ADVENTURES

A New Frontier

Starting Location

- Trostland, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 30

Prerequisite

- Speak to Devrim Kay upon reaching the EDZ.

Reward

- Upgrade point

Description

- It's not just the Red Legion in the European Dead Zone. Explore the area and see what the Fallen are up to.

Loadout Recommendations

This Adventure takes place in Fallen-infested areas. If you have a decent Arc-based weapon, consider equipping it before heading out.

Devrim Kay wants you to get the lay of the land, and he knows just where you should start. When you begin the Adventure, use your Ghost to investigate the nearby banner. Wait for the objective to update, then follow the marker into the nearby building. Clear the building of any threats, and then jump onto the ledge and open the marked chest. Head back into the church, and wait for Devrim to give you your next task.

Now it's time for your introduction to Lost Sectors. Follow the waypoint to the strange marking inside the church. This symbol indicates that a Lost Sector is somewhere in the area, so keep an eye out for similar markings whenever you explore a new location. Wait for the objective to update, then drop down into the nearby hatch and follow the tunnels into Atrium.

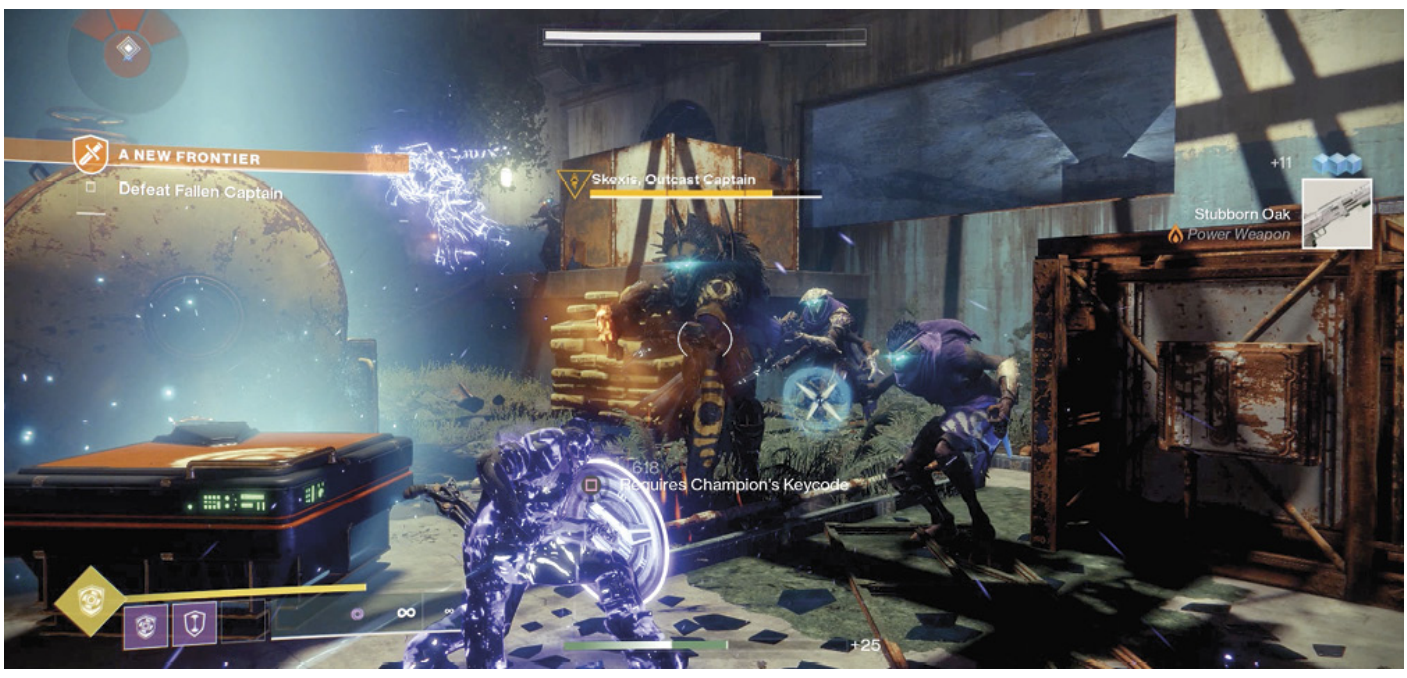
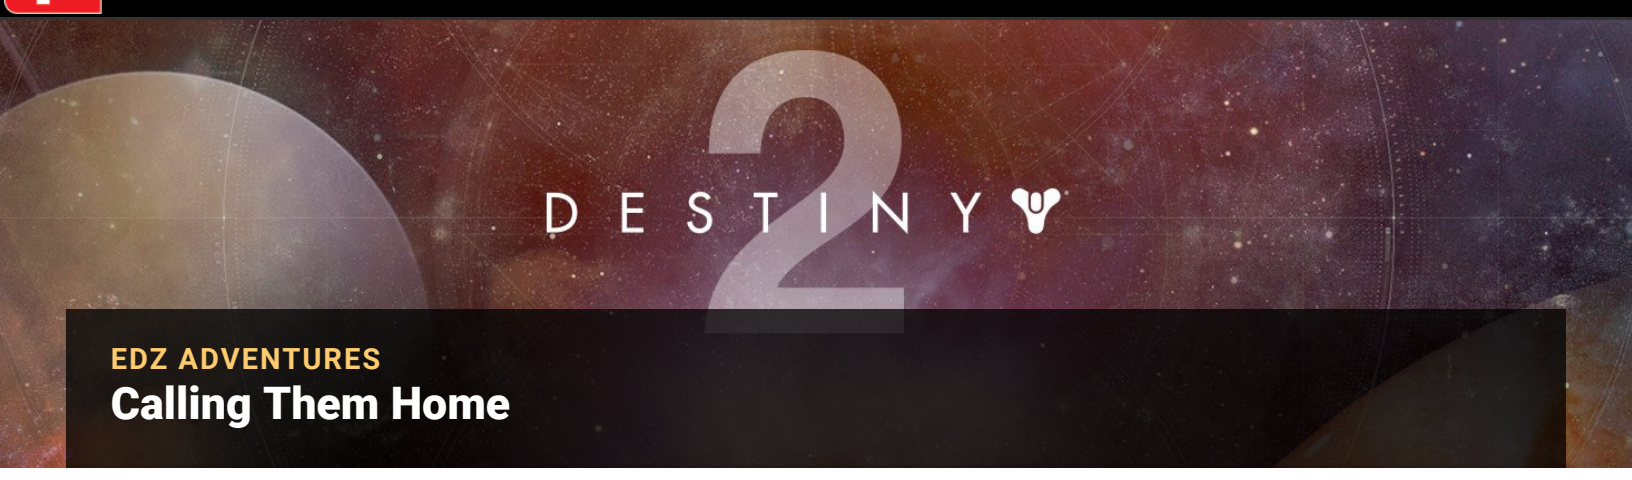
As you explore Atrium, you can expect to encounter a sizable Fallen force. Try to deal clear out common enemies without using Power Ammo or slow-charging Abilities. Like all Lost Sectors, Atrium is guarded by a formidable champion—in this case, you'll face a particularly durable Captain.



Clear the area as you follow the objective marker into the heart of Atrium. The final room contains a named Captain and a considerable number of supporting units. If your Super Ability is available, consider using it now. Otherwise, try to neutralize at least a few of the weaker enemies before pushing into the room.

Like most Fallen Captains, Skexis is equipped with an Arc Shield, so a good source of Arc damage is a big help in this fight. Whether you opt for finesse or brute force, keep an eye out for additional enemies lurking in the shadows. When you defeat Skexis, your Ghost automatically receives a key code. To complete the Adventure, simply use the code to open the large chest in the center of the room.



EDZ ADVENTURES

Calling Them Home

Starting Location

- Trostland, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 20

Prerequisite

- Speak to Devrim Kay after completing EDZ Adventure: A New Frontier.

Reward

- Upgrade point

Description

- Hawthorne is broadcasting a message from the Farm to guide refugees there. Help her amplify it to reach the entire region.

Loadout Recommendations

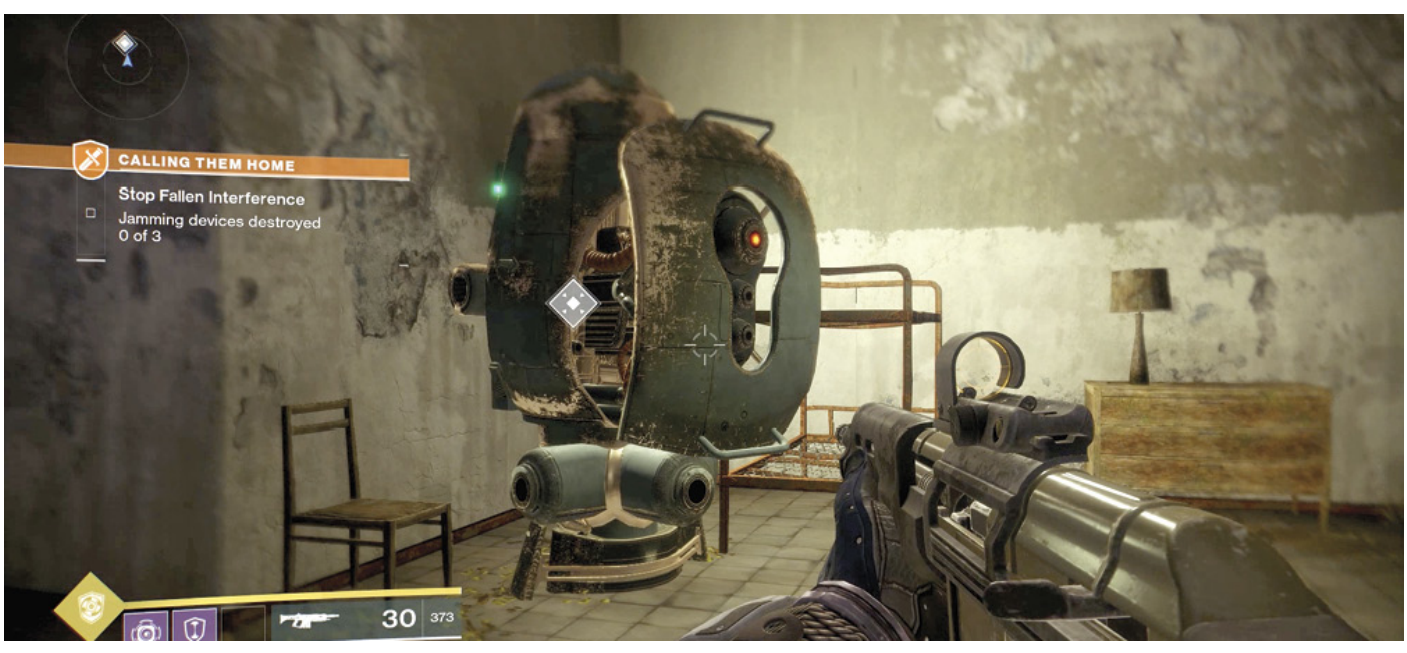
This Adventure takes you to a number of Fallen-controlled areas. Prioritize Arc damage to help deal with troublesome Energy Shields. Some of the related battles take place in wide-open areas, so try to equip at least one mid- to long-range weapon.

When the Adventure starts, follow the objective marker and place a beacon within the indicated area. This is just the first step in boosting Hawthorne's signal; there's a lot of work yet to be done, and it starts with neutralizing the Fallen response.

The amplified signal draws a number of additional enemies into the area. To progress the Adventure, you must eliminate four of the newly arrived Zealous Vandals. Keep in mind that you're also likely to find at least a few standard Vandals lurking in the area. It's generally best to neutralize all nearby threats, but only Zealous Vandals will count toward your objective.

Once you've dealt with the Zealot Vandals, follow the objective marker out of Trostland and into Outskirts. Move to the indicated area, and plant another beacon to further amplify Hawthorne's signal.



Once the second beacon is in place, it becomes clear that the Fallen are jamming the signal. Follow the waypoint into the nearby building, and fight your way into the back room. Destroy the indicated jamming device, then search the surrounding buildings for similar contraptions. Once you've destroyed at least three jamming devices, you're free to pursue your next objective.

The next objective marker leads you across the bridge and into Sojourner's Camp. The area is crawling with Fallen units, so show up ready to fight. You'll find the typical mix of Dregs, Shanks, and Vandals scattered throughout the clearing. Eliminate all present threats.

Once you've secured the clearing, move to the indicated area, and plant another beacon. Doing so triggers a significant Fallen response, so prepare yourself for a lengthy encounter.

Respawning Restricted

When you plant the beacon, Sojourner's Camp becomes a designated Restricted Zone.

Soon after you plant the final beacon, the Sojourner's Camp is overrun with wave after wave of Fallen units. Fresh enemies are dropped directly into the battlefield, so use the motion tracker to keep tabs on new arrivals. Know that a formidable enemy appears toward the end of the battle; consider saving your Super Ability and any available Power Ammo for the encounter's finale.

It can take quite a while to clear out the rank and file, but once you do, a powerful Captain enters the fray. If your Super Ability is available, consider using it now. Otherwise, use Arc damage to quickly disable the Captain's shield, and then follow up with the most powerful weapon at your disposal. Defeat the Captain and any remaining Fallen units to complete the Adventure.

EDZ ADVENTURES

Poor Reception

Starting Location

- Outskirts, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 20

Prerequisite

- Speak to Devrim Kay after completing EDZ Adventure: A New Frontier.

Reward

- Common gear

Description

- The Fallen are trying to block all communications in the EDZ. Find the source of the interference, and shut it down.

Loadout Recommendations

This Adventure takes you into a Fallen-controlled Lost Sector. Make Arc damage your priority, and try to equip at least one mid- to long-range weapon. Doing so can make it much easier to clear out some of the large underground caverns you'll be visiting.

When the Adventure starts, you're tasked with investigating an ongoing feedback issue. Search the surrounding area to locate and destroy a Fallen Shank. Collect the core dropped by the mechanical enemy to learn more about the source of the trouble.

Wait for your Ghost to analyze the Shank core, and then follow the objective marker to continue your investigation. As your Ghost searches for the source of the feedback, you must defend the location from incoming Fallen. The analysis stops whenever you stray too far from the antenna, or whenever you allow Fallen to move into the area. Stay within the clearing and keep your attackers at bay until your Ghost is able to finish its work.

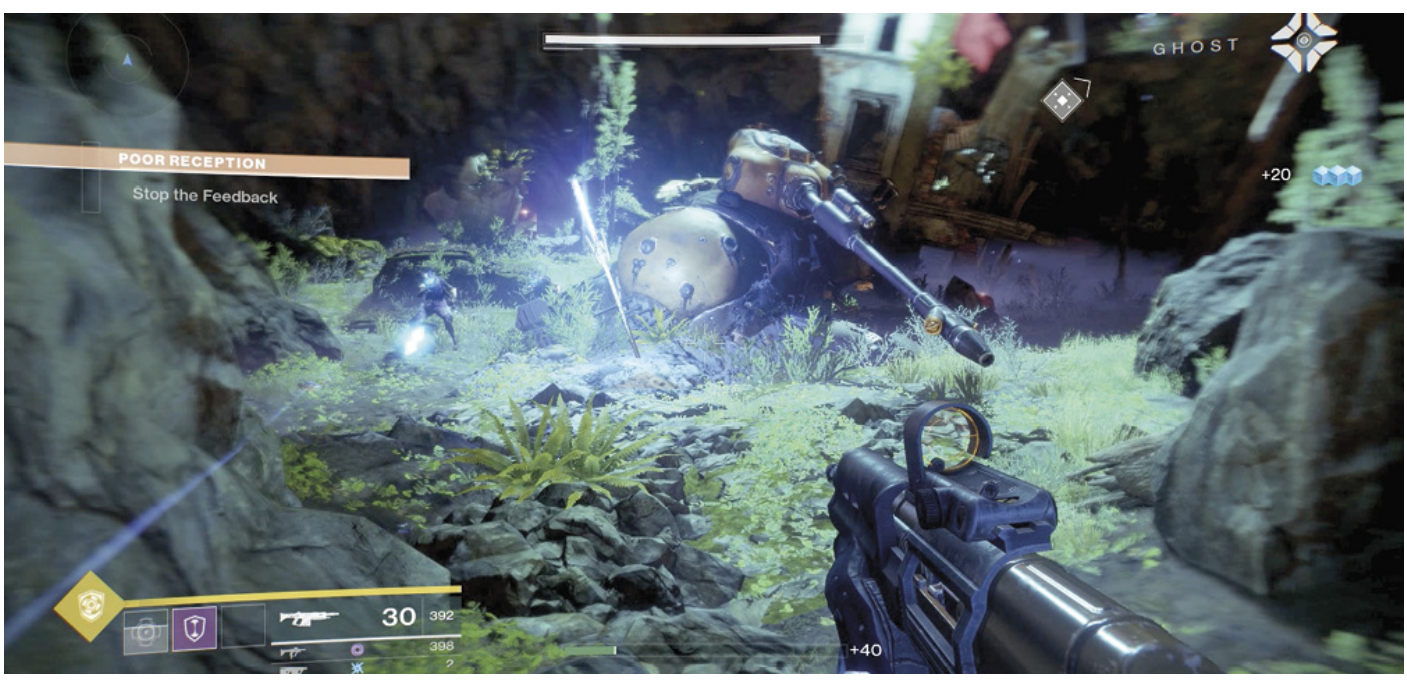
Once your Ghost identifies the source of the interference, follow the marker to your next objective. The issue seems to be coming from a Fallen-controlled Lost Sector somewhere along the water's edge. Follow the objective marker into Scavenger's Den to continue your investigation.

The first cavern is fairly large, containing a significant but scattered enemy presence. You can expect to face a mix of Dregs, Shanks, Vandals, and Marauders, so prioritize targets accordingly.

An energy barrier blocks the passage to the next cavern, and it will remain so until you defeat the Captain charged with protecting the area. Continue your sweep of the area until the Captain makes an appearance. Vanquish this priority target to deactivate the barrier, then follow the objective marker into the next cavern.

The second cavern features a similar encounter confined to a much smaller space; adjust your tactics accordingly. Eliminate available targets until you manage to draw a Captain into the area, then defeat the Captain to disable the nearby barrier.

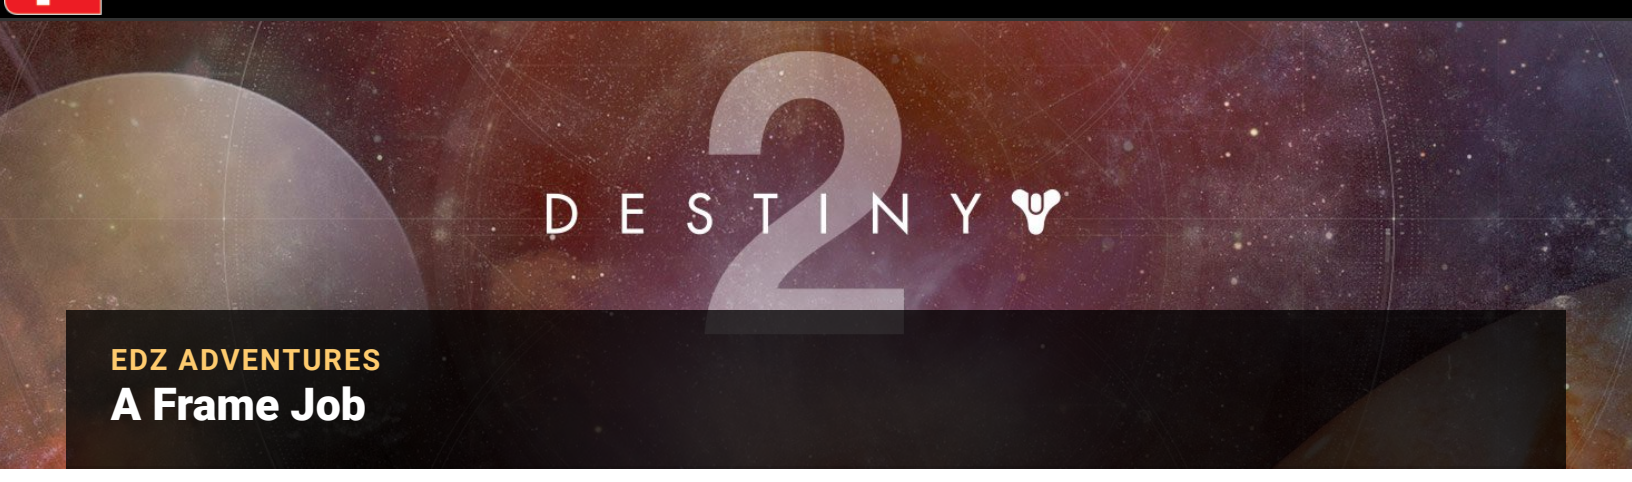
Before you proceed to the final cavern, know that it holds this Lost Sector's champion. Check your weapons, make any desired changes to your loadout, and follow the objective marker to the heart of Scavenger's Den. You'll find a few Tripmines scattered around the passage, so take care to avoid or destroy each trap as you go.



The Lost Sector's champion is the source of the feedback, and unlike the previous Captains, this priority target is ready and willing to engage from the moment you enter the final cavern. While you're free to charge straight into the fray, consider dealing with the weaker enemies first. Start by clearing the cavern floor. Be patient, take advantage of the available cover, and work your way up to the Captain.

Graxus is a formidable opponent, as any Lost Sector champion should be. Arc damage will make short work of the Captain's shield, but defeating this heavily armored target will take some doing. You can speed up the process by using your Super Ability and/or Power Weapon. Otherwise, just use your best weapons to chip away at Graxus' health.

The Adventure ends as soon as you defeat Graxus, but remember that your victory also yields a key code for the Lost Sector's chest. Make sure to collect your hard-earned loot before you leave the cavern.



EDZ ADVENTURES

A Frame Job

Starting Location

- Trostland, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 40

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Combustion

Reward

- Common gear (weapon)

Description

- Travel deep into enemy territory, ambush the Red Legion, and trick them into retaliating against the Fallen.

Loadout Recommendations

This Adventure involves a great deal of Fallen enemies, followed by a heavy dose of Cabal troops. Arc damage can be useful for dealing with the odd Captain, but a good Solar Weapon is a great help during the final encounter. In any case, consider equipping at least one medium- or long-range before you enter the Salt Mines.

When you begin the Adventure, your first task is to access a Fallen terminal system. Follow the objective marker to find this device in a building just past the church. Clear the area of hostiles, and then activate the terminal to receive your next objective.

You must now acquire six voice distortion modules. Step back outside and head for the nearest cluster of Fallen enemies. Eliminate at least six Fallen units, and collect the modules they drop. Deal with any remaining threats, then follow the objective marker into Salt Mines.

You'll encounter a bit of resistance just inside Salt Mines; clear out these enemies, and follow the objective marker toward the dig site. The area is riddled with Fallen Tripmines. While you're free to detonate some (or all) of these traps, they're easily avoided. Slip between the lasers, veer left, and follow the cavern wall to the raised walkway.

Fighting from the raised walkway not only keeps you safely away from the Tripmines, it also ensures that you have plenty of cover options. The cavern is filled with common Fallen enemies—prioritize and eliminate available targets until you've secured the area. After the battle, jump down to the marked location, and perform a scan of the area. Wait for the scan to resolve, then follow the objective marker to the nearby transmat pad and teleport up to the ambush site.

Once you arrive at the ambush site, move up the hill and eliminate the Fallen enemies lurking along the path. The area contains a mix of Dregs and Vandals, led by a Captain. Once you've secured the area, move to the marked location, and prepare for the final phase of this Adventure.

When you're ready, scan the indicated spot to prepare for the incoming Cabal forces. Explosives from Salt Mines appear on both sides of the ambush site, so stick near the scanning location to avoid stumbling into your own trap.

Respawning Restricted

After you scan the ambush site, it becomes a designated Restricted Zone.

Face uphill, and wait for the first of three Cabal assault forces to arrive. When the drop pods open, allow the frontline to charge into your trap as you pick off cautious Psions. If the approaching enemies manage to avoid the Tripmines, shoot an explosive barrel to set off a chain reaction. Wait a moment for the dust to settle, then move in to clear out any surviving threats.

When you're finished, return to your perch in the center of the area, face downhill, and use the same tactics to clear out the second assault force. When the last enemy falls, the area is restocked with fresh explosives. Try to get clear of the blast zone before this happens.

The final Cabal assault force includes some significantly tougher enemies—most notably, Commander Druusk. It's possible to wipe out the entire wave with a well-timed explosion, but don't be caught off guard if Druusk manages to survive. Favor weapons and/or Abilities that deal Solar damage, and use the terrain to your advantage. Defeat all remaining Cabal units to complete the Adventure and receive your reward.

Dark Alliance

Starting Location

- The Sludge, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 160

Prerequisite

- Talk to Hawthorne after completing Campaign Mission: Fury

Reward

- Rare gear (weapon)

Description

- Red Legion Psions are meddling with forces best left alone. Investigate their connection to dark forces in the region.

Loadout Recommendations

You'll encounter a great many shielded Cabal units over the course of this Adventure. Favor Solar damage for both your Energy weapon and your Power Weapon. A good mid- to long-range weapon should also prove useful.

When the Adventure starts, you're tasked with defeating three Psionically-Enhanced Centurions. Each of these enemies is accompanied by Bonded Psions, specialized Cabal units that render Psionically-Enhanced Centurions immune to damage.

Before you engage an enhanced Centurion, eliminate the Bonded Psions protecting it. Note that even without its escort, a Psionically-Enhanced Centurion is a legitimate threat. Use Solar damage to tear through its shield, then finish it off in whatever way you see fit.

Bonded Backups

Replacement Bonded Psions sometimes appear during these encounters. If a Psionically-Enhanced Centurion's Energy Shield changes from orange to white, stop attacking until you've located and eliminated the new arrivals.

The Sludge has a significant Cabal presence, but few of these enemies are related to this Adventure. Use the objective markers to locate and identify the priority targets scattered throughout the area.

After you defeat all three Psionically-Enhanced Centurions, follow the objective marker to find an active portal just inside of The Dark Forest. When you're ready, step through the portal to continue the Adventure.

In the next area, you'll find two Psionically-Enhanced Centurions protected by Corrupted Bonded Psions. These altered Psions boast more armor than those you faced in The Sludge, but they serve the same purpose. Eliminate the Psions, and take down the Centurions. Keep an eye out for the Taken Blights that appear in the area.

Once you've cleared the area, step through the next portal to press deeper into the region. The second portal leads to a larger clearing filled with far more enemies. As you make your way through the zone, eliminate all of the Legionaries you encounter. Try to limit your attacks to basic weapons, as any Abilities or Power Ammo at your disposal can be put to better use down the line.

Once you've dealt with the Legionaries, it's time to face the Psionically-Enhanced Centurion at the end of the path. Like the Centurions you've already faced, this powerful enemy uses Bonded Psions to generate an impenetrable damage shield. Again, you must take out all nearby Psions before you can deal any damage to your primary target. The Centurion' Cabal Slug Launcher is a devastating weapon, so make good use of available cover. Stick close to rocks and trees as you pick off each of the Bonded Psions.

Respawning Restricted

As you approach the Psionically-Enhanced Centurion, the area becomes a designated Restricted Zone.

The moment the last Bonded Psion falls, hit the Centurion with everything you've got. Be quick: it won't be long before fresh Psions arrive to reestablish the Centurion' damage shield. A high-impact Power Weapon is likely your best option. Aim for the head, and keep attacking until the Centurion' white shield reappears. As soon as this happens, head back to cover and locate the newly arrived Psions.

Once you successfully deal damage to the Psionically-Enhanced Centurion, defeating it is simply a matter of repeating the process: eliminate all Psions, and then do as much damage as possible before the next wave arrives. You can speed things up with a well-timed Super Ability, but remember that surviving is your priority. Retreat as often as needed to stay healthy, and use cover to lure Psions away from the Centurion. Keep fighting until you defeat the Centurion and complete the Adventure.

EDZ ADVENTURES

Reverse The Polarity

Starting Location

- The Gulch, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 160

Prerequisite

- Talk to Hawthorne after completing Campaign Mission: Fury

Reward

- Ability unlock

Description

- The Cabal often struggle to use a single technology to power everything in their arsenal. Take advantage of that design flaw to send them a message.

Loadout Recommendations

This Adventure takes place in Cabal territory. Solar damage is helpful in dealing with the occasional Centurion, but crowd control should be your priority. Consider equipping a roaming Super Ability capable of damaging multiple enemies.

After you start the Adventure, move to the objective marker, clear out any nearby enemies, and retrieve a power core from the flaming wreckage.

With the power core in hand, follow the waypoint up the nearby hill, and sabotage the indicated supplies. This location tends to feature a heavy Cabal presence, so be prepared to defend yourself. Remember that you can use the power core as a melee weapon. If that's not getting the job done, switch weapons to drop the core in favor of a little extra firepower.

After you sabotage the Cabal device, your next objective takes you to Firebase Hades. Follow the marker to find a group of Maintenance Guards going about their duties. One of these Cabal units carries a maintenance access code. Defeat the guards, recover the code, and move out to initiate the maintenance cycle. Follow the objective marker to find a large device overlooking the dish. Use the access codes to start the maintenance cycle, then follow the marker to the dish's central platform.

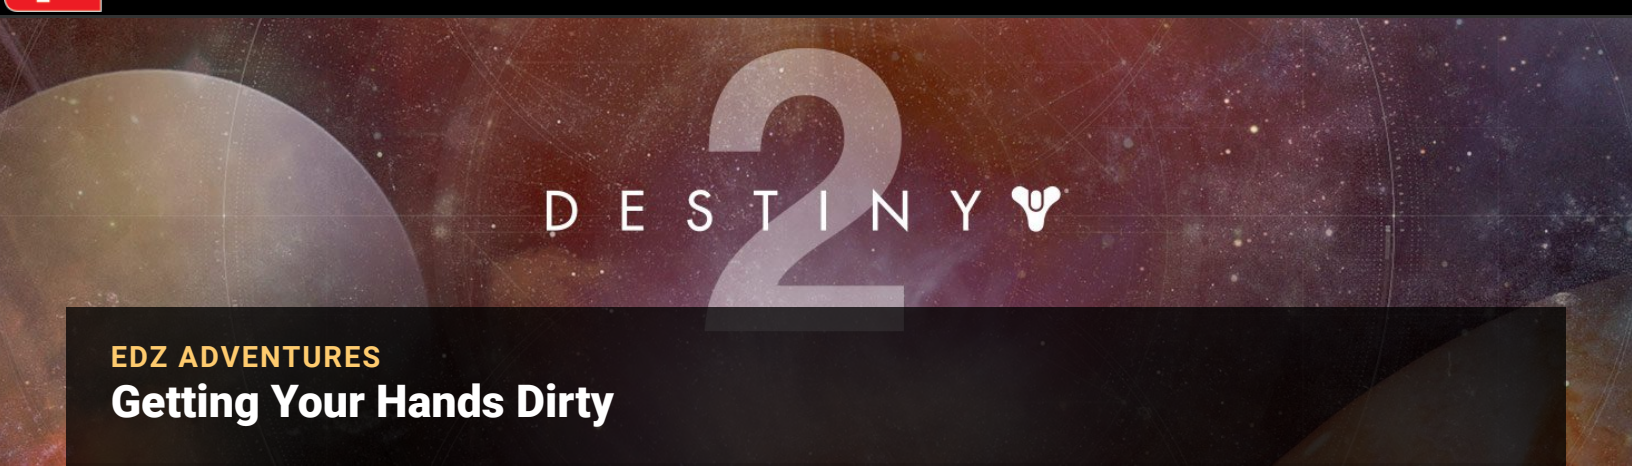
To complete this Adventure, you must sabotage a total of three dish components. The dish's central platform is surrounded by a white ring. Stay inside the marked area to power up the nearby access panels. You can expect a significant Cabal response, so be prepared to defend yourself.

Use the central platform and the surrounding ramps for cover. Be particularly mindful of any long-range attackers stationed in the nearby towers. You're free to leave the ring at any time, but remember that power generation will halt until you return. When fully charged, the access panels rise out of the ground. Move to the objective marker, and collect a power core from the indicated panel.

With a power core in hand, follow the objective marker to find a vulnerable dish component. Place the core in the opening to sabotage the device, then head back to the central platform to repeat the process.

As you go about your work, Cabal units arrive more frequently and in greater numbers, making crowd control your priority. Use splash damage and roaming Super Abilities to even the odds. Back off and regroup if you're in danger of being overwhelmed—just know that the longer you take to charge the access panels, the more enemies will arrive.

Sabotage all three dish components to complete the Adventure and claim our reward.



EDZ ADVENTURES

Getting Your Hands Dirty

Starting Location

- The Sludge, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 160

Prerequisite

- Talk to Hawthorne after completing Campaign Mission: Fury

Reward

- Rare gear (weapon)

Description

- Seize upon the Taken invasion of the EDZ, direct their assault against the Red Legion, and end it before it gets out of control.

Loadout Recommendations

Try to bring at least one good Arc-based weapon to help deal with Taken Contrivers. Because this Adventure takes place in Cabal territory, a source of Solar damage is also recommended.

Upon starting the Adventure, you're tasked with using melee attacks to kill 10 Taken units. The objective markers indicate hotspots of Taken activity, so head for the nearest location and get to work. Keep an eye on your health, and retreat or relocate as needed.

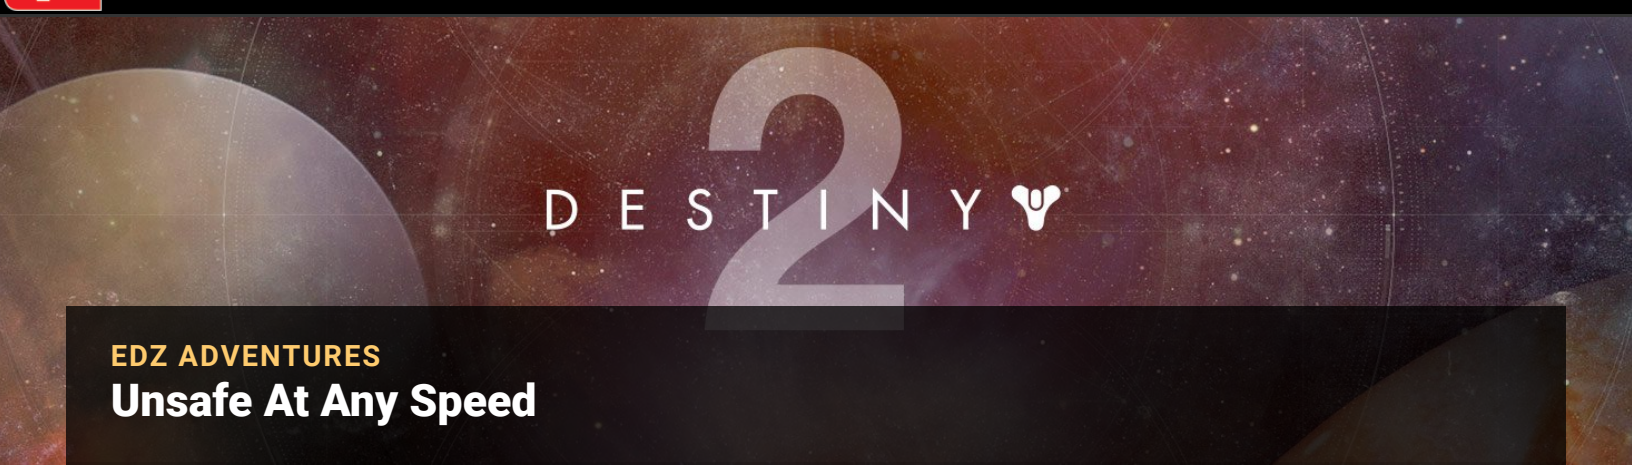
Each of your melee kills serves to collect a small amount of Taken essence. Once you've gather the required amount, you must travel to The Gulch and distribute the essence throughout Cabal territory. To do this, simply visit each of the four objective markers scattered around the region.

You're bound to encounter considerable resistance, but you're free to engage or avoid Cabal attackers as you see fit. Shoot, run, or ride your way to all four locations to receive your next objective.

Once in place, the essence causes Taken Blights to pop up around the area. Just follow the objective marker to find each Blight as it appears. A group of Taken guards each location. While you're free to focus on the Blights, it's generally best to deal with hostile units first.

As troublesome as Taken Vandals can be, Taken Contrivers will likely be the most dangerous enemies you'll find guarding a Blight. These units are essentially enhanced Centurions, so be ready to shoot down incoming Axion Darts.

After you destroy a Blight, follow the objective marker to your next target. Eliminate four Blights to complete the Adventure and collect your reward.



EDZ ADVENTURES

Unsafe At Any Speed

Starting Location

- Firebase Hades, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 160

Prerequisite

- Talk to Hawthorne after completing Campaign Mission: Fury

Reward

- Rare gear (armor)

Description

- A nasty Fallen Pike Gang is wreaking havoc in the area. Capture enemy vehicles and use them to even the odds.

Loadout Recommendations

You have access to Cabal Interceptors during this Adventure, and these vehicles should account for the bulk of your firepower. However, a source of Arc damage may prove useful, and you'd do well to bring a selection of mid- to long-range weapons. The final encounter is best fought from a safe distance.

As soon as the Adventure starts, move to the indicated area and summon a Cabal Interceptor. Only your first two objectives require the use of an enemy vehicle, but its impressive firepower makes the Interceptor a valuable asset for the duration of this Adventure. Make note of the spawn point, and return to claim fresh vehicles as needed.

First, you must use the vehicle to eliminate five enemies. You'll find plenty of suitable targets scattered throughout the area—just utilize the Interceptor's weapons until you complete the objective.

Next, you must defeat four enemies by ramming into them. Make good use of the Interceptor's speed boost. Once you have a target in your sights, charge straight ahead for a devastating blow.

Your next objective leads you to The Gulch. Before you leave Firebase Hades, consider exchanging your vehicle for a fresh Interceptor. When you're ready, follow the waypoint into The Gulch, and eliminate two Fallen salvage crews.

Keep in mind that salvage crew members may be mixed in among more common enemies. It's generally best to eliminate all targets in and around the indicated area. If you've managed to keep your Interceptor in working order, clearing the area should be a fairly simple endeavor.

Once you've eliminated both salvage crews, you need to deal with the salvage crew leader. This priority target is located on a nearby ridge. Just move to the objective marker, and clear the area. The leader's crew includes a Servitor, so be ready to dodge some high-damage projectiles.

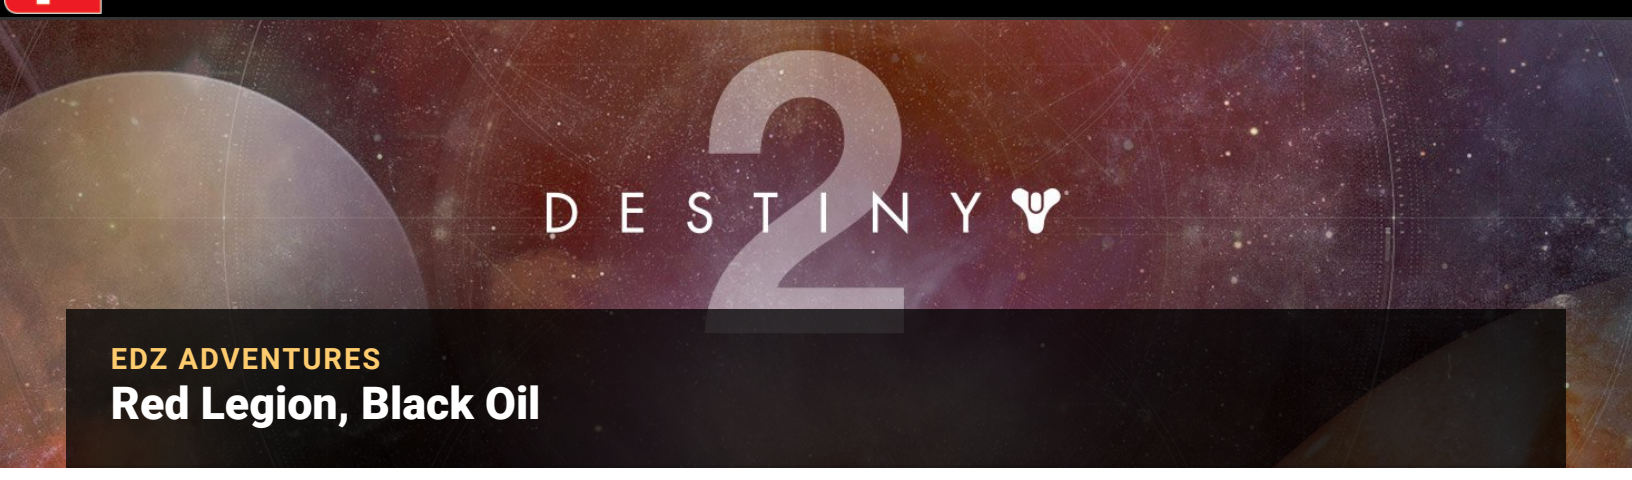
With the salvage crew leader gone, all that's left is to defeat a newly arrived Fallen Walker. If your Interceptor is still fit for combat, use it to attack from maximum range. As long as you keep your vehicle in working order, the battle should be over fairly quickly. Otherwise, take cover on the main road, or hunker down on the nearby rocks.

As with any Walker encounter, start by chipping away at the target's legs. When the vehicle collapses, switch your focus to the exposed core, and deal as much damage as possible before the Walker recovers. Repeat the process as many times as needed to eliminate the salvaged Walker and complete the Adventure.



EDZ ADVENTURES

Red Legion, Black Oil

Starting Location

- Sunken Isles, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 170

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Unbroken

Reward

- Rare gear (armor)

Description

- Destroy the dark liquid that the Cabal use to power their technology, or contaminate it for a subtler approach.

Loadout Recommendations

This Adventure takes place in Cabal territory. Consider bringing at least one source of Solar damage.

Your first task is to collect five Organogel samples from Cabal units. The facility is heavily guarded, so you should have plenty of suitable targets. Only Precision Kills yield Organogel samples, so make sure you aim for the head.

Once you have the required samples, you must locate the Cabal's Organogel caches. Follow the objective marker to the massive ramp near the center of the area, and head inside. Follow the path into Legion's Hold to receive your next objective.

Respawning Restricted

During this Adventure, Legion's Hold is a designated Restricted Zone.

Now you must decide if you'd rather destroy the cache or contaminate its contents. As you enter the main bay, two waypoints appear. To destroy the supply, follow the waypoint on the left, and shoot the indicated canisters. To sabotage the supply, follow the waypoint on the right, and scan the indicated device.

Choose Wisely

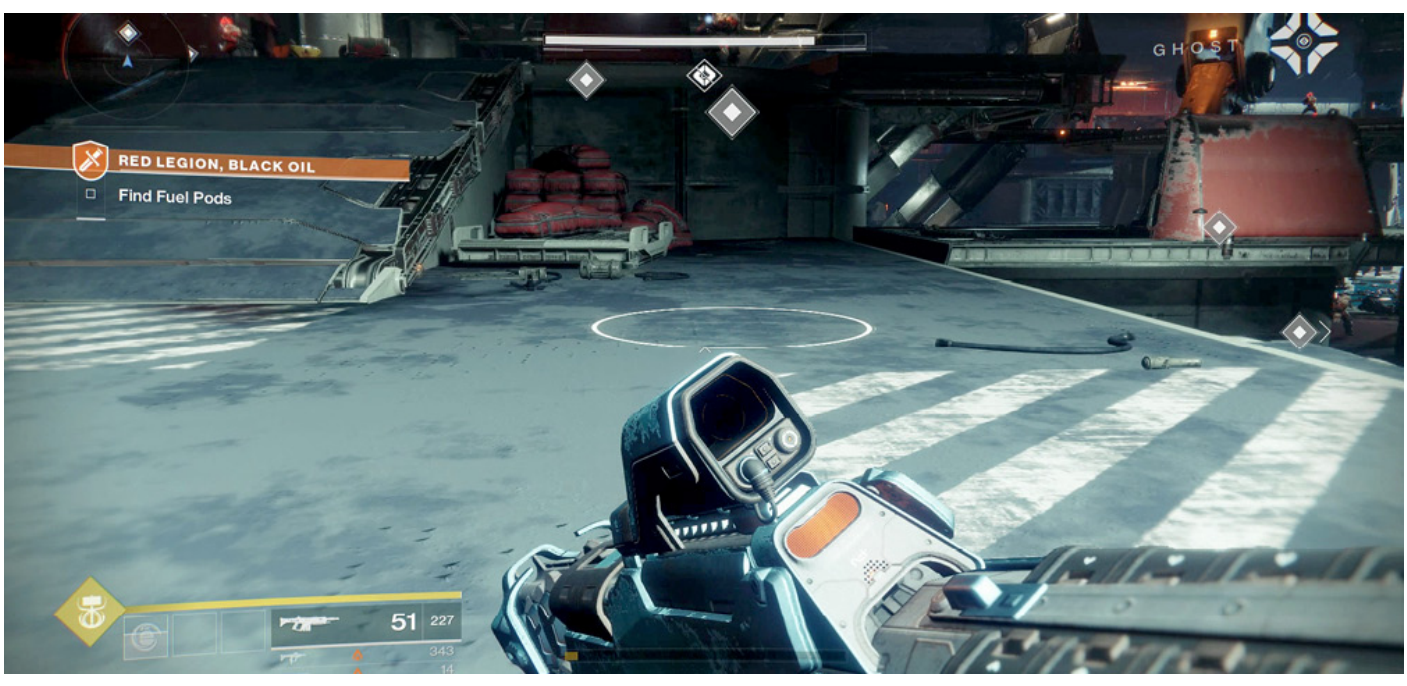
Know that the choice you make here will significantly affect the rest of the Adventure. Destroying the Organogel supply triggers a massive Cabal response, which (for better or worse) means more powerful enemies in far greater numbers.

If you opt to destroy the Organogel supply, you must find and eliminate all of the fuel pods scattered throughout Legion's Hold. Once you destroy the first group of canisters, move to one of the indicated areas, and activate a sensor pulse. Doing so will mark all nearby fuel pods.



While some fuel pods are out in plain sight, many are difficult to spot until a sensor pulse reveals their location. Once you've destroyed all of the marked fuel pods, move to one of the remaining pulse locations to identify a new set of targets. Repeat the process until you've found and destroyed all of the fuel pods stashed around the room. Of course, a steady flow of incoming hostiles makes this simple chore considerably more challenging. To complete the Adventure, you must survive the Cabal response long enough to destroy the entire supply of Organogel.

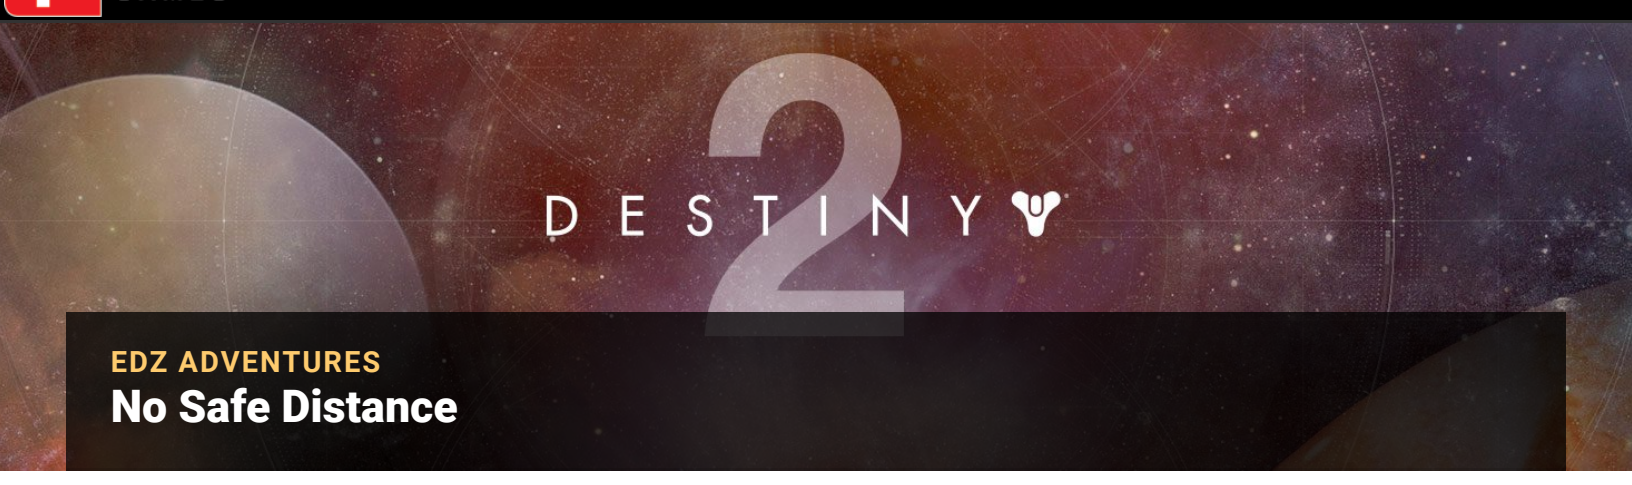
If you opt to sabotage the Organogel supply, you must make a full sweep of the room, using your Ghost to interact with each of the remaining fuel injection systems. This subtler approach minimizes the Cabal response, but you'll still need to deal with a good number of enemies.

Once you've sabotaged all of the fuel injection systems, your final objective takes you back to Sunken Isles. Follow the waypoint to the indicated landing pad, and wait for the Cabal gunships to appear. Once they do, simply observe the fruits of your labor to complete the Adventure and receive your reward.



EDZ ADVENTURES

No Safe Distance

Starting Location

- Sunken Isles, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 170

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Unbroken

Reward

- Rare gear (weapon)

Description

- The Red Legion base is full of explosives even more dangerous than usual. Find them and neutralize them before they can enter the field.

Loadout Recommendations

This Adventure takes place deep in Cabal territory, so try to bring at least one reliable source of Solar damage. You'll face some formidable units, but the enemy's strength is in its numbers. Favor weapons and Abilities that support crowd control and area damage.

Respawning Restricted

During this Adventure, Legion's Anchor is a designated Restricted Zone.

When the Adventure starts, move to the objective marker, and eliminate the Centurion Quartermaster. Collect the delivery report that your vanquished target drops. Then, follow the waypoint into Legion's Anchor, eliminating any resistance you encounter along the way.

You're tasked with stealing three explosive charges, and the room that holds them is heavily defended. Use your preferred tactics to eliminate all present threats, but take note of the yellow fuel pod placed near the center of the footbridge. This canister is extremely volatile, and shooting it will yield an impressive explosion. You'll encounter more of these fuel pods before the Adventure ends. Whether you ignore them or use them to your advantage, take care to avoid getting caught in any unplanned explosions.

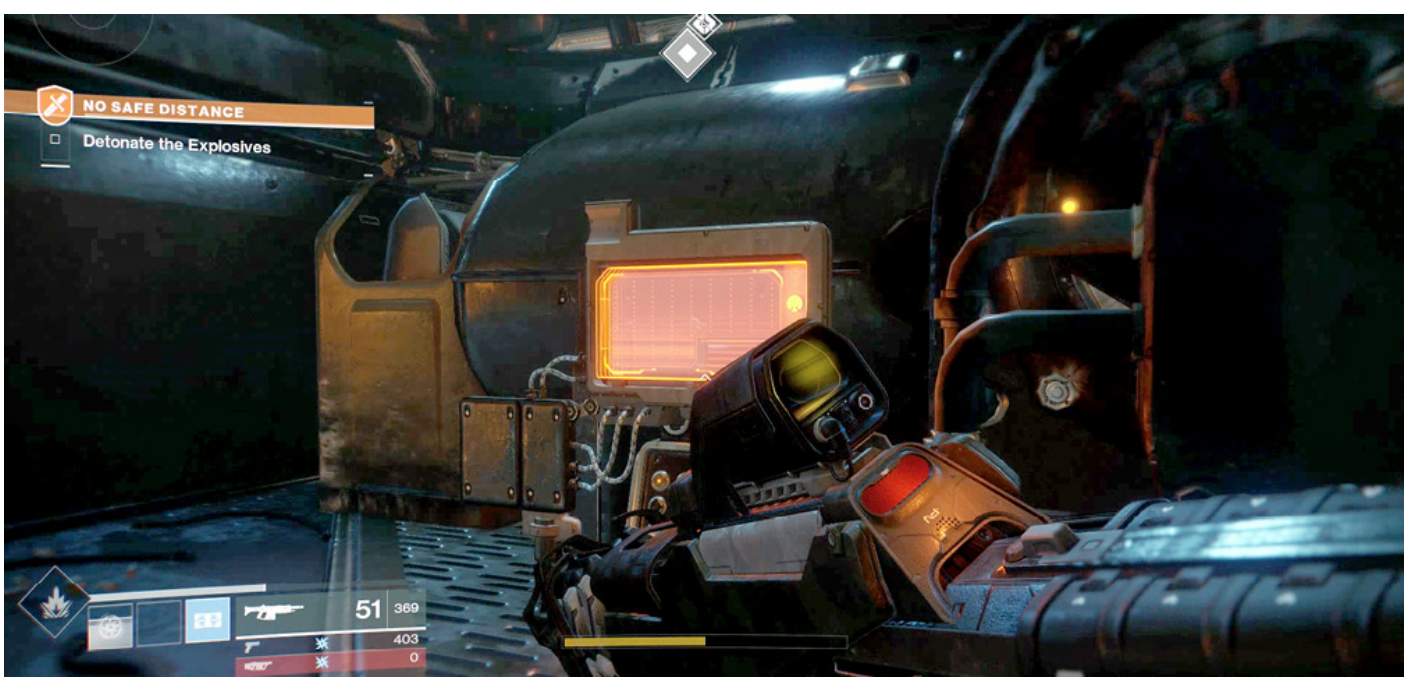
When it's safe, sweep the room, and transmat each of the three marked containers. Your theft is likely to draw additional enemies into the area, so be ready to defend yourself. Once you've claimed the required explosives, follow the objective marker out of the room.

Head outside and deal with the waiting enemies. Move to the indicated Goliath tank, and wait for your objective to update. Place one explosive under each of the nearby tanks, and prepare to defend yourself.

Once the explosives are in place, they must be armed. To do this, simply stay within the confines of the Goliath platform until charges are ready. Wander too far, and the arming process halts. Of course, your presence won't go unnoticed for long.

The Cabal response is significant, so take advantage of the available cover. Work quickly to keep from being overwhelmed, and don't hesitate to use your Super Ability if things get too hectic.



When you've completed the arming process, follow the waypoint to the nearby console, and trigger the explosion. Your final task is to escape the Cabal base. Follow the objective marker, but be careful—the path out is heavily defended.

A steady flow of Cabal units hinders your escape. Make use of cover, and watch the motion tracker for new arrivals. As you approach the exit, be particularly mindful of the explosive canisters scattered around the area; they're arranged in such a way that a single shot can trigger a massive chain reaction.

A planned explosion should allow you to clear the bulk of the room in an instant, but make sure you're well clear of any yellow canisters when the sparks fly.

A squad that includes a formidable Centurion guards the final corridor. If your Super Ability is available, consider using it during your final push. Otherwise, use whatever weapons you have at your disposal to fight your way past these enemies and out of the base.

Stop And Go

Starting Location

- The Gulch, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 160

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Unbroken

Reward

- Rare gear (weapon)

Description

- Power generators in the Red Legion base are open to attack, but only for a short time. Speed into the subterranean complex, and shut them down.

Loadout Recommendations

This Adventure takes place in Cabal territory, so consider equipping a good source of Solar damage. A good long-range weapon can also be helpful, but make sure you bring at least one weapon that works well in tight spaces.

Your first task is to recover three maintenance access codes, which are carried by the various Cabal units scattered across The Gulch. Simply make your way toward the entrance to The Tunnels, and eliminate any hostiles you encounter.

Depending on the level of Guardian activity in the area, you should be able to collect all three keys by the time you arrive. Otherwise, sweep the area for enemy clusters until you complete the objective.

Once you've gathered the required maintenance access codes, follow the waypoint toward the Cabal base hidden within The Tunnels.

Respawning Restricted

During this Adventure, The Tunnels is a designated Restricted Zone.

When you reach the base entrance, clear out the waiting Cabal units, and use the marked device to drop the nearby force field. To push deeper into the base, you must lower a series of force fields by destroying the generators that power them. Be warned that this is a time-sensitive objective. Before you fire a shot at the first generator, make sure you're satisfied with your loadout.

When you're ready, shoot the generator. You now have 30 seconds before a base-wide alarm sounds. Press down the corridor, and follow the objective marker to the next generator.

Each generator you destroy adds an additional 30 seconds to the countdown. Try to destroy all five generators (and drop the corresponding force fields) before time runs out. Otherwise, the resulting alarm draws more powerful units into the area.

Worst-Case Scenario

Allowing the alarm to sound makes things a bit more difficult, but it doesn't prevent you from completing your mission. If you run out of time, adjust your tactics and continue your push. It's also important to note that new enemies can appear behind you, so keep an eye on your motion tracker.

By the time you reach the end of the corridor, you've destroyed five generators. Now you must destroy nine more. The area beyond the corridor is heavily defended, so avoid straying too far from cover. Eliminate all hostile units as you press your way toward the next objective marker.

Reinforcements arrive throughout the battle, so don't hesitate to fall back and regroup, especially once Bracus Ja'gad makes an appearance. As an enhanced Centurion, Ja'gad is a serious threat.

Once you've secured the area, turn your attention to the remaining generators. Most of these devices are out in the open; simply follow the objective marker, and destroy each of the indicated targets.

After you've dealt with the exposed generators, follow the objective markers to a row of shielded pylons. Use the control panels to deactivate each of the force fields, then move back and shoot any revealed generators. Destroy all of the base's generators to complete the Adventure.

EDZ ADVENTURES

Anti-Anti-Air

Starting Location

- Firebase Hades, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 160

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Unbroken

Reward

- Ability unlock

Description

- Infiltrate the Red Legion base and disable their network of flak turrets.

Loadout Recommendations

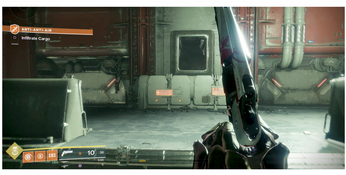
This Adventure takes place in and around a Cabal stronghold, so Solar damage is bound to be useful. Some of the more difficult encounters occur in confined spaces, but you'd do well to bring at least one mid- to long-range weapon.

This Adventure involves some key items held by priority targets. Your first objective marker leads you to a Turret Mechanic. Eliminate this unique Psion

(along with any other nearby enemies), and collect the Red Legion intelligence it drops.



Once the data is in your possession, you must infiltrate Legion's Anchor. Follow the objective marker to the vehicle bay along the west edge of Firebase Hades. Clear the room, hop into the duct at the far wall, and follow the passage to the next area. As you exit the duct, follow the objective marker to the right. Hop onto the stacked crates, and jump through the overhead hatch to find the passage to Legion's Anchor. When you're ready, move to the end of the passage and drop down to engage the waiting enemies.

Respawning Restricted

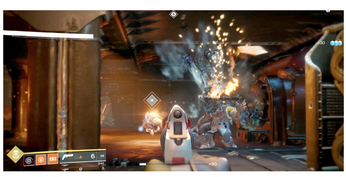
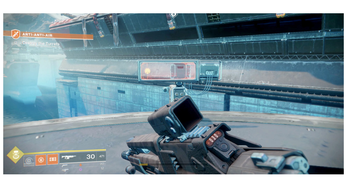
As you drop down into Legion's Anchor, the area becomes a designated Restricted Zone.

Soon after you enter Legion's Anchor, an objective marker appears over a named Psion. Defeat this enemy and collect the security access code it drops. After you secure the room, follow the objective marker to push deeper into the Cabal base.

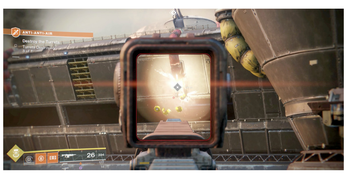


The waypoint leads to a ledge overlooking the turret platform. However, before you can reach the flak turrets, you'll need to acquire another security code. After the objective updates, follow the waypoint, and eliminate the named Centurion. Collect the security access code, use it to deactivate the force field, and head outside.



You must now destroy seven flak turrets. The process is a bit complicated, so follow the objective markers to complete each step in order. Each turret has a weak point in the power supply, and each of these weak points is protected by a force field. You must hack a total of five consoles to expose the weak points of all seven turrets.

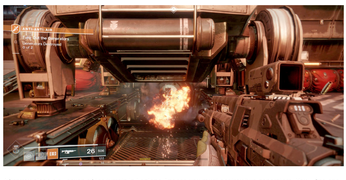
Of course, the flak turrets are heavily defended. Not only will you face an impressive number of Cabal units, you'll also find a fair amount of named enemies peppered among the standard variants. Prioritize your targets accordingly, and consider clearing the bulk of the area before you deal with the flak turrets.



Each console that you hack drops at least one force field. Look for the objective markers indicating vulnerable power supplies, and then use your preferred weapon to destroy them.

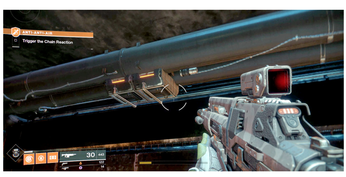
Once you've destroyed the first four flak turrets, drop down to the nearby footbridge, and follow the objective markers to the remaining targets. You'll find plenty of fresh enemies waiting on the next platform, so make sure you're ready for a fight.

Secure the area, hack the indicated console, and destroy the remaining turrets. Be warned that your actions will draw more foes into the area.



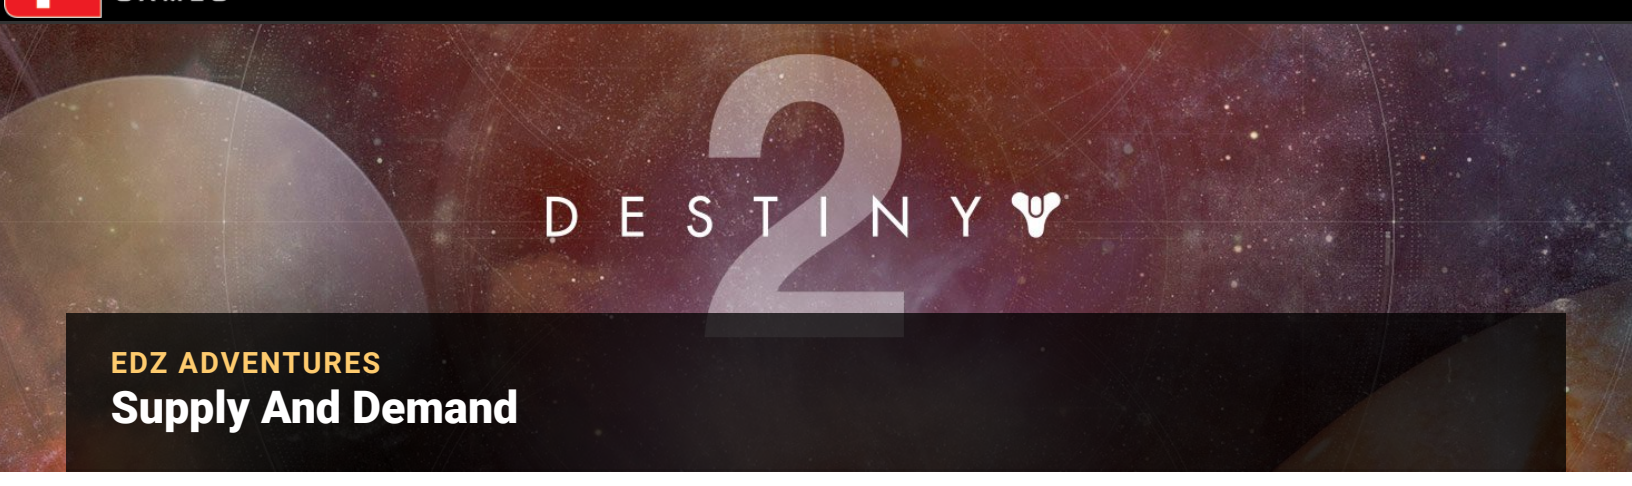
After you disable all seven of the turrets in Legion's Anchor, you must destroy two generators. You'll find one generator located below each of the nearby Goliath tanks. Check your weapons, shoot the generators, and brace yourself for the enemy response.

Destroying the generators draws a sizable group of Cabal units, but Mechanic Overseer Vaz'zar is easily the squad's most dangerous member. Eliminate this named Centurion, collect its security access code, and follow the objective marker back inside the base.



The objective marker leads to an overhead junction box. Step back and destroy this device to trigger a destructive chain reaction. Wait for the objective to update, then follow the waypoint back to Firebase Hades.

Your final objective demands that you disable the firebase's main gun. Simply follow the objective marker and use the indicated panel to complete the Adventure.



EDZ ADVENTURES

Supply And Demand

Starting Location

- Trostland, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 170

Prerequisite

- Complete campaign

Reward

- Rare gear (weapon)

Description

- An old friend is looking for Red Legion supplies to reappropriate. Scour Fallen territory for anything to scavenge.

Loadout Recommendations

Make Arc damage a priority, and consider equipping at least one mid- or long-range weapon.

The Adventure begins with a fairly simple objective: head into the crumbling building north of the church and collect the supplies stashed on the second floor. Your next task leads you to Maevic Square. Follow the objective marker out of Trostland to track down a massive Cabal cache.

The objective marker leads you to a heated battle between the Fallen and the Cabal. Each force includes one named enemy, but these enhanced units aren't nearly as dangerous as the Scorpius turrets placed around the courtyard. Hang back, and use this advantageous position to pick off vulnerable enemies before you join the fray.

Respawning Restricted

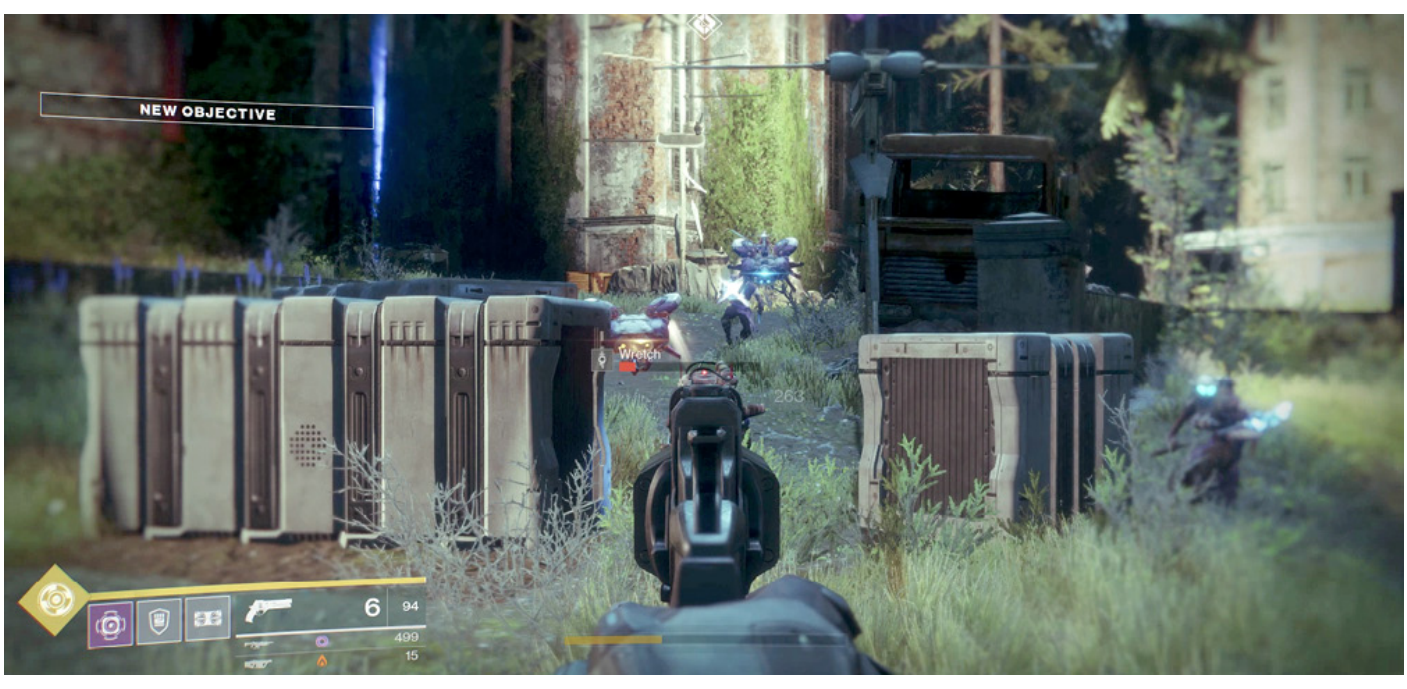
During this Adventure, Maevic Square is a designated Restricted Zone.

When you're ready to enter the battlefield, approach the opening, and destroy the Scorpius turret below you. Be warned that these devices deal massive damage. Use a powerful weapon, or be prepared to retreat and regenerate between attacks. Once you've dealt with the first Scorpius, drop down and clear the rest of the battlefield.

Once you've destroyed all four of the Scorpius turrets, eliminate any remaining enemies. When you've cleared the area, plant a landing beacon at the marked location in the center of the courtyard. After a moment, a ship arrives to claim the Cabal cache, and a nearby energy barrier vanishes. Follow the objective marker through the open path to find a stash of stolen outpost supplies. Make any desired changes to your loadout, hop onto the supplies, and initiate the transmat process.



With the supplies gone, it's time to deal with the Fallen response. You must defeat a total of three assault teams consisting of progressively more difficult enemies. Take advantage of the available cover, but don't allow your enemies to surround you. Keep an eye out for Tracer Shanks and Exploder Shanks—prioritizing these high-damage units makes it much easier to survive the onslaught.

The second assault includes a Fallen Captain, but the wave's heaviest hitter is Merix-5, a particularly durable Servitor. While it's usually best to focus on an active Servitor, the battlefield is large enough that you might find it easier to clear out weaker units before engaging Merix-5.

During the final assault, you'll encounter two especially dangerous units mixed in with the usual suspects. Of these elite units, a Fallen Captain is the first to arrive. An Arc-based weapon is your best option for reliable damage. If you have Power Ammo and/or a fully charged Super Ability, try to save them for the battle's finale.

Toward the end of the final assault, S.A.B.E.R-0.6 appears. Pick off the weaker enemies, then throw everything you've got at this well-armed and very tough Heavy Shank. Purge the area of all Fallen units to complete the Adventure.

TITAN ADVENTURES

Thief Of Thieves

Starting Location

- Siren's Watch, Titan

Recommended Power

- 60

Prerequisite

- Speak to Sloane after completing Campaign Mission: Riptide.

Reward

- Rare gear (weapon)

Description

- Recover the supplies that the Fallen have taken.

Loadout Recommendations

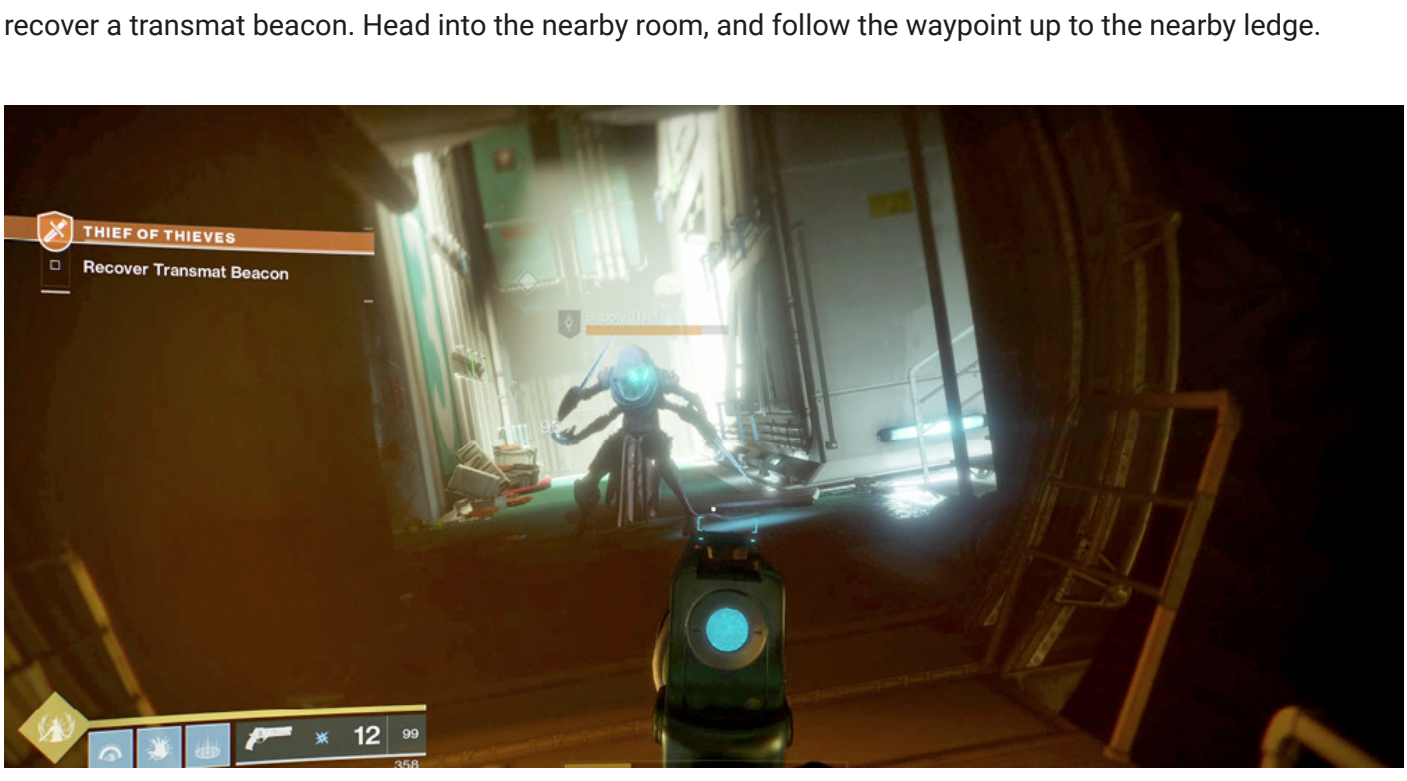
The bulk of this Adventure takes place in Fallen territory, so try to bring at least one reliable source of Arc damage.

Your first task is to collect five stolen tools. Sweep the surrounding area for Fallen Supply Thieves. These elusive enemies are more interested in fleeing than fighting, so just keep an eye out for fast-moving targets. Each Supply Thief that you vanquish drops a plasma welder. Collect five of these tools to receive your next objective.

Once you've recovered the tools, you must locate the Fallen cache. Move into Sinking Docks, and follow the waypoint to your next objective. You'll encounter a variety of enemies along the way, but be particularly wary of the cloaked Marauders lurking in the area.

Follow the waypoint down to the lower level of Sinking Docks. Here, you'll find a sizable group of Fallen guarding the cache. The Captain across the way is armed with a shrapnel launcher, so take care to avoid incoming fire.

Clear the area of all enemies, then use your Ghost to scan the cache. For your next objective, you must recover a transmat beacon. Head into the nearby room, and follow the waypoint up to the nearby ledge.



Jumping up to the ledge puts you face to face with a more formidable Supply Thief. Dispatch this enemy, and collect the shattered dials it holds. Eliminate any other nearby threats, and then follow the objective marker to the walkway outside.

As you step outside, another Supply Thief darts out of sight. Before you pursue your target, make sure you're satisfied with your loadout. This Supply Thief is far tougher than those you've already faced, and it has plenty of allies waiting nearby. Along with your primary target, you can expect to face a dangerous mix of Tracer Shanks, Exploder Shanks, and Vandals—all of which are gathered in an enclosed space.

When you're ready, jump across the gaps in the walkway, and follow the waypoint to the Supply Thief's trap. As you enter the ambush site, focus on the Shanks near the room's entrance. Hit the Exploder Shanks first, then deal with any Tracer Shanks that managed to survive the resulting explosions. The Supply Thief and Vandals all tend to lurk near the far wall, so you should be able to clear the room at your own pace.

The Supply Thief typically hides behind cover, effectively forcing you to move into melee range. Don't shy away from using Abilities or Power Ammo, but try to save something for the Adventure's finale. Vanquish the Supply Thief, collect its beacon, and follow the objective marker back to the Fallen cache.

Respawning Restricted

When you return to the Fallen cache, Sinking Docks becomes a designated Restricted Zone.

After you return to the Fallen cache, you must plant the beacon in the indicated area. Doing so triggers a significant enemy response, so be prepared to defend yourself for the duration of the transmat process.

The transmat only progresses while you're near the cache; try to stay within the confines of the marked area for the duration of the encounter. Make good use of your motion tracker. Your attackers approach from multiple directions, and these fast-moving enemies often skitter through the area in an attempt to flank your position.

You'll face the odd Exploder Shank, and a shielded leader appears toward the end of the transmat process, but the enemy's strength is most definitely in numbers. Work quickly to avoid being overwhelmed, and remember that the available cover benefits your foes as much as it does you.

Once the transmat process is complete, clear the area of any remaining Fallen to complete the Adventure.

TITAN ADVENTURES

Bad Neighbors

Starting Location

- The Rig, Titan

Recommended Power

- 60

Prerequisite

- Speak to Sloane after completing Campaign Mission: Riptide.

Reward

- Ability unlock

Description

- Resolve a dangerous conflict between the Fallen and the Hive.

Loadout Recommendations

This Adventure features some particularly formidable Hive Wizards—make Solar damage your priority. You'll also encounter a couple of Shrieker turrets, so try to bring at least one high-impact long-range weapon.

When the Adventure starts, you're tasked with collecting six components needed to assemble a Hive disruptor. You can find these items on most Fallen units, so just pick a fight with the nearest cluster and collect the components from your vanquished foes. Once you've gathered the required components, follow the objective marker out of The Rig and into Tidal Anchor. Your goal is to find and eliminate a group of exceptionally powerful Wizards, and doing so requires a long journey through Hive territory.

On your way through Tidal Anchor, you'll encounter everything from Thrall swarms to Shrieker turrets. Watch your motion tracker, and don't hesitate to fall back if things get too hectic. Just use your preferred tactics to neutralize each threat as the waypoint guides you to your destination.

Once you drop down to Tidal Anchor's exterior area, adjust your tactics to suit the environment. The narrow walkways and precarious footbridges can limit your mobility during hectic firefights. Plan ahead, and make the most of the available cover.

Near the end of your journey, you must perform a series of fairly risky jumps. After you cross the second footbridge, follow the objective marker and leap to the indicated rig. Head into the opening, climb to the upper deck, and use the available platforms to reach the top of Tower 2.

Once you reach the top of Tower 2, plant a Hive disrupter on the indicated device. Back away, check your loadout, and shoot the disruptor to trigger the Adventure's final encounter.

Respawning Restricted

When you detonate the Hive disruptor, Tidal Anchor becomes a designated Restricted Zone.

When the encounter begins, three named Wizards appear on the tower platform; initially, two of these enemies are immune to damage. Identify and neutralize the vulnerable target as quickly as possible. When the Wizard falls, one of the remaining targets loses its damage immunity. Defeat all three Wizards in the proper order to complete the encounter's first phase.

Soon after you vanquish the third Wizard, Thralls and Acolytes appear on the tower platform. Defeat all of these enemies to draw two more Wizards into the area.

Once again, you must defeat the Wizards in the proper order. Identify and eliminate the vulnerable target, and then shift your focus to its ally. Defeat both of these named Wizards to trigger another wave of Hive units.

This time around, enemies appear more frequently and in greater numbers. You'll also find some Knights mixed in among the Thralls and Acolytes. It's a tougher fight, to be sure, so use the environment to your advantage. Keep moving, and try to thin out weaker enemies as quickly as possible. Clear the area to trigger the encounter's final phase.

To fulfill your final objective, you must defeat Zethes. This powerful Wizard can withstand an impressive amount of damage, so don't hold back. If your Super Ability is ready for use, consider activating it now. Otherwise, use Solar damage to cut through Zethes' Energy Shield, and then follow up with the most powerful weapon in your arsenal. Keep fighting until you vanquish Zethes and complete the Adventure.

TITAN ADVENTURES

Siren Song

Starting Location

- The Rig, Titan

Recommended Power

- 70

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Utopia.

Reward

- Rare gear (armor)

Description

- Disrupt a Hive ritual to keep The Rig from sinking.

Loadout Recommendations

The bulk of this Adventure takes place in Hive territory; a good Solar-based weapon makes it much easier to deal with shielded Wizards.

Your first task is to determine the cause of some recently detected gravity waves. Readings indicate three likely points of origin. The first two sites are located indoors, and you can expect to find at least a few Hive units guarding each of these areas.

The third site is located outside, and it's typically surrounded by groups of Fallen enemies. Follow the objective markers and investigate each of the three sites.

Once you've completed your investigation, the next objective sends you deep into Hive territory. Follow the objective marker across the bridge and into Solarium, eliminating any threats you encounter along the way. Eventually, the search leads to a group of Hive units worshipping at a shrine.

Your task is to destroy the shrine, but doing so will draw more enemies into the area. First, clear the plaza of all existing threats; then, destroy the shrine and wait for the Hive's response.

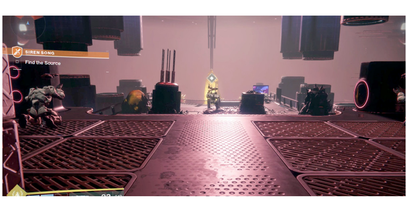
When you destroy the shrine, the nearby barrier lowers, and a Ritual Hierarch approaches with a group of Thralls. The Hierarch is a bit more durable than a standard Wizard, but it exhibits the same basic behaviors. Expect this foe to attack from a distance, ducking behind cover whenever its Solar Shield needs time to recharge.

Eliminate the Thralls, then focus fire on the Ritual Hierarch. It won't be long before your target summons another wave of Thralls, so be quick. Defeat the Hierarch, eliminate any incoming threats, and follow the objective marker into the building.

You've destroyed a shrine, but your work is far from over. Follow the objective marker into Arboretum, and fight your way to the second shrine. Eliminate nearby threats, destroy the shrine, and vanquish the Ritual Hierarch that appears.

Follow the waypoint to the third shrine, and repeat the process: clear the area, destroy the shrine, and deal with the Hive response. You'll face considerably more enemies this time around, so be prepared for a prolonged fight. Survive the Hive onslaught until a Ritual Hierarch arrives, then eliminate this priority target to receive your next objective.

With all three shrines destroyed, it's time to locate the true source of the gravity waves. Follow the objective marker to the depths of the Arboretum. You'll encounter more than a few Cursed Thralls along the way, so be cautious. Make use of your motion tracker, and don't hesitate to fall back if these volatile enemies get too close.



When you reach the room at the end of the path, take note of the enemies scattered around the area. Keep your distance, and eliminate all existing threats before you approach the marked crystal.

Respawning Restricted

When you move near the marked crystal, Arboretum becomes a designated Restricted Zone.

After you clear the room, approach the crystal to trigger the final encounter. Turn back toward the room, and brace yourself for battle. You'll face a total of three enemy waves, the first of which consists of Thralls and Acolytes.

As you deal with these enemies, keep one eye on your motion tracker. It won't be long before a Wizard attempts to flank you. Use the available cover to protect yourself until you're ready to focus on this late arrival.

The second enemy wave consists of Cursed Thralls and Knights. Again, a Wizard attempts to flank you shortly after the wave begins. The final wave features more Cursed Thralls and Knights. Endure the Hive attack, and secure the area.

Once you've secured the area, return to the crystal. To complete the Adventure, simply place a beacon in the indicated area.

TITAN ADVENTURES

Deathless

Starting Location

- The Rig, Titan

Recommended Power

- 70

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Utopia.

Reward

- Rare gear (weapon)

Description

- Clear out the Knight that's keeping Sloane's crews from their work.

Loadout Recommendations

Try to equip at least one source of Solar damage. Much of this fight takes place in close quarters, but a good mid- to long-range weapon can be very handy in some of the larger areas.

To complete this Adventure, you must find a way to eliminate a perplexingly resilient Knight. Follow the objective marker into Solarium and locate Karlog, the Unliving. Notice that your target is protected by an impervious Damage Shield. Don't bother attacking Karlog until you've managed to neutralize this protective barrier.

Avoid Karlog's attacks, and locate the nearby Attendant Wizard. This enemy is the source of Karlog's Damage Shield. Eliminate the Wizard, and then shift your attention back to the Knight. Karlog is more durable than a typical Knight, but the battle is fairly straightforward. Avoid incoming fire, aim for the head, and keep shooting until you've vanquished your target.

After you defeat the Knight, follow its essence into the nearby plaza. By the time you arrive, Karlog has already been resurrected and granted a fresh Damage Shield. You'll need to kill Karlog three more times before the Adventure ends, so get busy clearing the plaza for Round 2.

In addition to Karlog and an Attendant Wizard, you'll find a mix of Thralls, Cursed Thralls, and Acolytes scattered throughout the area. Prioritize and eliminate the weaker units, then set your sights on the Attendant Wizard. Once Karlog is vulnerable to damage, defeat the Knight, and follow its essence into Festering Halls.

Respawning Restricted

During this Adventure, Festering Halls is a designated Restricted Zone.

The waypoint leads you to a large Hive-infested courtyard. Before you drop down from the ledge, take a moment to thin out the enemy's ranks. Eliminating these weaker targets now should make the coming battle a bit more manageable.

When you're ready, drop down and move toward the waypoint. Karlog is waiting just around the corner, so watch for incoming fire. For this encounter, Karlog has enlisted the services of two Attendant Wizards. Eliminate both Wizards to neutralize Karlog's Damage Shield, then go about defeating the Knight for the third time.

After your battle in the courtyard, Karlog's essence leads you deep into Festering Halls. Follow the objective marker to find a room containing some suspiciously dormant Shriekers. As one might guess, these turrets won't be inactive for much longer. Take a moment to make any desired changes to your loadout before you continue.

When you're ready, move past the Shriekers, and interact with the sealed corridor in the corner of the room. Doing so triggers a fairly intense firefight, so head for cover as soon as possible.

Soon after you investigate the sealed passage, one of the Shrieker turrets becomes active. Identify and neutralize this threat, but take care to minimize the damage you suffer. Once you've destroyed this turret, additional enemies come flooding into the room.

There's very little light in the room, so make good use of your motion tracker. Locate and eliminate incoming threats, then take cover as the next Shrieker turret comes online.

As the Hive onslaught intensifies, you'll face greater numbers of more dangerous enemies. Be mindful of Shrieker fire, prioritize your targets, and use your preferred tactics to clear the room. Destroy all three Shrieker turrets to open the sealed passage. Secure the area, then follow the objective marker to the Adventure's final encounter.

A Pale Imitation

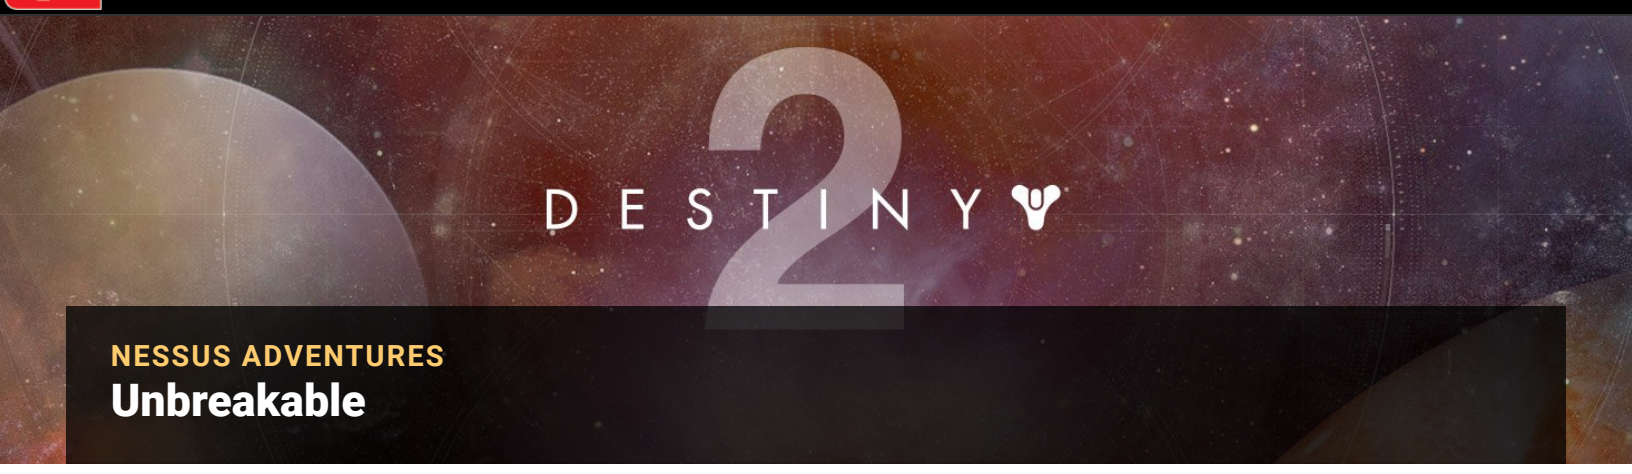
Once the seal is broken, a few additional Hive units enter through the open passage. Among the new arrivals, you can expect to find a standard Hive Knight. This enemy may look like Karlog, but it lacks any sort of Damage Shield. Feel free to attack this target the moment it appears.

Your final battle with Karlog is fairly similar to your second encounter: your target is protected by only one Wizard, and the area contains a mix of common Hive units. However, this location is littered with explosive canisters. Whether you opt to use them or ignore them, take care to avoid unwanted splash damage.

Eliminate the Wizard, then put an end to Karlog, the Unliving.



NESSUS ADVENTURES

Unbreakable

Starting Location

- Artifact's Edge

Recommended Power

- 90

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Six and visit Failsafe first.

Reward

- Rare gear +1

Description

- The Vex have set up a disrupting device. Find and destroy it.

Loadout Recommendations

You're fighting Goblins, Harpies, Hobgoblins, and toughened Minotaurs, so bring rapid-fire weaponry to this party.

After accessing the Adventure beacon, begin your energy core collection. Find eight cores by slaughtering the Vex in the vicinity (the nearby plateau is an excellent choice). Then, head to the crashed ship in this Sector. Engage a toughened Vex Minotaur (known as a Clandestine Disciple) guarding a conduit, the Vex font in question. Beware the Minotaur's shield as you remove it and then the foe's health, and step into the font to increase your power. Check the font, then use your Sparrow to reach The Tangle.

Once at The Tangle Sector, start collecting energy from the fonts until the amount reaches 100 percent. The locations are usually in the branches of one of the massive trees, so jump up there, and be ready to defeat Goblins and Hobgoblins as you find these conduits of light. Next comes the collection of a large energy font, which is located above the Vex portal. Double-jump up to reach a Harpy and an enhanced Elite Minotaur, another Disciple you must defeat. Leaping into the light kills the Disciple. You can then use your increased power to defeat the other foe (with regular weaponry).

Failsafe has given you coordinates to follow, so drop down and cross the shallow pool (the usual Vex foes are in the vicinity, so battle Goblins and a Minotaur, if you want).

Enter the Well of Echoes, and once inside the cylindrical arena chamber, approach the strange device in the center. Warning! Respawning is now restricted!

You need to lower the Energy Shield, a column of light around the device. Leap to a perimeter ledge so you can defeat a Hobgoblin, then fire down from this vantage point, taking out a group of Goblins. When a Disciple (a toughened Minotaur) appears, execute a Super and destroy it, or move through one of the smaller columns of white light so you're charged with light and can damage the foe. It drops an Arc Core. Pick this up and place it in the receptacle so you can overload the Arc generator.

You must find and destroy a cloaking source, which is the strange device in the center of the chamber. Blast it with your weapon. At around 30 percent damage, the shield returns, along with Harpies and Goblins.

Stay mobile, defeat this wave, then find a charge of light and attack another appearing Disciple. As expected, this one drops an Arc Core. Grab it, insert it into another receptacle (lowering the shield), and then continue to destroy the device. Watch for sniping Hobgoblins on upper ledges as you hit the device.

With the device at 70 percent damage, the shield appears once more. Gather your reserves, and batter a flock of appearing Harpies and another half-dozen Goblins. Then, search out a disruptor light charge. Kill the Disciple (who usually appears on an upper ledge) while imbued with this power. Gather the final Arc Core from its disintegrated corpse, slot it into the generator, and with the shield down, remove the disruptor core to conclude the Adventure.

You're tackling increasing numbers of Vex Goblins, Hobgoblins, Harpies, and Fanatics, with a toughened Hydra Elite to finish. You're on precarious platforms with nowhere to hide, so weapons with a good range and accuracy are a must. Couple this with a rocket launcher to soften up the Hydra.

Over in Artifact's Edge, launch this Adventure, and three large platforms appear in the central bottomless chasm of this Sector. Jump on any of them and scan each of them in any order you like; just jump out of the temporary electrical discharge that arcs across the platform after each scan. After the third scan, jump onto firmer ground, or you'll plummet to your death when the three platforms disappear.

Three more platforms have appeared close to the energy elevator and LZ. Head up there, leap across the first three smaller platforms and onto the first larger platform, and scan it. Watch for electrification; jump and land when it dissipates. Cull the Vex (Goblins and Fanatics, along with a Hobgoblin on additional floating platforms) that appear on a nearby platform.

Gather the data that they drop (this drops from their bodies as you kill each one, so head over when the coast is clear). Continue to work your way up the floating platforms as the data amount increases to 100 percent. As you keep ascending to a fourth Vex-filled platform, you must worry about Harpies, Hobgoblins, and Fanatics, as well as Goblins. Each time you slay a group of Vex, move to the indicated scan platform and establish a connection. Then, find the next Vex platform to attack.

This continues until the Elite Hydra, the Zenke Mind, makes an appearance. Train your weapons at the Mind, and each time you remove a third of its health, expect one of the platforms that you've ascended from to fill up with foes again. Break off from slaying the Mind to deal with them. It's not particularly cunning to enter into close combat with the Mind because the platform it is on is precarious and has no cover opportunities, and the Mind's attack is vicious. Instead, launching rockets, grenades, or your Super from an adjacent platform is a better idea. Once you've destroyed the Mind, the Adventure concludes. Mop up any Vex on the platforms, and head back down to firmer soil.

The Vex Trial

Starting Location

- The Tangle

Recommended Power

- 90

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Six and visit Failsafe first.

Reward

- Ability unlock +1

Description

- Complete the Vex trial for Failsafe.

Loadout Recommendations

You're facing a whole lot of Vex, including a couple of Hydras and some troublesome Goblins, Harpies, and Hobgoblins, as well as the ever-annoying Fanatics. Make your loadout choices accordingly: close-range assault weaponry with mid-range rapid-fire, and a rocket launcher for big damage.

From the starting point at The Tangle, head across the Sector to the area where the Hydra usually resides. Don't mix up the conflux trial with any Public Event underway here. Access the conflux, and then protect it from a horde of incoming Goblins, Fanatics, and the odd Minotaur that trot down the incline toward the conflux. Expect a Elite Harpy at around 50 percent complete, which is a good time to use a Super. You need to stick around the conflux so the trial doesn't stall. Use the pillar near the conflux and other rocky scenery as cover. Stay mobile and keep jumping to avoid becoming a sitting duck. Fanatics are priority targets. Leap above them so they don't detonate at your location. Jumping and area-of-effect weapons pointed at incoming enemy clusters are good plans here. So are shotguns and your faithful rapid-fire rifles or hand cannon takedowns one at a time.

With the conflux trial completed, follow the wisp, a Vex orb that coaxes you onto a series of block platforms that disappear when you land on them. These are suspended over the central gorge, so take care when jumping across. Head to a higher overhang, and study the platforms. It seems only the smaller square-shaped blocks disappear, and there's usually an adjacent one you can land on (which alternately disappears when the previous one reappears). Just land on any of the outer platforms with the trial orb access, and start the dexterity trial.

You simply need to wait for the disappearing smaller platform near you to reappear, then jump onto it, and to either of the remaining outer platforms. Access the second trial orb, then leap across and access the third orb, completing the trial.

Drop down below the platforms, and follow the wisp into a Vex portal and through the connecting tunnel into the Chamber of Stone. Beware! This is a Restricted Zone! Begin the trial of power, involving the culling of a cluster of appearing Goblins and a Hobgoblin in the first chamber. Remain by the entrance tunnel and edge of this chamber as a second cluster of Vex appears, including a couple of Hobgoblins and a Elite Hydra. Slay the Hydra last, using the scenery as cover.

A barrier recedes, and access is granted to an inner chamber, where the trial continues. Battle Goblins and Harpies to begin with, along with Fanatics. Then, more Goblins, Harpies, and another Hydra (or Chamber Warden) appear. Back up if you need to, as it's better to retreat and stay alive in this Restricted Zone. Defeat the Harpies and Goblins before stepping back into the chamber to face the Hydra. As ever, cover and sidestepping, as well as rapid-fire shots into the Hydra's eye, are the keys to success. After this battle, you can take a moment to pay respects to one of the Exodus Black crew members who made it this far. He's looking a little worse for wear now, however. Now that the crewmate has been found, the Adventure concludes.

Recommended Power

- 90

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Six and visit Failsafe first.

Reward

- Rare gear +1

Description

- The Vex are trapping the Fallen in a cave nearby.

Loadout Recommendations

You're here to take down Goblins, Hobgoblins, Harpies, and toughened Minotaurs, as well as a Servitor, Dregs, Vandals, and a couple of Fallen Captains. Combat is at close- and mid-range, so pack accordingly, perhaps with a grenade or rocket launcher for the final two Elites.

Visit The Tangle Sector, find the Adventure beacon down in the gorge area, and enter the nearby cave (glowing orange). This is The Mists Sector, and it requires you to venture deeper down some tunnels. Warning! You are entering a Restricted Zone! Defeat the "prison guard" (a Minotaur) and two other Minotaurs in the first chamber, which houses a Servitor and some Fallen behind energy cages.

Dregs and a Captain (with an Arc Shield) invade your space, so work on them immediately. Then, tackle the freed Servitor and another Minotaur guard. The second cage opens, and Dregs with a Captain pour out. Concentrate on the Servitor in this chaotic battle, jumping and dodging to avoid being struck, and removing the Servitor first so it doesn't link with other Fallen. Then, hit the Captain, and mop up Dregs and Goblins.

Squeeze down the narrow curved corridor with a Minotaur to battle, then emerge into a large cavern. There's a large energy cage on your left as you enter. As you spot the block architecture across the bottomless chasm, you can see two more cages.

Start by defeating the Minotaur prison guard roaming the initial area. Then, take down the pack of Dregs fleeing the first cage. By now, you'll realize that each Minotaur guard is connected to an energy cage; slay them one at a time so you aren't overwhelmed. There are two more guards on the block platforms opposite you. Snipe them from range, and attack the Dregs and Vandals (from the left cage) and appearing Harpies. Then, slay the third Minotaur guard, and an additional cluster of Dregs and Vandals from the upper cage.

The hunt is on for Vex Wardens. These are two toughened Minotaurs with three segments of health, one appearing on each side of the chasm. Stay on one side, bring out the big guns (and the Super and grenades), and concentrate your firepower on the first of these foes. Mop up Goblins and Harpies afterward. Stay on the block platform side, and use the blocks as cover. More Harpies and Hobgoblins appear, and the second Warden leaps across to engage you. Stay in partial cover, and start whittling down his health. A rocket launcher or grenade launcher helps take down a lot of his energy. Beware of periodic Harpies, Goblins, and Hobgoblins as the fight progresses.

With the battle over, head along a rock tunnel into a previously unexplored altar room where you can study a floating Vex conflux. Ghost and Failsafe speak to you after you interact with it, and the Adventure concludes.

A Tale Of Two Confluxes

Starting Location

- The Cistern

Recommended Power

- 90

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Six and visit Failsafe first.

Reward

- Rare gear +1

Description

- Intercept data the Cabal are gathering from the Vex confluxes.

Loadout Recommendations

You're almost exclusively defeating Cabal forces during this Adventure, and the Centurions usually use Solar Shields. An Energy weapon capable of quickly removing that protection is wise. Combat is mid to close range.

Begin your Adventure at the marker in The Cistern (the central road), and quickly move past the waterfall and huge tree to the base of the tower. The usual Cabal crew (Phalanxes, Legionaries, and Psions) is at the base of this structure. Optionally battle them as you scale the exterior steps to the entrance, and head inside. Make a controlled jump down into the Well of Flame.

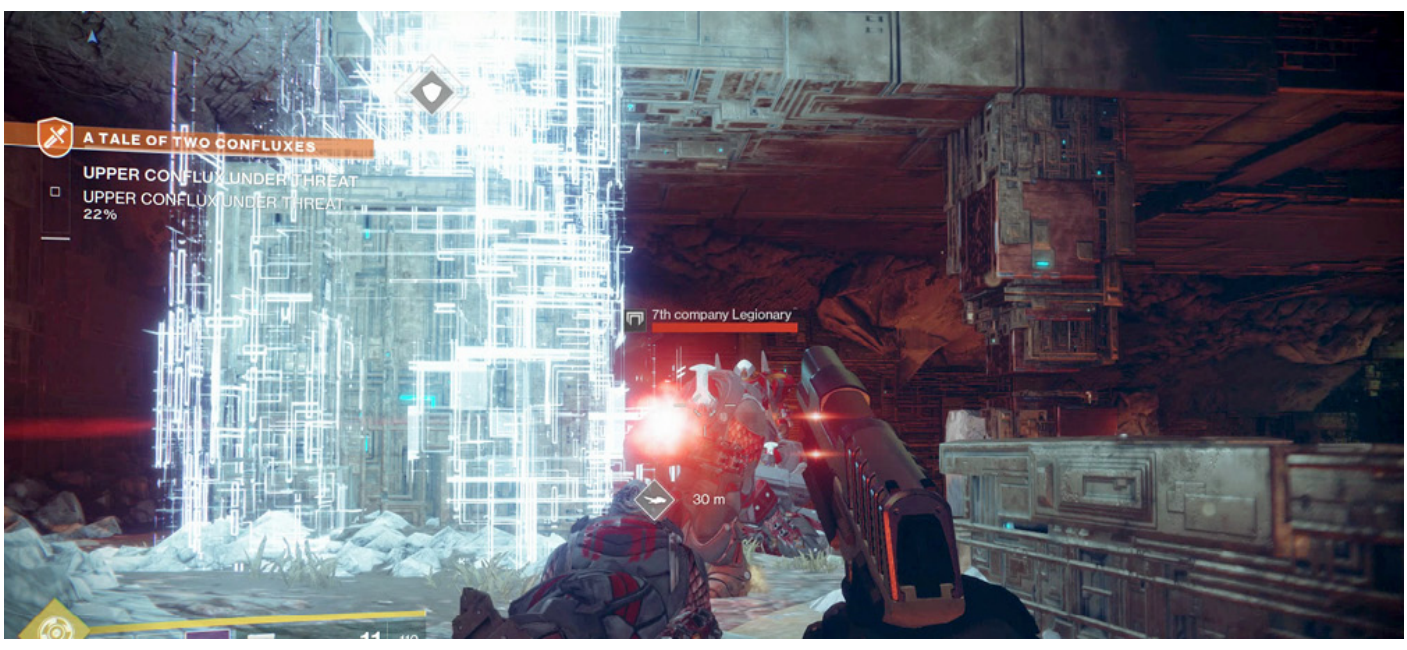
Enter the Vex portal, pass a yellow prism, and enter the cylindrical arena inside the Well of Flame. Don't drop into the white Radiolarian Fluid around the perimeter of this chamber, but do start to engage a Centurion and Legionaries before investigating the three consoles. The 7th Company fighters are no pushovers, so remain in the dry perimeter areas behind cover, and start attacking the Cabal one cluster at a time. Aside from the Elite Centurion, there are Phalanxes to defeat, as well as Psions.

One way to turn the tide in your favor is to remain at the entrance opening and start sniping Psions (so they don't do the same to you). Back away when a barrage of incoming fire heads your way, then step back and attempt headshots on the Legionaries. Remove the Phalanxes and Incendiors so only the Elite Centurion is left. Another plan is to drop down and work your way clockwise around the perimeter, thinning out the clusters of Cabal as you go. Leap atop the block architecture, and fire down from it. Keep moving, and retreat more often than you think you want to. Using grenades and your Super is encouraged.

With the Centurion and his Solar Shield destroyed, you can complete the objective and download the data from the three console terminals in this arena. Expect Cabal infantry like the ones you just defeated each time you access a terminal and successfully download the data. After the third download, access the Vex teleport, and extricate yourself out of the Well of Flame and out to The Cistern. Attack the foes from the arriving dropship, if you must. However, it's better to use your Sparrow and jet across the Radiolarian lake and up the hill to the site Ghost is indicating.



Clear out Psions, Legionaries, and possible Phalanxes in the orange overhang where a Fallen Captain and cloaked Marauders also reside. The Fallen foes are optional kills. Head down the overhang area to the two adjacent confluxes, one lower and one upper. Expect Psions and Legionaries at each, and a Centurion at the upper conflux. It's easier to clear out both areas before establishing a link at the lower conflux, as you need to stay close to the conflux while the link connects. This is difficult if you're fighting the Cabal, as well.

With the links established, you need to flit between both confluxes, sweeping the area of additional incoming Cabal foes. If the threat level reaches 100 percent, this Adventure is over. Defend them both from Cabal Legionaries, Incendiors, Psions, War Beasts, and the odd Centurion. Use a Solar Energy weapon to remove the Centurions' shields. Stand at the upper conflux, overlooking the lower one so you can deal with foes at either location quickly, and watch for more enemies, as well.

After about two to three minutes of this, your percentage reaches 100, and you can head to the beacon. This is at the Landing Zone for this Sector, so use a Sparrow to quickly get there and transmit the data, completing the Adventure.

Assault Of Black

Starting Location

- Exodus Black

Recommended Power

- 90

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Six and visit Failsafe first.

Reward

- Rare gear +1

Description

- Fallen activity near the Exodus Black has risen.

Loadout Recommendations

You're battling Fallen across large open areas, so long-range firepower is just as important as close-combat weaponry. The biggest problems are Servitors, so pick a weapon that can demolish one in seconds (which includes rocket launchers, sniper rifles, and rapid-fire guns).

After commencing the Adventure, tackle the cluster of Fallen ahead and right of you, at the edge of the lake on the southeastern perimeter. One of the Captains here (there are two, along with a group of Dregs) is an Assault Scout. Quickly use your Sparrow and jet across to the Exodus Black entrance area. Fallen dropships have deposited some toughened Vandals (Assault Fallen) and an explosive barrier. Remain at the upper entrance area, and fight them with quick jumping and rapid fire.

Stalk the specific prey (use Ghost to scan for them if necessary), and slay them to increase your percentage. The usual foes (Shanks and a Captain, plus Dregs) that may be active in this area are additional kills. With the central mechanical components of the barrier shot at until it explodes, you're usually successful and can follow the Fallen signal.

The remaining Fallen and any reinforcements at the Exodus Black are optional kills. Instead, drive your Sparrow across the Sector, through the rickety Fallen base and to the sunken tunnel entrance on the northeast side where the Shanks are guarding. Enter the tunnel, engaging or ignoring the expected Vex Goblins and Minotaur inside the tunnel. Then, enter the Vex portal on the upper ledge.

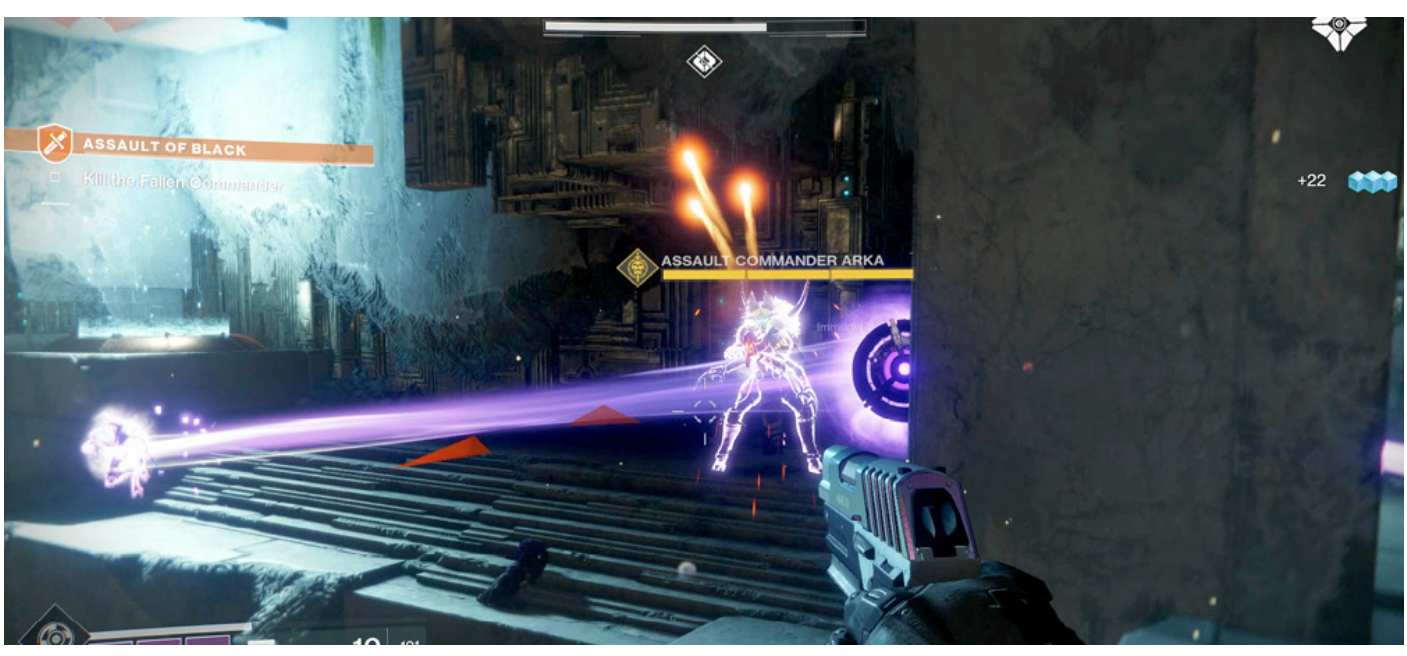
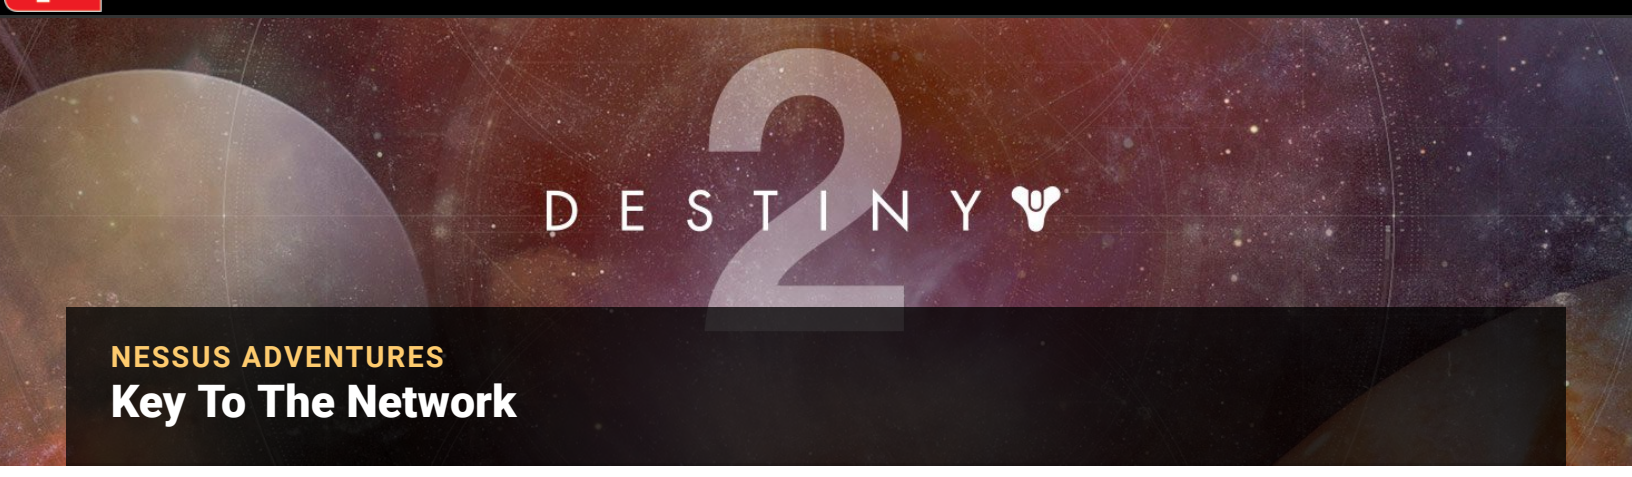
This leads to the Chamber of Sky, which is a Restricted Zone. Continue into this huge arena, skirting clockwise around the left edge of the perimeter and engaging Dregs and a Servitor. Your biggest concern is a Elite Servitor that's powering the huge energy barrier and preventing progress.

Attack it using grenades and a Super, and watch for Vandals and Exploder Shanks in the immediate area. When the Shanks arrive, back up to the entrance, and defeat them so you aren't killed in their explosions. Return to finish the Servitor. Watch for Vandal snipers, too. The Servitor leaves its core behind. Pick it up, race to the shield generator, and place the orb inside, deactivating it.

Once the majority of this chamber opens up, you have two generators to deactivate in exactly the same way. But now, you must worry about two Servitors and several Dregs, Vandals, and Exploder Shanks. The scene is chaotic, so use the protruding block scenery to stand on and employ as cover. Back up, and take down the Shanks first. Then, jump around and kill Vandals (especially these sniping fiends) and Dregs away from the Servitors so they don't distract you later. Next, concentrate on either of the two Servitors, and demolish that one. A Super, rockets, and grenades may be necessary. Attack the remaining Servitor. Mop up any stragglers afterward before picking up the two cores one at a time and inserting them into either receptacle to override the second barrier's two generators.



The mayhem isn't quite over yet! With this Sector fully accessible, you can head to the far end of the chamber and engage a Boss Captain in battle. He's made invulnerable by a Servitor, so remove that first. Rushing in usually gets you killed, so exploit the scenery, use the upper ledge near the teleport, and keep those headshots going! As each third of his health is removed, expect another Servitor (along with a few Dregs and Vandals) to arrive. Repeat the plan of targeting the Servitor, launch a Super if you must, and throw whatever you can at the Captain. When he dies, the Adventure is complete.



NESSUS ADVENTURES

Key To The Network

Starting Location

- Hallows

Recommended Power

- 90

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Six and visit Failsafe first.

Reward

- Rare gear +1

Description

- Find a way into the local Vex network so we can learn more about the planet.

Loadout Recommendations

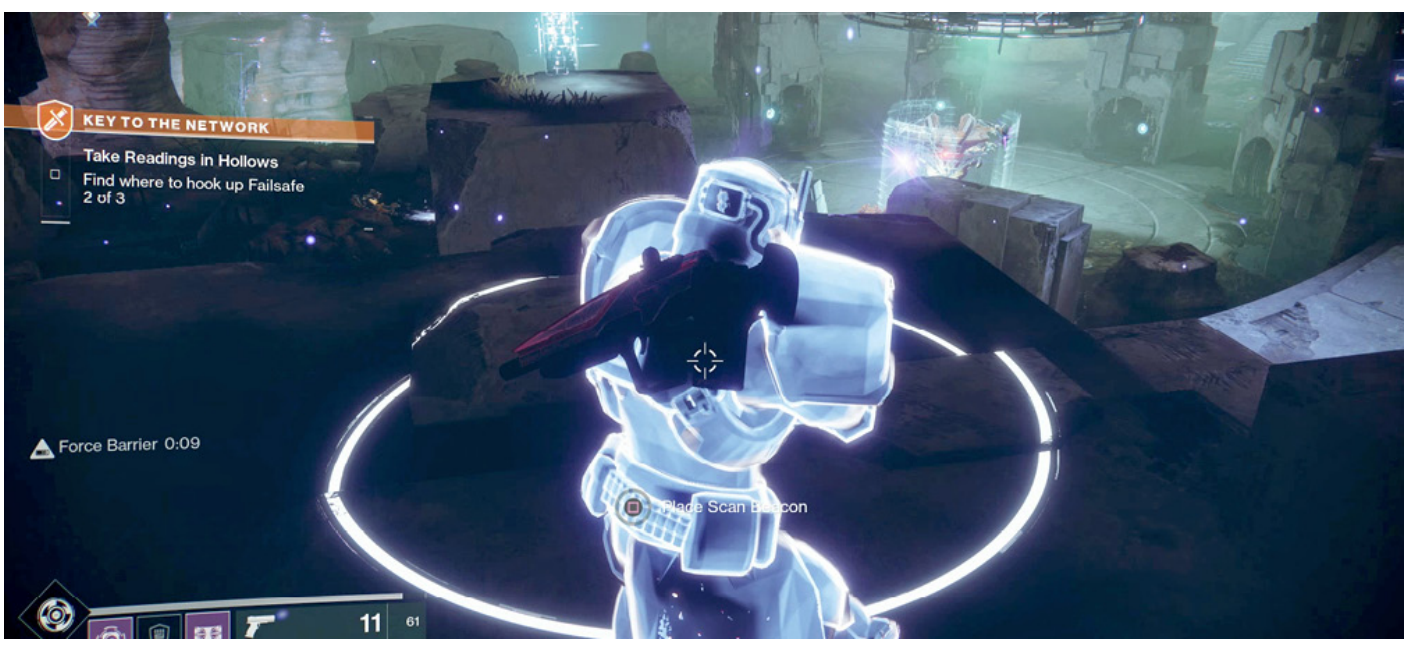
During this Adventure, you're defeating Minotaurs and a ferocious Cyclops, as well as Vex infantry. Rapid-fire, pinpoint-accurate, and ranged weaponry is preferred.

Begin in Hallows, moving to the small upper ledge underground near the cluster of Goblins and a Minotaur, and place your first beacon. Turn and head along the perimeter of this Sector to a second upper ledge entangled in the branches of a tree by one of the exits. Scan this second area.



Then, jump across to the block pillar overlooking the arena with the Hydra in it, and scan that. Combat with the Vex usually encountered in this Sector is optional.

Leave the area by Sparrow, driving to Watcher's Grave to interact with the Myriad access point. Clear a cluster of Goblins and Minotaur on your left as you enter, then head into a shallow cave entrance under the main circular arena of this Sector, battling more Goblins and Minotaurs among the rocks. Activate the access point, and a white column stretches out from it.

Head back to where you fought the first Vex cluster in this Sector; a Vex cannon and platform have appeared. Jump onto the platform, and launch through the circular cannon across to a floating platform. Hook up Failsafe at the cube with the turquoise mainframe globe inside it.

Time for some hilariously precise jumping? No, the five tiny floating cubes with conflux matter around them are just here to confuse you. Shoot all five of them instead of trying to leap and land on them. A second conduit appears on the arena floor below you. Reach it, and stabilize the area.

More cubes appear in the air around the main circular arena, along with the remaining confluxes. Simply stand near each conflux and shoot all of the cubes, as well as any Vex Harpies and Goblins making an appearance.

With the area stable, the Gatekeeper appears. This Elite Minotaur has exceptional energy reserves and moves all around this Sector. Harpies and Goblins join him each time you remove a third of his energy, after which he teleports to a different area. Take a long, methodical approach to whittling down his health. During the last part of the battle, the Gatekeeper grows in size to that of a Gate Lord. This is the time to finish him with a Super, grenades, rockets and grenade launchers, or long-range sniping.

Rescue Failsafe by entering the Chamber of Water via the circular Vex portal where the Gatekeeper made his last stand. Wind your way through the entrance tunnel, and begin stabilizing the chamber the same way you did earlier. Reach each of the confluxes and wait near them while shooting incoming Goblins, Harpies, and appearing cubes. Failsafe is being guarded by a Mainframe Cyclops. This rarely encountered Vex entity is like a stationary Hydra, but with an even more vicious energy blast. Fortunately, once you reduce one-third of its health (by shooting the main "eye"), it summons a number of cubes to hide behind. Shoot them, and they explode, killing the Cyclops. Release Failsafe from the pedestal the Cyclops was connected to, and teleport out of here as the Adventure concludes.

Description

- Follow a trail of mysterious Golden Age beacons across the moon.

Loadout Recommendations

Try to equip at least one source of Void damage to help eliminate the Vex Minotaurs you'll encounter during this Adventure.

Once you've initiated the Adventure, follow the first objective marker to discover a cave near The Rupture's southern edge. Here, you'll find a group of Vex Goblins surrounding a strange beacon. Clear out the enemies, and then examine the beacon to receive your next objective.

The second marker leads you to Giant's Scar. Once you've dealt with the Vex infestation, look for the small cave along the area's east edge. Head inside, and examine the floating beacon to receive your next objective.

Follow the third marker to Terrabase Charon. Fight your way to the small cave near the patch of glowing cracks. Continue inside, and examine the beacon to receive your next objective.

The fourth marker leads you to Warmind Vault JYS-2. Locate the gathered Vex, and clear the complex of hostiles. Once you've done so, follow the musical broadcast to complete the Adventure and claim your reward.

Respawning Restricted

During this Adventure, Warmind Vault JYS-2 is a designated Restricted Zone.

Description

- Assist Asher in his ambitious plan to tap directly into the moon's power.

Loadout Recommendations

Expect to encounter Taken Wizards and Vex Minotaurs; consider bringing at least one mid-to-long-range Void weapon to punch through the Energy Shields these enemies utilize.

When you begin the Adventure, bursts of energy appear near the large tree to the south. Follow the looping path as you ride (or run) through the fonts of power. Collect five units of energy to receive your next objective.

Your next task is to use melee attacks to defeat eight Vex. A marker appears whenever suitable targets are nearby.

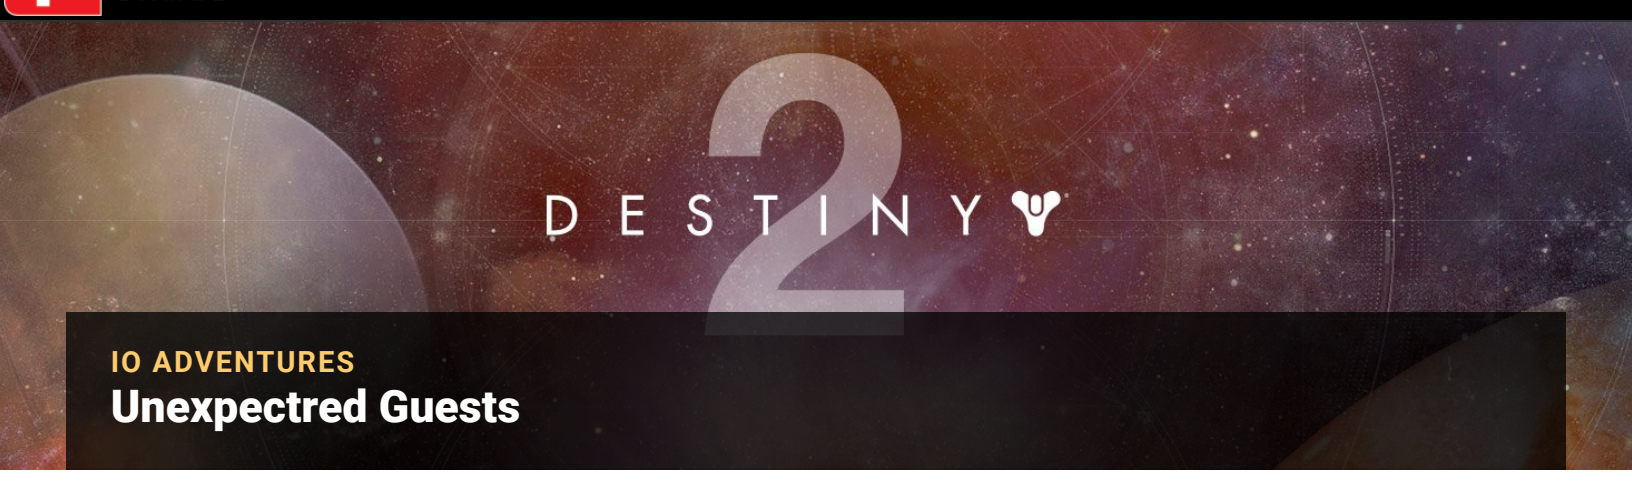
You can use weapons and Abilities to weaken your prey, but the objective only progresses when you use a melee attack to strike a killing blow against a Vex unit.

Once you've used melee attacks to defeat eight Vex, a new objective marker leads you to a large font in Terrabase Charon. Prepare yourself for the coming battle, and then activate the nearby console.

As the font charges up, Taken Thralls move into the area. They come from all directions, so stay alert, and don't hesitate to relocate whenever you're in danger of being overwhelmed. Hold off your attackers until the font finishes charging and you receive your next objective.

Next, you must destroy the Taken Blights scattered around the area. Luckily, the fully charged font produces Orbs of Light. With a steady supply of Super energy, you should be able to clear the area fairly quickly. Once you've destroyed all four Blights, turn your attention to the remaining Taken forces and the incoming Vex assault.

The encounter can be fairly hectic, and you'll face a few formidable opponents before it's over. Void weapons and Abilities are particularly effective against Taken Wizards and Vex Minotaurs, but frequent use of your Super Ability should allow you to complete this Adventure with minimal fuss.



IO ADVENTURES

Unexpectred Guests

Starting Location

- Lost Oasis, Io

Recommended Power

- 120

Prerequisite

- Speak to Asher Mir after completing Campaign Mission: Fury.

Reward

- Ability unlock

Description

- End a Taken plot to throw wide the doors of reality.

Loadout Recommendations

This Adventure includes Taken Centurions and Taken Captains, so Arc weapons and Solar weapons should both prove useful. However, it's highly recommended that you bring a Void-based Power Weapon, as the final encounter involves an especially powerful Taken Wizard.

When the Adventure starts, follow the first objective marker to Terrabase Charon, and engage the Taken gathered there. Prioritize more dangerous targets (like Phalanxes and Knights), but don't hesitate to eliminate weaker enemies as opportunities present themselves. Continue fighting until you receive your next objective, and then follow the Taken down into The Wraith Mines.

Follow the objective markers until you reach the Taken portal. This location plays an important role in the Adventure, but there's little to do here at the moment. Wait for a group of Taken to exit the portal, and then follow the enemies deeper into the next cavern.

Your objective updates as you discover the first of three energy nodes. To complete this objective's first step, you must collect an energy charge from the node and deliver it to one of the gaps near the Taken portal. It's best to deal with nearby enemies before you interact with the energy node, but you don't need to clear the entire cavern.

Pick up an energy charge, and then follow the objective marker back to the portal. It's often best to simply avoid enemies, but remember that you can use an energy charge as a makeshift melee weapon. Bash troublesome enemies for heavy damage. If you're in danger of being overwhelmed, switch weapons to drop the charge and resume ranged combat.

As long as you're holding the charge, the objective marker indicates the path back to the portal. Simply follow the marker and deliver the energy charge to receive the location of the next energy node. Be prepared for a battle: placing the first charge draws another group of Taken through the portal.

The process for recovering each of the remaining energy charges is much the same. Follow the objective markers, clear out troublesome enemies, collect a charge from the energy node, and return it to the marked location. Of course, you can expect more formidable foes in subsequent attempts. Take your time, and don't hesitate to adjust your loadout as often as needed. Just make sure you fall back to a safe position before you pull up your Character Screen.

Blights and Barriers

Take the time to destroy any Blights you encounter; it's the simplest way to avoid the Shadow Touched debuff they generate. Whenever you encounter a Blight-powered barrier, destroy its central cluster to clear your path.

Respawning Restricted

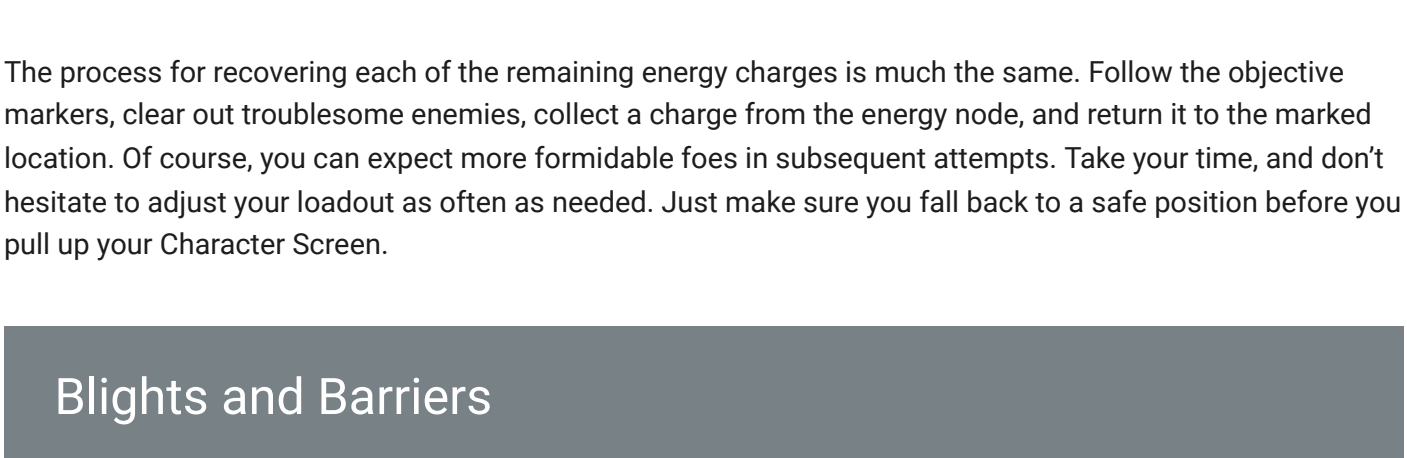
Once the Taken Wizard appears, The Wraith Mines becomes a designated Restricted Zone.

When you deliver the third energy charge, the portal collapses, and a particularly powerful Taken Wizard appears.



Iraz, Eye of Savathûn possesses a durable Void Shield with a very fast recharge rate. This formidable enemy also deals heavy damage while summoning wave after wave of Shadow Thralls. A good Void-based Power Weapon is usually the fastest way to punch through the Wizard's shield, but any source of Void damage can be helpful.

With the right mix of weaponry and character Abilities, you might be able to end this fight fairly quickly. Otherwise, you'll need to shift your focus between the Taken Wizard and its swarming Shadow Thralls.

Use cover to minimize the effectiveness of Iraz's attacks while you deal with weaker enemies. When you're free to attack the Wizard, be quick and efficient to ensure that you penetrate its Void Shield and deliver some real damage before pulling back to deal with the next wave of Shadow Thralls.

Defeat Iraz, Eye of Savathûn to complete the Adventure and receive your reward.

Recommended Power

Prerequisite

- Speak to Asher Mir after completing Campaign Mission: Fury.

Reward

- Rare gear (armor)

Description

- Stop the Vex from advancing their designs on the moon.

Loadout Recommendations

Equipping a source of Void damage makes it easier to deal with the odd Minotaur, but damage type isn't as great a concern as weapon type. While any weapon type can be useful during this Adventure, favor arms and Abilities that offer a good balance of range and impact.

When the Adventure starts, follow the objective marker to find a small group of Vex gathered in Spine Burrows. Soon after your arrival, these enemies vanish as a powerful Hydra (Tekton, Constructive Mind) appears in the area. Engage the Hydra, but avoid using special Abilities or Power Weapons—after taking a bit of damage, the Hydra becomes immune to all attacks.

Once the Hydra becomes immune to damage (watch for the enemy's telltale white glow), a Vex assault force teleports into the area. You'll face a mix of Goblins, Hobgoblins, Fanatics, and Minotaurs, so be ready for heavy resistance. Once you've defeated all of the Vex reinforcements, Tekton flees the area. Follow the objective markers to track the Hydra across the surface of Io.

The trail leads to the edge of a cliff. Wait for the small Vex cannon to materialize, and then jump into the device to launch yourself onto a small floating platform. Soon after you land, additional platforms appear around you. Jump along the available platforms, and approach the next objective marker.

Stand in the ring at the center of the platform to establish a connection with the Vex network. Once you've done so, stay put to protect the connection from enemy forces. Threats come from all sides, so use your motion tracker to locate newly arrived enemies.

Defend the platform until the connection is complete. Once this happens, any remaining hostiles teleport out of the area. Follow the objective marker to find a new Vex cannon at the edge of the platform. Jump into the device to launch yourself to a new cluster of platforms.

Follow the objective marker across the appearing platforms until you locate the elusive Hydra. Tekton's rotating shield limits your offensive opportunities, so make the most of each opening. Favor high-impact weapons, and time your shots to slip through the gaps in the Hydra's shield.

Once you've claimed around half of Tekton's armor, Vex Fanatics start appearing on the platform. Use the motion tracker to monitor enemy movements, and use cover to avoid Tekton's attacks as you deal with each new threat. Remember that defeated Fanatics explode, leaving a hazardous energy field on the ground. Try to take them out before they make it to the center of the platform.

At around 40 percent armor, the Hydra once again becomes immune to damage. Stop attacking, and scan the area for additional enemies. Within a few seconds, two Cyclopes materialize on nearby platforms. Eliminate both of these foes to put an end to Tekton's damage immunity.

Emergency Cover

The platform's lower level provides your best option for emergency cover. When you're in serious danger, use the ramp at the edge of the platform to find a covered alcove. It's a great spot to recover from heavy damage, but you should use it sparingly. Frequent retreats make it much more difficult to keep enemy forces in check.

Fanatics

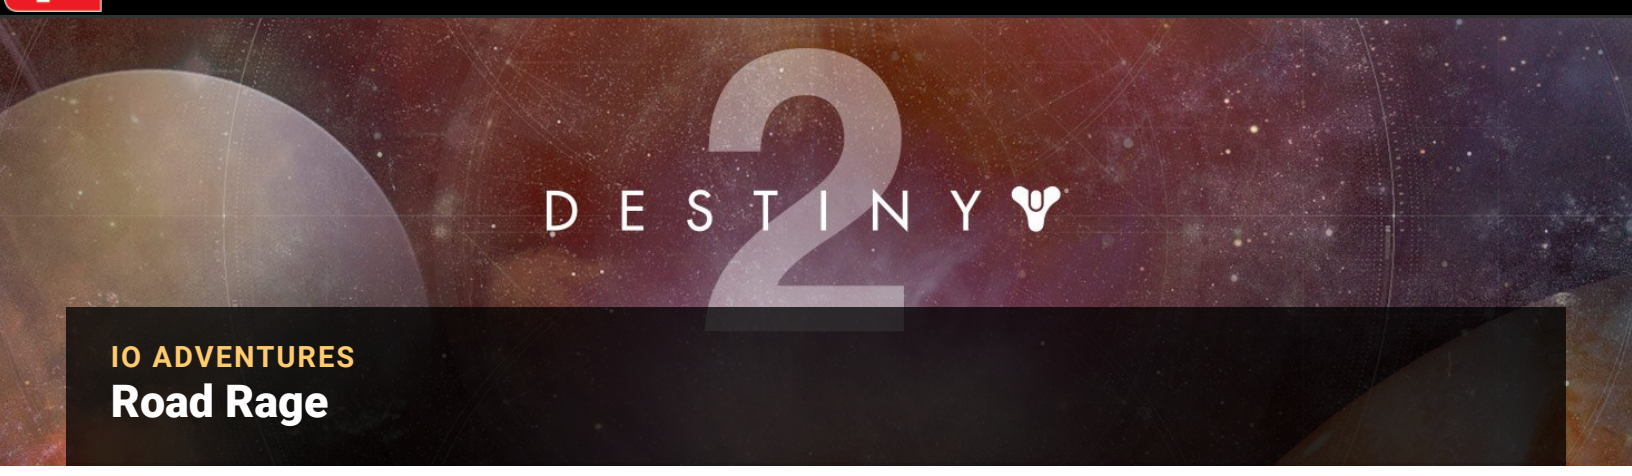
Vex Fanatics continue to appear throughout the battle, and Harpies show up soon after the Cyclopes arrive. Monitor your radar and make frequent sweeps of the platform to avoid unpleasant surprises.

Once you've dealt with the Cyclopes, the battle enters its final phase. Keep the platform clear of enemies as you chip away at the Hydra's armor. Once you've defeated Tekton, a Vex cannon appears at the corner of the platform. To complete the Adventure, simply use the device to return to solid ground.



IO ADVENTURES

Road Rage

Starting Location

- Giant's Scar, Io

Recommended Power

- 120

Prerequisite

- Speak to Asher Mir after completing Campaign Mission: Fury.

Reward

- Rare gear (weapon)

Description

- se leftover hardware from the Cabal occupation to assault the Vex head-on.

Loadout Recommendations

During this Adventure, you have access to an unlimited supply of Cabal Interceptors. Take full advantage of these vehicles.

After starting the Adventure, follow the first waypoint to find a locked garage. Use the marked switch to open the door, then climb onto one of the revealed Interceptors. Follow the objective marker to the nearby drill, and clear the area of Vex units. These enemies appear in waves, so use your radar to find available targets. Once you've completed the task, follow the objective marker to Terrabase Charon.

After you reach the Vex incursion in Terrabase Charon, use your Interceptor to clear the area of enemies. Once you've defeated all nearby Vex, follow the objective marker to Lost Oasis.

Interceptor Pads

Note that Io's Interceptor pads are active for the duration of this Adventure. Keep an eye out for these devices, and use them to summon new Interceptors as often as needed.

There are three Hydras leading the Vex incursion in Lost Oasis. These priority targets are scattered throughout the area, so follow the objective marker to locate each of them. Once you've destroyed all three Hydras, continue on to The Rupture to investigate the final Vex incursion.

Once you reach The Rupture, you're tasked with destroying a Vex Mind. Viadon, Inquisitor Mind is a formidable opponent. Well-timed shots from an Interceptor will do solid damage, but Viadon's attacks can be overwhelming. Keep moving, use cover, and head for the nearest Interceptor pad to replace your vehicle as often as needed. Defeat Viadon to complete the Adventure and claim your reward.

Targets of Opportunity

As you follow your target around The Rupture, take the time to clear out the weaker units you encounter. Viadon may be the greatest threat you'll face during this Adventure, but lesser foes can still cause serious damage to you and your vehicle.

DESTINY 2

LOST SECTORS
Overview

The clue to a Lost Sector; this surface icon indicates one is nearby.

Lost Sectors are small subterranean secondary Sectors hidden within the topography of many larger Sectors. They appear in all four worlds but are predominantly in the European Dead Zone. Certain larger surface Sectors can have as many as three Lost Sectors, though many have none at all.

Expect short, violent confrontations inside a Lost Sector, with a major battle to finish.

With one exception, Lost Sectors offer a small exploratory activity. You venture into a series of interior chambers (usually caverns or underground rooms) and deal with a number of Combatant threats, as well as a "boss" or Elite enemy. The Elite holds the key to success, literally, as he enables you to unlock a Lost Sector Chest in which you can expect an impressive reward.

Look for this style of chest, which is only unlocked via a key you loot from the Elite.

You can then leave a Lost Sector the way you came in, or search for a possible exit close to the chamber where the chest was located. (Some Lost Sectors have alternate exits.) You can then leave the surface Sector, return, and enter the Lost Sector again, replaying the infiltration as many times as you want. However, your reward is significantly less impressive the second and subsequent times you open the Lost Sector Chest.

Lost Sectors have a number of enemies to worry about and are available from the very first time you begin exploring the EDZ and each subsequent world. Just locate the hidden entrance close to the insignia for that Sector, which is the clue to where each Lost Sector is.

All Lost Sectors Revealed!

The Appendix chapter of this guide pinpoints the location of every Lost Sector in a larger "over-world" Sector. Simply turn to the main Sector you are adventuring in, and find evidence of Lost Sector iconography on the guide map.

Need an overview of each Lost Sector? Want a map showing the approximate location of the Elite and the chest? Require a picture showing every Lost Sector surface opening? Then consult the Director chapter, where this information is available.

DESTINY 2

WORLD QUESTS

Overview

World Quests are multi-stage activities split into around five or six smaller missions. There is one overall World Quest per region, and each is related to the vendor associated with the region. These vendors are Devrim Kay in EDZ, Sloan in Titan, Failsafe in Nessus, and Asher Mir in Io. You're asked to complete a series of objectives, and once you achieve them, a small reward is given. You are then free to temporarily halt the World Quest and finish other activities (like changing weapon loadouts, for example). World Quests do not have to be completed in one sitting. The final mission ends with you rendezvousing with the planet's inhabitant and claiming a more substantial reward.

World Quests are unlocked once you complete all of the Campaign Missions associated with the region (or World).

World Quests Chart

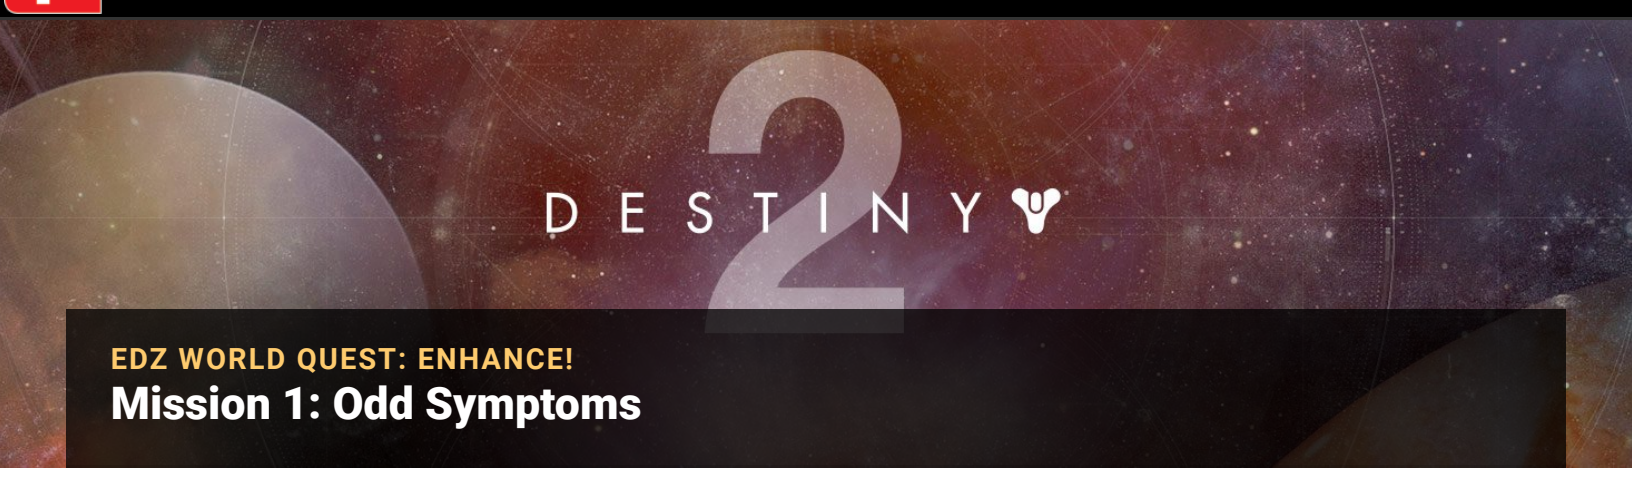
The following table lists the available World Quests.

| Quest # And Name | | Overview Objective | World Location |
|---|---|---|---|
| 01 | A Gift from the Gods | Track odd Fallen behavior | EDZ |
| 02 | Enemy of My Enemy | Locate a reactor | Titan |
| 03 | The Exodus Black | Open a weapons locker | Nessus |
| 04 | King's Shadow | Track Taken activity | Io |



EDZ WORLD QUEST: ENHANCE!

Mission 1: Odd Symptoms

Starting Location

- Trostland, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 260

Prerequisite

- Campaign Completion

Reward

- EDZ Token

Description

- Locate the source of the odd behavior spreading amongst the House of Dusk.

Loadout Recommendations

Try to equip at least one source of Arc damage to help deal with an especially powerful Fallen enemy. Much of this quest takes place in confined spaces, so choose your Power Weapon accordingly. A good sword or shotgun is likely to be more useful than a rocket launcher or sniper rifle.

1 Members of the Fallen House of Dusk have been acting strangely, and you must uncover the source of this new behavior. Your first task is to locate a Fallen exhibiting an uncommon glow. Search the area north of the church to find a suitable subject. Eliminate your target, and collect the odd sample it drops. Next, sweep the area for more glowing Fallen. Just circle the church and clear each of the surrounding buildings. Defeat a total of five glowing Fallen and collect the samples they drop to receive your next objective.

Ether Enhancements

Glowing (or "Empyrean") Fallen can absorb much more damage than typical Dregs, Vandals, and Marauders. Adopt a more cautious pace until you've determined how long it takes you to defeat these ether-enhanced enemies.

Next, you need to search nearby buildings for the source of a mysterious signal. Follow the objective marker to the area northeast of the church, then slip under the half-lowered entrance that marks the entrance to Terminus East. Once your objective updates, follow the marker down through the underground passage to identify the signal's source.

Respawning Restricted

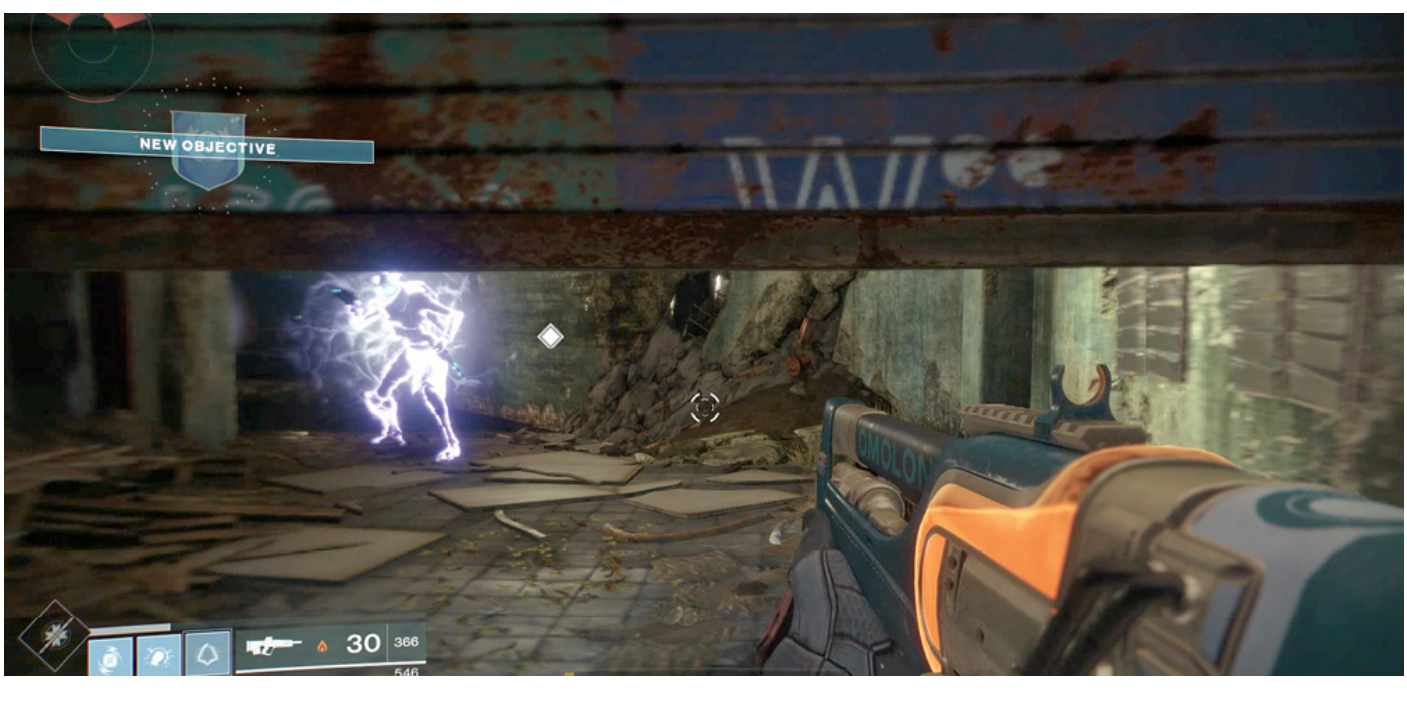
During this quest, Terminus East is a designated Restricted Zone.

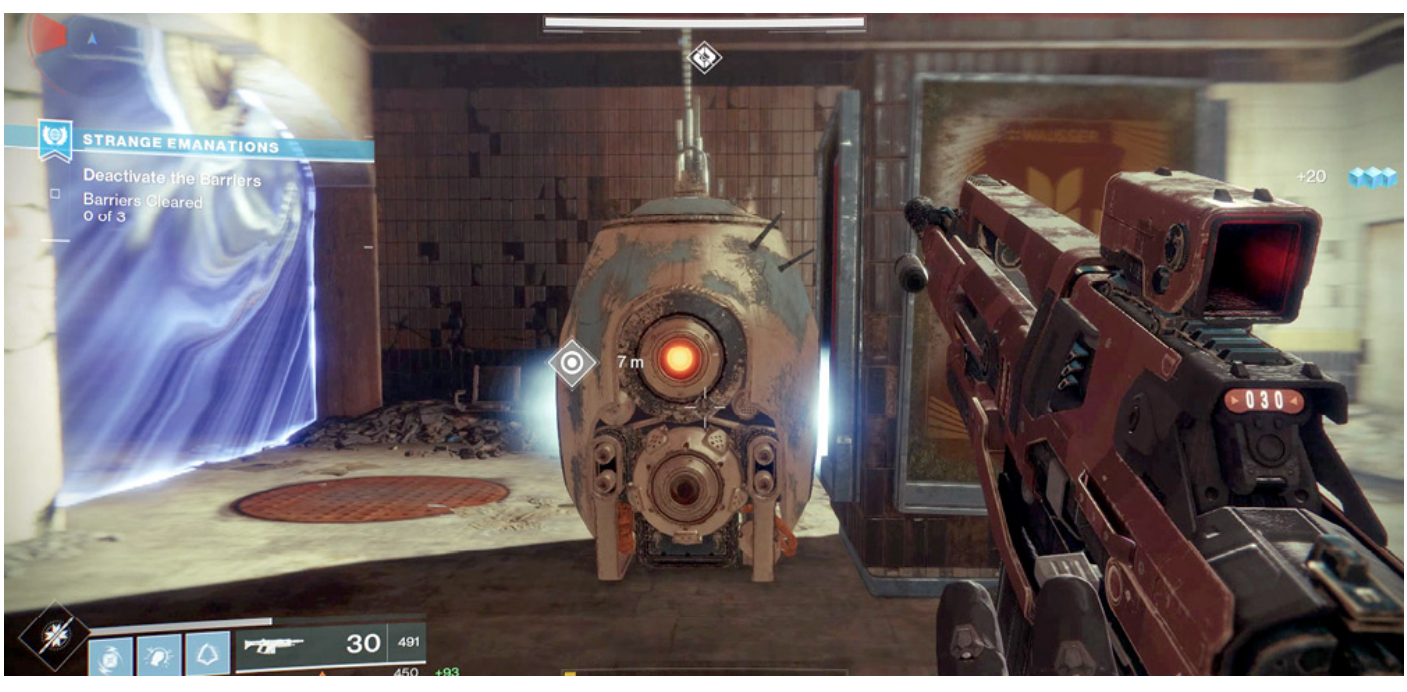
2 Terminus East contains three barriers, all of which must be deactivated before you can reach the signal's source. Eliminate the enemies lurking near the first barrier, then retrieve a void charge from the marked device.



Follow the objective marker, and deposit the void charge into the indicated device. Doing so deactivates the first barrier, granting you access to the room's next section. Of course, this also leaves you exposed to the waiting enemies, so be prepared to defend yourself as soon as the barrier falls.

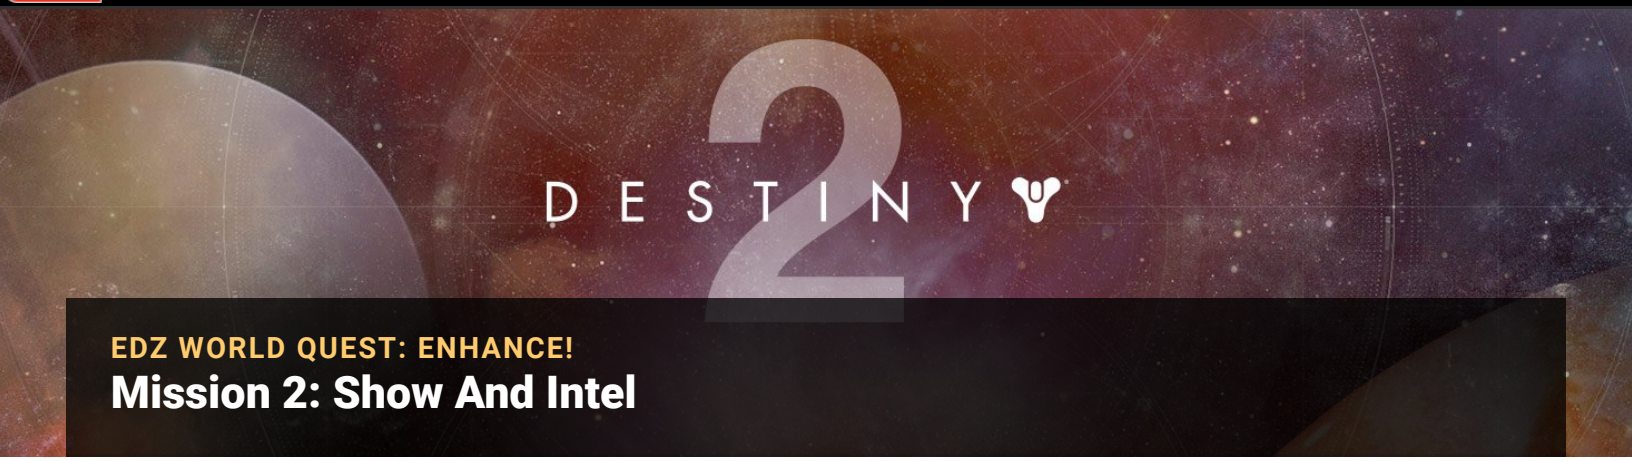
Repeat the process to deactivate each of the remaining barriers; just follow the objective markers to collect and deposit void charges as needed. Of course, you'll face more formidable enemies as you move deeper into the room. Be on the lookout for cloaked Marauders, and take the time to clear each section before you open the path to the next one.

3 After you drop all three barriers, you need to clear all remaining enemies from the room. Know that a formidable Fallen Captain named Canix-5 guards this Lost Sector. Depending on your equipped weapons and the status of your Super Ability, you may be able to defeat this enemy fairly quickly. Otherwise, consider evading Canix-5 until you've dealt with the weaker foes scattered throughout the room.



After you clear the room, use the marked panel to deactivate the force field protecting the enclosure, and then wait to receive your next objective.

Finally, you must destroy the marked piece of Cabal tech that appears in the corner of the room. A single shot is enough to trigger an impressive explosion, so move to the opposite side of the room before you attack the device. Destroy the Cabal tech to complete the mission, receive your reward, and gain access to the next phase of this World Quest.



EDZ WORLD QUEST: ENHANCE!

Mission 2: Show And Intel

Starting Location

- Trostland, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- N/A

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step “Odd Symptoms.”

Reward

- None

Description

- Report back to Devrim Kay to formulate a plan for tracking down the distributed ether.

This mission is quick but essential. Return to Devrim Kay to discuss the next phase of his plan.

Loadout Recommendations

The mission itself requires no combat, but you’re bound to face Fallen enemies on your way to Devrim Kay. Equip your preferred weapons.

EDZ WORLD QUEST: ENHANCE!

Mission 3: Differential Diagnosis

Starting Location

- Trostland, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 260

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step "Show and Intel."

Reward

- EDZ Token

Description

- Hack into the Fallen communications network to locate a stash of ether caches, then destroy them.

After you start the mission, follow the objective marker through the nearby building and into Maevic Square.

Continue following the objective marker until you reach a large energy barrier. Before you can move on, you'll need to destroy this obstacle. Turn back, and engage the Fallen gathered in the nearby park.

Loadout Recommendations

Try to equip at least one source of Arc damage to help deal with shielded Fallen Captains. Consider bringing a source of Solar damage, as well. The Red Legion's Commander Kraug makes an appearance toward the end of the mission.

While you should eliminate all enemies, note that the objective marker highlights the Captain as a priority target. This enemy holds the explosive you'll need to move beyond the barrier. After you defeat the Fallen Captain, plant the explosive on the barrier's power source. Move back to a safe distance, shoot the explosive, and wait for the barrier to fade. Follow the objective marker, and engage the enemies gathered in the next area.

Again, an energy barrier blocks your path, and again, a nearby enemy holds the explosive you'll need to clear the way. This time, the objective marker indicates a well-armed and armored Salvage Guard. Eliminate this target, and use the explosive to destroy the next barrier's power source.

Continue fighting as you follow the objective marker through the area. Once again, the path is blocked by an energy barrier. This time, however, you don't need to destroy the barrier's power source. Instead, use the nearby device to hack into the Fallen network. Doing so will draw the attention of a Fallen assault force, so make sure you're prepared for a fight.

After you hack the Fallen network, a Skiff appears and drops off a small attack force. This is just the first wave of the enemy's response; expect several new arrivals to appear over the next few minutes. You'll face a mix of Dregs, Shanks, Vandals, Wretches, and Marauders. Eliminate these enemies as they appear. Eventually, a Servitor designated as "Network Runner" moves into the area.

Network Runner can absorb a fair amount of damage, so don't hesitate to use your Power Weapon or activate your Super Ability. Focus on defeating the Servitor before you engage with any units under its protection. Once Network Runner is down, cleaning up the remaining enemies is a fairly straightforward task.

Once you've cleared the area, use the marked transmat pad to travel directly to a stockpile of enhanced ether. Destroy the ether cache from a safe distance, and collect the resulting fragments. When you're ready, follow the passage back to the streets, and engage the waiting enemies.

Along with a significant enemy presence, this area contains another energy barrier. Thin out the weaker units, and then defeat the Salvage Captain to collect another explosive device. Use the explosive to destroy the barrier's power source and open the path to the next area.

After you deal with the barrier, follow the objective marker back to Trostland and down into Widow's Walk. Under normal circumstances, this area would be packed with enemies, but during this mission, it's suspiciously empty. Move to the designated spot and plant a flare. Make a final weapon check, head to the relocated objective marker, and activate the flares to lure the Fallen into the area.

Respawning Restricted

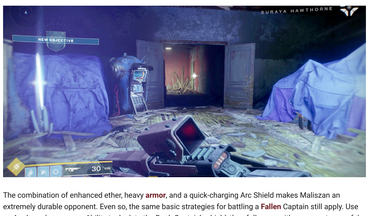
Once you launch the flares, Widow's Walk becomes a designated Restricted Zone.

To complete this mission, you must survive a prolonged and potentially difficult battle. Your objective is to destroy four ether caches that appear over the course of the encounter. To do so, you'll need to overcome wave after wave of ether-enhanced Fallen and multiple elite units.

Each ether cache is guarded by a group of Empyrean Fallen, but these enemies always arrive just ahead of their ether supply. Move quickly to thin out each squad before its members receive the benefits of enhanced ether. Even after an ether cache appears, stay focused on enemy units. Clear the area, destroy the cache from a safe distance, and prepare for the next target to appear.

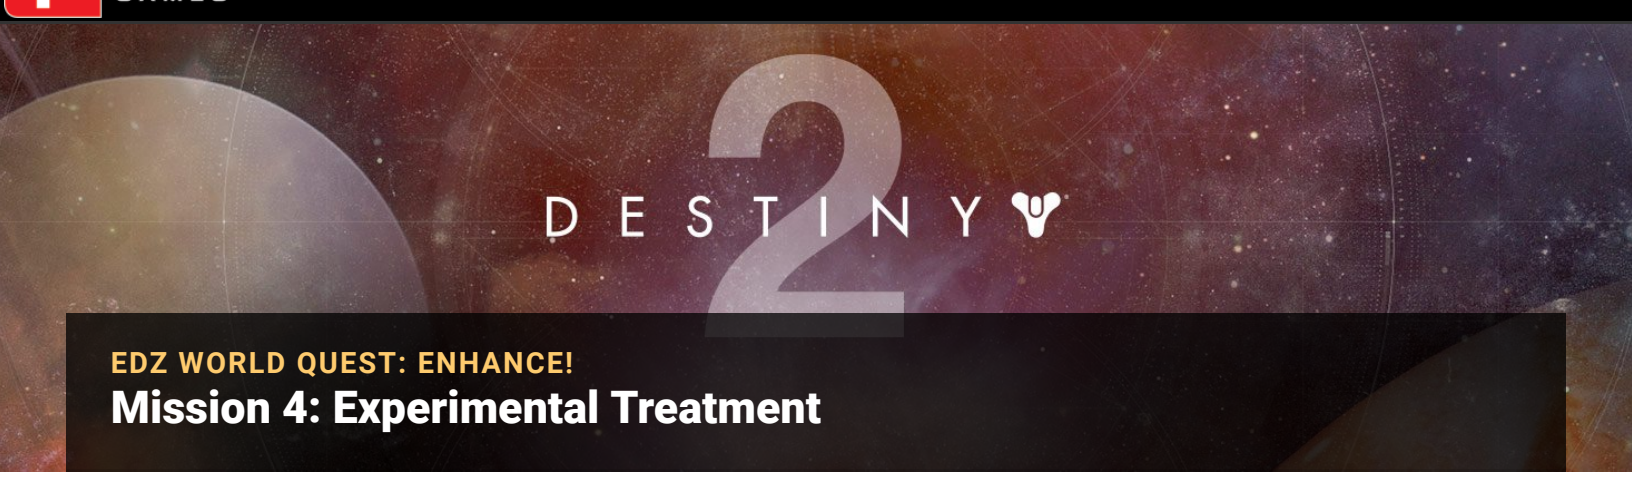
After you destroy the first ether cache, a Red Legion squad led by Commander Kraug joins the fray. If your Super Ability is charged, consider activating it now. Otherwise, make good use of available cover. The second-story enclosures are especially useful, but don't stay in any one place for too long.

Once you've destroyed all four ether caches, you must clear the area of all Fallen units. This includes a Dusk Captain named Maliszan. Take a moment to make sure you've dealt with any weaker enemies still in the area, then turn your attention toward Maliszan.



The combination of enhanced ether, heavy armor, and a quick-charging Arc Shield makes Maliszan an extremely durable opponent. Even so, the same basic strategies for battling a Fallen Captain still apply. Use an Arc-based weapon or Ability to deplete the Dusk Captain's shield, then follow up with your most powerful attacks.

Clear the area of all remaining enemies to complete the mission and unlock the next step of the World Quest.



EDZ WORLD QUEST: ENHANCE!

Mission 4: Experimental Treatment

Starting Location

- Trostland, European Dead Zone

Recommended Power

- 260

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step “Differential Diagnosis.”

Reward

- EDZ Token

Description

- Kill the Archon Priest distributing the enhanced ether, then the Attendant Servitor who created it.

Loadout Recommendations

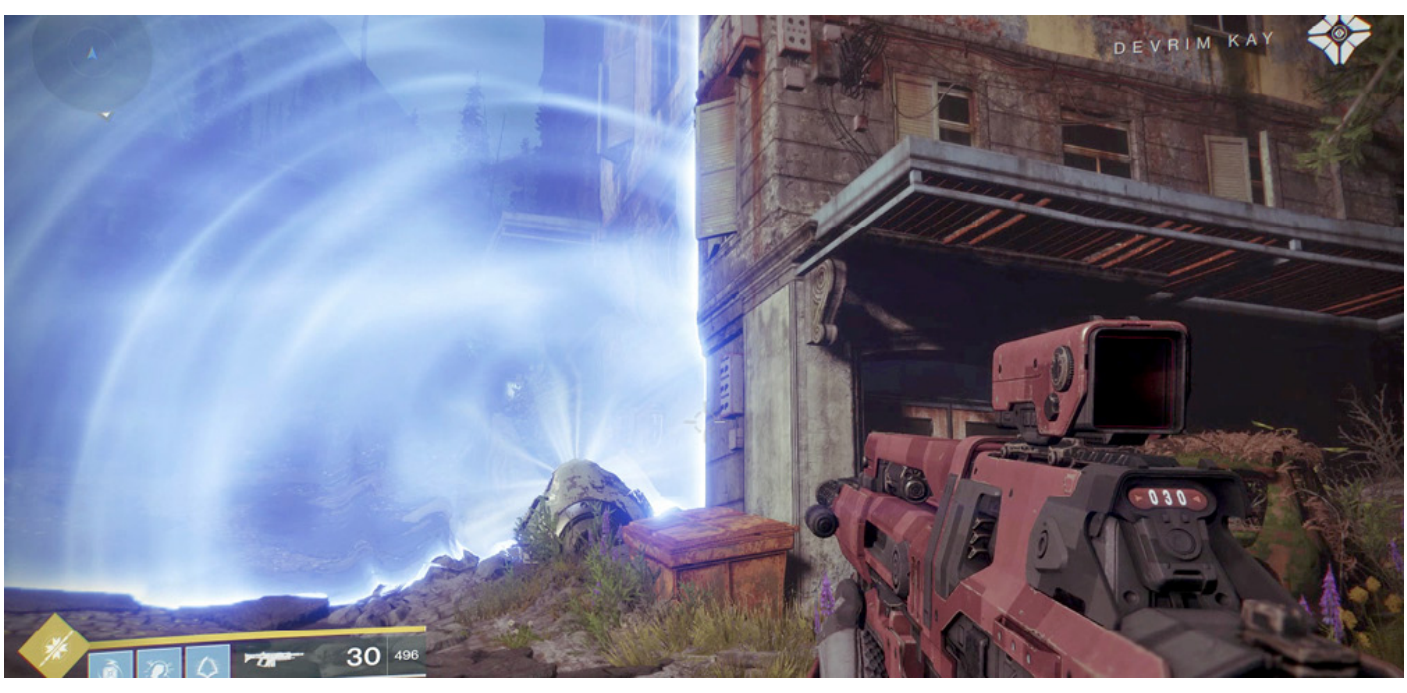
Arc damage tends to be useful in Fallen territory, but weapon range is probably a bigger issue during this mission. Bring at least one mid- to long-range weapon to help ensure that taking cover doesn’t take you out of the fight.



11 After you start the mission, follow the objective marker through the nearby door and into Salt Mines. You’ll find a few common enemies peppered along the path. Eliminate each of these threats as it appears, and prepare yourself for a much more dangerous opponent.

Respawning Restricted

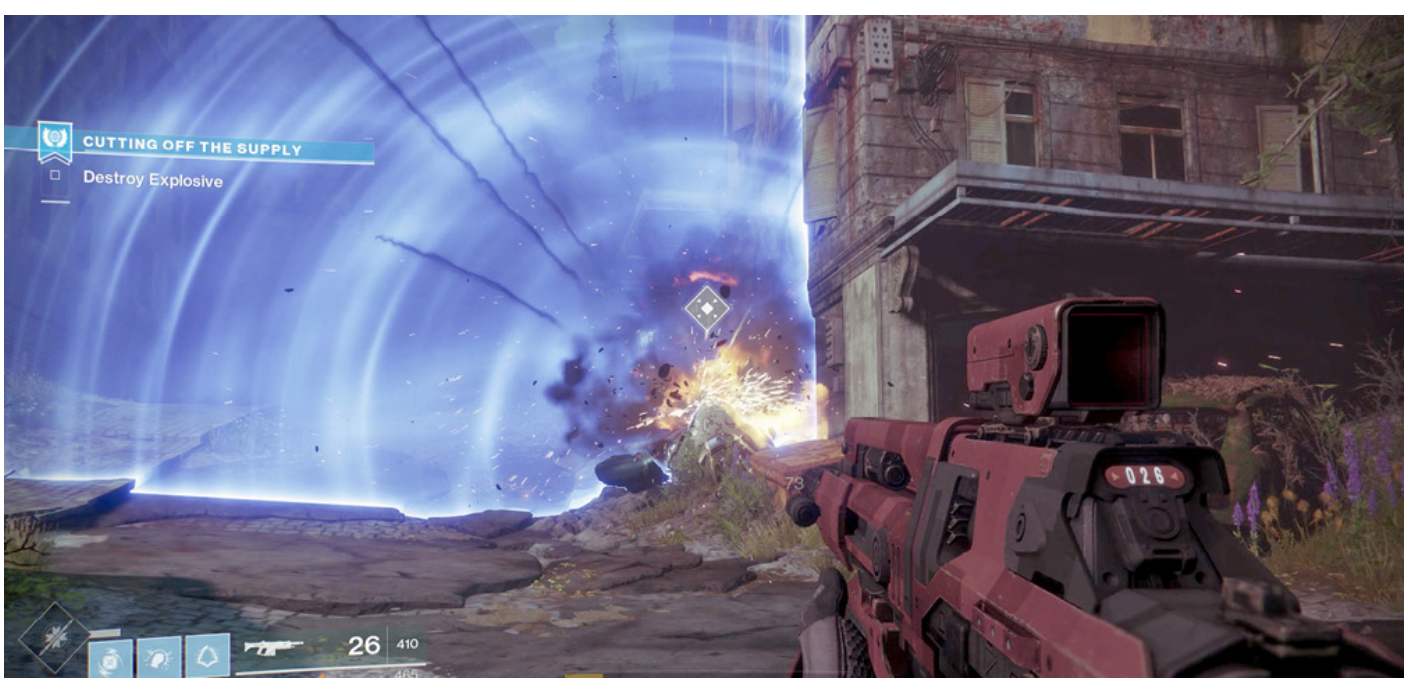
During this mission, Salt Mines is a designated Restricted Zone.

The objective marker leads you to Raxes, an ether-enhanced Archon Priest. Raxes is well-armed, durable, and absolutely massive. You’ll also find a fair amount of weaker enemies scattered around the room, so take advantage of available cover. While you’re free to engage Raxes immediately, consider claiming the high ground first. Veer left as you enter the room, then head up the stairs near the wall. This walkway not only offers excellent cover, it’s also a popular spot for Vandal sharpshooters. A strategic sweep of this area should make it a bit easier to survive this encounter.

12 Throughout the battle, Raxes summons Empyrean reinforcements. Use the available cover to minimize incoming damage as you deal with weaker enemies. Relocate as often as needed, but know that surrendering the high ground makes it considerably more difficult to find suitable cover.

Grenades and Super Abilities can obviously be helpful, but your weapons will likely account for the bulk of your damage output. Take every opportunity to chip away at Raxes’ health, but focus on headshots to conserve ammunition. The Archon Priest lacks an Energy Shield, so every shot landed brings you closer to victory.



13 After you defeat Raxes, you must destroy the remaining ether supply. Shoot the containers stashed near the end of the walkway. After the explosion, move in and search the wreckage for enhanced ether cores. Collect all of these items to receive your next objective, then follow the marker out of Salt Mines and back to Trostland.

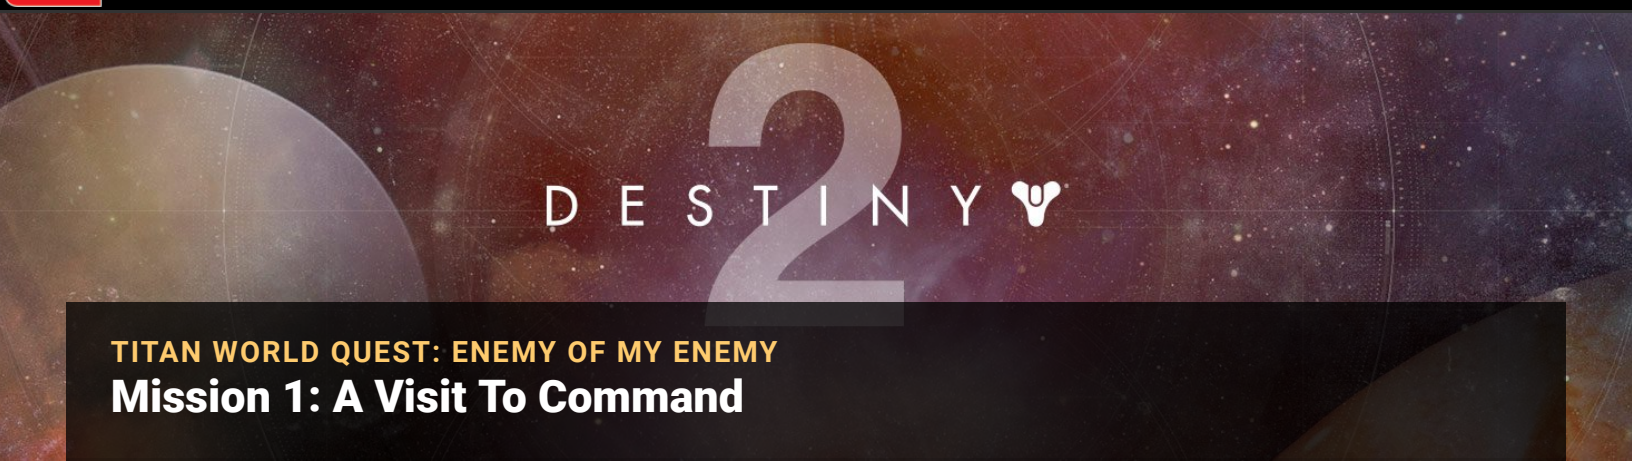
After you exit Salt Mines, clear a path to the marked device, and use the cores you collected to lure the Attendant Servitor into the area. The ether also draws a number of weaker enemies to your location. Protect the lure from these hostiles as you wait for your target to arrive.

The Attendant Servitor’s arrival comes fairly quickly. As you engage your target, understand that this is less of a showdown than a game of cat and mouse. Shortly after you open fire, the Attendant Servitor teleports a short distance, the first of many strategic retreats. Each time the Attendant Servitor teleports away, follow the objective marker to reacquire your target and resume the fight. The first couple of retreats simply draw you away from the church. Before long, you’ll be chasing the Attendant Servitor through the EDZ’s Outskirts region.

The Attendant Servitor isn’t the only threat you’ll face during this encounter. The battle drags you across a great deal of open ground, so be prepared to deal with everything from hostile Patrols to large-scale Public Events. Of course, you’ll also face the Attendant Servitor’s Empyrean reinforcements.

14 Things can get fairly hectic out in the open, but try to stay focused on the Attendant Servitor. It’s often easier to avoid the Empyrean Fallen than to engage them. Take advantage of the cover that abandoned structures and uneven terrain offer. Aim for the Servitor’s eye—preferably using a mid- to long-range weapon—and don’t hesitate to withdraw from the fight whenever you need a moment to recover.

Destroy the Attendant Servitor to fulfill your mission and complete the World Quest.



TITAN WORLD QUEST: ENEMY OF MY ENEMY

Mission 1: A Visit To Command

Objectives

- Speak with Sloane.

Starting Location

- Siren's Watch, Titan

Recommended Power

- N/A

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Utopia.

Reward

- None

Description

- Report back to Sloane for a plan involving the removal of Fallen from the rig.

Loadout Recommendations

The mission itself requires no combat, but you're bound to face Fallen enemies on your way to Sloane. Equip your preferred weapons.

1 Once you've made the Pacific Arcology rigs safe, return to Sloane's command center and speak with her regarding pockets of Fallen resistance you must still remove.

TITAN WORLD QUEST: ENEMY OF MY ENEMY

Mission 2: Data Requisition

Starting Location

- The Rig

Recommended Power

- 220

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step “A Visit to Command.”

Reward

- Cascade Cell +1, Glimmer

Description

- Chase the Fallen out of a control center.

Loadout Recommendations

You’re engaged in close combat along tight corridors for most of this mission. Employing weapons that deal good damage at melee range (like a shotgun or rapid-firing rifle) is a great way to ensure you survive.

2 The Fallen have become a dangerous nuisance, and you must pay them a visit. Begin by chasing the Fallen out of a control center on the southern edge of the main rig structure. Cross from Siren’s Watch into The Rig, ignoring or fighting the usual clusters of foes roaming the gantries. Head to the World Quest beacon close to the bridge, and activate it.

This properly begins the mission. Jump onto the main bridge, heading south into Tidal Anchor. Tackle the Wretches and Dregs in the first part of the control center before accessing the circular exit into the stairwell and facing down some Shanks. Remain on the upper gantry inside the stairwell so you can destroy a Warden Servitor that is protecting two Shanks, then blast the Shanks. Descend the stairwell into a windowed corridor with Dregs and a Vandal to silence. Head into the red-lit connecting junction, and then into the control center itself.

Respawning Restricted

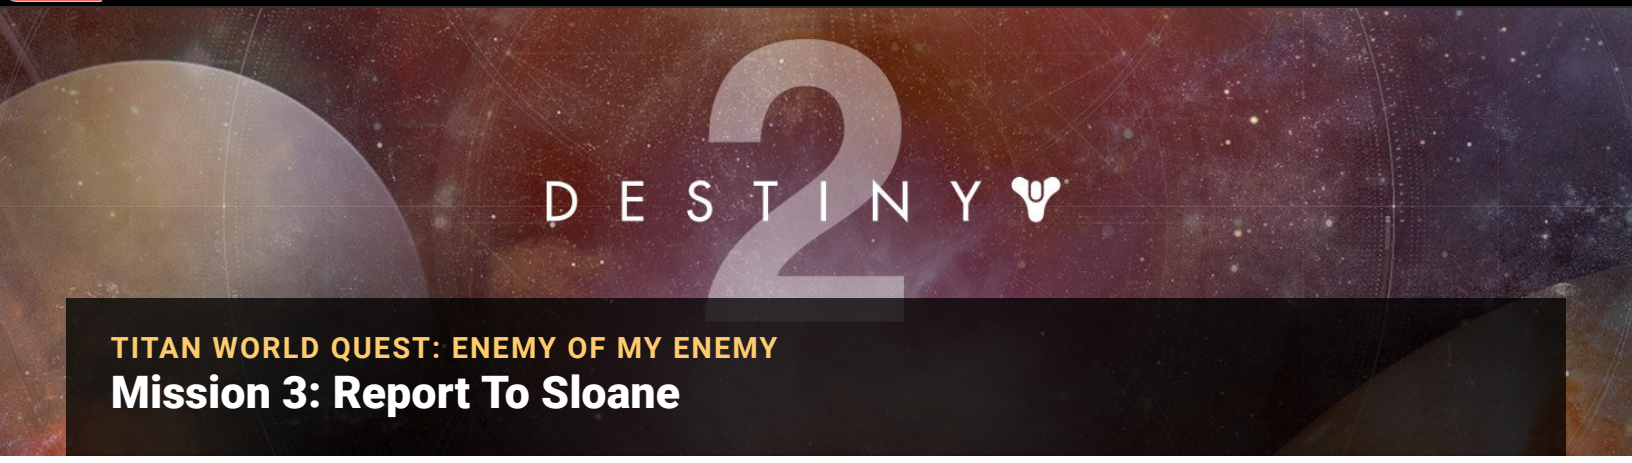
During this quest, the control center is a designated Restricted Zone.

3 Inside, access the console to open the doors, then use Ghost to examine the first standing console. Prepare to battle Hive Thralls from the sides of the chamber. You’re stuck in here, so keep moving (around the central console, onto the tiered upper area, and back again), and try to battle the Thralls at long range. This becomes even more necessary when Cursed Thralls appear; shoot them as a priority so they explode and take out other Thralls surrounding them.

When the Acolytes (around six initially) show up at the entrance/exit to this command center, it’s time to fight through them and escape. You’re heading back the way you came, going into the mirrored corridor with around six more Acolytes led by a Hive Wizard (with a Solar Shield). Take out the Acolytes first, then concentrate all your fire on the Wizard while using the machinery as cover. Push up the stairwell, dropping Acolytes as you go. When you reach the circular door, scan it with Ghost. You need to survive while the door is hacked!

4 Look down the steps, and start dropping foes heading your way. A grenade is worthwhile here. Use it when the second and third Knights show up, which is about the time it becomes too difficult to maintain your position. It’s when Ghost hacks the door open, anyway. Dash through, or stay where you are and execute a Super. Then, prepare to battle Thralls on the upper part of the stairwell and a few Acolytes at the top. They are all that stands between you and mission completion. Once you reach the upper windowed control terminal area, return and speak to Sloane.



TITAN WORLD QUEST: ENEMY OF MY ENEMY

Mission 3: Report To Sloane

Starting Location

- Siren's Watch

Recommended Power

- N/A

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step "Data Requisition."

Reward

- None

Description

- Bring Sloane the data you recovered from the control room.

Loadout Recommendations

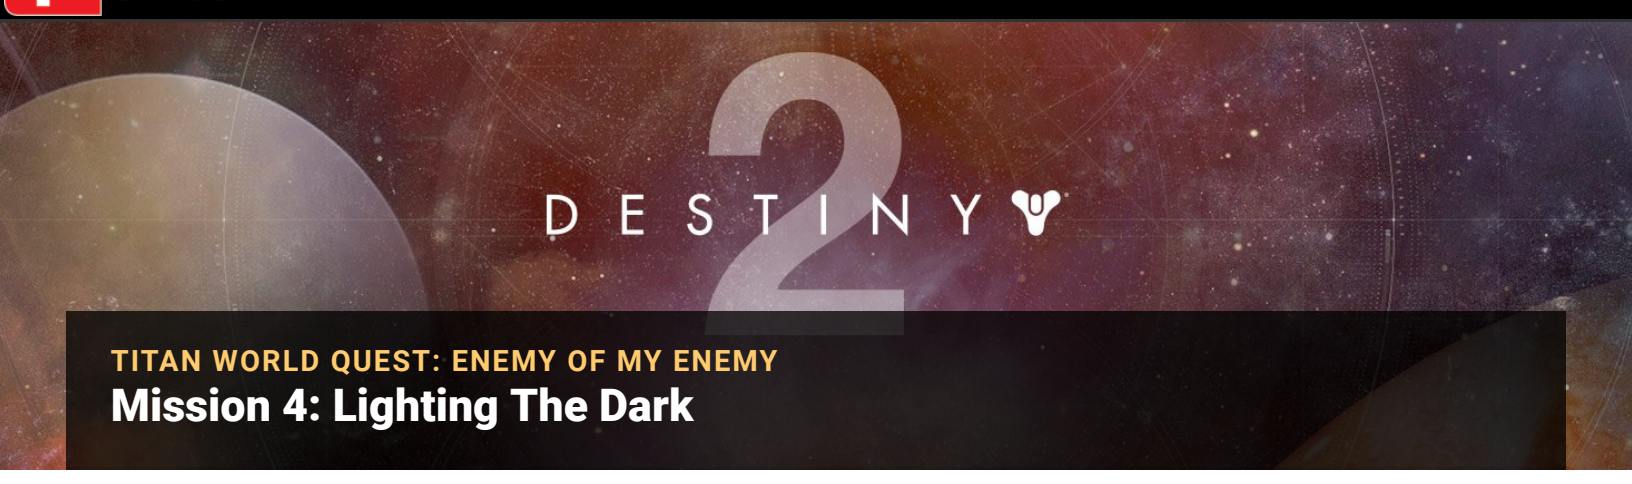
The mission itself requires no combat, but you're bound to face Fallen enemies on your way to Sloane. Equip your preferred weapons.

Back at the command room near the LZ, Sloane is pleased with your progress. However, there is much more to do. It's time to end the fluctuations in power that this rig has been experiencing.



TITAN WORLD QUEST: ENEMY OF MY ENEMY

Mission 4: Lighting The Dark

Starting Location

- The Rig

Recommended Power

- 220

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step “Report to Sloane.”

Reward

- Cascade Cell +1, Glimmer

Description

- Find the methane reactor to end the Arcology’s power shortages.

Loadout Recommendations

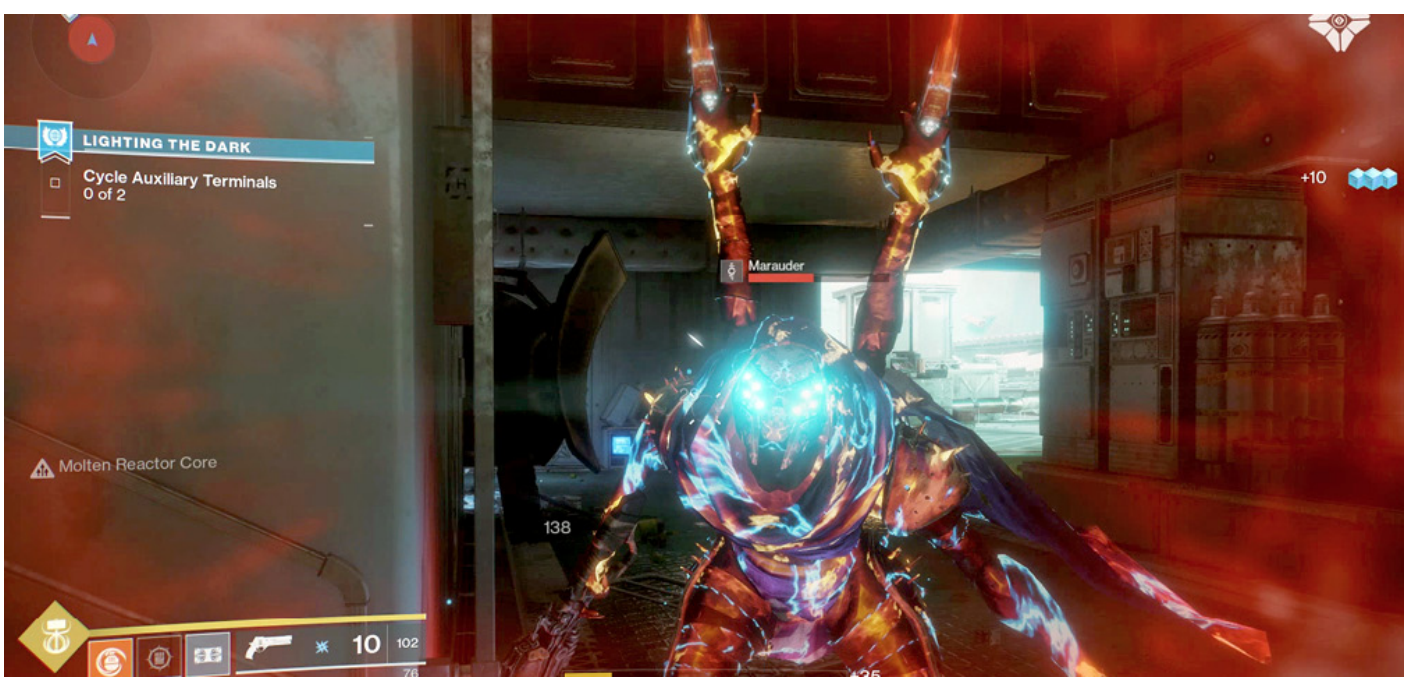
You’re attacking Fallen for the majority of your trip into the darkness of the Arcology Sector. Some rapid-fire weaponry (or a trusty hand cannon) is good to own. You continue with a subsequent quest after this one in the same area, so prepare for a lengthy sortie.



5 Head from Sloane to the quest flag, and start your search for the reactor. Begin by heading into the two-level computer room interior on the southwest corner of the main rig platform. Pick either of the upper entrances near the connecting bridge to Solarium. Inside, drop the Marauders before accessing the wall terminal.

6 Now, move across the exterior of the main platform Sector toward a second interior computer room. It’s just to the right of the sunken ramp leading to the blocked bridge entrance on the eastern side of the Sector. Expect usual enemies as you head across toward the circular entrance. Inside, destroy around six Shanks as you search for the second wall terminal, then hack it using Ghost. Prepare for another half-dozen Shanks to explode once the objective updates.

Exit, cross the adjacent bridge via the small room (the main sunken ramp is blocked), and head into Solarium Sector. Climb the gantry steps, and prepare some hurting for a Dreg welcoming committee on the entrance behind the massive damaged LED panel. Squeeze through into the main Festering Halls forecourt. At this point, the action heats up considerably.

7 Mayhem! Two Hive Ogres, Acolytes, and a Warden Servitor are battling a variety of Fallen in the central sunken area of this courtyard. There’s little need to join in the fray (unless you have a death wish), so sneak around the perimeter in a clockwise direction. Use the scenery to duck behind as you reach an energy barrier preventing progress. Blast the Servitor guarding the barrier, and it retracts, allowing you access into the winding corridor leading to Festering Halls Sector.

8 Head into the sunken entry area where around a dozen Dregs are milling around, along with a cluster of Thralls on the upper steps by the exit. You should defeat all of them; keep moving and jumping to avoid being overrun. Drop through the hole in the ground in the next corridor to a checkpoint area that’s coated in Hive secretions.

Make short work of the Acolyte and Dregs fighting each other, then (when you’re ready to battle Thralls) access the pedestal console. When the nearby energy wall retracts, remove them as a threat, then look for additional Thralls and the green glowing eyes of Acolytes in this darkness. Aim at them, too. Push forward into the next chamber, and find an energy wall with some Fallen behind it, including a Captain. Leave them momentarily as you turn on the reactor at a second pedestal console.

This concludes the mission, but you’ve freed the Fallen Captain, who is racing to the methane reactor before you. Make sure he’s stopped!

Respawning Restricted

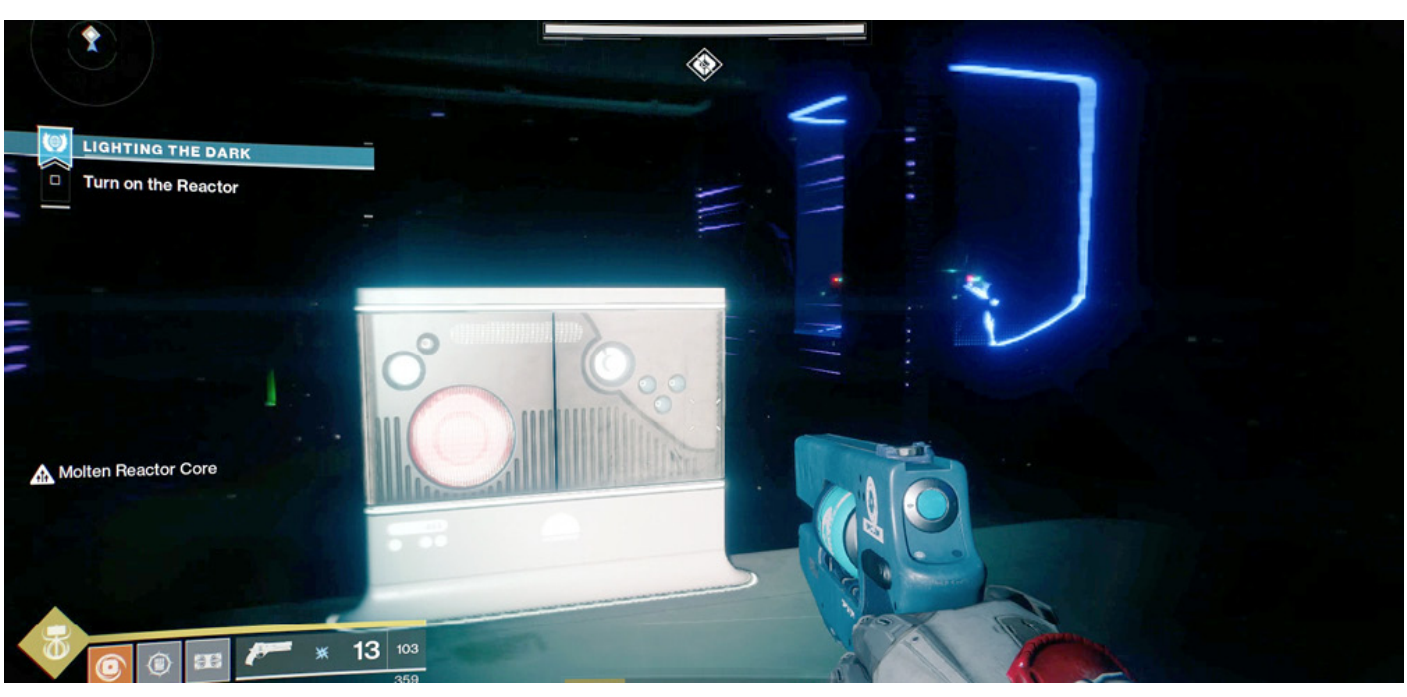
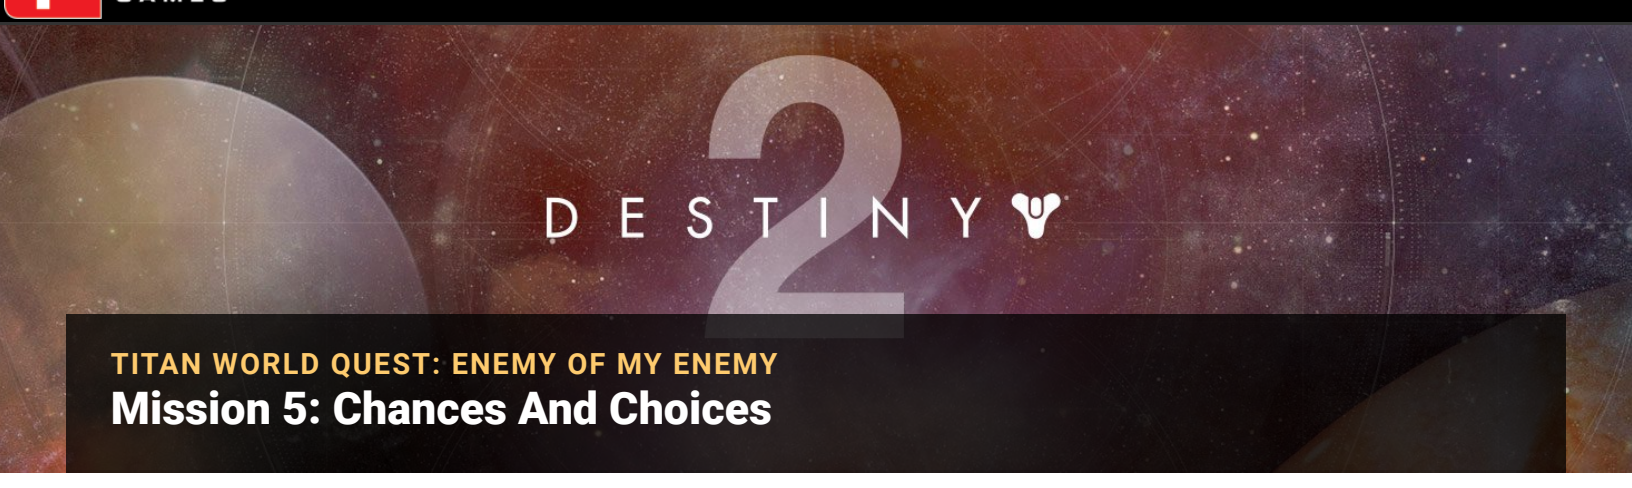
During this quest, the Festering Halls Sector is a designated Restricted Zone.





TITAN WORLD QUEST: ENEMY OF MY ENEMY

Mission 5: Chances And Choices

Starting Location

- Solarium

Recommended Power

- 220

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step “Lighting the Dark.”

Reward

- Cascade Cell +1, Glimmer

Description

- Find the methane reactor for Sloane before the Fallen Captain does.

Loadout Recommendations

A good trio of weapons would be something meaty at close quarters (like a shotgun) for close Servitor battles, something to remove Vandal snipers’ heads from long range, and some rapid-fire energy weapons to cut through Solar and Arc Shields.

9 Move to the flag at the gantry platforms near the broken LED wall to begin this next mission. Then, take a sprint through the wall and into the forecourt of Solarium, where Fallen dropships are depositing Dregs and a Heavy Shank to waylay you. Don’t let this happen; instead, sprint left (north) and take care of these foes. Use the pillars on the perimeter as additional cover opportunities. As time is of the essence, concentrate on heading into the green-colored entrance to the Arboretum Sector.

The Fallen Captain has been spotted! He flees the botanical entrance chambers, leaving around six Marauders and a Servitor for you to deal with. You can’t defeat the Captain yet, but once the Servitor is down, the barrier that’s preventing progress is removed. Head through the connecting corridors and into the Arboretum Sector.

10 Once in the pinkish corridor, remove all minor Fallen threats (Dregs and Shanks), and then focus on damaging the Warden Servitor guarding a barrier. It needs to be destroyed so the barrier deactivates. Head into the massive main hall (with the huge screen) where Hive forces (Acolytes and a Wizard) are moving right to left, attacking Dregs and Vandals. Venture too far forward too quickly, and you’re overwhelmed, so deal with the Wizard at the hall entrance. Then, turn left, and tag the scattered Vandals around the stairwell.

It’s at about this time that you’re rudely introduced to the Thrall Exploder; imagine a fast-moving Cursed Thrall with the same deadly detonation potential. This rarely encountered foe is a priority target. Back up and jump so you aren’t caught by this charging bomb, and quickly retaliate before it explodes too close for comfort. There are around four of these, so ensure that they die far away from you. Use the height of the stairs and bridge to drop the remaining toughened Vandals and Dregs, or rush in and use the scenery as cover. Then, make a controlled drop into The Pit.

11 Check the Hive sputum-covered tunnel with the laser traps. Shoot one so a cluster explodes before you enter and as you venture down the tunnel, killing Dregs before they retaliate. Farther down the tunnel are more laser traps, Wretches, and Shanks, so slow and steady progress is recommended. This is especially true because there’s a Servitor that you must destroy; it is keeping a barrier up at the end of the tunnel. Close-combat weaponry is encouraged to shorten this fight.

Step into the upper mezzanine through the blue and pink light, switching to ranged weaponry to drop Vandal snipers as you work your way through the open plaza. When a cluster of Exploder Shanks drops in, shoot them immediately so that groups explode at once. Use the low walls at the top of the exit stairs for cover, and lob in a grenade at the additional Vandals, Shanks, and a Servitor that must be destroyed. The latter is keeping the exit doorway barricaded.

With the barrier down, head into the lower mezzanine. There are another two Servitors, which should be priority targets because they keep a duo of nearby Shanks invulnerable. When you’ve destroyed both foe types, another barrier disappears, allowing access. Head down the stairs, and keep your Servitor-killing plan intact for an Elite Servitor down here with three segments of health.

Stay at the doorway and sidestep into cover while demolishing this foe. When one-third of its health is removed, watch for a cluster of Exploder Shanks reinforcing the Servitor, which teleports farther into the stepped corridor. Use jumping and cover, and follow the Servitor down the corridor. When you’ve removed the last third of the Servitor’s health, a final group of Exploder Shanks appears behind you.

12 The reactor room has been discovered! At the lowest point of the stepped mezzanine corridor, expect Acolytes and Thralls (from the left) attacking Exploder Shanks and Dregs (on the right). Stay back, let the battle commence, then step in and mop up the foes before turning right into the reactor room entrance. You’re greeted by Dreg stragglers and a Heavy Shank. Sidestepping behind the door entrance guarantees some protection as you waste these hostiles.

Inside the reactor room itself, it seems the Hive has sent its own champion (an Elite Knight) to battle the Fallen Captain you’re here to defeat. Let them battle before stepping in with a Super and every major offensive capability you have, as this is the last fight of the quest. The Captain has an Arc Shield, so plan your attack wisely; a rapid-fire weapon to demolish the Captain is recommended. With both foes defeated, interact with the reactor, gathering it up and finishing this mission.

Introduction

Loadout Recommendations

The mission itself requires no combat, but you're bound to face Fallen enemies on your way to Failsafe. Equip your preferred weapons.

1 When Cayde-6 has been found and Failsafe recognizes your friendship, return to her ship and speak to her regarding a Golden Age weapons locker. You can have whatever's inside, but the darn thing is locked. Time to investigate!

DESTINY 2

NESSUS WORLD QUEST: THE EXODUS BLACK

Mission 1: Speak To Failsafe

Starting Location

- Exodus Black, Nessus

Recommended Power

- N/A

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign mission "Six."

Reward

- None

Description

- Failsafe is looking to speak to you.

Loadout Recommendations

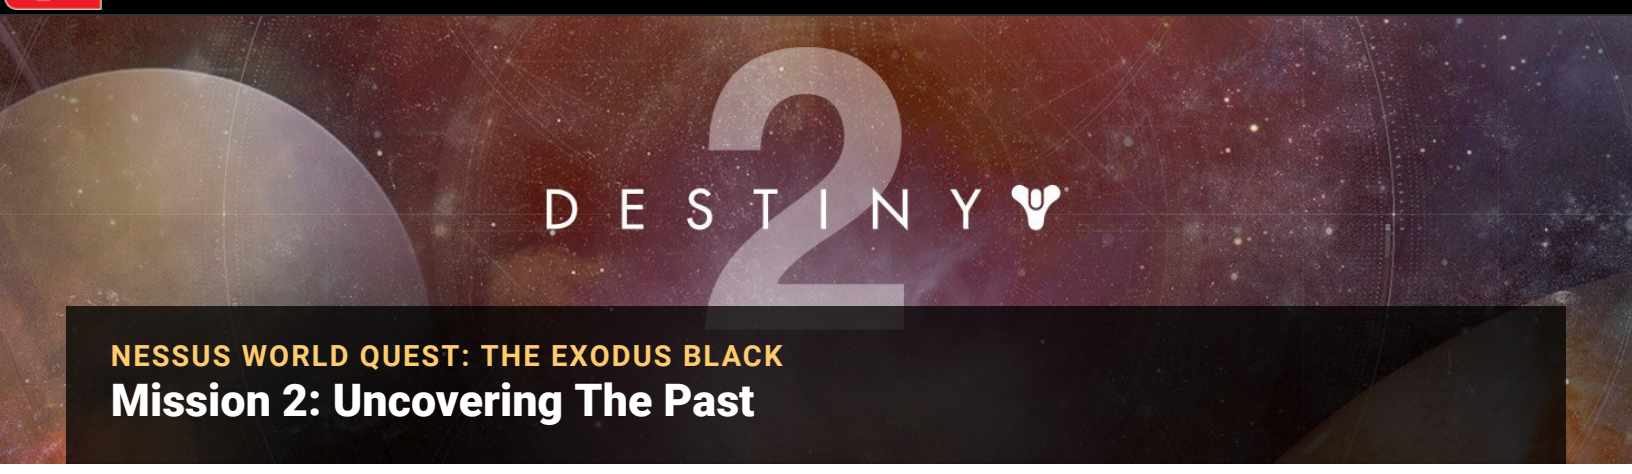
You're attacking Fallen and Vex forces in open Sectors, and aside from some close scanning (where melee weapons are helpful), ranged hardware is worth considering.

2 Access the flag inside Failsafe's chamber before heading outside and dealing with a small contingent of Fallen (Shanks, Dregs, and a Vandal or two). The signal leads you to one of the crew members from the ship, looking a little worse for wear. Examine the space-suited corpse, and begin your search for four audio logs.

3 The second corpse (numbered as the "3" waypoint on the guide map) is slumped on a block section above ground level. He's on the perimeter side of the fuselage wreckage area near the shallow lake in Exodus Black Sector. Then, continue your searching. Normal Public Events and Fallen enemy clusters are active in this Sector. Consult the Director chapter if you want to know what they are (clusters are mainly Fallen Dregs, Vandals, and the occasional Captain).

4 The third signal is coming from two dead crew members lying atop the tall flat plateau rock formation that overlooks the small Fallen base along the eastern side of this Sector. Double-jump up to reach the crew members and scan them. One more to go!



NESSUS WORLD QUEST: THE EXODUS BLACK

Mission 2: Uncovering The Past

Starting Location

- Exodus Black

Recommended Power

- 200

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step “Speak to Failsafe.”

Reward

- Arcadian Patterns +1, Glimmer

Description

- Investigate the Exodus Black weapons locker.

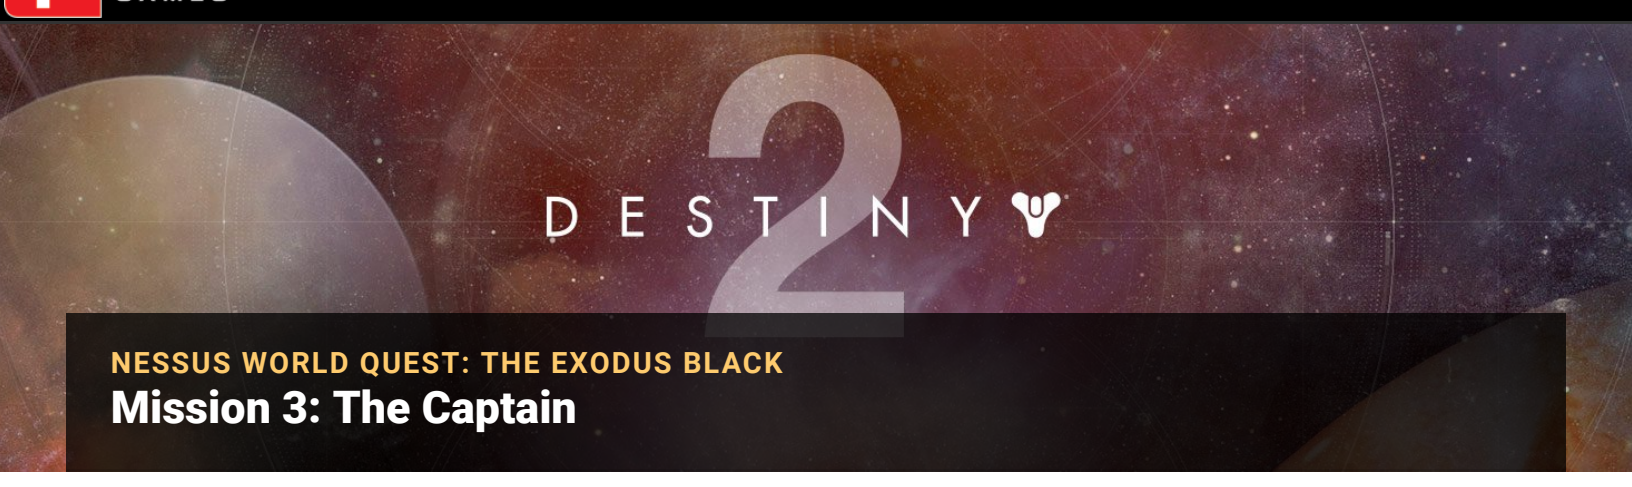
5 The final crew member is sprawled across the clump of stalagmite rock formations just north of the Fallen base. Examine this corpse, and you can begin to track the signal. Hop on a Sparrow, driving southward out of Exodus Black and into the Glade of Echoes Sector. Expect the objective to update and Fallen ships to drop several foes into the vicinity.

6 Ignore the Fallen in the larger central part of this Sector, and hike up to a small Vex cluster among the cube-shaped formations and wreckage, where you should locate and hack a signal terminal. At this point, you must hold this position against incoming Fallen forces, though the Goblins and Minotaur in this area are first to taste your wrath.

Expect Dregs, Shanks (of the Exploder kind), and Vandals in the first wave. Remain near the satellite terminal. Then, expect Tracer Shanks, more Dregs, Marauders, and more Vandals. The Shank variants are the biggest problem because they are explosive and have wicked shots, so make them priority targets. Stay mobile, jumping and using the cube blocks for cover. When you have culled all foes in the vicinity, the objective updates.

7 The next part of the plan involves battling new clusters of appearing Vex foes, along with any Fallen in the vicinity. Scan the area to pinpoint a Vex Elite (in this case, a toughened Minotaur near the exit to Exodus Black), and engage it in battle. Then, head down into the debris gorges in the center of this Sector to tackle a toughened Hobgoblin before heading northward to take on a Hydra. The open area and your general competence should make these battles relatively straightforward.

Examine the area by scanning for an in-game waypoint, and then maneuvering north near the exit to Hallows. Ghost informs you that the mission has concluded. Now to track the ship’s captain.



NESSUS WORLD QUEST: THE EXODUS BLACK

Mission 3: The Captain

Starting Location

- Hallows

Recommended Power

- 200

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step “Uncovering the Past.”

Reward

- Arcadian Patterns +1, Glimmer

Description

- Follow the footsteps of the Exodus Black captain to find a way to open the weapons locker.

Loadout Recommendations

Expect to tackle Vex at both long and short ranges, and pack accordingly. Bring your preferred weapons for taking out multiple Goblins and Fanatics before they do the same to you (a rapid-fire rifle, sidearm, or shotgun) and good mid-range rifles to tag Hobgoblin snipers, Minotaurs, and Harpies.

8 Head north out of Glade of Echoes into Hallows, and search for the mission flag to continue this quest. The orange-lit side tunnel leads from Hallows into Sunken Cavern Sector. You begin a small test here, atop a bottomless orange void where you can see what appears to be the core of the planet itself. What looks like a disarmed Harpy guides you across the void, forcing you to leap across a series of floating boulders. Simply make careful jumps until you reach the curved edge of the northern promontory halfway down this chasm.

Respawning Restricted

During this quest, Sunken Cavern is a designated Restricted Zone.

9 It’s here that the action heats up, and darkness creeps over the immediate battlefield. Vex Goblins soon warp in. Begin a fierce battle, taking four of them out, along with a couple of Fanatics. Ranged weaponry is preferable because of the explosive nature of the Fanatics. Then, take on a cluster of Harpies as you venture closer to a circular temple entrance on this rocky overhang. Stay behind rocks, as there’s a toughened Minotaur at the temple entrance and a Hobgoblin sniping from upper ledges to your left (make him the priority target). Deal with advancing Fanatics and Goblins in the alcove under the Hobgoblin.

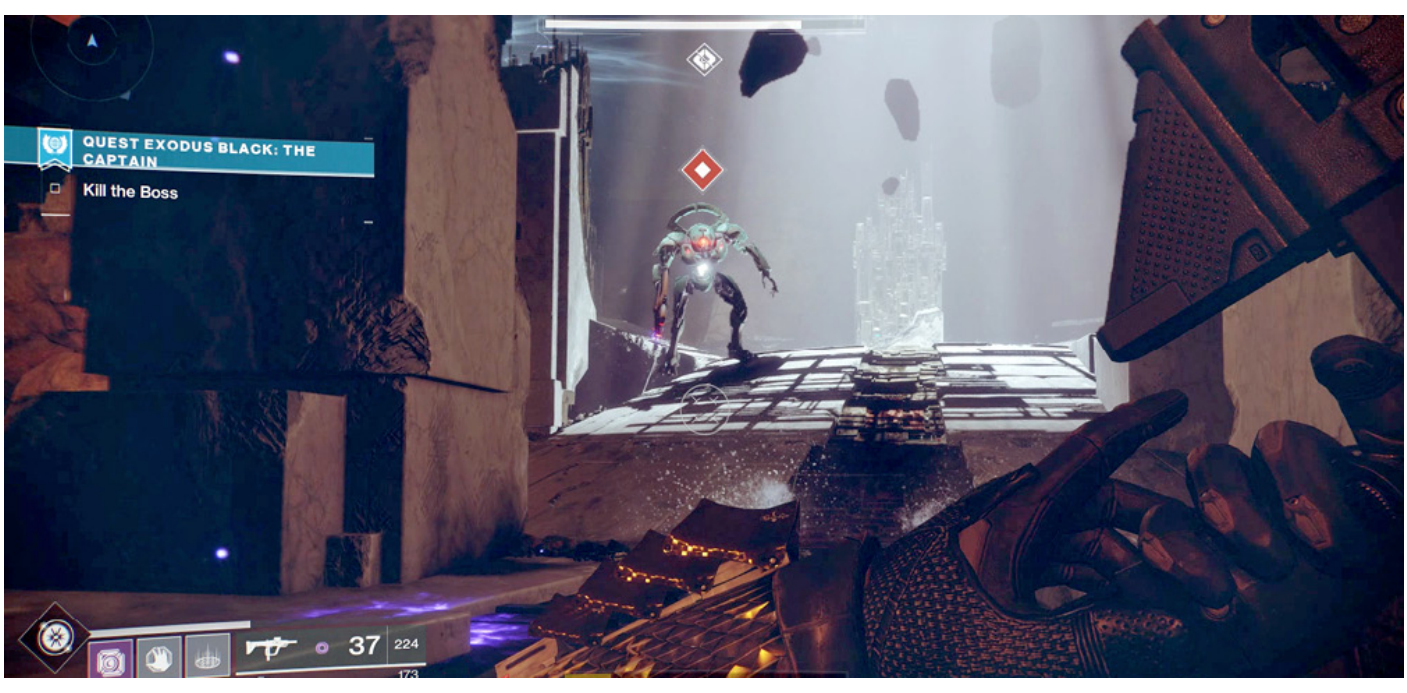
10 Step into the temple, following the strange and friendly Harpy to a Vex conduit. While the Harpy links up, you must guard the door, dropping Goblins and Fanatics before they reach you. This isn’t particularly difficult.

Follow the Harpy as it exits back out onto the promontory and down to a second conduit. As expected, Vex hostiles arrive. Maintain the link by staying close to the conduit and sweeping the area left and right, destroying unfriendly Harpies, Goblins, and Fanatics.

Watch for additional Harpies and Goblins warping in, as well as the return of the Hobgoblin sniper on that upper ledge.

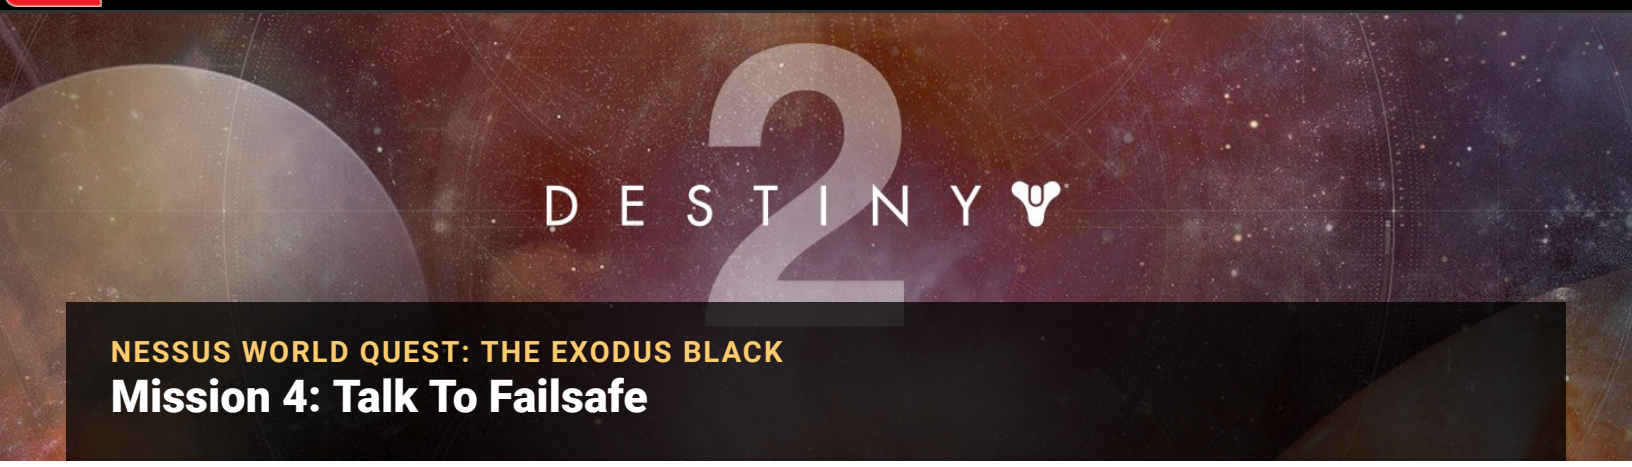
As soon as the link total hits “2,” break off from combat. Follow the friendly Harpy across the temple entrance to the alcove area and a third conduit. While it establishes the link, break out your best Ability defenses, and tackle a Minotaur and Goblins, along with Fanatics advancing on your position. Only move away from the conduit (and break off the link) if you absolutely must.

Then, move to the edge of the promontory where the last conduit appears, and repeat the defensive combat one last time. Vex are warping in. Prepare for a Minotaur, Goblins, and Fanatics. Stay close, as breaking away from the link just lengthens combat.



11 The Harpy jets across the void to a floating boulder. You need to carefully jump and follow him, using the boulders as stepping stones all the way up to an upper promontory and cave courtyard. A Gate Lord about the size of a Minotaur appears, and you must now defeat this Boss foe! Whittle down the Boss’ energy until there are too many Vex in the immediate vicinity to cope with, then move around the perimeter of this roughly circular chamber to the large rock you can hide behind. Kill off the approaching Harpies, Goblins, and Fanatics. Move back to taking out the Boss, shooting it in the glowing lower torso or abdomen area, lobbing in a grenade, and using a Super if necessary.

12 With the Boss quickly removed, you can stay and battle more Vex, but there’s an exit to find. Follow the Harpy up and into a side tunnel that links this Sector to Exodus Black. In a rubble-strewn circular room, you finally find the captain’s corpse. Investigate the corpse, and the mission concludes.



NESSUS WORLD QUEST: THE EXODUS BLACK

Mission 4: Talk To Failsafe

Starting Location

- Exodus Black, Nessus

Recommended Power

- N/A

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step “The Captain.”

Reward

- Encrypted Engram, Cascade Cell, Glimmer, weapons locker content

Description

- Talk to Failsafe.

Loadout Recommendations

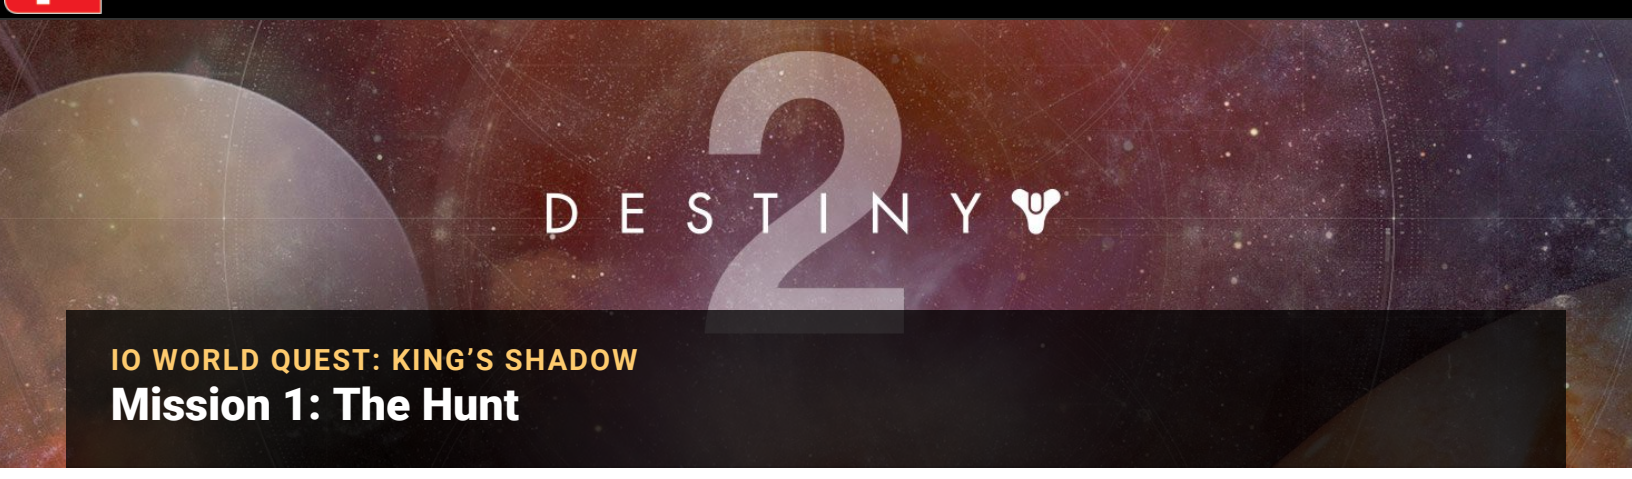
The mission itself requires no combat, but you’re bound to face Fallen and Vex enemies on your way to Failsafe. Equip your preferred weapons.

Go through the tunnel from Sunken Cavern to the exit in the northeast corner of Exodus Black, near the Fallen base. Head back to Failsafe, and speak to her. She’s ecstatic that you found all the pieces of the keyphrase code. The contents of the weapons locker are yours, and this quest concludes.



IO WORLD QUEST: KING'S SHADOW

Mission 1: The Hunt

Starting Location

- Lost Oasis, Io

Recommended Power

- 130+

Prerequisite

- Complete Campaign Mission: Fury.

Reward

- Echo Patterns +1

Description

- Taken activity has increased on Ganymede, with an unusual focus on the Vex. Find out what they're planning to do, and put a stop to it.

Loadout Recommendations

You're destroying Taken pylon domes during the first part of this mission, so a shotgun is almost mandatory in your selection. Pick close-combat weaponry if possible.

1 Locate the flag in Lost Oasis, and begin a hunt for unusual Taken activity in this Sector. There are three locations to scan for and move toward. As you maneuver through Lost Oasis, expect the usual Taken clusters to be active (as shown in the Director chapter).

Then, find a rock plateau to the west, and attack the Taken pylon. A few Vex Goblins are attacking the Taken Phalanxes inside. This is dangerous because the dome of the pylon protects both enemies from your attacks, so close-range assault weapons are necessary to damage them (as well as slick sidestepping and dodging).

Bring out a close-range assault weapon if combat is dragging on, and blast the actual bulb of the pylon so the protective shield dissipates. Seek cover, and remove the dangerous Taken Phalanxes one by one. A Taken Wizard is then summoned (usually with a Solar Shield). Back up, then attack from longer distances now that you don't have to be close by.

A second pylon is active near the initial World Quest starting location (where the flag was). Tackle the upper rock ledge with the smaller rocks to hide behind, and execute the same plan as before. The enemies are the same (Phalanxes fighting Vex Goblins), though the Wizard that is summoned once the pylon is destroyed usually has a Void Shield. Beware the Taken Thralls that it summons. Jet off on your Sparrow to the third location.

The third pylon is on the upper rocks above the huge fallen tree trunk you can move through. As usual, the plan is to defeat the two Taken Phalanxes and then the pylon bulb before it respawns the Taken. Then, engage a Taken Wizard (this one likely has a Void Shield) before mopping up any Vex Goblins.

Respawning Restricted

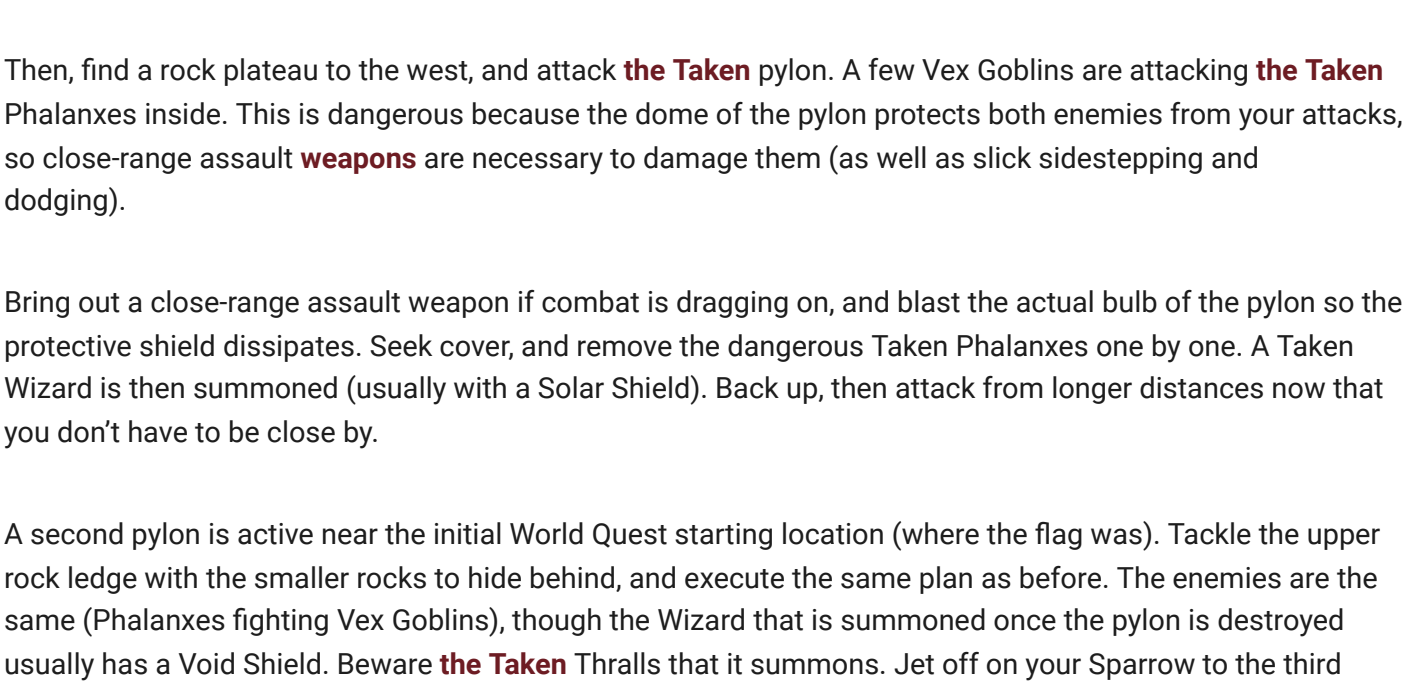
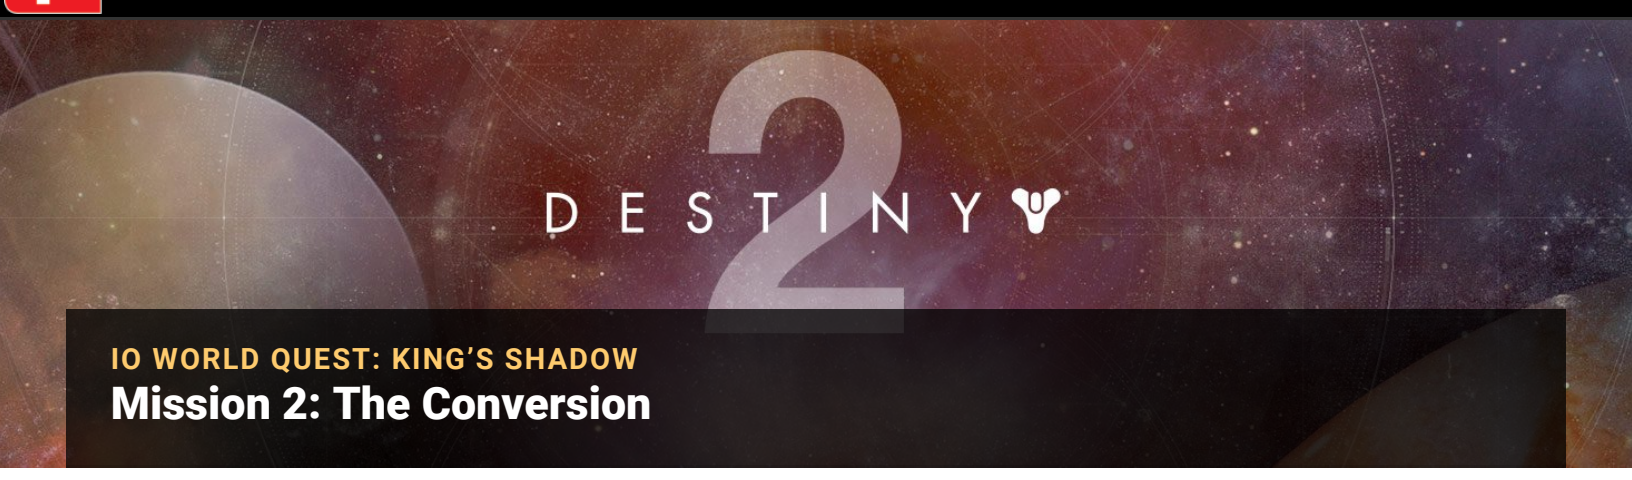
During this quest, Spine Burrows is a designated Restricted Zone.



2 Expect the usual Taken foes (a Phalanx and a couple of Psions or Thralls) on your way into the adjacent Spine Burrows Sector. Enter this enclosed cavern space, and check the clusters of Taken near the entrance. Be warned: an Boss Taken Minotaur is active here and must be stopped!

Combat begins with you ignoring all Vex opponents. These Goblins are frozen in place by the Taken and are currently not a threat. Not so the Taken Phalanxes; defeat the nearest ones, and stalk the Boss Taken Minotaur around this cave. It usually cloaks, so find its glowing eye and shoot it. Don't take down a third of its health yet. Instead, go to each Vex cluster of Goblins and Hobgoblins, and slay them as they stand motionless. If you don't, the Taken transform them into Taken variants as the battle progresses, and you have more threats in this confined space.

Once you've dispatched many frozen Vex, concentrate on the Boss Minotaur, as well as the Taken Acolytes and toughened Psions guarding strange stationary Taken turrets called Acolyte's Eyes. Then, return to taking out the Boss Minotaur; this is a great time for the Super and grenades. With this boss foe slain, the mission concludes.



IO WORLD QUEST: KING'S SHADOW

Mission 2: The Conversion

Starting Location

- Giant's Scar, Io

Recommended Power

- 130+

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step "The Hunt."

Reward

- Echo Patterns +1

Description

- We tracked the Taken teleportation signatures to a location around Giant's Scar. We need to find out why the Taken are so interested in capturing Vex and where they're being held.

Loadout Recommendations

You're blasting Taken in confined spaces, but there are Taken Hobgoblins to worry about periodically. A good mixture of mid- to close-range killing equipment is called for.

3 Move through the Sectors, dealing with the regular entities that inhabit these locations until you reach the mission flag under the Giant's Scar wall control structure. Venture up and into the structure, battling Taken Acolytes and Taken Phalanxes as you enter. Battle additional foes in the ramped area; Vex Goblins are engaged in combat here, so sweep the area and defeat everything.Then, head up the ramp, battle a Taken Centurion and Phalanxes attacking Vex Harpies, and then investigate the area.

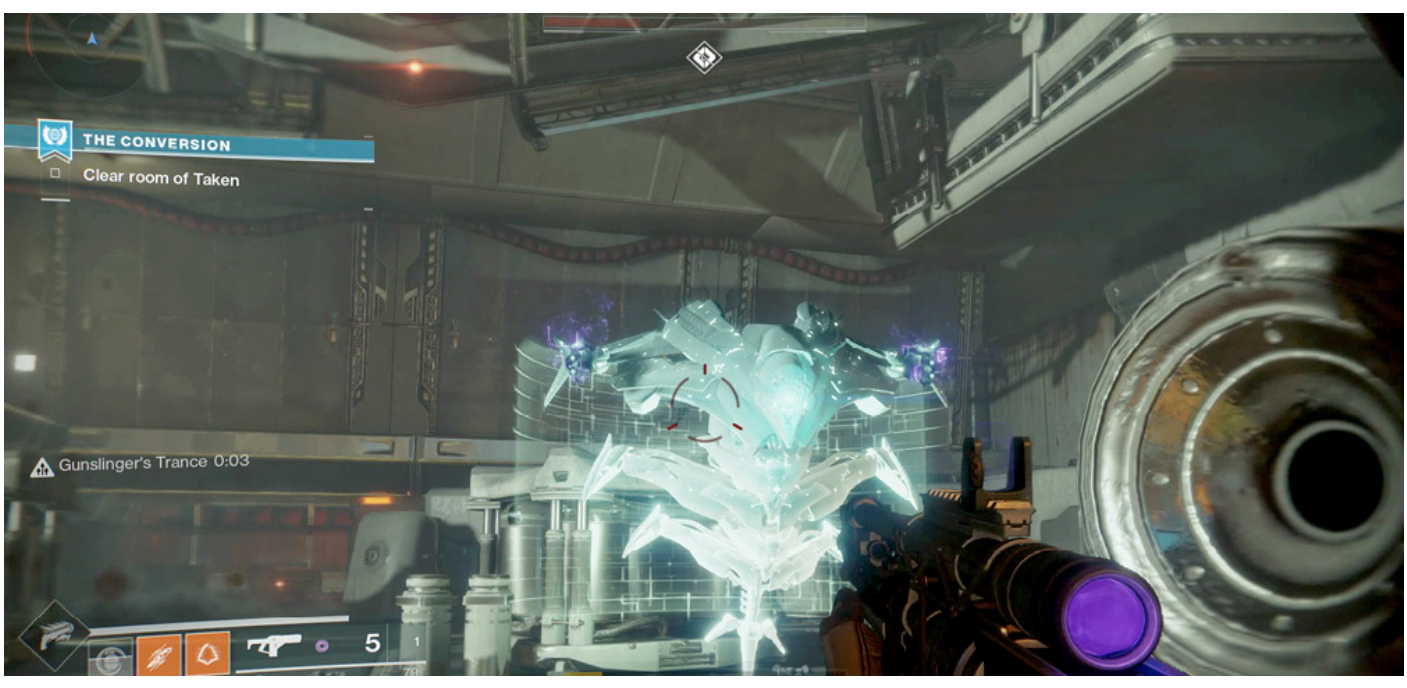
Move into the second part of the storage room, blasting two Taken Knights at range, along with a couple of Taken Acolytes. Leap to the upper corner platform and access the door to an area of this structure normally off-limits. Back up as Taken Thralls charge you. Shoot them, following the distortions into the small cargo area. A Wizard warps away, leaving you time to scan the area. The stain of the Taken teleport gives you a clue to where you must head next.

4 Exit into the drill arena and head up the earth ramp on the west side, dropping three Thralls at the entrance to Excavation Site II. Then, head down to the first cargo bay. Start to clear the room of Taken, though it's wise to remain at the entrance and tag the Vex Goblins and Hobgoblin near the floating rift globe. Turn your attention to the Phalanxes and Knights in the sunken main corridor area. Afterward, there are several motionless Vex, but it's not necessary to slay them.

Instead, shoot the small rift globe blocking your exit, and head up the ramped corridor. Shoot the larger globe in the connecting storage area and the transformed Vex: Goblins and a Hobgoblin, along with some charging Thralls. Then, continue up the ramp.

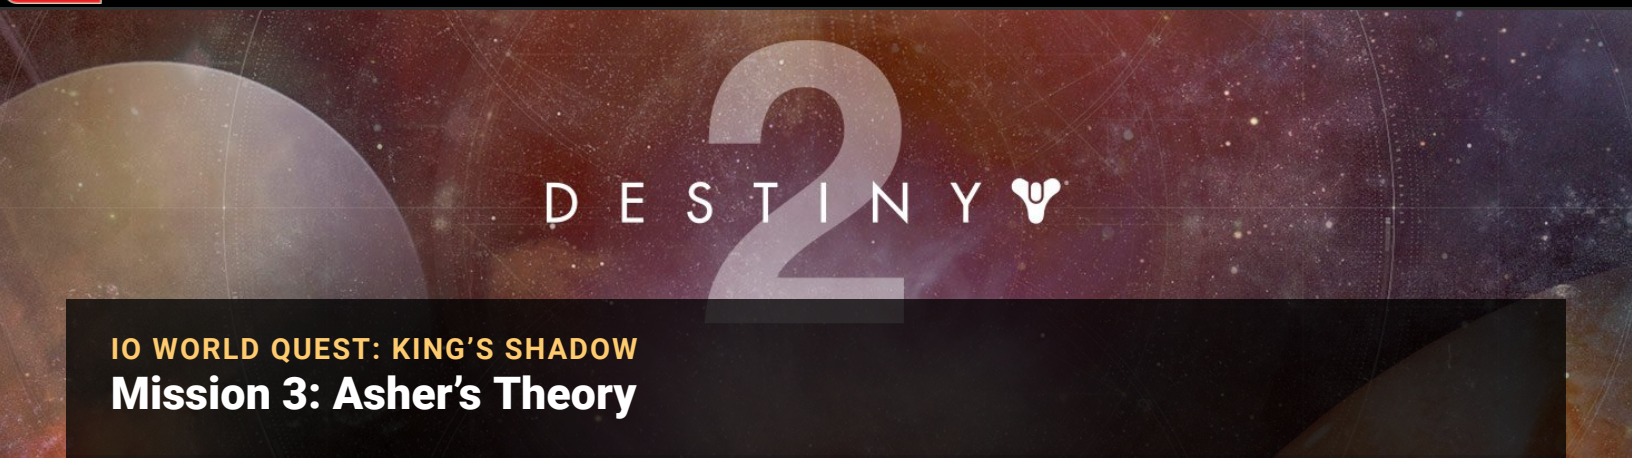
The next chamber has a sizable number of threats: a Wizard, Centurion,

Taken Minotaur, and Hobgoblin, each being kept almost invulnerable by an energy link from a Taken Goblin. Slay the Goblin, then the other foe, and work your way through these hostiles, one duo at a time. Blast the small rift globe blocking your progress before heading up the connecting corridor to the main control room.



5 Here, you must battle a Taken Boss Knight. All should go well if you batter it with your preferred ranged weaponry. However, after a third of its health is lost, some Goblins and a Hydra are converted into Taken and must be stopped. Use the same takedown plans as you would when battling a Vex Hydra, but remove the Goblins first so they can't link to the Hydra. Use cover, and shoot between the rotating Hydra shield. Be patient as more Goblins appear; defeat them first and any Hobgoblins trying to snipe you before turning on the Hydra again.

Perfect this technique; once you rid the room of the Taken Hydra, it appears again (with Goblins and a Hobgoblin). Circle the perimeter of the room so you can get a better shot on your foes, and look for the different rotating shield arrangement around both Hydras. When the second is slain, access the terminal to remove the barrier. Make a controlled drop down to the entrance chamber, and exit back out to the drill site to conclude this mission.



IO WORLD QUEST: KING'S SHADOW

Mission 3: Asher's Theory

Starting Location

- The Rupture, Io

Recommended Power

- 130+

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step "The Conversion."

Reward

- None

Description

- Go talk to Asher. He has a theory on what the Taken Boss Knight is going to do with the newly converted Vex.

Loadout Recommendations

Head back to Asher's camp in The Rupture.

6 Head back to Asher's camp in The Rupture, and speak with him. It seems that the Taken Boss Knight is building an army of newly converted Vex to replenish the ranks after Oryx's defeat. It's probably worth stopping this from continuing.

DESTINY 2

IO WORLD QUEST: KING'S SHADOW

Mission 4: The Army

Starting Location

- The Rupture, Io

Recommended Power

- 130+

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step "Asher's Theory."

Reward

- Echo Patterns +1

Description

- We've detected the Taken Boss Knight around the area. He's likely trying to find a way to teleport his army to other worlds. Stop his ambitions!

Loadout Recommendations

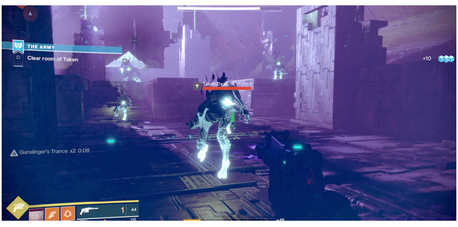
Just as before, bring some up-close and devastating weaponry, as well as some rapid-fire ranged equipment.

7 From Asher Mir, head to the flag atop the Vex architectural protrusion toward the middle of this Sector. Some jumping is required to reach it, but that's nothing compared to the climb to come! Ignore the Vex in the sunken part of the main Pyramidion entrance. Instead, start climbing up the super-structure, jumping up the narrow ledges above and to the north of the sunken area. You're heading in the right direction when you encounter a Taken Hobgoblin on the ledge ahead of you; drop it.

Jump across two floating square-shaped platforms, and continue up the exterior of the Pyramidion structure. Head around and upward, blasting an appearing Taken Phalanx and passing within the outer walls. You're still outside the structure, but you should see a circular Vex portal across a floating stepping stone platform. Deal with the Taken Hobgoblin guarding the portal before leaping across and entering it.



8 You appear inside a purple-hued chamber. Be ready for a lengthy battle as an army of Taken is summoned. Start by dropping the Goblins, then a Hobgoblin (at range), and then Phalanxes. Taken Thralls then appear, then Goblins before they link to a Centurion. Expect additional Thralls, Hobgoblins, and a couple of cloaking Minotaurs to waylay your plans. Staying at the entrance to this chamber is wise; there's plenty of cover and time to react to the Thralls as they charge. Once you've cleared the room, the Boss Knight disappears.

Chest Enough Time to Collect

Note the scannable objects and two Region Chests along the route up the outside of the Pyramidion structure. Check the Director for more information. This is a good time to find them (either now, or after the mission is over).

Respawning Restricted

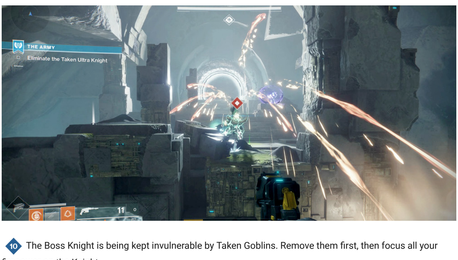
During this quest, The Endless Gate is a designated Restricted Zone.

9 Make a long controlled drop back down to the ground level of The Rupture, then head south to the entrance to The Endless Gate. There's minor Vex resistance before you enter, but the action heats up as you wind through the entrance corridor to a pair of circular chambers. Vex Minotaurs and Goblins are battling Taken Thralls and a Wizard. Feel free to let combat play out, but concentrate on the Thralls and removing the Wizard threat (usually with a Void Shield) when you can.

Enter the main chasm chamber of this Sector. There's time to drop a collection of charging Taken Thralls from distance. As you move slowly forward, snipe at a couple of Taken Goblins. At the start of a block bridge, tackle some Taken Hobgoblins before they snipe you. There's one on either side of the bridge span, along with a Taken Minotaur and Phalanxes on the far side.



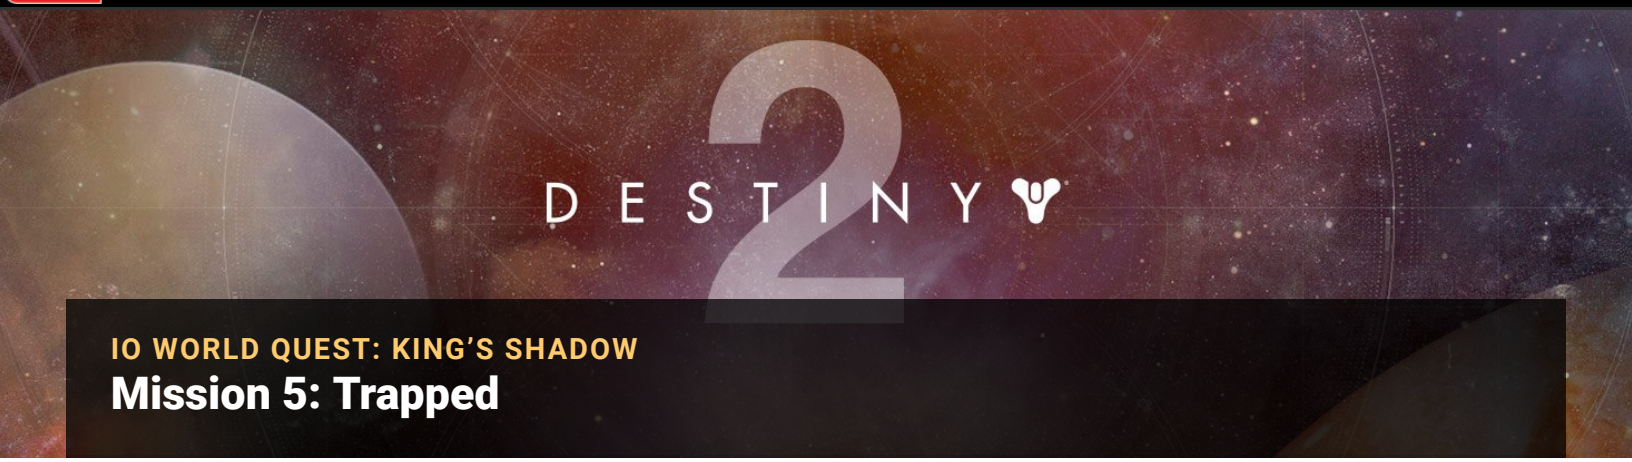
10 The Boss Knight is being kept invulnerable by Taken Goblins. Remove them first, then focus all your firepower on the Knight.

A Super is great to use here, along with grenades and harsh language. The initial assault is good to try at close range, but once you remove the Goblins, jump back over the bridge span. The Knight summons around four Acolyte Eyes to shoot at you, so tag these from range.

Use the lip of the stone steps on the near side of the bridge as cover, then let rip at the Knight. After dispatching the Acolyte Eyes, watch for Hobgoblins that appear. Dodge the fiery Scorch Cannon-like projectiles and Void Energy blasts from the Boss Knight, which are reasonably easy to dodge at this range. The gap in the bridge prevents the Boss Knight and his minions from swarming you.

As you take his health down past two-thirds, he summons a Hobgoblin and a couple of Goblins. Shoot the Goblins first so they don't link to the Knight. Combat continues with periodic intrusions of more Hobgoblins and Goblins, so remain steady with your plan of attack. Lob in grenades whenever you can. If ranged combat isn't working for you, try leaping to the far-left corner near the pulsating warpgate at the end of the bridge. Take out some minions, and then leap back again.

When the Knight is almost dead, it tends to summon a Centurion and a pair of Phalanxes on the near side of the bridge, so prepare for that. When the Boss Knight finally falls, leap across, mopping up any stragglers. Fire at the rift inside the warpgate to end the Taken intrusion once and for all. This mission concludes.



IO WORLD QUEST: KING'S SHADOW

Mission 5: Trapped

Starting Location

- The Rupture, Io

Recommended Power

- 130+

Prerequisite

- Complete World Quest step "The Army."

Reward

- Echo Patterns +1, World Quest reward

Description

- Asher wants to see you; he grumbled something that sounded like "not terrible."

It's a short romp back into The Rupture and to Asher's camp. Speak to him. He grudgingly thanks you, and you receive a token of his gratitude. This quest now concludes.

DESTINY 2

PATROLS
Overview

Patrols are small, self-contained activities that reward you with resources for your weapons and armor. They are less intense than (for example) Adventures or Strikes but are worth completing, if only to discover more of the landscape you are exploring. Patrols have only a few objectives and mostly remain within the Sector where you begin the Patrol.

They are activated at Patrol beacon, which grants you a (random) Patrol from the ones available for the Sector you are in. Note that a particular Sector can have as many as nine of these beacons, but not all of them are active at the same time. Simply complete all the available Patrols in a specific Sector before leaving that Sector. Upon your return, additional Patrol beacons may be active. Then, you can continue to complete them, though the random nature of how Patrols are activated means you don't need to visit every single Patrol beacon.

Patrols become available once you have completed all Campaign activities on Io. Rendezvous with Cayde at the Farm and complete a small tutorial adventure that teaches you how Patrols function. They are then unlocked at all destinations in all Worlds. Expect to be rewarded with an appearing Combatant Chest, experience, Reputation, and better knowledge of the world around you (including the location of chests that randomly appear during your exploration).

All Patrol Beacons Revealed!

The Director chapter of this guide pinpoints the location of every Patrol beacon in a Sector. Note that not all Sectors have Patrol beacons, and not all beacons are active at any one time. But viewing these beacons on the guide maps allows you to learn where expected beacon locations are.

Patrol Mission Types

There are five Patrol mission types available, though some Sectors may not have access to every type of Patrol, even after all Patrol beacons are located. Each specific Patrol has a task for you to complete, and that task is reasonably similar whether you're attempting it on Io or Titan. The following information showcases all mission types, with overview strategies for each one.

ASSASSINATION MISSION

You must track and defeat a specific enemy located in (usually) an adjacent Sector, along with his or her immediate bodyguards or other threats. This is usually a Sub-Boss, and the task requires Sparrow travel. Expect the threat level of this enemy to be reasonable, though there are occasional hostiles that require more tactical planning (such as Taken foes) if you are at lower levels.

Example: You must travel from Outskirts to Sojourner's Camp and destroy a named Fallen Captain and his two Shank bodyguards.

Expect the enemy you're assassinating to be a Sub-Boss of the dominant Combatant in this Sector, though this is not always the case. This is also the most dangerous of the Patrols, as some assassination targets and their bodyguards can be formidable. Bring in help if you need it.

COLLECTION MISSION

A specific enemy type (one that is "indigenous" to the Sector you are in) drops a particular type of item, as indicated by this Patrol icon. Simply hunt down these enemies, defeat them, and claim the item. You have a randomly determined number of items to collect from a randomly determined enemy or enemies.

Example: You must hunt down nine Dregs and claim an item from each one.

Expect around three different variations of this Collection Mission for each Sector. Sometimes, this Patrol can take time because the enemy type may be rarely encountered in the Sector.

Need to know where a specific enemy type is located in each Sector? Consult the Director chapter map; the enemy clusters text details the expected foes. Example: You must hunt down nine Dregs and claim an item from each one.

Expect around three different variations of this Collection Mission for each Sector. Sometimes, this Patrol can take time because the enemy type may be rarely encountered in the Sector.

Need to know where a specific enemy type is located in each Sector? Consult the Director chapter map; the enemy clusters text details the expected foes.

KILL MISSION

This is perhaps the most straightforward of all the Patrol types[md]simply kill foes in your immediate vicinity (moving to other clusters within the Sector) until the kill progress reaches 100%.

Example: You begin culling Fallen in Outskirts until the mission concludes.

Need to know where clusters of enemies are located in each Sector? Consult the Director chapter of this guide for maps.

SCAN MISSION

This requires you to head to an adjacent Sector, usually by Sparrow, and locate an area of the environment (indicated by the on-screen waypoint diamond). Once you're there, remove any threats, and scan the environment with Ghost. Once the scan is complete (which takes only a second or so), the mission is over.

Example: You head from Outskirts to Sojourner's Camp to scan the small camp where the Fallen are.

SURVEY MISSION

This involves you maneuvering (ideally on a Sparrow) to a usually adjacent Sector and completing a small survey at a pinpointed location. There may be enemies in or close to the location, which is always shown on your in-game map. Simply stand within the area close to the location until the percentage fills up to 100%. Very occasionally, you may be tasked with heading to a Sector that isn't adjacent to the one you started this Patrol type in.

Example: You begin in Outskirts and must travel to Trostland to survey an area. There are alternate Sectors you may be instructed to travel to, as well (so the survey area might have been in The Sludge in this example instead of Trostland).

You should assume that there are variations of this Patrol type, depending on how many adjacent Sectors there are. Usually, the Sector you are surveying at is large enough to have its own Patrols.

PATROL LOOT CACHES

Once you've successfully completed a Patrol, a Loot Cache (AKA Combatant Chest) appears in the Sector you started the Patrol in. It is flagged with the icon shown near to this paragraph. Simply head to the chest and open it for your reward.

Patrol Availability Chart

The following chart lists all of the Sectors across the four Worlds where Patrol beacons are active. In each location, expect to begin Collection (multiple variations), Kill, Scan, and Survey (multiple variations) Patrol missions.

Patrol Availability

| World | Name Of Sector | Total Sectors With Patrols | Total Patrols* |
|---|---|---|---|
| EDZ | Outskirts, Trostland, The Sludge, The Gulfch, Winding Cove, Firebase Hades, Sunken Isles | 7 | 35 |
| Titan | Siren's Watch, The Rig | 2 | 10 |
| Nessus | Artifact's Edge, The Tangle, Watcher's Grave, The Cistern, Hallows, Glade of Echoes, Exodus Black | 7 | 35 |
| Io | Lost Oasis, Giant's Scar, The Rupture | 3 | 15 |

Total Sectors with Patrols: 19

Total Patrols: 95

(*Total Patrols indicates the number of different types of Patrols available in all Sectors of a World. Note that there are additional variations for certain Patrol types that increase this number.)

Overview

Public Events are enemy incursions that all Guardians within a public space Sector can join in to thwart. There is either zero or one Public Event active in your Sector at any one time. Public Events become available from the very first moment you're able to explore the European Dead Zone, once you complete Campaign Mission: Spark and you have access to this word. They appear randomly. There are two types of Public Events: "Full" (sometimes known as "Heroic") and "Secret" (sometimes known as "Hidden").

Public Events

These are easily found when available. Your HUD will receive a countdown timer to the Public Event when in the same Sector as the event along with a waypoint merker on your map. You may sometimes also launch a Public Event from a flag located at one of two possible main locations within the Sector. If your Sector does not have a Public Event that is active, check your in-game map, which also shows Public Events that are expected in other Sectors on the World where you are located. Full Public Events are always timer-based and require you to work together with other Guardians to stop an enemy invasion. Rewards are usually Loot Caches and Glimmer.

Heroic Completion

Public Events can be completed in either normal mode or heroice mode. Finish a Public Event, and depending on your actions, you can receive a good, better, or best rating. These are explained later in this chapter. Finish a Public Event perfectly, which requires a special set of circumstances explained in this chapter, and expect to receive additional rewards. This is known as completing the "Heroic" requirement of the event.

Secret Events

The second type of Public Event is almost completely hidden from view and usually chanced upon. There is no grand announcement; there's just a brief text message in the lower-left area of your screen giving you a clue that a certain Secret Event is active, and this doesn't happen all the time. These Public Events are much smaller in scale and have a variety of rewards ranging from engrams from a foe you defeat to a Boss Chest.

Secret Events do not have a "Heroic" or ranked way to complete them; you either finish this type of event, or you don't.

Director: All Public Events Revealed

Good news! The Director chapter of this guide pinpoints the locations of every Public Event (usually between one and three) and every Secret Public Event (usually between one and seven) available in a Sector. Simply read up on how to complete each Public Event type (in this chapter) and check the chart at the end of this chapter for the locations of each Public Event type. Then, consult the Director map of that Sector to show you where the event actually starts. Of course, the events are randomly started, so you may need to wait around or wait for Bungie to trigger them at certain times of day or during a week.

It Takes a Village

Public Events give rewards appropriate for players' progress, with the greatest rewards from Heroic Completion. The Public Events require completion within a certain amount of time, and it's pretty challenging to complete these objectives on your own, so join in with other Guardians as often as you can. Bring in newer Guardians who are affiliated with your clan and share both the wealth and the victories against the enemy.

DESTINY 2

Public Events

Full Public Event Types (Eight Types, 24 Total)

This section details the eight different types of Public Events, which Sections have access to the event type, and how to best complete it and achieve a heroic rating for each of them.

Cabal Excavation

"Taking a drill from the Red Legion"

Overview: A Cabal ship appears and drops on a drilling rig. Several improvised armed teams firing down mouths guard it, with Cabal troops to back up the drill itself. Capture the drill from the Cabal.

Locations:

EDZ: Winding Cove

Tiltan: None

Nessus: AuTech's Edge

Io: Last Oasis, The Rupture

Total: 4

Summary: Once the drilling rig lands, you are directed to stand in the circular capture footprint around the drill. Defend the drill from the Cabal forces that are attempting to destroy it. Kill the Cabal that are standing around the drill. Wait for the engaging laser before the mortal drops to avoid those attacks.

Cabal troop reinforcements, including the expected Legionaries, Incendiators, Phalanxes, and Psions, appear to thwart you. You must remain within the capture circle for all of your, or you must stay within the drill footprint. Fully capture the drill before the time runs out.

Heroic Objective: Heroic ups ups in the personnel encountered. When the drill has been 50 percent captured, a Cabal Minelayer ship flies around the area of the drill and shoots at you. It periodically flies off and then returns.

Tips:

Destroying the Minelayer triggers the Heroic objective, and a Boss Centurion appears, dropping in from a yard. You must defeat the Centurion to grant Guardians Heroic tier rewards.

Glimmer Extraction

"Defeat the extraction crews"

Overview: Those with previous Destiny experience may remember a similar event to this. A small mining drill appears, and Cabal forces are defending it from Guardian interference. You're here to stop the them happening at a key moment, and so the Fallen appear during the event.

Locations:

EDZ: Trostland, The Sludge, The Gulch, Professor Hadley

Tiltan: None

Nessus: The Tangle (2), The Crimson, Shade of Echoes

Io: None

Total: 6

Summary: A group of Fallen spawn with a drill, and the foes seem to be extracting Glimmer from the ground. Defeat the Fallen and the drill. Destroy Damage that continues to the Cabal and Fallen forces. Find and eliminate Cabal or the Fallen spawns.

The drill has a transmitter that causes it to disappear and reappear in a new location within the Section (drill moves between encounters). Kill the drill. Each time it moves, it can have 1 to 3 (usually 2) copies of the drill that become progressively harder.

Heroic Objective: During each wave, a small Glimmer refinery spawns near the drill. Kill up to three refineries at the third wave. Destroying the refinery at any location prevents that refinery from appearing at the next encounter.

Heroic objective commences when you've destroyed a total of three refineries. The drill explodes, dropping its precious cargo of Glimmer once the time runs out.

Tips:

Guardians must stand in a capture ring as the Glimmer is transmat it while defending against waves of reinforcements, including a Boss Captain. Kill the captains Fallen to stop the transmat progress.

Completing the Glimmer transmat before the time runs out grants you Heroic tier rewards.

Injection Rig

"An undeniable display of Red Legion military force"

Overview: The Cabal command is about to deploy a mobile outpost into the Sector for an information gathering mission. Your job is to destroy the rig before it can deploy, as a prelim opportunity to assault and destroy the valued Cabal asset and help hurt back their invasion.

Locations:

EDZ: The Gulch, Sunken Isles

Tiltan: None

Nessus: The Crimson

Io: None

Total: 2

Summary: A Cabal ship appears in the sky and drops in a mobile Cabal injection rig base with a Spindred Phalanx, Psion and some reinforcements. Kill the enhanced Phalanx and Psion.

Once the rig lands, the spire activates a defensive purge and creates a force field around the rig. Guardians must destroy the rig's defensive purge by dealing Damage that continues to the Cabal and Fallen forces, and also put the remaining crewmates out of the fight.

Once the purge is completed, another Psion spawns, and this foe requires you to kill them. Then, a second purge is completed, and another Psion spawns for you. Now, you have a total of three defensive Psion to defeat and three purges to avoid.

The event doesn't end there, however. After you've defeated the Psion, a Heavy Cabal Centurion arrives the dropship.

Finally, there are additional Cabal forces (Legionaries, Incendiers, and some Nightwing Gladiators) that also attempt to stop you. These are reinforcements that you may not be required to defeat them before you can advance enough to the Heroic and Centurion.

If you have triggered the Heroic objective, following the Centurion causes the spire to explode to a rather spectacular fashion, otherwise the structure just sits.

Heroic Objective: Once the event begins, and during each of the purge phases, red hot hard cores open on the rig structure. Be sure to shoot those open cores to inflict damage. There wrists are in turn along the structure, at the top, middle, and bottom. You must destroy each for the event core opens (the order is irrelevant, though).

When touring at the cores, there are three rigs 'arm arms' that open, and three middle 'arm' cores that open. Destroy the cores to inflict damage to the rig and to prevent the Cabal from being able to deploy the purges. When the bottom two cores are accessible, only one opens, so that's good.

If you destroy all three lines of cores before the end of the third and last purge and defeat all three Psions, two Cabal Interceptors appear along with the Valus Centurion.

Now, defeat the Centurion to receive the Heroic reward. The Interceptors are not necessary to destroy, but they are a visual representation that the Heroic reward is still available.

Servitor Resupply

"Destroy the Eliminator Servitor clone"

Overview: A Servitor leads a Fallen incursion into hostile territory. They are supporting Fallen in the area with Other, but Guardians have one surefire way to halt their plans: destroying the Servitor Boss before it escapes.

Locations:

EDZ: Trostland, Professor Hadley

Tiltan: None

Nessus: Watcher's Grave, Exodus Black

Io: None

Total: 4

Summary: A Fallen Servitor flies over, and a skiff arrives and spawns a Boss Servitor. This foe periodically delivers a Guardian Fireteam-wiped attack and teleports back to a safe location to heal its health.

If the foe, says, expect to survive an unsmoothed by your teammates from being selected again for a period of time.

As it's health thresholds, the Boss Servitor draws power from a spawned Elite Servitor, who if it keeps shielded from attacks. You must stop this smaller Servitor as a priority to remove the Boss Servitor's shields.

When the Boss Servitor is reduced to 30 percent health, expect three Elite Servitors to appear and rather Guardians to defeat. Then, the Boss Servitor becomes enraged and receives and becomes super-charged and more dangerous and if the foes remain around 30 seconds later.

Expect additional Fallen (or other Combatants) here or around this event. Unless they are relevant to the Boss Servitor, they are not priority targets.

Heroic Objective: If the three Elite Servitors are killed before they disappear (during the middle of the event), a Servitor Boss Servitor becomes enhanced again, restore Shields and health.

Tips:

The Servitor's three weapons all Guardians engaged in the event fight in the sky above the event location. Use your jump abilities so you survive the fall.

Destroying shield protectors continue or a system. Defeating the Boss Servitor is necessary while it is supercharged, so do believe the time is up, and you receive the Heroic reward.

Spire Integration

"Prevention of 'six sacrifices to bay to success'"

Overview: Those with previous Destiny experience may remember a similar event to this. A beginning of this chose to an approaching the sacrifices is becoming an increasing problem. Prevent the the from sacrificing themselves at the sacrifice.

Locations:

EDZ: None

Tiltan: None

Nessus: The Tangle, Watcher's Grave, Hollows, Shade of Echoes, Exodus Black

Io: Giant's Scar

Total: 6

Summary: Look for a the crucible materializing, with around three hotpoints guarding it. Shooting one of these hotpoints or moving close to the crucible or floating cause take the object begins the event. Use enemies and their reinforcements to prevent the crucible and the enemies moved to sacrifice themselves, eventually.

Keep the crucible taken the conflict is fully charged (too many sacrifices have been made. Guardians have failed to stop the from sacrificing and merging with the crucible) or when the time runs out.

The plan is a simple one: eliminate the before they reach the crucible.

Heroic Objective: Though you may be concentrating on the conflict, look for three capture pylons materializing around the event.

They periodically phase out and reappear throughout the event. Standing on any of these capture pylons continuously progress toward a heroic activation.

Multiple Guardians capturing a pylon at once increases the speed of progress. Use Fireteam target those Guardians standing on the pylons, and they periodically and explode near you.

Look for the beacons, a spire beam and lights up as more progress is made. When completed, the beacon activates and sinks into the ground. When the beacon has been activated, the Heroic objective is triggered.

Guardians now must contend with increasingly difficult enemy waves, including the Cyclops and a Boss Minotaur.

At the end of the event, if fewer than three sacrifices have been remaining when the Heroic objective was completed, you receive Heroic rewards. Destroy the event with at least one sacrifice remaining grants Guardians the Heroic tier rewards.

Taken Blight

"Kill infected Taken to damage the Blight"

Overview: A mysterious dark presence appears in this Sector, attempting to infect the land itself with Taken energy. Stop by destroying the infected Taken via Guardian beacons before the larger Unstoppable Blight.

Locations:

EDZ: The Sludge

Tiltan: None

Nessus: None

Io: Last Oasis, Giant's Scar

Total: 2

Summary: An infected Taken Blight is gotten of striking off-enough appears and crackles its dark power into the ground to spawn a shielded Taken psion (a stone-shaped rift with a central black bulb) and a bunch of Taken Blights. Kill the Taken Blights and the psion to damage the Blight and defend in an enemies "wave" versus that are strong enough to the Blight.

If a Taken rift on-wave to infect the infection energy returns to the Blight, causing it damage. When enough infected Taken are killed, the Blight leaves and reappears in a new location, beginning another wave. It is also possible to enter the pylon, aim for the central bulb, and destroy it in this manner.

There are three waves, each lasting around 90 seconds, with a slight increase in how far each of the two Guardians must travel to find the next Blight. Destroy the Blight with at least one Taken rift with the second and third waves beginning once the bulb, destroy is shown in percentage terms.

Heroic Objective: Note that for each wave, additional pylons will appear. One spawns in the first wave, two spawn in the second wave, and three spawn in the third wave. Your objective is to destroy these pylons within 30 seconds. Complete this, and the Blight is destroyed and spawns a Boss Taken. Defeat the Boss, and the Heroic reward is earned.

Weapons Exchange

"Destroy the Fallen Wolves"

Overview: Those with previous Destiny experience may remember a similar event to this. The Fallen are caching their most powerful weapons in strategic locations to prepare for future assault. Loot by a bunch of Fallen Wolves, and destroy the Fallen Wolves before they can escape with the weapons. Capture the Fallen Wolf. You take a chance to interrupt the process and steal some of their weapons. The Fallen will drop a Spike Tank if you attack to defend their caches. Take down that tank!

Locations:

EDZ: Cavalos (2), Sunken Isles

Tiltan: Green Watch, The Pig

Nessus: None

Io: None

Total: 3

Summary: The Fallen are caching their most powerful weapons in strategic locations to prepare for future assault. One of Guardians defeat the Fallen Captain, an Enraged Walker drops in to defend them. You must stop the Enraged Walker before the time runs out.

If you see one Guardians protecting the Walker's legs, the tank will kneel, exposing its vulnerable engine. Watch out for deadly cannon and shock grenades!

Heroic Objective: Three weapon caches surround the Guard Walker, each with two generators that you can access using the Charge Stun before a large group is shot down. Capture both vital pylons and subsequently stop both Wizards, and a Boss Wizard appears from the main portal in the chamber.

Tips:

Destroy one crystal at a time, as shattering another of the crystals gives you additional time to destroy the second crystal. Note that the amount of time left is represented as glowing runes on the portal columns.

With the second crystal destroyed, a heroic objective is awarded: a Goblinoids Boss Knight appears from the portal, and defeating this foe grants you the Heroic tier rewards.

Witches Ritual

"Disrupt the Hive Wizards' dark chant"

Overview: A secretive covened Hive nest in the central interior chamber of the The Arcology platform rig is the setting for an inhuman chant whose Hive wizards. Wizard Walker appears, signaling the Heroic objective. You must interrupt the chant and destroy both of these spider tanks.

Defeat them both to receive your Heroic tier rewards.

Locations:

EDZ: None

Tiltan: The Rig

Nessus: None

Io: None

Total: 1

Summary: Two inhabited Hive Wizards are performing a ritual to attempt to open a Hive portal. Guardians must destroy the Hive spell tokens around the Hive chamber to disrupt them. Kill the Hive Wizards. Eliminate Hive Knights are defending the formidable Hive Wizard in each door. Capture both vital pylons and subsequently stop both Wizards, and a Boss Wizard appears from the main portal in the chamber.

Heroic Objective: The glowing becomes available in the time after the two shielded Wizards are killed, but before the Boss Wizard appears. Look for the shielded Hive crystals that appear on the portal columns.

You need to recapture the spell tokens to remove the shields of these crystals.

Destroy one crystal at a time, as shattering another of the crystals gives you additional time to destroy the second crystal. Note that the amount of time left is represented as glowing runes on the portal columns.

With the second crystal destroyed, a heroic objective is awarded: a Goblinoids Boss Knight appears from the portal, and defeating this foe grants you the Heroic tier rewards.

PUBLIC EVENTS
Secret Public Event Types (10 Types, 93 Total)

This section details the 10 different Secret Public Events, which Seckers have access to the event type, and how to complete each one.

Ambush

"Face foes and look out"

Locations:

EDZ: Sunken Isles

Titan: None

Nessus: Artifact's Edge, Exodus Black

Io: None

Total: 3

Summary: An enemy appears at a specific point in the Sector, and engaging the foe and its brethren escalates into an ambush. After you defeat the initial combatants, a wave of melee combatants from a particular Combatant rushes in. After these are defeated, a final wave (including a Elite) appears. Slay the Elite, and it drops a Loot Cache.

Scavengers

"The Fallen lead an incursion into enemy territory"

Locations:

EDZ: None

Titan: The Rig (2)

Nessus: None

Io: None

Total: 2

Summary: Fallen scavengers are looting an area inside a Sector belonging to the Hive. If Guardians can defeat the Fallen leaders before they leave with the loot, you gain access to a Loot Cache.

Refinery

"Disrupt the Fallen's covert drilling operation"

Locations:

EDZ: Sunken Isles

Titan: None

Nessus: None

Io: None

Total: 2

Summary: This is similar to the Glimmer Extraction Public Event, but at a much smaller scale. Fallen are loading a Glimmer drilling operation while their skiff hovers overhead. Engage, and expect enemy waves and Combatant reinforcements. Slay the Elite, and it drops a Loot Cache. Defeat the skiff, and it drops a Loot Cache. Destroy the Glimmer otherwise on the ground near the foes before the third wave, and the final wave spawns a Heavy Shank instead.

High-Value Target

"A High-Value Target is wandering this area"

Locations:

EDZ: Trostland (2), The Sludge (2), Winding Cove, The Gulch (2), Sunken Isles (3)

Titan: Green's Watch (2), The Rig

Nessus: Watcher's Grave (2), The Cistern (2), Hallows (2), Glade of Echoes (2), Exodus Black

Io: Lost Oasis (2), The Rupture (2), Giant's Scar (2)

Total: 29

Summary: Those with previous Destiny experience may remember a similar event to this. A high-tier Elite enemy appears (either from a dropship or by teleporting in) and patrols in the various locations shown in the guide's Director maps for a Sector that runs this event. If you can defeat the Elite before it disappears, a Loot Cache appears at the target's location.

Tactician

"An enemy commander hides behind its horde of underlings"

Locations:

EDZ: Trostland (2), The Sludge

Titan: Green's Watch

Nessus: None

Io: The Rupture

Total: 5

Summary: As elite combatant and a squad of cannon fodder appear at a hidden location. The crowd of lesser foes shields the commander, continuously respawning unless you focus and slay the Elite. Kill the commander before he disappears (in about five minutes), and a Loot Cache appears in his hiding place. Note that these enemies are shown throughout the Director. To differentiate them, note that they only have one spawn location on the guide map.

Interceptor Patrol

"An Interceptor is patrolling the area"

Locations:

EDZ: The Gulch, Firebase Hades, Sunken Isles

Titan: None

Nessus: None

Io: None

Total: 3

Summary: A Psion piloting a Cabal Interceptor appears and roams the Sector until they are shot off the vehicle or the Interceptor is destroyed. The event ends when the Psion pilot is killed or when the time runs out (four minutes). Aim for the Psion as you can use the Interceptor afterward without it becoming damaged during the fight. It has offensive capabilities unlike the Spanner.

Pike Gang

"A roving band of Pikes is headed this way"

Locations:

EDZ: Dubshiris, The Sludge, Winding Cove (2), The Gulch, Firebase Hades, Sunken Isles

Titan: None

Nessus: The Cistern (2), Glade of Echoes, Exodus Black

Io: None

Total: 11

Summary: Those with previous Destiny experience may remember a similar event to this. Three Pikes with Dreg pilots appear and roam around a Sector until they are shot off the Pike or the Pike is destroyed. The event ends when all the Pike Dregs are killed or when the time runs out (four minutes). Shoot the Dregs to preserve the Pikes, and then ride the Pikes afterward, as they have offensive capabilities unlike the Spanner.

Skirmish

"The enemy is moving against each other"

Locations:

EDZ: Dubshiris (2), Trostland (2), The Sludge, The Gulch, Firebase Hades (2), Sunken Isles

Titan: Green's Watch, The Rig (2)

Nessus: The Tangle (2), Watcher's Grave, Hallows, Glade of Echoes (2), Exodus Black (2)

Io: Lost Oasis (2), Giant's Scar (2)

Total: 26

Summary: Those with previous Destiny experience may remember a similar event to this. Two enemy Combatants continuously appear and battle each other within a specific area of a Sector. As the event progresses, higher-tier combatants begin to appear. The event ends when the time runs out (five minutes). Stay out and to watch or get involved in the Skirmish, though the rewards are simply loot dropped by foes.

Launchers

"Launch through the sky to pursue a series of powerful Vex enemies"

Locations:

EDZ: None

Titan: None

Nessus: The Tangle, The Cistern

Io: Lost Oasis

Total: 3

Summary: A duo of Vex Hobgoblins appears at a circular Vex cannon in the Sector. Defeat them, and jump into the cannon to be launched to the next cannon in the series. Defeat the Hobgoblins at each cannon in the proper yourself to a third location. Fight two more Hobgoblins, and then propel yourself back to the initial location. A Storm Minotaur (with possible other foes) is now at this location. Defeat it, then dispatch the Minotaurs at the second and third cannon spots. Once you've completed two "circuits" of cannon jumping and slain the third and final Minotaur, it drops a Loot Cache.

Jailbreak

"Eliminate the prisoner of the Vex"

Locations:

EDZ: None

Titan: None

Nessus: Artifact's Edge, Watcher's Grave (2), Glade of Echoes (2)

Io: The Rupture, Giant's Scar (2)

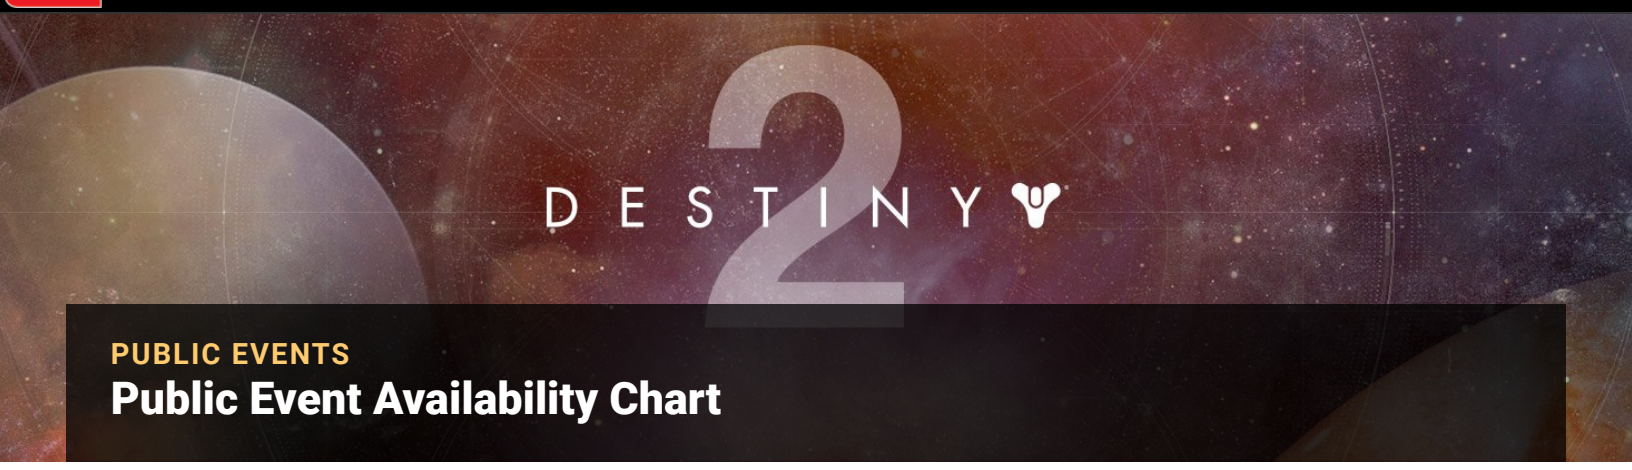
Total: 9

Summary: The Vex have imprisoned a powerful enemy, and a Vex warden (a toughened Minotaur) is guarding it. Slay the warden, and the prison shield is dropped, releasing the prisoner. If attacks you, then flees. If you can defeat the prisoner before it escapes the Sector, you are rewarded with a Loot Cache. Otherwise, the event concludes after a few minutes or when the prisoner escapes.



PUBLIC EVENTS

Public Event Availability Chart

The following chart lists all of the Sectors across the four Worlds where Public Events and Secret Events are available. You are encouraged to find the precise location of each Public Event by studying the Director chapter maps for the specific Sector you are interested in.

Challenges are extremely quick tasks you can undertake as part of Flashpoint or Milestone content. They are designed as something additional for you to complete, especially if you don't have the time to finish a mission or a longer event. These occur in Public Sectors across all four Worlds, as well as within the Crucible. These activities are reset randomly.. Up to five Challenges are usually active at once, and completion of a Challenge occurs even if you didn't realize you finished it!

The remainder of this chapter gives you a list of possible Challenges. Note that only one of the possible locations or tasks occurs per set of Challenges.

Challenge Accepted!

Need to know where a particular enemy is? Want the locations of the Lost Sectors? Then consult the Directory chapter, which was designed to help you complete Challenges.

EDZ Social Sector Challenges

1. Area Infiltration: Loot one of the following Lost Sectors in:

CHAPTER
Introduction And Overview

Entering the mostly persistent online world is both thrilling and time-consuming, so it's worth having a complete run-down of what to expect to find in every World, Region, Series, and Area you can access. This section will help you get your bearings in the Destiny universe, and point you in the direction of the things you can undertake as you progress.

The Director Menu

As you progress through your mainstream and the Campaign missions, you begin to access a number of Destinations, and it's here that the map comes into play. Each of the Destinations you can travel to has its own Director menu, which is accessed by pressing the Left Stick on the Destination you want to travel to. Shown below:

- Earth: European Dead Zone: The initial region to explore, once you've completed the first few Campaign missions. Here you'll find the Tower, the social hub where you can meet other players, and the location of the first Strikes of the game. The social hub known as The Tower is also located in this location.
- Titan: Pacific Ocean: The next region to explore, once you've completed the opening few Campaign missions. A rainswept area with plenty of enemies to kill and battle.
- Mercury: Arcadian Valley: A mysterious world with an irregular orbit, this becomes available to explore during the Campaign after Titan. It contains the first of the Series for Crucible play.
- Io: Echo Mesa: The moon of Jupiter is the next region to open up after Mercury, during the later stages of the Campaign. A mysterious world of darkness and ruins.
- The Tower: Once the Campaign is over, humanity gets the Vanguard Sagira to rebuild, and the Tower becomes the epicenter of activities in the game.
- Strikes: The six-member Strikes put the core Levels Playlist together, and are the first Destinations you'll encounter in the game.
- Crucible: This is where you prove your worth to Lord Shaxx and attempt Player versus Player matches in the core changes of the game as dictated by the game mode.
- The Almighty: A universal Clash event attempting to destroy the entire system. This is part of the Campaign and not subsequently visited.

How To Use This Atlas

Each of the four main worlds (EARTH, MERCURY, IO and TITAN) is covered in this Atlas, and the guides allow to different. Content is listed in the expected order you are likely to encounter it, so it's best to follow each section in turn. Each section begins with a brief overview of the area, and then lists the Strikes, Patrol Zones, exploration, search & kill synopses, social statistical data, an icon-driven map, and additional breakdown information.

SECTION HEADACHES?

Each section has a "Headache Trail" to understand what's additional/optionally-to-known as a "Section". The Trail is split into small chunks to avoid chaos. There are many types of Section:

Social: These are self-contained locations (that can only be accessed from Earth) without any Areas, and consist of The Tower and any other locations you can travel to (known as Hubs). Explore it well, and collect the Vendor Tokens and Bounties you can find here.

Public: These are large-scale locations, where hundreds of the recorded Guardians gather. Examples are Leaving Dead Space, and the Cosmodrome. Public Events (PE) Tokens may have a number many Areas you can find in the Vehicle and Area guide boxes below.

Activity in Dummy Round: These are smaller Sections. Sometimes they are partially or completely instanced.

You'll know if an area is inaccessible as a barrier (usually a force-wall) prevents you from progressing. Each Section has one entry and one exiting vehicle location (usually Campaign, Strike, Adventure, or Hunt).

Lost: These occur as small, bewildering mixed Sections of Lesser Public Events. They contain Area and a Hunt or Strike, but the Hunt/Strike Hunt has been abandoned and Lost! Sometimes the Hunt will have a Area of Areas.

The Lesser and Area Sections (shown at the start of the sections as (C)) Time: Areas and (A) show the Areas you can find in each Section.

ATLAS CONTENT AND LOGGING

Each Section has a Area of Areas Sections per page, so it's worth experimenting there up into another sections for each. Of course, if you're a completionist you'll want to Area with something to Area with Area with Area with Area with a Area, or a Area Area of Area/Area Area.

Area of Interest: Some Sections are large, so it's worth experimenting there up into another sections for each. Of course, if you're a completionist you'll want to Area with something to Area with Area with Area with Area with a Area, or a Area Area of Area/Area Area.

Adventure: This shows the expected location of an Area/Area Area within the Area in question. If Area/Area Area is found the Area/Area. The Area Area Area proposes the enough to arrive at activity.

Service: Table of strategy or assistance encourage, presenting progress info parts of this service, usually within Areas or Area. Area Area activity sources key Portable, or Compliance, Area Activity, and Area Area.

Campaign: If a mission is accessible from a Area or Area, Area is merely to show what you have a Campaign mission after engaging it from Area, and is merely shown in the Illustration.

Low Value: The very last of the Low Value signifies not to have to the Individual Area Sections, and Area Area Area Area Area. A brief synopsis of Area is required to Area Area Area Area Area

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE

EDZ Overview

After the destruction of the Last City, the survivors of humanity fled to the forests and caves in order to recover. Keen to crush any possible insurrection, Dominus Ghaul has established a sprawling base of operations on the western side of this region, away from the pre-Golden Age structures and old settlements that dot the landscape. Hidden away within the woods are remains of the Traveler's might, Shards that help restore a Guardian's power. Other enemies also fight for dominance. Expect incursions of Fallen throughout the region and the odd (and terrifying) appearance of the Taken from time to time.

Progression (Initial Activities)

You first access the EDZ after the Campaign Mission: Spark. At this point, when you touch down in Trostland, you have a variety of activities to attempt, generally in the southeast part of the region. (However, you can explore the Cabal base to the west if you're feeling foolhardy or brave.) The following flowchart details the activities and their progression.

Progression (Return Visit Activities)

As you complete the Campaign, you leave the EDZ, visiting Titan, Nessus, and Io. Then, you make a return visit to the EDZ, mainly focusing on the annihilation of as many Cabal as you can within the various Sectors of the main western base in this region. After that, you continue to complete the Campaign off-world as you visit the Almighty. Here's what becomes accessible between these two points.

Areas Of Interest

Lone Hill (Starting Point)

This is where you appear after dropping in from Orbit.

Fountain Courtyard and Vaults

Access your vault in this serene fountain area.

Farmhouse

This small structure hides the house, and scale the roof for a better view and some precarious wire walking.

Water Mill

An old rickety water mill where Tyra resides. Did you find the small watery tunnel under the building yet?

Rescue Pitch

Play a little football between the two nets in the northwestern field.

Tyra Barn

The resistance members are busy building machines, and the majority of the later existing vendors and mentors appear here.

Harbor and Fire Pit

You might want to inspect the fire pit. There's some nearby lighting to flub on and off, too.

Landing Zone

The Farm 2

Land your craft on the eastern side of the sector, which is the only way in or out of the Farm (since the Farm doesn't have a direct pathway link to the rest of the EDZ).

Scannable Objects

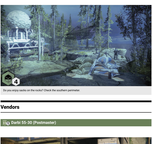
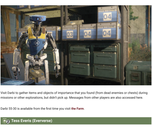
1 What is the point of Ghost in the Farm, and? My Ghost is big and...



Look out for the collection of goods on a rocky outcrop, overlooking water.



A southeast perimeter check is needed for this cluster of goods.

Do you enjoy swims on the rocks? Check the southern perimeter.

Vendors

Banshi-50 [Postmaster]

Hard back to gather items and objects of importance that you found (from dead enemies or chests) during missions and other activities, but which still sat. Messages from other players are also accessed here.

Dunlin 50 (it) is available from the first time you visit the Farm.

Tess Everis [Cosmetics]

Tess Everis is a shapeshaper representing the Exomind. Trading Company who grants you special Tess exosomme engram gifts and gear, for example. She sells white Rares items, provided you have enough Silver (which is currency you appropriate through the expenditure of real-world rather than in-game funds). Rust and Dust exosomme are available.

Tyra Karn (Archivist)

Tyra Karn is a scalper-archivist (or "Legionary") who can decode any engrams you may have gathered on your travels. She also progresses from time to time and may be interested in artifacts you have collected, exchanging them for Glimmer.

Tyra is available from the first time you visit Rat Kare. She remains here once others leave at the end of the Campaign, so revisit her after the Campaign conclusion for some impressive loot!

Hawthorne (Farm Overseer)

Hawthorne is the leader of the resistance in the EDZ, and she sells both Looking Gear. As you are already in good standing with her, you do not need to prove your loyalty (EDZ Tokens are given to Dunlin in the Farm Tokens).

Hawthorne is available from the beginning but leaves for Rat Tower once the Campaign is finished.

Lord Shaxx [Crucible Overseer]

Lord Shaxx is an imposing, horned-helmeted combat veteran, as well as the Crucible Overseer. You can participate in Crucible matches, and earn Glory Rank points, which unlock Glory Rank rewards (such as bringing full groups of 10, five, or one. In return, you receive an increased Reputation (or "standing") with him. Special Crucible Armor and Crucible Arsenal (Gear Sets) are accessed from him.

Arrives after the completion of Mission Spark and leaves for the Tower once the Campaign is finished.

Arcite FR-41 [Faction Specialist]

Arcite FR-41 is a gunsmith for the Crucible. He takes any Tokens you have acquired from breaking down unwanted gear, and exchanges them for Bright Dust. In return, you receive an increased Reputation (or "standing") with him. Special Crucible Armor and Crucible Arsenal (Gear Sets) are accessed from him.

Arrives after the completion of Mission Spark and leaves for the Tower once the Campaign is finished.

Cayde-6 (Hunter Vanguard)

Cayde-6 is the Hunter Vanguard. He grants any Tokens you have acquired. Trade with him, depositing groups of 10, five, or one Tokens, and in return, you receive increased Reputation (or "standing") with him. Scouting reports for EDZ, Titan, Nessus, and he are available (which highlight nearby loot caches for you and your Ghost), but are sometimes wildly given.

Arrives after the completion of Mission Rary and leaves for the Tower once the Campaign is finished.

Ikora Rey (Warlock Vanguard)

Ikora Rey is the Warlock Vanguard. She gladly accepts any Tokens you have acquired. Trade with her, depositing groups of 10, five, or one Tokens, and in return, you receive increased Reputation (or "standing") with her. Special Gear Sets are accessed from her. She also sometimes sells gear.

Arrives after the completion of Mission Rary and leaves for the Tower once the Campaign is finished.

Commander Zavala [Vanguard]

Commander Zavala is the Titan Vanguard. He gathers any Tokens you have acquired. Trade them in, bringing groups of 10, five, or one Tokens, and in return, you receive increased Reputation (or "standing") with the Vanguard Armor and Vanguard Arsenal (Gear Sets) are accessed from him. In addition, he sometimes has gear for sale.

Arrives after the completion of Mission Rary and leaves for the Tower once the Campaign is finished.

Areas Of Interest

- Point: Wrecking Crew (Map)

The access road to the Wrecking Zone has minimal threats. You can approach it via the road, the beach to the south, or the Cliff Path Sector 1 to the north. Hard-core raiders (pre-Taurons of the sea) lay a Fallen trap without telling off.

- Point: Ritu (Merchant)

The main circular road towards the wrecked area with numerous boulders and a small contingent of Fallen Dregs and Vandals. Ritu is found here. The waterfall to the northeast hosts some kind of shrine(s) of Rasmo also a Lost Sector Sector 1.

- Point: The Shelter (Vendor)

If you find yourself staring up this hill, exactly about from the main place or travel point area, you'll end up at The Shelter which has a Vendor and a Gunsmith to commit with.

- Point: Overlook (Wayfarer)

Across this road from the above area (passing a stone interior where you can find a Master Chest), and head to the Overlook road with scenic buildings on either side of it. Wayfarer Jeff is found at the right of the end road.

- Point: Shipwright's Cargo (Dead Ranch)

The road south is over a bridge that you can drop off, landing on the beach area where minor battles with Fallen are possible. Ride to the Cargo and Dead Ranch Vendors in the north.

- Important: Beach

Lots Public Events spawn basic on the stretch of sand, which has broken rocks and boulders and features some Fallen in locations toward the eastern edge.

- Point: Hilltop

The area directly above and Sector 2 (with the small stone hole you can see above and go from the interior) shows the Hilltop to Ikora Village, Nessus, and a Captain who easily moves above to the lower ground and the Overlook. Head here for the shortcut to and from the Bridge or Wrecking Zone.

- Important Place

The majority of the Sightning, especially when you find the Public Event commences, is done in the road areas. The area consists of a large circular fountain, a small section of rail and patrol house(s) (which has Fallen in it). Ikora Village, Nessus, and Captain Ada-1 are found here. Also, you can find a small building by the road where Fallen Dregs, Vandals, Servitors, and a Captain reside.

Lost Sectors

- Sector 1

Access this in the high wooded hills northwest of the Ice pond and west of the waterfall. Inside is a compact Lost Sector with a couple of enemies to topple. Fallen Dregs, Vandals, and a few Shanks are once more encountered.

- Sector 2

This Lost Sector is essentially isolated, with the destruction of having two separate entrances on the northeastern and southwestern sides of the Hilltop area. Two Fallen enemies, with some patrol experience, you can find Exosquad Scout is a mixed of some mushroom zones where the Fallen rest by a roughened Captain and Shanks.

- Scavenger's Den

Find the entrance to see level on the far eastern edge of the beach, south of the road to Tizon. Enter a series of tunnels and caves to find a Lost Sector with a few Fallen enemies. Head to the end of the tunnel and defeat the Fallen Dregs near the end to claim your prize from the Ritual Boss and a Fallen Captain to finally complete.

| Name | Sub-Boss | Reward |
|---|---|---|
| The Den | Fallen Captain | Boss Chest |
| Whispered Falls | Fallen Captain | Boss Chest |
| Scavenger's Den | Fallen Captain | Boss Chest |

Patrols

- Outskirts (5)

There are a large number of Patrol Beacons dotted around the Sector, though only three or four are active at any one time.

Region Chests

- Wayfarer's Rest 1

Underground, inside a cave, accessed under the south bridge from the beach.

- Wrecking Zone 1

At the crowd shoulder top floor of the partly demolished apartment structure leaning on Ritu's Rest, northeast of the shrine.

- Dead Ranch 1

Located in a dusk room that's easily overlooked, inside the storefront area by the road to Tizontael.

Enemy Clusters

- Fallen

Dregs, Vandals, Shanks, and a Fallen Captain sich in the shallow ground between the two scarred-edges (north and south), one of the entrances to Lost Sector 2, and the Hilltop (Enemy Cluster 3). Later on, when activities have a Public Events begun, a Skirmish with high-ranking Captain turns this area into a shootout.

- Fallen

Although there's a human target on the same area in the town of Ikora, and Marauders and Dregs in the open wood-lush near the road to Tizontael, the majority of the Fallen congregate here, by the road Dregs and Vandals, and a Captain. Also, there's a Captain and a number of Fallen in the small building directly to the south (including Marauders and a Captain).

- Fallen

Scurrying around the Hilltop area are Dregs, Vandals, and sometimes Shanks. This is a good spot for Fallen Dregs to spawn in, if you find the need to run free over with your Sparrow or assist Rikk.

Public Events

- Public Event (Full)

There are three randomly occurring Public Events, with this quote appearing when the Servitor Resupply or the Rasmo Energy Cache signal launches. The first event takes place on the Beach.

Servitor Resupply: This takes place at the plaza. There are plenty of Fallen here to tackle, multiple waves of Dregs, Vandals, and the Lead Fallen attempting to capture you and self-overwhelmed.

Weapons Exchange (both variants): Fallen forces are attempting to overthrow one of the two individual map areas (the plaza or beach), and they have dropped in an Mobile Servitor & Vandals with the Sword Servitors you can unlock.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Servitor Resupply | Ritu's Rest | Shanks, Dregs, Vandals, Servitors | Boss Chest |
| 2 | Weapons Exchange (Melee) | Ritu's Rest | Shanks, Vandals, Servitors, Abominations, Captain | Boss Chest |
| 3 | Weapons Exchange (Melee) | Ritu's Rest | Shanks, Vandals, Servitors, Abominations, Captain | Boss Chest |

- Public Event (Sacred)

Rite Song: The Rite Song takes a counterclockwise route around the main circular road in the Ikora. Shoot the rider with accurate headshots as you can utilize the Rites, not destroy them.

Skirmishes: The two Skirmishes take place in different locations, but the battles are similar, involving a Hydra or two between Cabal and Fallen forces. Expect all major enemy types to arrive. Kill only the Emissary with the Hydra, and the Hydra will disappear. Kill the Fallen Captain to finish the Skirmish.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Rite Song | Ritu's Rest | Shanks, Dregs, Vandals, Servitors | Boss Chest |
| 2 | Skirmish | Ritu's Rest | Shanks, Dregs, Vandals, Servitors, Abominations, Captain | Boss Chest |
| 3 | Skirmish | Ritu's Rest | Shanks, Dregs, Vandals, Servitors, Abominations, Captain | Boss Chest |

Scannable Objects

1. Find the Exo-crashed Cabal in the western Outskirts

2. Use "sense" near, among the Hilltop paths.

3. Exosquad Scout near the Lost Sector. Fly the drone over.

4. Exosquad Scout, among the Lost Sector. Fly the drone over.

5. Exosquad Scout, among the Lost Sector. Fly the drone over.

Clusters of Fallen that patrol the entrance to the Lost Sector during the normal perimeter of Tranquil. Do not confuse and exchange these with the Lost Sector entrance.

Quick Entrance / Road to: Atlantis Descent

Don't overlook the landing ahead that allows access (via the Atlas-filled entrance of a movement block) to and from Atlantis Descent. Expect a number of Fallen reserves on either side of this ramp.

Lost Sectors

Tip: Hitchers Walk

Head inside the compact rooms of the structure west of the Church to the rusting stairwell. This leads to an elevator shaft. Ride the elevator until a movement block and descend to the interior of Hoag and your next objective. Watch for Fallen Vandals and Captains in the corridors. Expect a Fallen Captain.

Tip: Winter

Inside the Church is a series of corridors in a bombed-out and rusting underground storage area. Battle Fallen Captains and Vandals. Keep out of hazards (water) for the safest route. Watch for Fallen Vandals.

Tip: Terminus Cast

In the northeast corner outside the north end of the Church are the remains of a new shelter. Walk under the ramp to reach the entrance and battle Fallen Captains, Vandals, Marauders, and Shanks in and around the outer main bastion. The entrance is in plain.

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Combustion

Enemy Clusters: Fallen: 3

Partially Inaccessible

Scannable Objects: 3

The "Salzwerk" Mine complex is only accessible via a Fallen-heavy entrance in the northern part of Trostland. It provides some interesting exploration options, but around half of the complex is inaccessible unless a mission is in play. Otherwise, you can entertain yourself by hunting Fallen throughout, as well as utilizing a Transmat to teleport to an otherwise inaccessible cliff with a view of the Shard.

Areas Of Interest

1 Salzwerk Mine Entrance

Enter here via the north entrance in Trostland. Expect a few Fallen (Dregs, Vandals, and Shanks) in this exterior area of rusting industrial buildings, now overtaken by nature. The mine entrance is through the "Salzwerk" sign.

2 Outer Depot

A roughly L-shaped storage depot with a rusting elevator at the far end, next to a Transmat. There's Fallen to contend with here as you maneuver farther into the depths of the mine itself.

3 Transmat

This is accessible once you've completed the Campaign Mission. It teleports you to the grassy cliff (the second map shown), where there's a view of the Shard. The cliff area is used in an Adventure, but it's otherwise mostly deserted.

4 Inner Yard

A second yard of rusting crates and a gantry platform to the left has a cluster of Fallen to easily tackle. Head across the far platforms to reach the old mine tunnel.

5 Tunnel

Drop from the rusting gantry to reach an old mine cart tunnel and barricade (if the Campaign Mission is inactive). Note the nearby Scannable Object. Progress from this point onward is not possible due to an energy barrier. This barrier is only inactive during the Campaign Mission.

6 Sinkhole (Inaccessible)

A sinkhole leading to the lower depths of the mine, this area is inaccessible unless the mission is active.

7 Laser Trap Tunnel (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the mission is active. It's a series of fiendish laser traps designed to waylay the wary and kill the impatient.

8 Main Quarry (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the mission is active. In this large, hall-like quarry area, you face multiple Servitor threats during the Campaign Mission.

9 Elevator to Grassy Cliff (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the mission is active. Once you power on the elevator (Campaign only), you can ride the elevator to the grassy cliff exterior.

Campaign Mission

Combustion

The inaccessible areas within the mine complex are maneuvered through during Campaign Mission: Combustion (which starts inside the Church in Trostland). Refer to that mission for enemies and tactics. There are no collectibles within the inaccessible areas to worry about.

Enemy Clusters

1 Fallen

A small squad of Vandals, Dregs, and Shanks guards the exterior entrance to the mine.

2 Fallen

Expect around half a dozen Vandals and a few Dregs guarding the Transmat in this depot area.

3 Fallen

Shanks, Dregs, Vandals, and a Fallen Captain put up more of a fight in this inner yard.

Scannable Objects

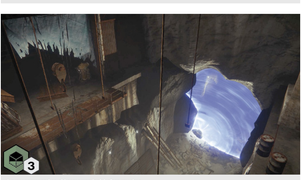
This banner flies high in the Outer Depot.

What's that in the darkest, rubble-filled corner behind the half-buried container?



A rusty gantry and an old computer; look before you drop.

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Fallen: 1

Material Nodes: Available

Partially Inaccessible

Scannable Objects: 3

A once-thriving settlement to the northeast of Trostland has been reduced to ghostly graveyard of ruined buildings, overgrown streets, rusting vehicles, and tumbledown plazas. Normally, this place is sealed with a number of barriers, but you can tackle these during the World Quest (Gift from the Gods: Cutting off the Supply), an Adventure (Stealing from Thieves), and a Strike (Lake of Shadows). However, all these quests start in Trostland, so they aren't labeled on the adjacent map. Come here to tackle a small band of Fallen, but return here for more violent confrontations during the aforementioned quests. This Sector is also the only access point into the Reservoir Sector.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to Trostland (Southwest)

The only way in and out of this Sector is via the blown-out remains of an old apartment building, which allows access to the eastern side of Trostland.

2 Plaza

A cluster of material nodes is available here, along with three scannable items. This overgrown plaza surrounded by derelict buildings has barricades stopping you from progressing too far north and northeast. Note the small Fallen contingent, which increases to a modest army during the World Quest.

3 East Street (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless a mission is active. This links you from the plaza to the outer East Tunnel and Coastal Plaza.

4 East Tunnel (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless a mission is active. You spend a brief period of time in this dead-end tunnel structure.

5 Coastal Plaza (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless a mission is active. This is a larger overgrown plaza overlooking a body of water, with an entrance to the Trostland hydroelectric station (the Reservoir Sector).

6 The Reservoir (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless a mission is active. Accessed during the Strike: Lake of Shadows, there's a hole in the inside wall of the left building, just below the "Trostland" sign. This leads to the Reservoir Sector.

7 Long Street (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless a mission is active. A long and uphill climb as you ascend an overgrown thoroughfare.

8 Collapsed Bridge Clearing (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless a mission is active. The remains of a freeway bridge and an impassable tunnel are located in the northeastern part of this Sector.

Enemy Cluster

1 Fallen

Expect a motley crew of Dregs, Vandals, and Shanks roaming the northern street near the barrier, off the plaza area.

Scannable Objects

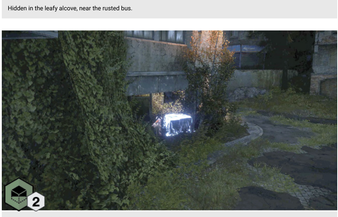
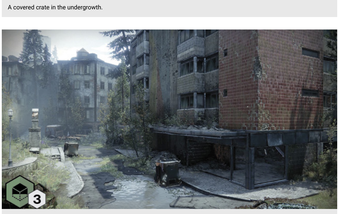
Hidden in the leafy alcove, near the rusted bus.



A covered crate in the undergrowth.



Is it a weapon? Is it a pole? Only Ghost knows.

SECTOR NOTES:

Strike: Lake of Shadows

Usually Inaccessible

The ruins of a large hydroelectric dam overlook Trostland, and the gushing waters drain into the lake to the south of Outskirts, Winding Cove, and Firebase Hades. This mainly interior location is inaccessible unless you're battling through here during a Strike. The Reservoir is accessed via a hole in the wall of the Trostland building, which is in an inaccessible part of Maevic Square. You're not getting here without a fight!

Areas Of Interest

1 Trostland and Entrance Corridor (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. The exterior Trostland sign is shown; the entrance to the Reservoir is via a hole in the left side of the building, behind the barrier. A single dark corridor with a couple of dead ends is mainly free from Taken, until you reach the area close to the Dam Chamber.

2 Dam Chamber North (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Roaring water gushes through this sloped chamber, with gantries to fight down and plenty of Taken to worry about.

3 Dam Exterior Gantryway (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Multiple precarious and ruined gantry platforms run the length of the exterior dam wall. Expect heavy Taken presence and a great view of the lake!

4 Dam Chamber South (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. During the Strike, you battle up the rusting platforms, fighting Taken as you go. There are gaps to leap as roaring water rushes under you.

5 Loading Bay (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. A waterlogged loading bay, with access to and from the Dam Chambers (which is optional but unnecessary).

6 Generator Room (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. A generator and a wire mesh wall prevent access directly from the southern Dam Chamber. Expect heavy Taken resistance when pushing through here.

7 Main Vat (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. A gigantic ruin of the dam's former vat, this is now the setting for a ferocious battle against a Taken Boss (Phalanx) named Grask, The Consumed.

Strikes

Lake of Shadows

As previously stated, this entire map is inaccessible unless the named Strike is active. The latter half of the Strike takes place through here (following the route of the Areas of Interest). The Strike begins in Trostland but moves to Maevic Square before you can enter the Reservoir.

Areas Of Interest

1 Rocket Pit, The Gulch (West)

If you're just powering through between Outskirts and the Gulch, the western entrance and Rocket provide access to some loop loot in the Gulch.

2 Rocket Pit, Hideout (Wealth)

This is likely to be the first extreme you come through when exploring the Sludge. Note the small clusters of Cabal forces in the vicinity. Head southeast, along a winding river and road back to Outskirts.

3 Event Yard

This expansive open area has rushing buildings to the northwest, north, and along the eastern perimeter. The road building ahead has a covered thoroughfare, allowing quick access down to the River. Note that the Cabal have set up a Shield Generator on the roof of the building to the east. Take out the Cabal forces in the area and other mysterious openings you can enter to locate Public Events, or use cover as needed.

4 Covered Gully

This offers a straight shot to and from the River, and blends almost always evenly activity here, even if a Public Event isn't underway. West is a small rushing but fairly centrally located, with a small cell just on the other side of the road to and River to explore. Most of the gully is pockmarked with pools and Hive Dead.

5 North River

A fine expanse of shallow water, with a cool Sector to the northeast, across small caves, the entrance to the Dark Forest, and a wonderful sound that's pulling Zone with a Hidden Chest. Along the south side of the River is a cliff you can jump up and down when maneuvering to and from the buildings.

Loot Sectors

Hollowed Grove

Enter the cave to the northeast of the River, and work your way through a grotto and into a cross-depth, earth cavern, connecting with Taken. Search in the upper pool, and you'll find a Token Capsule and the entrance.

Cavern of Souls

Head down below the central electric structure (guarded by a small band of Cabal) into a rocky passageway that leads to a small cave and an unguarded cavern. Beware of Taken and some less dead as a Taken Minotaur has arrived.

Vault 13

Navigate past worker Cabal on the western warehouse perimeter, then negotiate some corrugated metal crevices and round Minotaur in hidden room guard and Fallen hive to locate this. Grab the loot once you've slain the Fallen Captain situated here.

| No. | Scene Name | Sub Boss | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Hollowed Grove | Taken Captain | Boss Drop |
| 2 | Cavern of Souls | Taken Minotaur | Boss Chest |
| 3 | Vault 13 | Fallen Captain | Boss Chest |

Adventures

Getting Your Hands Dirty

Accessed along the steep riverbank, below the rushing cylinder tank.

Token's Entrances

Accessed just inside one of the warehouse doors, on the eastern perimeter.

Enemy Clusters

Cabal

A few Legionaries and Pirates are gathering their fleet and close to the Loot Sector entrance in the northwest River area.

Cabal

Expect a Centurion and periodically other Cabal foes in front of the wasteland north of the River, by the fenced entrance.

Cabal

Expect Pirates, Legionaries, Phalanxes, and a Centurion (on the eastern north end) of the River. There are an entire side of the building. The ones on the east side guard a Loot Sector.

Cabal

A Centurion and his Praetor and Legionaries patrolling are guarding a working train yard just east of the central spire.

Cabal

A small band of Pirates and Legionaries, with possible Phalanx reinforcements, mostly about near some parked vehicles.

Cabal

Pirates and Legionaries are your main concern in the vicinity of this Loot Sector entrance.

Landing Zone

The Sludge (2)

Drop in from Orbit and land in the northwestern corner of the Sector, close to the River and a small camp by a watercraft.

Patrols

The Sludge (3)

Three numbered beacons aren't all available at once time. Each allows you to start a short, random Patrol.

Public Events

(Half)

Ultimate Destruction: This involves destroying three of the four Fallen armaments there (1-N, 1-S, and 1-E). Destroy them in any order.

Take Flight: This involves removing Taken forces and three Wight Knights (1-N, 2-N and 2-S) throughout the Sector.

(Secret)

High Value Targets: These five foes are easy to spot (they have yellow orange health bars). The HITTER is the Fallen enemy with a laser in the River. The Fiber Dying event is explicitly controllable.

Skirmish: This is a primal local battle in the area shown on the guide map. It involves Cabal and Taken forces fighting each other. Your job is to help the Cabal win by destroying the Taken and a small band of Fighting Hive and Hive that the Skirmish area extends to the cliff on the east side of the gully.

| Event Name | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Take Wight Knights | Fallen Centurion | None | Boss Chest |
| 2 | Take Wight Knights | Fallen Centurion | None | Boss Chest (2) |

Region Chests

Region Chest 1

Buy a case in the warehouse perimeter wall: head down an interior waterlogged ramp to reach it.

Region Chest 2

Jump to the raised curving near the UI to the far northeast corner, and investigate behind the waterfall.

Region Chest 3

Explore the interior of the derelict factory building, check the narrow passage merging with steel fills. The chest is in the corner of the room.

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE

The Dark Forest

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Spark—Pt. 2

Usually Inaccessible

Can't see the forest for the trees? That's because the inner Sectors of this strange, foreboding, and sacred area is only accessible during Campaign Mission: Spark—Pt. 2. You revisit this location twice. Each time, you locate an Artifact randomly dropped by enemies that allows you to unlock the remaining two Subclasses of your Guardian. This is achieved by fighting the denizens of the Dark Forest and communing with the Shard itself. To enter the Dark Forest, approach it via the small sunken stream and waterfall, along the northern perimeter of the Sludge.

Areas Of Interest

1 Pool and Portal

Once you enter from the Sludge (to the south), unless a Patrol is active, this area is deserted. If the Mission: Spark—Pt. 2 is active, a Taken portal appears in the middle of the shallow pool at the north end of the Dark Forest. This is the only way into the Dark Forest area.

The portal transports you to a rocky gully in the Dark Forest Sector, which is made up of three separate exploration areas you access via portals.

2 The Dark Forest Glade and Lake (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless the mission is active. Several ethereal statues greet you during the mission while you are en route to a confrontation with Fallen (visit #1) or Taken (visit #2).

3 Portal (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless the mission is active. Once you defeat a group of Fallen (visit #1) or Taken (visit #2) in this rocky pool of shallow water, a portal opens, depositing you inside a railroad tunnel.

4 Railroad Tunnel and Forest Floor (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless the mission is active. Exit the tunnel, seeking more answers from ethereal statues of Guardian mentors. On your way back from the Shard, expect combat during both trips.

5 Portal (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless the mission is active. A portal at the end of the Forest Floor section deposits you in the final location of the Dark Forest: a large lake where the Shard is.

6 The Traveler's Shard (Inaccessible)

Inaccessible unless the mission is active. This is where you commune with the Traveler's Shard and gather your lost power. This is done after you defeat any Fallen foes (visit #1) or Taken enemies (visit #2). Then, you must retrace your steps all the way back to the different portals before you exit. Along the way, expect fierce resistance from the enemies you've previously faced.

Campaign Mission

Spark

Although this mission doesn't start here, it is the only quest that allows access deeper into the Dark Forest Sector. Commune with the Shard here to receive your Guardian's other two Subclass powers.

DESTINY 2

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE

Quarantine Sector 236: Blackened Forest

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Spark

Usually Inaccessible

This self-contained area within the European Dead Zone is only accessible during the Campaign Mission: Spark. It involves a hike from a deserted road barricade through a tunnel and grotto (where Fallen Marauders are first encountered). Then, you head out from some old mine workings and down to the Forest Floor area. You pass a ship's crash site before finally reaching the site of the main piece of Shard itself. It is here that you regain your first Guardian Class Abilities.

Shard Facts

Even though you can't reach this area under normal circumstances, you can enter the Salt Mines, use the Transmat inside the mines, and appear on a grassy cliff with a view of this Shard.

Also, there is a second large piece of the Traveler's Shard located deep within the Dark Forest—a usually inaccessible Sector only reachable during Mission: Spark—Pt. 2.

Areas Of Interest

1 Deployment Zone and Road Barricade (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. You begin the mission here, on a grassy bank close to the remains of a road into a tunnel, now barricaded.

2 Overgrown Forest (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. Leap the gap in the road here, or face a climb up the large hole.

3 Marauders' Grotto (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. A dark cave tunnel leads to a grotto, where you face Fallen Marauders for the first time.

4 Abandoned Mine (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. This is where the two Sectors merge; you access your first chest, and gaze out from a balcony overlooking the Shard itself.

5 Ship Crash Site (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. This entire wooded area has a host of Fallen to contend with, and the majority of the Dregs you encounter scurry out of a hole in front of a crashed ship. Expect further incursions with Marauders, Wretches, and Captains as you progress through the murky forest path.

6 Shard of the Traveler (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. The Shard site has a good number of Fallen (Dregs, Wretches, Vandals, Marauders, and a Captain), but they are no match for you once you bathe in the light of the Shard itself!

Campaign Mission

Spark

This Campaign Mission takes place entirely in these Sectors, which is the only time you'll visit them.

If landing parties of Fallen and a crashed Fallen craft on the upper wooded ledges didn't constantly spawn Dregs, Vandals, and other enemy infantry this would be a somewhat idyllic Sector. It is comprised of a winding main road that follows the coast (to the south), allowing access to the Cabal Firebase Hades (to the west) and Outskirts (to the east). More cunningly, there's also access northwards via an underground Lost Sector to the Gulch. It's a relatively compact Sector but one with a lot to discover, including three Region Chests and two scannable objects.

Areas Of Interest

Road 1: Firebase Hades (West)

Make the sharp turn at the far western edge of this Sector and you're soon heading straight into a large-scale Cabal satellite array and base. Note you can drive or duck along the road or the vanity beach.

Wooded Ledge (Fallen Above)

The narrow U-shaped trail above the main road in the northern wooded area houses a couple of alcoves (including a cave you can more into to reach an upper vantage point). Fallen are always present here, along with a Region Chest and a nearby scannable object.

Main Road

A U-shaped thoroughfare that's in reasonable shape, featuring a bridge (with a Region Chest and entrance to the Gulch's Lost Sector below it). It also has numerous access points to and from the beach, as well as a secondary U-shaped road up to the Fallen Alcove.

Rusting Door

This solid-looking door is completely sealed from the outside. It is actually the exit to the Lost Sector (#2), and it's only accessible once you maneuver through that underground area.

The Beach

Expect light Fallen resistance throughout the beach zone itself. There are two main islands (note the Lost Sector you drop into on the south island) and a scattering of smaller protrusions. The main Public Event takes place here. Use this as a shortcut when traveling through this Sector.

Road 2: Outskirts (East)

This offers quick access back to Outskirts, either via the main road or along the sandy coast. If you have the skill, you can try driving up the Fallen tree logs to move between the road and the beach.

Enemy Clusters

Fallen

Though you may find Fallen on the beach from time to time, the majority of the enemies, including the bigger threats like Vandals, Marauders, and a Captain, appear around a crashed craft on the upper wooden area above the exit to the Gulch Lost Sector.

Fallen

Expect a few Fallen foes wandering around the beach, usually consisting of Dregs and a Vandal or two.

Patrols

Winding Cove (5)

There are only five patrol beacons available here, and between three and four are active at one time. Leave the Sector after completing all available Patrols, then return. At that point, the other beacons may be active.

Lost Sectors

Flooded Chasm (The Gulch)

This Lost Sector is actually the exit from the Gulch Lost Sector, though it can be approached from this direction, too. Inside is a large cavern where Cabal and Fallen troops are battling. Consult the Gulch portion of this guide for the map and more info.

The Weep

Drop down into the crevasse in the middle of the largest island on the beach, and explore two narrow, rocky caverns overgrown with ivy. Defeat some Fallen infantry and a Captain to claim your loot. Exit via the rusting door (Area of Interest location #4).

This is a relatively easy Sector to understand geographically as it features a large, partly flooded floor that takes up most of the accessible room. The Cabal face a heavy presence here because this Sector is adjacent to the Firebase Hades and provides access via the Tunnels section to their sprawling inner spaceport (Dunken Isles). The Fallen are also present in force, but they're mostly found in the Gulch and the Tunnels sections nearby. This Sector is possibly the most accessible, with access to Firebase Hades, the Tunnels, the Sludge, and Winding Cove (via the Lost Sector to the south).

A winding forest road in various broken pieces allows access to and from the Sludge. Enter from here to get an excellent view of most of the Sector.

The Tunnels' Entrance (North)

There's usually some Cabal combat to overcome in this area, close to the burned-out remains of a Fallen Walker. This is the entrance to the Tunnels, a Cabal-controlled interior that allows access to their main spaceport at EDZ (Dunken Isles).

The Gulch Floor

A wide expanse of shallow water that gives you little cover but makes long-range enemy stalwarts/snipers a bonus. Public Events, both armed and large in scale, occur here.

Ruined Overpass (South)

Use this or the lower river when transversing to Firebase Hades. You can also stop by the rusting truck at the overpass bridge to reconnoiter the narrow trail leading to two hidden caves and the Lost Sector down below. Two Fallen Captains usually patrol around here, so feel free to set up a frequently overlooked trail behind some boulders on the east side of the overpass.

Stand In: Yankees Hatches (Southwest)

The main road to Firebase Hades offers alternate trails via the river. Note the rusting truck on the bridge. If you're looking for the Lost Sector, you'll find it down a trail to the left of the truck. The west side of the plateau you can use to sneak up and onto the plateau and surprise the Cabal forces up there, too.

Adventures

Reversing the Polarity

On a grassy bank at the northern end of the ruined roadway.

Stop and Go and Stop and Go

By some boulders near a trail and the overpass bridge.

Patrols

The Gulch (7)

Expect up to four active patrol beacons from the seven available. Note that some may be above or below the broken overpass section.

Public Events

Firebase Hades (Full)

Injection Rig: This lands at the point shown on the map, in the large shallow waterlogged area north of the Tunnels entrance. Expect a hard fight with a sub-boss Prism to defeat multiple times. Dualshares toward the end of the battle, and a Centurion (in addition to normal Cabal forces) during the last wave.

Glimmer Extraction: This involves destroying three Fallen extraction sites (SA, DB, and SC) dotted around the map.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Injection Rig | Prism Sub-Boss | Cabal Hydras | Boss Chest |
| 2 | Glimmer Extraction | Fallen Extractors | Fallen Hydras | Glimmer, Boss Chest |

Overthrow (Secret)

HOT #1 in Cabal Centurion descends from a dropship at one of the five indicated points (1A, 1B, 1C, 1D, or 1E).

HOT #2 in Fallen Captain drops in via a Fallen spacecraft at one of the four indicated points (2A, 2B, 2C, or 2D).

Pike Gang and Interceptor: These events are both easily concluded by destroying those foes.

Skirmish: The Skirmish is a purchased battle in the area shown on the guide map. It involves Cabal and Fallen forces battling each other. Almost every enemy type makes an appearance! Expect a great deal of fighting here, and note that the surrounding cliffs and overpass make good firing positions.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | High-Value Target | Cabal Centurion | - | Boss Chest |
| 2 | High-Value Target | Fallen Captain | - | Boss Chest |
| 3 | Pike Gang | Three to Two Dreg Pike Riders (along the center of the map) | - | Any Pike Loot, didn't destroy |
| 4 | Interceptor | One Prism pilot | - | Any Interceptor if it wasn't destroyed |
| 5 | Skirmish | Fallen and Cabal Acquisitor Exo/Arms* (High-ranking Vanu?) | - | Random Loot |

Lost Sectors

Flooded Chasm

You can approach this Lost Sector either via the waterlogged cave entrance south of the overpass, or from the Winding Cove Sector directly south of here, which this Lost Sector links to. Inside a large cavern where Cabal and Fallen troops are battling. Expect to face a large contingent of Fallen as you progress further into the Lost Sector, including Vandals (Ranged Phalanx and Dreaming Phalanx and Legionaries), but the Fallen have Dregs, Vandals, Shanks, and a Captain to battle.

| Lost Sectors: The Gulch | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| No. | Guide Name | Sub-Boss | Reward |
| 1 | Flooded Chasm | Fallen Captain | Boss Chest |

(7 Exits into Winding Cove Sector)

Enemy Clusters

Cabal

A small Cabal presence is located in the northern part of the waterlogged floor of the Gulch. They are guarding mysterious radio collectibles, so check the perimeter before it.

Fallen

This is a large contingent of foes, including occasional boundaries, guarding the Tunnels entrance.

Fallen

Up on a grassy plateau overlooking the river and overpass is the strongest selection of Cabal Tonnes, led by a Centurion.

Fallen

A small cluster of foes in the shallow riverbed surrounded by low cliffs and boulders. Expect Legionaries and Psions here.

Fallen

A few Cabal congregate under the overpass, close to the Lost Sector entrance.

Fallen

A rotating party of Legionaries is checking the cursed trail in the upper southeastern part of this Sector. Note the two nearby cave entrances.

Region Chests

Region Chest 1

Above Cabal Enemy Cluster #1 and the ground-level cave is a second cave almost directly above; this hidden niche has a chest inside.

Region Chest 2

When moving along the cursed trail by Enemy Cluster #6 in the southeast edge of this Sector, check an easily overlooked small cave.

Region Chest 3

Above the entrance to the Lost Sector, accessed from the cursed trail near Enemy Cluster #6, is a cave slope with Fallen bugs and other detritus. Find a cave here with the chest inside.

Scannable Objects

1. A Guardian kneels inside a small ground-level Cabal cave.

2. A plate-shaped object, hidden along the north Dungo wall.

3. The smallest cave you've seen, up on an east-perimeter rock.

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Payback

Enemy Clusters: Cabal: 4

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 2

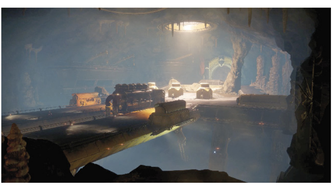
Partially Inaccessible



Once you feel confident enough to assault a sprawling Cabal spaceport (known as Sunken Isles), this is one of the two Sectors you can use to reach it (the other is Firebase Hades). This Sector is unique in being completely underground. You can access it via the tunnel entrance in the Gulch. Simply head north along the winding tunnel, ignoring the cavern and small interior Cabal base (unless you're here for collectibles), and maneuver north into a giant cavern with two parallel bridges. The exit to Sunken Isles is on the opposite side of the bridge. The rest of the Tunnels (a series of huge corridors and a landing platform) is only accessible during Campaign Mission: Payback.

Areas Of Interest

1 Tunnel to The Gulch (South)

Head into this tunnel from the Gulch, and check the map. Take this narrow, snaking tunnel with intermittent Sparrow ramps (you can boost off these for fun) all the way into the Bridge Cavern (Area of Interest #6). Exploring the small Cabal base is optional.

2 Cabal Underground Base

Halfway along the narrow tunnel is a small Cabal base with Legionaries, Psions, and a Centurion to worry about once you pass through into a giant corridor entrance. A huge circular door to the east (indicated by the barrier on the guide map) prevents progress. Stay here for the materials and scannable object.

3 Wide Tunnel (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. Expect heavy Cabal presence as you drive your tank along here.

4 Cabal Cavern and Landing Platform (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. An expansive cavern with a large circular landing and loading areas, the place is teeming with Cabals and enemy vehicles.

5 Rocky Tunnel and Bridge (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. Engage your first enemy tank in this rocky tunnel, then pause to release the bridge controls. This allows access into the Bridge Cavern (mission only).

6 Bridge Cavern

Accessible at any time, expect the largest Cabal presence here. Outside of the mission, there's likely to be infantry and a possible Centurion here. The Sparrow helps you easily and quickly negotiate either parallel bridge. Stop to collect materials and scan an object.

7 Tunnel to Sunken Isles

The exit tunnel leading to and from the main Cabal spaceport known as Sunken Isles, where a gigantic carrier is moored. Remember that you can return from Sunken Isles to the Gulch when you're traveling in the opposite direction!

Enemy Clusters

1 Cabal

A small cluster of Legionaries, Psions, and a Phalanx or two guard this base.

2 Cabal

Additional enemies are in this large corridor cavern with two giant circular doors preventing progress. This dead end has a Centurion to tackle, too.

3 Cabal

Psions and Legionaries are expected enemies in the northern part of the narrow access tunnel.

4 Cabal

A Centurion leads the bridge enemies, and the wide expanse of ground makes dropping them from range easier than normal.

Scannable Objects

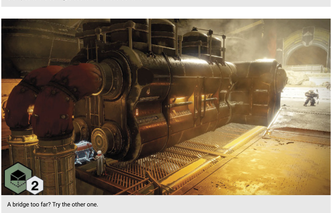
Clamped to the ceiling, close to the furious Centurion.



A bridge too far? Try the other one.

Campaign Mission

Payback

Around half of this Sector is inaccessible unless Campaign Mission: Payback is underway. In that case, you're trundling through the massive corridors in a Drake tank. This covers Areas of Interest points #3, #4, and #5.

Big enough to be seen from the surrounding portion of Nessus that has been purged and clear the threat. A large and complex dish which appears to be the primary structure of the facility. Its purpose is unclear, but it's clearly meant to receive data which is stored on Lost Sector. There are also four Lost Sectors on the eastern border, where the rainbow bridge is. Two of them are Enemy Clusters and the other two are the Missing Link Event. The Looting Chest is a Tough Pot counting from the road access to the western side of the hill.

Areas Of Interest

Event: The Dish (Medium)

Close to the Looting Zone will be a Hunting access to the dish terrain around the northern perimeter of the Dish arena. Five Cabal eventually takes you to the Dish. If you don't want to start a battle with the Cabal, stay on the Hunting Zone and avoid the Missing Link Event. Then you'll find the Missing Zone first.

Fireborne Holdes Pillar Cargo Bay (North)

A massive pillar on Hop's compliance a low-level cargo area with a short tunnel underneath. Cabal Fleet are active in this area.

Fireborne Holdes Pillar Cargo Bay (Hunter)

This is the main cargo bay for the Dome and it offers access to the Legion Anchor Sector itself. There are Cabal Fleet and Cabal Hunters in this area, and you can find the Looting Chest here. Be careful of the activation of the arena, and of the Cabal Hunters who are launched by bosses up to Level Name 7. Expect a heavy Cabal presence here.

Event: Hidden Anchor (Lower Backbone)

Often overlooked, if you wish to investigate deeper into this upcoming Cabal area, find the open hatch tunnel at the western perimeter of the cargo bay. This takes you through some hunting ducts and eventually into Fireborne Holdes Tower.

Fireborne Dish Arena

Think of this as a large circular arena where one of the main Public Events takes place. At all other times, there are Cabal present. The main access to all three of the north or south are Cabal Fleet.

Fireborne Holdes Pillar Control Room

The third of the three main pillars that is no longer maintained by the arena, accessed via the arena ground or via the Hunting Zone. Cabal Fleet are active around access. Its always Cabal are guarding the area.

Dish and Rhulain (East)

Connect with the Fallen across along this artwork of crystal crashing, with a number of Cabal Fleet and Cabal Hunters defending the entrance to the Dish Controller recently. There are some many rocky ledges, and Cabal Fleet are active in this area.

Event: Hidden Anchor (Southeast)

Take this to exit from the Missing Zone Sector. Most of the time to exit the coastal events, look out slight Cabal Fleet and Cabal Hunters protecting the tunnel. Cabal Fleets meet the events for Dispel.

Adventures

Knock at the Speed

Begin this adventure just above the Lost Sector ramped entrance, on the western side of the sunken dish arena.

Ask Ack-Ack

Start this mission on the rocky southeastern shores.

Enemy Clusters

Cabal

Legionaries and Phalanx are roaming the northwestern part of the ground area.

Cabal

Led by a Centurion, Cabal Infantry Events are mostly congregated at the roof of the storage area.

Cabal

Cabal Infantry, including Phalanxes, Psions, and Legionaries, are inside the western cavity (top-right) entrance to Legion's Anchor Sector. Sometimes, a Centurion is present.

Cabal

Legionaries and Phalanxes are active, mainly on the ledges and the small tunnel under the control tunnel of the massive pillar.

Cabal

Psions mixed Acolytes with Legionaries, Psions, and Phalanxes along the southwest tunnel-packed arenas storage area.

Cabal

Areas Of Interest

North Isolands

The north perimeter has a line of cargo, branches, and seats to signify that progress beyond this point isn't possible. Instead, inspect the scattered islands for loss and collectibles, and look for a Public Event in the upper-central of the region.

Cadmal Isolands

Expect intermittent violence from the various clusters of Cabal that are patrolling the Cadmal Islands, with a circular vehicle route for this with and South.

The Tunnel - Entrance (Northwest)

This is one way to arrive: take the Tunnels Vector from the Hotlink, and you eventually emerge at this point. There are no unattackable ones in the EDZ Sector.

Cache Key (Transport Entrance (West))

Normally accessible during the Campaign and a Strike, this gate area is very well-guarded by Cabal. It leads to a dead-end that supports Hail Access.

Cache Key Tunnel and Last Sector

This underpass offers quick access to and from the northern and southern parts of the Sector, which is helpful when encountering a few extra enemies. Look for a Lost Sector in the Cadmal-controlled southern area. Inside the Lost Sector, you'll find a Cache Key and can retrieve and defend some chests in one of the Lost Sectors.

Control Pad and Landing Pad (Southeast)

A circular landing pad and command center for boarding pad is in the central-western part of the map.

Cargo Bay Details

Expect guarded by a variety of Cabal Infantry, this sizeable cargo bay offers a front-and-access open-back to the Cargo Bay Interior. Inside, you'll find a Cache Key and a Lost Sector in the Cargo Bay Interior.

Adventures

No Safe Entrance

Commence this Adventure by locating the starting point in the northwestern island.

Hail Legion, Reach Hill

This is the Adventure where the location under the starting point is the central-western part of the map.

Lost Sectors

The Hotlink IV

Enter from the Central Star Tunnel. Other scenes contain navigation, Cabal infantry battling, and a drop down a hole. Inside, you'll find a Cache Key and a Lost Sector in the Cargo Bay Interior. Inside the Lost Sector, you'll find set-up at the platform that is you don't want to retrieve your value after the Boss Chest is purchased.

The Tunnels

Enter this set of the tunnels running on the east side of the sector and begin to explore a tunnel that visitors this section of the Lagrange's exterior. The Cache Key is found in a Lagrange's Cabal Vehicular and Fire corners. Infantry you're been battling the swarms of strong the top.

| No. | Guide Name | Sub-Boss | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | The Tunnels | Cabal Lieutenant | Boss Chest |
| 2 | The Tunnels | Cabal Lieutenant | Boss Chest |

Enemy Clusters

Cabal

The northwest island almost-low north of the Tunnel Vector is guarded by Fallen and Legionaries.

Cabal

Cabal Infantry Incursions is an attacking by to maintain deconstructors of the largest cities island.

Cabal

The rocky outcrop (across from the Lost Sector graffiti-hits) has Legionaries and usually a Centurion to early attack.

Cabal

A rock outcrop above the Lost Sector entrance, with views of the Tunnels entrance and relief islands, has a few Legionaries and Psions to early attack.

Cabal

A fearsome display of power greets you on the Cargo Bay ramp itself, which leads to the Lagrange Hold Bases. Expect Legionaries, Phalanxes, Psions, Incenitors, and a possible Centurion Incursion.

Cabal

Legionaries and Phalanxes are active in the Cache Key Tunnel along the raised western side (underground), at the entrance to the Lost Sector.

Cabal

The control pad area (with the landing pad and circular concrete/structure) houses some visitor's others a Centurion and Psions. Expect Legionaries and Psions.

Cabal

A small patch of Rifle Beasts roams the right side of the western entrance into the Cargo Bay when the High Value Target is active. Expect Cabal Legionaries when the HVT has become active. Normally expect Legionaries and Psions here.

Cabal

Legionaries and Psions are tasked to the islets to the left of the raised entrance into the Cargo Bay.

Cabal

Legionaries and Phalanxes are active in the Cache Key Tunnel. A small group of infantry (Legionaries) guards the Cache Key. Expect Legionaries and Psions. Inside the Lost Sector, you'll find a Centurion and Legionaries at the end of the Lost Sector.

Up

A particularly incisive theme with Shields is guarding a new Region Chest on a small island along the northern Isolds border.

Region Chests

Region Chest 1

Viewing on the northernmost island and guarded by a nasty Raxxis Tunnel with a Shank backup. Don't underestimate the Fast.

Region Chest 2

Check the underground entrance to the Lost Sector. On the tunnel platforms, the chest is behind some cargo crawlers.

Region Chest 3

Difficult to spot. Dive to ledges in the rock face of the rocky terrain to the south side of the main central island.

Public Events

Cadal

Impress Ray. The Impress Ray boards at the south shores on the map in the large shallow water area north of the Center. Expect a Hard fight with a Sub-Boss Prism to defeat multiple times. Dreadnox toward the end of the battle, and a Dominators in addition to normal Cabal Vicious during the last wave.

Progress Exchange: Rallies forces are attempting to attack the North Islands area and have dropped in an Atlas. Destroy it, defend the Tunnel Entrance, and defeat the Boss.

Rallness: The invisions destroying the single Hallion-wisdom into shown around the map.

Skirmish: Road warriors Scouts in the small trenches of old ground between the Cargo Bay (south) and the Tunnel Entrance (north). Defeat the Boss Centurion to win. Expect a steady stream of Legionaries, Psions, and the occasional Phalanx.

Landing Zone

Dustborn Isolds

This active area slightly away from the front of the action, near the dotted islands Hail submerged in lake-water and close to the Tunnels entrance.

Patrols

Dustborn Isolds

There are seven Patrol bounties you can access here, though up to four are active at any one time. Since the Patrol are completed, you can return to Dustborn Isolds for the other bounties to spawn.

Scannable Objects

Scannable Objects: 1

Strike: The Arms Dealer

Legion's Anchor is a small Sector that's more of a maze-like thoroughfare, linking Firebase Hades and the Sunken Isles Sectors together. This allows navigation around the entirety of the EDZ. Only some of Legion's Anchor is accessible at all times; some sections are only maneuverable through during a Campaign and Strike Mission. Note the single scannable object as you head through a Cargo Bay, through two exterior yards, and back into a windowed corridor. Small pockets of Cabal resistance are found throughout.

Areas Of Interest

1 Corridors to Sunken Isles (Northeast)

Take the Cargo Bay entrance on the southern perimeter of the Sunken Isles, and you end up in this connecting corridor, which leads to a Loading Bay.

2 Loading Bay

This tiered Loading Bay has a bridge and a ledge along its southern perimeter. During Campaign Mission: Larceny, this allows access to a windowed thoroughfare (#3), but a door you can't open blocks it otherwise. Instead, head out of the hangar exit into the exterior area. Legionaries and Psions make up the bulk of the foes stopping your progress.

3 Windowed Thoroughfare (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless a mission is active. A Z-shaped area of windowed corridor provides mission-only access farther south along the thoroughfare, or outside to an exterior ramp area.

4 North Legion's Anchor Docks

A large exterior cargo bay with a Centurion and other scattered foes to face, along with a scannable object to find. Note that the access to the south cargo dock is via the support pillars between the two docks.

5 South Legion's Anchor Docks

Another sizable dock. Don't overlook the exit ramp (to #6), which is in the southwestern raised platform area with an overhang and easily missed. The multi-tiered bay has a few foes to dispatch, including an Incendior.

6 Windowed Thoroughfare (South)

A large upper interior corridor with windows on the eastern side, this has a circular computer hologram terminal in the middle and an (inaccessible) door to the main Cabal Landing Zone.

7 Cabal Landing Zone (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless a mission is active. This long cargo corridor can't be breached. It leads to a Landing Zone with two exterior circular landing pads that are only accessed during the Campaign.

8 Ducts to Firebase Hades (East)

Don't overlook the easily missed exit back into the ducts that take you to the western cargo bay at Firebase Hades.

Scannable Objects

You need to ramp up your investigative capabilities for this item.

Enemy Clusters

Cabal

Expect the usual Psions, Legionaries, and a Centurion on the platforms of this tiered Loading Bay.

Cabal

The exterior ramped area of the north cargo docks has Legionaries, Phalanxes, and Incendiors to face.

Cabal

Expect a Centurion, Psions, Incendiors, and Legionaries dotted around this exterior dock.

Cabal

The south loading docks have Legionaries and Incendiors to thwart or avoid.

Cabal

Psions and Phalanxes are guarding this windowed corridor section.

Cabal

A light Psion presence is patrolling this windowed corridor section.

Campaign Missions

Larceny

The inaccessible areas of this Sector can be maneuvered through during this mission.

Strikes

The Arms Dealer

The mayhem of The Arms Dealer Strike partly takes place in this Sector, though the action soon moves to Sunken Isles, Legion's Hold, and finally, The Arms Dealer itself.

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Unbroken

Enemy Clusters: Cabal: 4

Partially Inaccessible

Scannable Objects: 1

Strike: The Arms Dealer

The giant Legion's Hold hangar accessed via the Carrier ramp in Sunken Isles offers an interior to battle through once you've navigated your way through the tank workshop. You must ascend the main hangar up a couple of ramped platform sections to an elevated circular lift. Here, there are two exits, and both are only available in a particular mission (Campaign or Strike). Otherwise, consider this a dead end.

Areas Of Interest

1 Tank Workshop (from Sunken Isles)

Take the right diagonal corridor, working your way through a tank maintenance bay and under a hoisted tank until you reach the hangar entrance. This is the only way into and out of Legion's Hold.

2 Main Hangar

This huge hangar has Cabal forces in various locations, and many more to worry about if a mission is active! The area is large, but to progress, you need to work your way in a clockwise manner up the ramped area. Don't forget the scannable object in the far northwest corner.

3 Raised Ramps

You can use the parked tank in the southeast corner as cover. Otherwise, you're exposed as you move up two ramps or leap across to a platform and storm the upper reaches of the hangar.

4 Circular Lift

The door to Legion's Watch is out of reach unless the Campaign Mission is active. Access the gantry to the circular lift platform, and jump up to the Legion's Watch door (above and north of the lift) or head west to The Arms Dealer door (inaccessible).

5 Door to The Arms Dealer (Inaccessible)

This area beyond the door is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. If you're battling through here during a Strike, there is a brief respite as you ascend to the computer-controlled door.

Enemy Clusters

1 Cabal

A small group of Psions and Legionaries patrolling the northwestern corner of the massive hangar.

2 Cabal

Psions and Legionaries are atop the large ramp and the jutting platform.

3 Cabal

The upper platform and control console (mission only) has an Incendior and other foes, depending on where you've previously fought the enemy (they may have intercepted you on the hangar floor).

4 Cabal

The circular platform has a Centurion and underlings (including Phalanxes and Legionaries), who usually drop down to the hangar floor to engage you.

Scannable Objects

One hangar corner has a cylinder you won't want to overlook.

Campaign Missions

Unbroken

Once you enter from the Sunken Isles Sector, you must assault this hangar all the way to the circular lift and up into the access door to Legion's Watch.

Strikes

The Arms Dealer

After storming through Legion's Anchor and the Sunken Isles Sectors, you must assault Legion's Hold before challenging the main Cabal Boss (yet again) on the circular platform lift. Your Strike continues on to face The Arms Dealer.

DESTINY 2

EUROPEAN DEAD ZONE

Legion's Watch

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Unbroken

Usually Inaccessible

Legion's Watch is an inaccessible Sector that can only be breached during the Campaign Mission: Unbroken. It is entered via a corridor above the circular lift in the Legion's Hold hangar. You must battle a host of Cabal foes as you cross a long Machine Room, through two huge Docking Bays, and through a Bridging Corridor before your final destination: the bridge of Thumos the Unbroken's space craft! Note that the enemies are not listed here; consult the Campaign for the Cabal you're set to face.

Areas Of Interest

1 Ducts from Legion's Hold (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the mission is active. Head here from the Legion's Hold hangar; it is the only way in or out.

2 Machine Room (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the mission is active. It features a long chamber of rotating pistons, Cabal infantry (including some fearsome Gladiators), and a Sub-Boss Incendior at the far end.

3 Docking Bays (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the mission is active. Two sprawling Docking Bays have every Cabal infantry type imaginable, as well as plenty of Sub-Bosses. You are fortunate, then, to have additional firepower as Amanda Holliday provides support to your assault.

4 Bridge of Thumos the Unbroken (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the mission is active. The bridge of this spacecraft features a high-ranking Cabal commander, whom you must defeat to complete the mission.

Campaign Missions

Echion Vae

SECTOR NOTES:

Strike: The Arms Dealer

Usually Inaccessible

The entirety of Echion Vae is inaccessible unless you're completing the Strike. This is a large-scale loading dock, complete with a small army of Cabal forces led by the ferocious Legionary Boss Valus Zahn. You enter the area via a door on the western side of Legion's Hold, at the circular lift. Once you're through the loading dock, there's a huge winch platform elevator that ascends to a superstructure cargo deck, where the final part of this insane Strike takes place. Note that the enemies are not listed here; consult the Strike for the Cabal you're set to face.

Areas Of Interest

1 Corridor from Legion's Hold (Inaccessible)

This location is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Enter this corridor from the west side of Legion's Hold (via the circular elevated lift where you face Valus Zahn).

2 Loading Dock (Inaccessible)

This location is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. There is a lengthy battle here as you cross over two platforms to the huge platform elevator.

3 Platform Elevator (Inaccessible)

This location is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Ride this elevator up once you've defeated all of the foes.

4 Superstructure Cargo Deck (Inaccessible)

Strikes

The Arms Dealer

Are you ready to deal death to dozens of Cabal forces? This fight takes you all the way from Legion's Anchor, through Sunken Isles and Legion's Hold, and into Echion Vae to defeat the Legionary (and legendary) Cabal boss Valus Zahn.

TITAN
Titan Overview

Orbiting the planet of Saturn and nearly 50% larger than Earth's moon, this planetoid has been colonized somewhat. The choppy methane oceans have been harvested despite the inclement weather conditions, including almost continuous violent storms. Currently, the shipyard is in disrepair, with Fallen incursions but a prelude to the real threats aboard the methane rig platforms and an Arcology facility that was once a luxury residential complex. The Hive are here, and they have clawed deep into this place, secreted their nests around the rusting platforms and chambers, and turned this remote outpost into a festering hellhole.

Progression (Activities)

You access Titan for the first time once you complete Campaign Mission: Combustion in EDZ. This enables you to travel to Titan and begin Campaign Mission: Hope. Once this occurs, you are gradually granted access to more Landing Zones, Sloane, and Adventures, more Campaign Missions, and the World Quest. The Strike is the last activity to be unlocked. As soon as Campaign Mission: Utopia is concluded, you can access Nessus (or head back to EDZ, or continue to explore Titan).

TITAN
Sinking Docks

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Hope

Enemy Clusters: Hive: 5

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 5

Sinking Docks is the first-seen (but not often explored) initial series of rig superstructures on the seas of Titan. It is the first set of rig islands you must navigate during Campaign Mission: Hope, but once you have secured this moon, there's little need to return here, unless you're hunting for Hive and the three collectible objects. Sinking Docks is then accessed via Siren's Watch, using the alarmingly dilapidated covered bridge.

Areas Of Interest

1 Rig: Poelruiter (Entrance)

This is the initial rig you maneuver across during the Campaign Mission. There's nothing but wind and the splash of liquid methane if you return here.

2 Rig: 02 Stormvogel

This is the second main rig to navigate across, with no interiors to access. Though you can reach it after the mission, it is simply a stepping stone.

3 Pipe Platforms

A set of pipe platforms on the underside of an inaccessible rig island allows you to practice your jumping, or die in the process!

4 Rig: Kemphaan

This is the first rig you can enter the interior of, which is a series of small chambers and corridors that the Hive are using as a disgusting nest. There are Thralls, Acolytes, and a Knight to concern yourself with, and limited maneuverability. Don't leave the area without checking the two scannable objects.

5 Rig: Poelruiter (Bay 03 Northwest)

After a series of precise jumps from the Kemphaan rig to the interior door of Poelruiter, you can enter "Bay 03" and battle Acolytes and Thralls in the computer room. This leads to a circular fan you can drop through (it is spinning during the mission and must be shot to deactivate it). There's also a side chamber you can use to maneuver down to the next area, but only if the mission is inactive.

6 Rig: Poelruiter (Bay 03 South)

This exterior of the superstructure is a cargo area with a roaming Wizard and Acolytes to worry about. Note the scannable object (a computer terminal) in the vicinity, along with a precarious gantryway staircase you must carefully climb to reach the last part of this rig.

7 Rig: Poelruiter (Bay 03 East)

A U-shaped cargo bay and site of your first main Hive nest, guarded by Acolytes and a Knight.

8 Covered Bridge to Siren's Watch (East)

Carefully move and leap across the gap in the gantry of this covered bridge, which links the Sinking Docks and Siren's Watch Sectors.

Campaign Missions

Hope

The entirety of this Sector is first navigated from west to east during the Campaign Mission. Afterward, it is fully accessible. That includes a small additional corridor just southwest of the large circular fan, so you can access the western side of this map without trying to ascend between the fan blades.

Enemy Clusters

1 Hive

Expect Acolytes in the darkness of the corridor where the three vertical pipes are located.

2 Hive

A Knight and Acolytes are guarding the scannable object in this cargo area.

3 Hive

Thralls and Cursed Thralls can cause you problems in this enclosed space, so prepare to backpedal to avoid being overwhelmed.

4 Hive

The exterior red gantry features a Hive Wizard and some Acolyte underlings.

5 Hive

A Knight and Acolytes are guarding the nest chamber on the eastern side of the main rig.

Scannable Objects

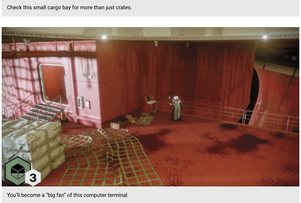
Is that something strange hanging down in the darkness near those vertical pipes?



Check this small cargo bay for more than just crates.

The rig where you first begin exploring this Sector is informally known as the "Sunburst" rig. It's named for the insignia on the exterior walls of the structure as you cross from the southern bridge of the Rig Sector (the only way in and out). The Hive presence is strong here, with secretion-filled corridors and a Wave Converter Control Room you can interact with (mission only). There's a lower Machine Corridor leading to a sealed pair of doors. Further investigations are only possible during the mission. Head outside to a red-colored deck before maneuvering across two connected bridges and towers and two Converter Towers (which must be fixed during the mission), after which there's a tricky rooftop battle on Tower 02. At all other times, this is a place to hone your Hive-culling talents.

Enemy Clusters

1 Hive

The Wave Converter Control Room has a Knight and Acolytes close to the windowed area.

2 Hive

Your first contact with foes involves battling with Hive Acolytes and a Knight. Note that the enemies are different during the mission (they are Fallen). Access the circular door to the west to reach the stairwell.

3 Stairwell

Avoid dropping between the stair platforms, as the fall is deadly.

4 Machine Corridor (Lower)

This is directly below the Convertor Control Room, and it's the last accessible chamber unless a mission is active. A scannable object and a Hive Wizard (with Thrall and Acolyte minions) are active here.

5 Main Computer Room (Inaccessible)

A Patrol or Side Mission may take you into this otherwise sealed room, where you must vanquish a host of Hive foes.

6 Circular Hole (Inaccessible)

This is accessible only when the mission is active. Drop down the hole in this small cargo bay to continue your exploration.

7 Red Deck (Inaccessible)

This is accessible only when the mission is active. Several Fallen, including Tracer Shanks, impede your progress during the mission.

8 Bridge to Tower 01 (Inaccessible)

This is accessible only when the mission is active. Use the tactics described in the mission to cross this narrow bridge.

9 Tower 01 (Inaccessible)

This is accessible only when the mission is active. This is the first of three main towers, all in a southwestern line, one after another.

10 Tower 02 (Inaccessible)

This is accessible only when the mission is active. A similar bridge (with a host of Hive foes during the mission) leads to the second tower. This tower has a special rooftop area where the final battle of this mission takes place.

11 Convertor Tower (North) (Inaccessible)

This is accessible only when the mission is active. Fix one of the two wave converters here.

12 Tower 03 (Inaccessible)

This is accessible only when the mission is active. This is used to access the second Converter Tower.

13 Convertor Tower (South) (Inaccessible)

This is accessible only when the mission is active. Fix the second of the two wave converters here.

Campaign Missions

Riptide

The majority of this Sector is inaccessible unless this Campaign Mission is active. Note that enemy types in accessible chambers are different during the mission, too.

Scannable Objects

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Hive: 3

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 1

A botanist's dream, this experiment into growing plant life on Titan can be seen as a sterling success, though there are no humans around and nature has been allowed to run rampant. The main lobby forecourt of this tourist attraction, with a waterlogged sunken central area, acts as a hub allowing you to progress either to the Arboretum (north) or Festering Halls areas (south). Both locations are spawning grounds for Hive forces. Head deeper into either of these other Sectors to discover greater danger. Aside from clearing Hive forces, this area is used as a pass-through point during missions (usually Campaign and Strike-related), where there are more Fallen active in the vicinity.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to The Rig

This is where you first explore from. Head in from the west, proceeding east across the badly damaged exterior bridge to reach a cargo bay and gantry stairs.

2 Gantry Platforms

The drops around the sides of these platforms can't be survived, so bear this in mind when leaping around. A fissure in the LED lighting wall (part of a giant monitor) allows access into the main lobby area.

3 Forecourt and Lobby

This huge central section features a sunken central area, now waterlogged. To the north is a relatively clean entrance to the Arboretum. South is a jungle of plant and Hive life, as well as access to the Festering Halls Sector itself.

4 Arboretum Entrance (North)

Note the vivid green color and the displays of plant life at the entrance to the Arboretum; use this to situate yourself so you don't head in the wrong direction.

5 Festering Halls Entrance (South)

This is much more overgrown, with a subsequent large corridor that winds down to the Festering Halls after a turnstile.

Enemy Clusters

1 Hive

Acolytes led by a Knight are guarding the gantryway platforms that lead to the LED opening into the main part of this Sector. Note that during missions, Fallen are usually operating in this area.

2 Hive

The left (northern) doorway into the green-lit arboretum features a small group of Acolytes. Bring your best weaponry, and make that group even smaller.

3 Hive

A few Acolytes are milling around near the southwest exit of the main forecourt.

Scannable Objects

It's worth "monitoring" the situation at this point.

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Utopia

Enemy Clusters: Hive: 3

Material Nodes: Available

Partially Inaccessible

Scannable Objects: 3

Seen as an example of harmonious design of man and nature, this facility is now an overgrown, dilapidated mess of Hive secretions, nests, and flooded hallways. Navigating your way through here requires quick reflexes because the lights and power are mostly out, and the Hive presence is always there. Negotiate to the flooded eastern side of the main hall, and your progress is halted. A barrier prevents progress down an elevator shaft to the long descent down ducts and service passageways to an APC hangar and a vehicular escape.

Areas Of Interest

1 Forecourts and Lobby (from Solarium)

An overgrown mass of vegetation clashes with Hive secretions. Several Hive foes are active in this sunken forecourt, with steps up to a lobby that ends in a hole down to the lower corridor.

2 Lower Corridor

The darkness can be a problem because the foes here can quickly swarm you, so take extra care when exploring this area. If you're here and haven't found the scannable objects, you've explored too far.

3 Main Hall

This crusty Hive hub has a Wizard and Acolytes to worry about. There's a raised walkway across the middle of the room (where you fight Knights during the mission only) and a water-filled eastern area where an Ogre appears. Normal exploration stops at this point.

4 Elevator Shaft (Inaccessible)

This area is accessible only if the mission is active. To progress deeper into this Sector, navigate a series of narrow vertical drops.

5 Descent (Inaccessible)

This area is accessible only if the mission is active. Explore ductwork and service passageways.

6 Core Chamber (Inaccessible)

This area is accessible only if the mission is active. The core itself is a fusion ball you carry out of here to a waiting APC.

7 APC Hangar (Inaccessible)

This area is accessible only if the mission is active. Choose an APC, and use it to drive your way out of the massive Hive tunnels under the facility.

8 Landing Pad (Inaccessible)

This area is accessible only if the mission is active. Amanda Holliday picks you up from this point to conclude the mission.

Campaign Mission

Utopia

An attack on this Hive base takes place during the aforementioned Campaign Mission. Note the increased Hive presence and full access to all chambers, including a vehicular escape.

Enemy Clusters

1 Hive

Expect Acolytes and possibly a Knight in the initial overgrown lobby chambers.

2 Hive

Acolytes clutter up the darkness of the lower corridor.

3 Hive

The main hall houses a number of Acolytes under the watchful gaze of a Wizard. Note that the enemy types are different during the mission.

Scannable Objects

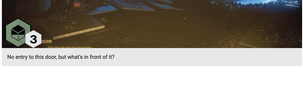
Monitor the situation from this object, in the sunken entrance chamber.



Something sharp is protruding near this overgrown sign.

Strike Mission: Savathûn's Song

The main mezzanines and vast hallways showing the plant life that could grow on Titan have been left to fester. Now the Hive forces have spread through these hallways like a virus. Accessed from Solarium, most of this Sector (aside from some initial hallways) is inaccessible unless the Strike: Savathûn's Song is active. Should this occur, you have a massive number of Hive foes to tackle, including Wizards and Ogres, as you battle through the various chambers of Arboretum, destroying strange Hive crystals as you go. Only then can you drop down into the Chasm of Screams, where you face the biggest Hive foe. Under normal conditions, spend time here locating scannable objects and honing your Hive-culling talents. Note that one of the locations (the Reactor Core) is only available during the World Quest: Enemy of My Enemy.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to Solarium (North)

Several smooth-floored and relatively clean corridors are accessible should you venture here from the Solarium. A scattering of Hive foes and a scannable object are likely in this area.

2 Main Hall

A long and impressive main hallway with a giant pink-colored LED wall visible as you arrive and look left (south). Look out, as the place is teeming with Hive (even more so during the Strike). Come here to clear the area, and progress no further if the Strike is active.

3 The Pit to Chasm of Screams (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. This is the central hub to the lower expansive part of this Sector. The only way to reach the Chasm of Screams (during the Strike) is by destroying the chained crystal. Note the north and south Hive tunnels and the main corridor to the east.

4 Bio Dome Mezzanine (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. This huge, impressive series of open-air platforms is filled with Hive foes during the Strike.

5 Crystal Chamber (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Accessed after negotiating your way through the Bio Dome Mezzanine, this dead-end platform is bathed in reddish light, with a large crystal at one end. As always, plenty of Hive are here.

6 Interior Mezzanine Entrance (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Enter the area after maneuvering through the Hive tunnel on the south side of the Pit.

7 Lower Mezzanine Entrance (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. After fighting the Hive across the Interior Mezzanine, there's a lower area connected to the Main Corridors. Once again, Hive foes are plentiful.

8 Main Corridors (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. A large L-shaped corridor section leads from the Lower Mezzanine back to the Pit. Note that the reactor room to the east is inaccessible, even during the Strike.

9 Reactor Core (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the World Quest is active. Reaching this reactor chamber is the culmination of the World Quest on Titan. Face down a Fallen Captain, and complete the mission. This is the only time this chamber is accessible.

Scannable Objects

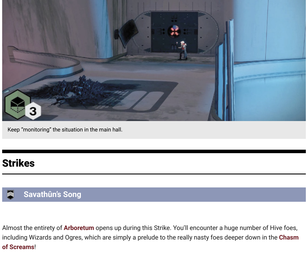
Check the terminal at the exit back to the Solarium Sector.



All signs (well, arrows, at least) point to this wall circuit.

Keep "monitoring" the situation in the main hall.

Strikes

Savathûn's Song

Almost the entirety of Arboretum opens up during this Strike. You'll encounter a huge number of Hive foes, including Wizards and Ogres, which are simply a prelude to the really nasty foes deeper down in the Chasm of Screams!

Strike Mission: Savathûn's Song

Beneath the Arboretum are several connected burrow-like tunnels that the Hive have constructed. They lead to a large ledge-like chamber where the main host of Hive on this planetoid reside under the watchful and terrible gaze of the Dark Heart. Head here to conclude the Strike: Savathûn's Song. Otherwise, this is not an accessible area.

Areas Of Interest

1 Hive Burrows (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. The ground of the Pit in the central part of the Arboretum falls away once a crystal is destroyed, allowing you to progress through a series of revolting, secretion-filled Hive burrows.

2 Chamber of the Dark Heart (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. The epicenter of Hive activity on Titan, this large ledge has been extensively burrowed. It's also the place where the Dark Heart (a giant Shrieker) resides. Conclude your Strike here.

Strikes

Savathûn's Song

Battle through Arboretum to finish your Strike at the Chasm of Screams, and face the terrible eye of the Dark Heart itself. Beware of Ogres! This is the only time the Chasm of Screams is accessible.

NESSUS
Nessus Overview

A minor Centaur planet changed into a machine planetoid by the Vex, the Red Legion have recently landed on this world, ostensibly to start an impressively large strip-mining operation. Vex entities were subsequently awoken to this invasion, and the region is now overrun with Vex forces, who are adeptly battling the remnants of the Cabal and some rag-tag Fallen exploratory forces also on the world. Nessus would be strange and wonderful to explore, with breathtaking block-like architecture, massive lakes of white fluid, and grand vistas. There are interior Sectors that offer a glimpse into the very core of this planet. But the architecture is swarming with Vex, the water is deadly Radiolarian Fluid, and the grand vistas lead to deadly drops.

Progression (Activities)

You begin your investigation of this world at the start of Campaign Mission: Looped, when you arrive at Artifact's Edge. Aside from the mission, you can optionally complete a variety of activities, including an exploration, Adventures, and a World Quest. Scannable Objects: 1

Aside from the two large exit roadways, this is a short thoroughfare with a dead-end crash site to the south and a Public Event (Disrupted) regarding the exterminators of Cabal's Strike squad. Under normal circumstances, this Sector offers sure access to the upper entrance into Hallows (to the east) and a main road entrance into the Tangle (to the west). Expect light fire activity, mainly clustered on the upper plateau above the Lost Sector entrance.

Areas Of Interest

Exit to The Tangle (West)

A winding road, gradually filling in with trees and other plant life.

Energy Elevator

You can drop down here using the energy chute. Otherwise, use this as a landmark so you know that an uphill run leads to the Tangle (west).

Upper Plateau and Curved Alcove

Expect the largest concentration of Vex foes on the plateau area above the Lost Sector entrance across from the energy elevator.

Rocky Junction

Head south to the Crash Site, or remain on this thoroughfare when exiting to either of the adjacent Sectors.

Crash Site

The remains of a crashed spacecraft mark this dead-end area, though you can find a scannable object and Region Chest.

Exit to Hallows (East)

A sharp right followed by a left turn past the Adventure beacon lets you reach the large circular hole that marks the upper entrance into Hallows.

Adventures

The Disruptor Core

Access this marker on the edge of the rock clump under the energy elevator.

Adventures

Ghost in the Machine

Stuck into a cluster of rocks at the entrance to the Hallows exit.

Enemy Clusters

Vex

The northwest plateau has a group of Goblins, two Hobgoblins (one guarding the rock wall above the Lost Sector entrance), and a Minotaur in the curved alcove.

Vex

Harpies cluster on the rocks in the central junction area.

Landing Zone

Artifact's Edge

Drop in from Orbit to this reasonably central location, landing close to the energy elevator with quick access to both the Tangle (west) and Hallows (east).

Lost Sectors

The Ormery

An opening in the northern perimeter, guarded by a Hobgoblin, leads beyond an earthen pit and into a Vex chamber with an altar-like structure at the far end. Goblins, Hobgoblins, and a toughened Minotaur are ready to repel intruders.

Scannable Objects

1 Head south, Guardian! Self-jumping to this tiny alcove is required.

Public Events

Cabal Excavation (Full)

Cabal Excavation: This takes place on the raised central rock formation. It has you attempt to override a Cabal mining laser while dodging incoming laser fire and the Cabal infantry waves that drop in from above, as well as any nearby Vex.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Cabal Excavation | Mining Laser | Cabal Infantry | Boss Chest |

Vex Event (Secret)

Ambush: While you're in the flat pond area to the northwest where Vex Enemy Cluster #1 is located, a Storm Minotaur warps in to bolster the enemy's forces. Defeat it, along with any other hostiles.

Jailbreak: Fallen Captain or Cabal Centurion is being held in an energy cell in the curved north alcove. Tackle the Vex Goblins and guard Minotaurs. Then, the cell disappears, leaving you to deal with the remaining foe!

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Ambush | Storm Minotaur | Vex Goblins, Hobgoblins, Harpies | Random Loot |
| 2 | Jailbreak | Fallen Captain or Cabal Centurion | Guard Minotaurs, Vex forces | Boss Chest |

Entrance to — The Nine (Crevasse)

Head down into the crevasse and find the orange-hued fire well, which has an opening. This is the only entrance to and from The Nine.

Entrance to Crevasse (South)

Head down to exit of the crevasse at this point by the blockhaus marker and under the large southeast one.

Southwest Road and Pond

The road sweeps around at this point. Watch for multiple foes in the vicinity.

Entrance to — Wall of Sorrow (Southwest)

A sunken pond with plenty of Tier foes allows you to reach a strange pyramidal entrance to (and exit from) the Wall of Sorrow. This is the only access point.

Mighty Tree (Northwest)

Aside from foes in the vicinity, check this area for the tree you can climb and the branches you can navigate, and leave access to several areas on top of the mountain.

Mighty Tree (Northeast)

There are two huge trees in this area, and you can use their branches to reach upper areas around the mountain. Watch for Hydra in the vicinity.

Entrance to — Summer of Gloom (South)

A cluster of fire foes is always around the circular tree teleport. This is the only entrance to (and exit from) the Chamber of Stone.

Road Junction (Southeast)

Use this as a landmark, a small patch of grass and rough-hill roads merge here. Remember to check which exit you need to head east on.

Exit — Asylum's Edge (East)

Head east to reach the Asylum's Edge. Note that the road heads down to the junction. It also actually turns north to link to the rest of the Thorning Fields.

Exit to The Gaffer (Southeast)

Study this icon and environment as this will as you don't continue it will be the one to Arthur's Edge. This takes you under the Gaffer caverns.

Enemy Clusters

Any Area

Hobbs, Harpies, and a Hydra are possible foes to face in the far left of the Sydra, as in the northeast part of the area.

Any Area

Enter this crossways, and prepare for Hopp combat. There may be additional Goblins in the vicinity too.

Any Area

Hydra dominate and possibly Goblins in this crossway. Head to the entrance to an interior known as the Nine.

Any Area

The raised rocky area around the southwestern tree usually has patrols of Goblins, Harpies, and Hobgoblins.

Any Area

A Minotaur, Goblins, and possible Hobgoblins are splashing around in the waterlogged sunken pond area close to the entrance to the Wall of Sorrow.

Any Area

The entrance to the Chamber of Stone has a number of Goblins and Hobgoblins to worry about. If a Minotaur is active, these are even enemies.

Any Area

Expect Goblins and Minotaurs when the carnage of the two large trees near the road junction, on the east side of the map.

Adventures

Adventure

Find the marker in the base of the crevasse, opposite the entrance to the Nine, faces on the rocky outcrop.

The Nine — Final

Head to the marker on the main thoroughfare, close to the southwest pond and entrance to Wall of Sorrow.

Lost Sectors

Arcadia's Haunt

A vicious, truly mystical sparks up the old world, glade with various world-class and scare life. A sizable into presence to face, with Goblins, Hobgoblins, Harpies, and a Cult Boss to be on guard.

| Sector Rated | Sector Name | Sub Boss | Reward |

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Vex: 2

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 1

This small secondary Sector is only accessible via the Tangle. It features a narrow entrance tunnel (after the portal) leading to a pair of partially natural, partially Vex-constructed caverns, each with a cluster of foes to worry about. Aside from secondary questing (Adventure: The Vex Trial concludes here, with many more foes than those listed during normal activities), you're here for the exploration and the scannable object.

Areas Of Interest

1 Portal to The Tangle

This drops you back in the Tangle (the only way to reach this place), in the southern part of that Sector. There is a tight tunnel corridor leading toward the first cavern.

2 First Cavern

Expect Vex activity in this area, along with scattered materials to gather. Note the red Vex teleport, which is an exit (from #3).

3 Second Cavern

Push through the narrow gap into a second almost identically sized cavern, with further foes, a scannable object, and a teleport dropping you back in the first cavern.

Enemy Clusters

1 Vex

The first cavern has Goblins and other Vex infantry that turn hostile as you enter. Expect Hobgoblins and Harpies, as well.

2 Vex

The second cavern has additional Vex infantry. Around six enemies are expected, including a possible Minotaur.

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 2

Investigate this underground Vex shrine by accessing the lower crevasse area in the Tangle. Locate the opening (with a glowing orange hue) along the northwestern side of the crevasse wall. Inside is a winding tunnel to a couple of caverns, a curved passage around to a large underground chasm, and two promontories separated by a bottomless drop. Leap across to find a final corridor to an altar chamber, along with a teleport back close to the entrance/exit. Head here for the Vex culling and collectibles.

Areas Of Interest

1 Entrance and Exit (to The Tangle)

The continuation of this tunnel leads to and from the lower crevasse area of the Tangle. Look for the orange glow. Inside, a narrow and mostly natural-looking rock tunnel leads you deeper.

2 Circular Floor and Teleport Exit

A slightly wet tunnel area, with a branching passage leading to a red teleport exit (where you appear from after completing this exploration). Head onward across a circular stone floor, and wind through another narrow tunnel.

3 Vex Cavern

A group of Vex infantry guards this rocky cavern, with Vex carved stone to the right (east) side. Access the narrow curved opening ahead and right (east), working your way around it and battling Harpies as you go.

4 West Promontory

The western side of the main chamber, bisected by a misty chasm you must jump across, has more naturally occurring rock formations, as well as Vex to dispatch.

5 East Promontory

The eastern side of this map features more block-based Vex carvings, with infantry (Goblins and Hobgoblins) guarding the many small ledges and pillars. Leap across to engage them. Note the scannable object in this area.

6 Altar and Teleport Room

The final chamber features a scannable object and the last set of foes to face, including a Minotaur. Take the teleport back to #2 if you don't want to trudge back the way you came.

Scannable Objects

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to The Tangle

This is the only entrance and exit to this Sector. Reach it via the pyramid-shaped entrance in the southwestern corner of the Tangle.

2 Cave Drop

A hole in the upper cave leads down to the Well of Echoes entrance corridor.

3 Portal to Well Chamber

Accessed at the end of the entrance corridor. Note the red teleport allows you to return here once your exploration of the Well Chamber is complete, though that chamber is inaccessible. Enter the portal, and there's a small rocky tunnel leading to an energy barrier.

4 The Well Chamber (Inaccessible)

The cylindrical Well Chamber itself is devoid of life and cannot be accessed unless the specific Adventure is active. Then, expect a host of Vex to be here, ready to receive your firepower.

Even though you can skirt the majority of this Sector by passing along the northeastern perimeter [Destination], you'll miss out on Public Events and Region Chests if you do. Instead, we recommend a simple Vex patrolling, as well as two areas where a careless maneuver can cost you your life. Although there are no Lore Sectors, there is an entrance to the Chamber of Water, along with an alcove along the northern edge of the sunken arena where a host of Vex may appear. Fallen are also active in this area, and there's even a captured Cabal prisoner to save, should one of the three Secret Public Events activate. Finally, note the Landing Zone: it's an excellent way to reach the two larger adjacent Sectors, as well as the cove.

Areas Of Interest

Road to The Tangle (North)

The northern exit heading west enables you to quickly reach the northern part of the Tangle.

Entrance to Chamber of Water

This side alcove in the northern exterior has numerous Vex infantry guarding a circular teleport, which whisks you to the Chamber of Water Sector. This is the only access point to this Sector.

North Ruins

Expect a light enemy presence (or a cluster of Fallen during a Skirmish) in the vicinity of the protruding low cobalt ruins around the northern perimeter of the arena.

Northwest Plateaus

The naturally occurring rock plateaus have Vex foes to concern yourself with, and an arena cave above beneath your feet.

Arena Alcove (North Central)

Don't overlook the opening in the arena wall in the sunken north-central part of this Sector. There's a Vex cluster and some interesting discoveries inside.

Watcher's Arena

The majority of this Sector consists of this large circular arena. Southwest is the "eye," part of the huge perimeter wall. Watch for Goblintrous drops to the west and southeast.

Arena Eye (Southwest)

The floor below the arena eye is loathed in orange light. Note the three pillars (one with a Region Chest), a Fallen Dreg object on the left (eastern) corner of the numerous wall ledges, and a Hydra roaming the lower floor.

Mini Pillars

A frightening part of this Sector; this area below a massive Vex construction overhang features a smattering of rock pillars and a bottomless drop into void. One of the pillars has a chest to find.

East Promontory

This offers good views of the arena below and is a reasonable sniping point. Beware of the Minotaur and Goblins patrolling here, and check around the narrow ledge to the south for a chest.

Road to Hallows (Southeast)

The curved roadway skirts around the northeastern side of this Sector, weaving southeastward to Hallows.

Enemy Clusters

Vex

Expect Goblins and Hobgoblins to be guarding the entrance to the Chamber of Water in the northeastern promontory.

Vex

The upper ruins along the northern edge of the arena have roaming Goblins for you to contend with.

Vex

The northwestern plateaus have Harpies to tackle, as well as Goblins (plus a cryptic Hobgoblin) to watch for.

Vex

The underside of the northern plateau area features a wide but short alcove cave, with Harpies, Goblins, and a Minotaur inside.

Vex

The eastern promontory features a Minotaur roaming the area, along with its Goblin brethren.

Vex

Goblins, Hobgoblins, and a fearsome Hydra are patrolling the area under the orange-lit arena eye.

Public Events

Arena Eye (Full)

Sorrier Resupply: This takes place in the sunken arena area. There are plenty of Fallen foes to tackle, multiple waves of lesser Sorrikos, and the usual Vex foes to ignore so you aren't overwhelmed.

Ignis Integration: Vex are attempting to fortify their nearby structure. Simply hold off waves of Vex at the northern ruins. Note that Goblintrous drops in the southeastern area, and you can also destroy Harpie map areas; to complete this event, defeat them all without letting the Integrations meter reach zero.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Sorrikor Resupply | Fallen Sorrikor | Shanks, Dregs, Vandals, Servitors, Hobgoblins | Boss Chest |
| 2 | Ignis Integration | Integration points | Vex infantry | Boss Chest |

(Secret)

HOT #1: A Vex Storm Minotaur appears at one of the indicated guide map locations (1A, 1B, 1C, or 1D). Defeat it immediately!

HOT #2: If Fallen Captain appears at one of the indicated guide map locations (2A, 2B, 2C, 2D or 2E). Remove it at once!

Jailbreak (three locations): A captured enemy (a Cabal Centurion, Fallen Captain, or Fallen Servitor, depending on the location) is being held in an energy cell. Tackle the Vex Goblins and Minotaur guards. Then, the cell disappears, leaving you to deal with the prisoner free!

Skirmish: This is a fight against consecutive waves of Fallen infantry throughout the indicated area; close to the main thoroughfare.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | High-Value Target | Storm Minotaur | Goblins, Hobgoblins, Harpies | Boss Chest |
| 2 | High-Value Target | Fallen Captain | None | Boss Chest |
| 3 | Jailbreak | Cabal Centurion (Brown Variation) | Guard Minotaurs, Vex forces | Boss Chest |
| 4 | Jailbreak | Fallen Captain | Guard Minotaurs, Vex forces, Vex Hobgoblin | Boss Chest |
| 5 | Jailbreak | Fallen Servitor | Guard Minotaurs, Vex forces | Boss Chest |
| 6 | Skirmish (Vex Infantry) | — | — | Random Loot |

Landing Zone

Watcher's Grave LZ

An LZ is accessible in this Sector; you land over on the eastern perimeter of the map, close to the road and equidistant to both exits. Head here for quick access to the Tangle or Hallows.

Patrols

Watcher's Grave (7)

A total of seven Patrol beacons eventually become available here. Note that one of the beacons is below ground, in the alcove cave.

Region Chests

1 Region Chest 1

Below the arena eye, atop one of the stone-like Vex pillars.

2 Region Chest 2

On a narrow corner of the ledge, around and south from the eastern promontory.

3 Region Chest 3

On the near mini pillar, requiring deft jumping across the bottomless chasm.

Scannable Objects

1

This Goblin is not the robot it used to be. Now it's boarding-out.

2

There's something interesting to scan below the surface.

3

A roaring gallery of machinery on a high corner ledge, tailored in orange.

Vendor

Xur

Have you spotted the Agent of the Nine? He occasionally appears on the branch of the large tree on the north side of the main thoroughfare, if you're lucky! Xur offers special items to those who can find him. He can appear other places as well.

Chamber Of Water

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Vex: 2

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 1

Those Guardians investigating the Vex portal along the northern perimeter of Watcher's Grave find themselves in a tight and precarious position: a corridor leading to a Vex chamber overlooking a death plummet into the white mists. You're here for the scannable object and to slaughter Vex. This location is also visited during Adventure: Key to the Network, where the Sector is much more populated.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to Watcher's Grave

This is the only entrance and exit to this Sector. It leads back to Watcher's Grave and the waterlogged portal area along the northern perimeter of that map. The entrance tunnel is narrow and slopes to the right.

2 Cavern Chamber

A small contingent of Vex is in the initial chamber, along with a red teleport (where you exit after discovering the main chamber).

3 Main Chamber

The bulk of the Vex combat occurs throughout this partially ruined Vex level. Openings along the north and eastern sides lead to a death plummet. The teleport returning you close to the exit is in a high south corner.

Enemy Clusters

1 Vex

In this initial cavern, be wary of Hobgoblins sniping you from the upper rocks, as well as Goblins.

2 Vex

Harpies, Minotaurs, Goblins, and Hobgoblins are active in the main chamber.

Scannable Objects

A thin, white crackle that's sure to Vex you.

The Cistern

SECTOR NOTES

Adventure: A Tale of Two Goalkeeps

Loot Sectors: 1

Enemy Classes: Cabal: 2

Enemy Clusters: Fallen: 3

Enemy Chests: Available

Landing Zone: Available

Material Nodes: Available

Patrol Beacons: 1

Public Event (Full): 1

Public Event (Sacred): 1

Reprise Chests: 3

Ascendant Objects: 3

Perhaps the largest of the Sectors on this planetoid (it's one with cuirasses and tanks to contend). The Cistern functions as a point of separation between Pyramidion Park's farms to the South and directly off-axis from Japanese Garden's Shrine to the North. Its Northern and Southern ends are dominated by the Shrine of Entropy and the Well of Souls, at the top of the large central tower that dominates the southwestern edge of the map. Even farther across the center rests to the southwest is the entrance to the Archive, a Sector that's also accessible from the Well of Souls. Its Eastern edge is dominated by the Cistern itself, a huge reservoir that's not purchased, as well as a path to the Plaza of Lamentation (southeast). Come here for the Fallen and Cabal to rust, and stop for the Public Events.

Areas Of Interest

1 Well (The Tangle - Southwest)

If you want to simply maneuver from Sector to Sector, just travel south and then southeast from the Tangle to Shrine of Entropy. Jump on the ledge, double-the-knockdown and be at the Well in seconds flat.

2 Northeast Junction

This marks the spot where the road continues south to the Tangle, south to Shrine of Entropy, and west to the remainder of the Sector. The Tangle Teleport Pad connects you to Fallen here.

3 Main Thoroughfare (East to West)

A long, narrow curved avenue that leads to the remainder of the entire Sector, and is directly due east on the southern side of the path. Note the Region Chest in the corridor and the road into the northeast promontory.

4 Northwest Promontory

A circular spit of ground where the Cabal like to summon their Ogres by. Cabal are here, and so are several of the Fallen around a Region Chest.

5 Wilcox Lake (North)

Although your Sparrow can take you to the perimeter of this Sector, there's little to find that's north of the perimeter.

6 Mighty Tree (West)

Use this huge earthbed tree as a landmark as you enter from the main thoroughfare. The tree marks a Spawn Point, there as well as a Loot Sector. You scramble objects on the ridges to the west.

7 Tunnel Posts

The base of the tunnel has a small squad of Cabal to cull, including Psions and Phalanxes. The area has obstacles and stepping stones, so watch your Sparrow movement. Note the low scramble objects in the valley.

8 Well of Flames (Entrance (Southwest)

After you navigate through the Cabal chamber and go up the huge cube-like flow and entrance to the top of the Tower, an opening inside the cathedral tower allows access to the mysterious Well of Flames.

9 Wilcox Lake and Shore (South)

Although the Radiolarian Fluid is dangerous to the touch, you can ride a Sparrow (or Pike) across here with minimal harm. Investigate the shoreline to find a Region Chest and a possible Public Event or two. To the south is a roaring waterfall into a white rock. And I mean the real waterfall.

10 Teleport Pad

A perfectly normal pentimeter exists with a solid Fallen Depot Chest and two clusters of Fallen here, including Hostile Marauders and a Captain in the north. It is parallel to the main road just west of this.

11 Teleport Platform (Southeast)

This is the Landing Zone for the Sector, where a group of Fallen is milling about. Normally you'd head here for a possible Patrol Beacon. Sorry, this is The Ascend Spire, though. And so where a series of floating platforms is somewhat, leading ascended to the Anchor Sector.

12 Plaza of Lamentation

This sits in the perimeter wall (with a nearby scramble object you reach climb to) where access into the Plaza of Lamentation is here. Note the unpurchased Passage Between Sectors.

13 Shrine of Entropy

The far southeastern corner of this Sector features a cliff top road leading eastward into the Shrine of Entropy Sector.

Region Chests

1 Region Chest 1

Inside the shell of the Hive grotto, in the circular promontory.

2 Region Chest 2

High atop the Hive structure along the main thoroughfare.

3 Region Chest 3

Tucked in a high alcove along the jagged overhang.

Loot Sectors

The Conflux

Enter this Loot Sector near the large hole on the western side of the Sector. Inside is a large Ice Bath chamber featuring a group of Cabal to fight. Then hustle to a Void Bore Container.

| Type | Name | Sub Boss | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|
| Normal | Conflux | Cabal Centurion | Boss Chest |

Adventures

1 A Tale of Two Goalkeeps

The marker is on the ride of the main thoroughfare, centrally located.

Landing Zone

1 The Ascend

Drop in on a group of Fallen in the southwestern part of the Sector. Also in the land is Shrine of Entropy.

Patrols

1 The Cistern

There are up to nine Patrol missions in this Sector. Return here again to access additional Beacons.

Public Events

1 Public Event (Full)

Skirmish Extraction: The missions destroying the three Fallen protection cabals (16, 18, and 12) dotted around the Sector.

Injection Rig: This stands at the point closest on the map to the large circular promontory (northwest). Expect a Fallen Captain and Vanguard to be present, and a couple of Phalanxes to patrol the roof of the facility, and a Hobgoblin and Goblin to be present around the rig near the base.

| Event Type | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Skirmish Extraction | Fallen Phalanxes | Fallen Walkers | Mercury, Boss Chest |
| 2 | Injection Rig | Fallen Dual Walkers | Fallen Psions | Boss Chest |

2 Public Event (Sacred)

EXT 21 and 22: A Cabal Centurion is a Sire Boom Minotaur apparent at one of the eight individual points (14, 15, 13, 16, 12, 17, 11, or 18).

The Cargo: These events aren't usually worthwhile. They crash about and flash at the individual locale.

Launchers: Enlisted like Red Adaptations at each of the individual cannon positions. Remove Hostiles at 30, then Ignite Energy Launchers at least 30, and continue to 50. Then move down the Way Windscreen at one such your way around 50, 80, and 30 once more (using the cannon each time). Defeat all foes around the Launchers before they disappear to claim your prize.

Skirmish: Run down on the map, the Fallen versus Cabal skirmish is lengthy and features tough targets. Use both sides wisely.

| Event Type | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Fallen Dual Walkers | Cabal Centurion | None | Boss Chest |
| 2 | Fallen Dual Walkers | Sire Sword Minotaur | None | Boss Chest |
| 3 | Fallen Dual Walkers | Sire and Sire Sword Minotaur | Boss Chest and 400 Glimmer | |
| 4 | Phlo Crew | Sire and Sire Sword Minotaur | Boss Chest and 400 Glimmer | |
| 5 | Launchers | Three cannons | Fallen Dual Walkers and Vanguard | Boss Chest x3 |
| 6 | Skirmish | Cabal Centurion | None | Boss Chest |

A flash-sign Fallen Trapper appears in one of the same locations across the map.

Enemy Clusters

1 Fallen

The circular promontory north of the main thoroughfare houses Legionaries, Phalanxes, and Incendiors when there's not a Cabal event going.

2 Cabal

The shallow pool and ramparts house the Well of Flames Sector (west) opposite Phalanxes, Incendiors, and roaming Psions.

3 Fallen

The large, white blocks by the main road junction have Dregs and Vandals for you to worry about.

Chests

1

A Captain and some stealthy Marauders are hulking in the northern part of the overhang on the eastern peninsula.

2

Expect Vandals, Shanks, and Dregs on the southern end of the overhang on the eastern peninsula.

3

The shoreline of the southern white rails features Shanks, Dregs, and a Harridan.

4

Look for Legionary Vanguard, Shanks, and Dregs here invaded the Landing Zone.

Scannable Objects

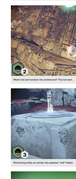
1 Scanning Cabal is looking at all the info on the Hive flag here.



2 Where all Cabal hunters like to gather and "Do it the right way."

3 Scanning Cabal, an engineer, has another, "right" notion.

4 Scanner at the edge of ancient Technocrat Field Data.

5 Scanning Cabal engineer using a "technical" technique.

Pools Of Luminance

ENEMY CONTROL
Vex

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Vex: 2

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 2

The pools that this Sector is infamous for consist of pure Radiolarian Fluid, the lifeblood of the Vex. It is harmful to stand on, making accurate jumping more important than normal as you investigate this interior area, accessed via the Vex fissure in the southeastern corner of the Cistern Sector. Inside are several uphill caverns leading to a Luminance Arena where you must face a large cluster of Vex foes. Note that this area is visited (with even more Vex threats) during Campaign Mission: Six. During normal circumstances, hone your Vex-culling talents and gather data on two scannable objects when checking this Sector out.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to The Cistern

A metal block corridor enables you to reach this Sector from the Cistern. This is the only way in or out, assuming the Campaign Mission is not active. Note that the initial circular room, which has an upper alcove and a teleport return, leads to a stream.

2 Radiolarian Stream

A winding stream offers you a chance to perfect your jumping, landing on the rocks rather than the fluid itself. Note the golden alcove to the south that leads to a scannable object.

3 Radiolarian Cavern

Your first Vex encounter occurs here as you ascend a rocky cavern embankment and old ruins.

4 Luminance Arena

The majority of your time here is spent battling almost every Vex enemy type, including a Hydra. Note the stepping stones around the base of this arena and the raised platforms across and north, with a scannable object below.

5 Vex Teleport

The exit corridor usually has Harpies to shoot. It ends at a teleport, which sends you back to the entrance room.

Scannable Objects

A solid gold corridor leads to this scannable prize.

Something is sticking out of that arena chamber Radiolarian Fluid.

Enemy Clusters

1 Vex

The initial cavern has Goblins, Hobgoblins, Harpies, and a Minotaur for you to contend with.

2 Vex

The Luminance Arena is filled with foes, though not quite as many as during the Campaign Mission. Expect the usual Goblins and Hobgoblins, along with Harpies and Minotaurs. A Hydra is also active in this area. Note that the white Radiolarian Fluid is harmful, as always. Watch for Harpies as you exit to the teleport chamber.

DESTINY 2

NESSUS

Well Of Flame

SECTOR NOTES:

Partially Inaccessible

The dominant structure in the southeastern part of the Cistern is a large cylindrical tower. Bound up the side of it to enter the Wall of Flame. This is a Vex temple of some description, but the main arena chamber is inaccessible under normal conditions (only during the Adventure: A Tale of Two Confluxes is it available to enter). There's a slightly convoluted method of getting in and out of this place (which is only accessible via the Cistern), with multiple chances to use Vex teleports depending on how far into the well you want to descend.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to The Cistern

This shining Vex entrance is atop a series of large block steps around the exterior of the structure, accessed in The Cistern. This is the only way in or out.

2 Initial Well Drop

The initial chamber is circular, with a deep well hole in the middle. Drop down to reach a small lower dead-end cavern with a Vex portal (#3) and a teleport back to the surface (#5).

3 Vex Portal

Utilize the Vex portal, and you warp into an adjacent chamber with access down to the Flame Arena entrance itself. Under normal circumstances, this is sealed with a barrier, forcing you up some rough steps to another Vex teleport (#5).

4 Flame Arena (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless Adventure: A Tale of Two Confluxes is active. This is where you battle a host of foes, but under normal conditions, you can only peer into this place from the energy barrier.

5 Vex Teleports and Exit

When you want to leave, use any of the three white glowing teleports on the ground in areas #2, #3, or #4. All warp you to an upper alcove on the edge of the initial drop chamber, just north of the exit.

DESTINY 2

NESSUS
The Anchor

SECTOR NOTES:

Strike Mission: The Inverted Spire

Usually Inaccessible

A small connecting chasm that allows access from the Cistern's Vex cannon route (in the far southwestern area of that Sector) into the main Cabal Drill Site Sector. Even though you can reach the entrance at any time, an energy barrier blocks the narrow fissure entrance. This is only removed during the Strike: The Inverted Spire. At all other times, this is impassable.

Areas Of Interest

1 Entrance from The Cistern (Northeast)

Head in here from the Cistern after flying across using the Vex cannons.

2 Anchor Chasm (Inaccessible)

This area is only accessible during the Strike. In this chasm, a careful descent and landing is advisable as you and your team fight against Vex forces dotted around the high ledges and lower western platforms. Note the Vex catapult you can use from a lower ledge to reach the exit area.

3 Exit to Cabal Drill Site (Southwest) (Inaccessible)

This area is only accessible during the Strike. The exit brings you out on a tall precipice overlooking the gigantic Cabal Drill Site.

Strikes

The Inverted Spire

To ensure complete access to this area, the aforementioned Strike must be underway.

DESTINY 2

NESSUS

Excavation Site VII

SECTOR NOTES:

Strike Mission: The Inverted Spire

Usually Inaccessible

This entire Sector is a huge expanse of exterior ground, deadly bottomless mist chasms, and a massive drilling operation undertaken by the Cabal. It is out of bounds unless you are attempting to complete the Strike: The Inverted Spire.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to The Anchor (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. The exit from the Anchor leads you to a spectacular vista overlooking the main drilling operation on Nessus.

2 Stepping Stones (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. A series of giant pillars and islands stretch up from the bottomless chasm below. Expect Cabal at every island you land on as you double-jump to the circular promontory at ground level.

3 Vex Paths (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Ride your Sparrow and navigate any of the pathways (there are around four) that are reasonably parallel to one another, all leading to the crater field. The Vex are active in this area.

4 Crater Field (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. This open field of craters has received recent bombardment. Cabal are attempting to thwart you; push on to the base.

5 Cabal Mining Base (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. This base has a couple of sub-bosses to neutralize. Charge either of the energy cannons before you can catapult yourself at the drill rig to the west.

6 Drill Rig (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Descend into the circular platform below the rig tower, and prepare to repel a wide variety of dangerous Cabal until the energy cannon you programmed to move reaches its position. Then, you can catapult yourself southwest.

7 Vex Gorge (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Work your way along this massive gorge with a deadly drop between two ledge sections. Cross at the islands as you continue heading southwest.

8 Quarry (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Work your way counterclockwise around the grooves the massive digging arms have made, optionally darting into the alcoves to avoid being slain as the arms continue to spin around. You're heading to the exit on the western side of the quarry.

9 Exit to The Inverted Spire (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. A narrow Vex passageway connects to the final chamber of the Strike: The Inverted Spire.

Strikes

The Inverted Spire

SECTOR NOTES:

Strike Mission: The Inverted Spire

Usually Inaccessible

The end of the inaccessible Sectors that you utilize the Cistern to reach concludes with The Inverted Spire, a massive, three-level drop into the core of Nessus. You're also battling a huge and devastatingly powerful Vex Boss known as the Modular Mind. The area is inaccessible unless you are attempting to complete the Strike: The Inverted Spire.

Areas Of Interest

1 Guardian Platform (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Enter from the massive circular Cabal Quarry in the Cabal Drill Site Sector. With the Vex Boss woken, you fight the first part of the battle here, in a stone platform of giant floating blocks with a central gap you can't fall through. That is, until the Modular Mind removes this entire ground, and you plummet down to Area #2!

2 Radiolarian Circle (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. This circular platform hovers halfway down the spire until the Modular Mind heats up the vicinity and ultimately removes the platform entirely.

3 Tower Base (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. The final part of the battle takes place here on the surface of a great lake of fluid. Note the platforms and small pillars you can take a stand on—literally.

Strikes

The Inverted Spire

This entire map is only accessible during this Strike, so learn the recommended methods of slaying the massive Vex Modular Mind by checking that section of this guide.

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:
Adventure: Key to the Network
Enemy Clusters: Vex: 3
Enemy Chests: Available
Material Nodes: Available
Patrol Beacons: 7
Public Event (Full): 1
Public Event (Secret): 3
Region Chests: 3
Scannable Objects: 3

Hallows is an interesting Sector because it has a lot of verticality to it. The usual method of entering is via the surface "hole" from the Artifact's Edge Sector (during Campaign Mission: Looped). Before you descend into the underground (and main) portion of the Sector, note the large Vex courtyard that's overgrown with plants. It features additional materials, a Region Chest, and a scannable object. The subterranean cavern has a main winding thoroughfare running north (from Watcher's Grave) to south (to Glade of Echoes). Aside from the main cluster of Vex in the portal area, there's a side passage to the east, leading down into the underworld of this planetoid (Sunken Cavern). Learn the geography of this place quickly, and it becomes a bit less confusing to navigate around.

Look Up. Look Down. Look Out!

The following map pinpoints Areas of Interest, enemy clusters, and collectibles that may be "over" the visible part of the map. To ensure that you find the icon in question, check both before and above the indicated location.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to Watcher's Grave (North)

Look for the tangle of tree branches overhanging the tunnel exit to the Watcher's Grave, which is just north of the main Vex portal area.

2 Vex Summoning Portal

Expect the largest concentration of Vex foes (including a Hydra) here. This is where the only Public Event (aside from the Secret ones) occurs. Check the perimeter area for a chest and scannable object.

3 Exit to Sunken Cavern (East)

Head up the rocky tunnel. Should you wish to explore this moon's interior core, you can proceed through the narrowing entrance of Vex construction that leads into the great void of the Sunken Cavern.

4 Exit to Artifact's Edge (Upper Southeast)

Note the two pictures. The first is the exterior courtyard area, complete with a number of material nodes, as well as a chest and scannable object. Drop down here from Artifact's Edge. Or, climb up the curved ledge perimeter from down below. The second picture shows the base of the hole; a mound with natural light and easy access to the north and south interior areas.

5 Rocky Alcove and Thoroughfare

Just past the Adventure marker is a southwestern alcove, behind the curved foundations of the hole up to the surface. Expect foes and a Skimmish to occur here. This is adjacent to the main thoroughfare; simply follow the winding path northward to investigate the majority of this Sector.

6 Exit to Glade of Echoes (South)

Head south to Glade of Echoes by accessing this exit, which has several gigantic blocks of Vex origin. Use these as recognizable landmarks so you're heading out of the correct exit.

Patrols

Hallows (7)

There are up to seven Patrol beacons, with three or four active at a time.

Region Chests

1 Region Chest 1

Hidden in the tangle of branches of the old tree, at the northern exit (underground).

2 Region Chest 2

On a ceiling alcove just northeast of the circular hole to the surface (underground).

3 Region Chest 3

On an exterior ledge on the southern perimeter of the entrance to the circular hole (surface).

Enemy Clusters

Vex

The main Vex presence around the circular summoning portal includes Goblins, Hobgoblins, Minotaurs, and a Hydra. This is the largest concentration of foes in the vicinity. Expect Goblins to encroach on areas to the south of here. Occasionally, you also encounter Harpies.

Vex

The exit tunnel to the east has Goblins and Hobgoblins to worry about.

Vex

The alcove cluster features Goblins, Hobgoblins, and a Minotaur.

Public Events

Public Event (Full)

Spire Integration: Vex are attempting to fortify their nearby structures. Simply hold off waves of Vex at the indicated spot. They are approaching from different directions (which appear around the indicated guide map area), so complete this event, defeat them all without letting the integrations total reach zero.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | Spire Integration | Integration points | Vex Infantry | Boss Chest |

Public Event (Secret)

HVT-A: A Vex Storm Minotaur appears at one of the indicated guide-map locations (1A, 1B, 1C, or 1D). Defeat it immediately!

HVT-B: A Vex Storm Minotaur is hiding on the southern side of the circular drop. Attack it!

Skirmish: This is a fight against consecutive waves of Fallen and Vex infantry throughout the indicated area, close to the main thoroughfare.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |

The command section of the SCOUT has crashed in the depth of the wounded archway, where only darkness answers each weakness in the Caldera, reinforced by Fallen, and the Enhanced of Aksis once to reach the city Exodus Black Hull. The area has scattered clusters of both the basic Fallen in the middle and the around the edges and cargo containers, pieces of broken footage and ship parts, and other debris.

The remains of a ship footage and the base of the primitive lens rocket created a narrow gorge in the vicinity of the Caldera. A powerful Servitor, Fallen are active here to makeshift towers constructed of scavenged ship materials.

The central part of the Sector lies areas of wreckage recently constructed into protective platforms and bases by the Fallen. Note the often-overlooked Lost Sector entrance in the middle of it, and the route breaking this area.

If you want to get to any of the perimeter exits, take the road that slopes northward. The pinpoints a junction where you can take a sweeping curved road to the northwest, running under the plateau exits. To continue northeast toward Exodus Black Bunker.

A covered shell of footage half-hides the Fallen resting around in this area. This is a shortcut to the north exit and a descends area.

Drive or run up the metal ramp, and you're through to the massive debris piles and also entertain that runs all the way into Exodus Black Sector.

The metal rocky ground to the southwest lies active fire, along with a number of protruding white-caked rocks. This general area has multiple chests and scannable objects to gather.

A lengthy run along a riffside road like bottomless drop is to the south, with access to the southeastern corner of the Cluster near Hub Sector L2.

Access the remains of the command module of the dormant craft by heading through the giant circular hole that remains on the southern and lowest point of the map.

Areas Of Interest

A Exit — Wellness

Traversing this block walks on either side of the thoroughfare road, and ground-level plateaus mark this exit.

B Major Plateau and Road (Northeast)

The eventually flat upper plateau to the northeast has minor Fallen encampments (unless a Public Event is active). The road crosses down below the plateau, rocks to a brief natural tunnel.

C Major Plateau (West)

The main fire presence is hill here, especially if a Skirmish is active. Note the global fire that ruins is the vicinity and a side path allowing quicker access to and from the Cluster (to the south).

D Footage and Rock Wall

The remains of a ship footage and the base of the primitive lens rocket created a narrow gorge in the vicinity of the Caldera. A powerful Servitor, Fallen are active here to makeshift towers constructed of scavenged ship materials.

E Debris and Wreckage

The central part of the Sector lies areas of wreckage recently constructed into protective platforms and bases by the Fallen. Note the often-overlooked Lost Sector entrance in the middle of it, and the route breaking this area.

F Main Thoroughfare

If you want to get to any of the perimeter exits, take the road that slopes northward. The pinpoints a junction where you can take a sweeping curved road to the northwest, running under the plateau exits. To continue northeast toward Exodus Black Bunker.

G Footage and Rocks

A covered shell of footage half-hides the Fallen resting around in this area. This is a shortcut to the north exit and a descends area.

H Exit — Exodus Black

Drive or run up the metal ramp, and you're through to the massive debris piles and also entertain that runs all the way into Exodus Black Sector.

I Southeast Rocks

The mixed rocky ground to the southwest lies active fire, along with a number of protruding white-caked rocks. This general area has multiple chests and scannable objects to gather.

Fig. The Canton Pit

| | Lost Sectors | Exit Area | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | The Canton Pit | Titan Sector | Boss Chest |

Enter via the entrance among the wreckage of the Fallen-controlled platforms in the center of the Sector. Expect a Shield-welcoming committee (Shanky, Tractor Shanks, and a large Shank) at the entrance. Gorge and Shanks are also in the first room, accompanied by a Shield. Blast Cage may shield you from blasting in a moment. Vanish to reduce the impact of explosions.

| Stage of Escape | | | |

Fig.

The lone ruins closer to the northern exit have Hobgobs, with additional Goblins in the general vicinity.

Fig.

Goblins, Hobgobblins, Harpies, and a Minotaur are all expected here along the western edge of the map, where the greatest fire presence is felt.

Fig.

Goblins, Hobgobblins, and possibly a Minotaur and Harpy incursion are likely in the southwestern cube plateau.

Public Events

DESTINY 2

NESSUS
EX-077 Command

SECTOR NOTES:

Strike Mission: Exodus Crash

Scannable Objects: 1

Usually Inaccessible

The Command module of the EX-077 departed from the rest of its ship and crash-landed in the southern edge of Glade of Echoes. Currently, the interior of the module is off-limits unless a Strike is active. The interior comprises two large globular chambers. The first features a series of stepping stones. The second is several makeshift platforms connected by ramps, made from both tarp and metal. Conclude your Strike here, and don't forget the scannable object!

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to Glade of Echoes

The patches of burning debris and the steep narrow passage to and from the southern part of Glade of Echoes allow you to reach the lower of the two interior chambers. Under normal circumstances, there is an energy barrier preventing progress.

2 Dark Platforms (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. Enter an almost pitch-black interior area, where Fallen have commandeered a makeshift camp. There are several floating platforms, each with a section of scenery on it to make it easier to spot. Simply ascend the platforms to reach the opening into the boss chamber. Did you spot the scannable object along the way?

3 Chasm Platforms (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. You must defeat the Fallen Captain Thaviks on a series of ramps connected to platforms above a vertigo-inducing death plummet. Note the Shank intrusion areas dotted about the perimeter of this map.

Strikes

Exodus Crash

Aside from the initial passageway in from the outside (Glade of Echoes), this entire Sector is not accessible unless the Strike: Exodus Crash is active. The Strike culminates here with an assault on a major Fallen force led by Thaviks (a depraved Captain) and his explosive Shank comrades.

Scannable Objects

There's an exception to every rule; naturally, there's a scannable object in an inaccessible area! Scan it during the Strike. Try behind the platforms and steps.

NESSUS
Sunken Cavern

ENEMY CONTROL
Vex

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Vex: 3

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 2

Deep into the bowels of Nessus is a Sector with an understated name: the Sunken Cavern. This is actually three anti-gravity well islands with numerous floating rock and cubic formations surrounding each of them. The deepest Sector (aside from the Well of Giants), this is the most precarious of Sectors you'll visit. That's because of the sheer number of small platforms you need to correctly land on, or you'll face a death plummet into the core of Nessus itself! There is an easily found entrance from Hallows and a lesser-known entrance to Exodus Black from here, but the real reason you're here is to find a couple of scannable objects. One is hidden in an exceedingly cunning location!

Areas Of Interest

1 Entrance from Hallows (Upper Northeast)

Head in from the subterranean tunnel linking Hallows to here, and you appear at the top of the glowing void. From here, you can use the Vex ledges or floating boulders to reach the other areas.

2 Vex Ledges (Upper North)

The safer way to reach the mid-level circular chamber is via a descent along the narrow jutting Vex block ledges.

3 Floating Boulders

This is a great way to fall to your death, but it's also a reasonable method of improving your precision jumping. If you're careful, you can reach the upper gold chamber or the mid-level circular chamber from here.

4 Upper Gold Chamber (Exit to Exodus Black)

Accessed via the floating boulders or the Vex catapult attached to the mid-level circular chamber (the one pointing to the upper entrance), expect a Vex presence in this circular room, with a tunnel exit on the eastern wall. This leads you to the Exodus Black Tunnels Sector.

5 Mid-Level Circular Chamber and Vex Altar

A cluster of Vex is present in this north-central circular chamber platform that has a smaller enclosed altar room attached to it. Use the pillars as cover or snipe from them. Note the two Vex catapults; use either to ascend to the Sector exit of your choosing (Hallows or Exodus Black).

6 Northwest Vex Ledges

Use these for a more careful, less "plummet-based" descent from the mid-level chamber. Note the Vex catapult that can deposit you back at the mid-level chamber, allowing for a quick exit.

7 Hovering Well (Exit to Well of Giants)

The lowest point in the Sunken Cavern is this large floating well section, with a series of sizable blocks to drop down in a clockwise maneuver to a Vex portal. The portal warps you to the Well of Giants, but not before you've looked around for a ludicrously positioned scannable object!

Enemy Clusters

1 Vex

There are a number of foes in the upper gold chamber and entrance tunnel to Exodus Black. Most worrisome is a Minotaur, but expect Goblins, Hobgoblins, and Harpies, too.

2 Vex

A sizable Vex presence guards the mid-level circular chamber. Expect the usual smattering of Goblins, Hobgoblins, Harpies, and a Minotaur.

3 Vex

The altar chamber has Goblins and Harpies for you to contend with.

Scannable Objects

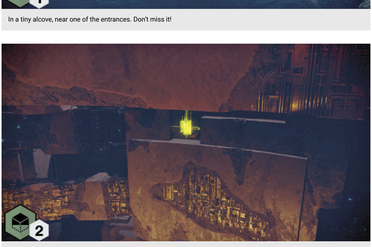
In a tiny alcove, near one of the entrances. Don't miss it!



It's a shame you can't float to this yellow Vex conduit near the portal.

DESTINY 2

NESSUS

Well Of Giants

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Looped

Usually Inaccessible

Perhaps the most awe-inspiring of all the Wells on Nessus, this deep opening into the core of the world is normally only accessible during Campaign Mission: Looped. You reach a strange pyramid-shaped opening from the Sunken Cavern, which in turn leads to a sizable energy elevator, dropping you at a large floating arena. Here, you encounter a large Hydra, and you also attempt to save Cayde-6 for the first time.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to Sunken Cavern

Enter via careful jumping across some small ledges and islands above a bottomless void. The entrance is a pyramid-shaped connecting passage.

2 Well Arena (Inaccessible)

This area is only accessible during the mission. Drop down the energy elevator to the arena itself. Use the many walls and upper platforms on the western side of the arena as your fight with the Hydra progresses. Beware of a large influx of Vex during this battle.

Campaign Mission

Prospect

Battle a Hydra (and completely fail to save Cayde-6) in this chamber. It usually isn't accessible at any other time.

World Quest: The Exodus Black

The starting area of the Exodus Black and location of Tier 3. Failsafe's location is in a dead end. Be careful when you're in the area, as Fallen Captains will spawn with Shanks and Vandals. Defeat the Captain(s) to receive a Key to the Commander Keep in the southwest corner of the area. Use the key to unlock the door and continue to the Frontiersea Dock (north), and most importantly, the service ramp under a huge blue sail mast of the Fallen Ship. Take the ramp up to the Exodus Overlook (Northeast) and the Exodus Garden (Southeast). Tier 3 also has an Ascent entrance to the Sunken Kosmos. If you plan on a deeper exploration of Kosmos, this is a good place to start.

Areas Of Interest

Entrance to Frontiersea Dock (Intermediate)

This passageway is inaccessible, as an energy barrier prevents you from entering a port town the area where the Blue Frontiersea has crash landed. Enter the Fallen, navigating its electrical fields, during Strike Exodus Black.

Entrance to Exodus Port (Northeast)

The entrance to the boarded ship is under the giant circular canopy. Enter this to reach Failsafe and start the World Quest.

Fallen Base (Northeast)

Boarded by roads, there are two main base structures built from wreckage, where a large portion of the Fallen Ship has crashed. Inside are Fallen Captains, Vandals, Shanks, and Servers Public Events that occur around these structures.

Tunnel Entrance (Northeast)

A large tree wraps its roots around the wooden entrance down into some narrow crags, which lead to a service tunnel.

Entrance to Overlook (Tunnel)

The tunnel widens to a concrete path into services in the vicinity. Choose to enter the Rec portal, and you're transported to the Overlook of Sky. This is the only access point.

Entrance to Exodus Garden (Tunnel)

This is the alternate entrance to and from the Exodus Garden (before the other is to Hallowis). Simply continue forward to enter the Exodus Garden.

Lake and Rear Wreckage Zone

The middle of this map is a wide expanse of water dotted with wreckage and boulders that become more challenging to navigate as you head deeper into the lake's center. Here, you'll find the Lost Sector entrance and a hostile attack on Guard Landers Fallen before in the area.

Southwest Wreckage Zone

Fallen enemies rule among the pathway and scattered wreckage along the southwestern side of this map. Here, the Fallen are in control of everything.

Entrance to Hallowis (Tunnel)

The southern part of the map is a large thoroughfare that connects the Sector to Gate of Entropy. Feel free to use the standard collection of treasure if you succeed at an attempt to traverse when arriving in Sector.

Lost Sectors

The Void

Enter the Lost Sector by the eastern entrance, next to such an underground tunnel entrance that of the origin. Follow the path to the Lost Sector entrance. Defeat the Fallen Captain and Vandals that are guarding the bridge, and then access a mechanism to open the door.

NESSUS

Chamber Of Sky

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Vex: 2

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 1

This chamber is only accessible if you're exploring the tunnel system beneath Exodus Black that runs to Sunken Cavern Sector. Mid-way through the tunnel is a small Vex-guarded cavern with a portal on a ledge. Step into the portal to appear here. This is a giant cavern, with elements of nature and Vex melded together. The initial part of the cavern has a rocky feel, whereas the far cavern has the block-like architecture you'd expect from the Vex. As expected, the Vex are out in force here (especially sniping Hobgoblins), so clear this Sector by finding the scannable object and teleporting back to the entrance tunnel. This chamber is also accessed during Adventure: Assault of the Black.

Areas Of Interest

1 Portal to Exodus Black

A natural rock tunnel leads to and from the only access point: a portal that brings you back into the Exodus Black tunnel (which is reached either via the northeastern crag entrance or the Sunken Cavern).

2 Rock Plateau Cavern

The larger of the two caverns, with elements of Vex block architecture that blend with flat plateau sections. Engage the enemy here as you push inward to the Vex Pillar Cavern.

3 Vex Pillar Cavern

A slightly narrower and lower section of pillars, where you and Vex forces play a game of hide and seek. Note the scannable object in the vicinity.

4 Teleport

The dead end here means you can either retrace your steps or use the teleport to reach the initial ledge area close to the exit tunnel.

Scannable Objects

Something is slowly pulsing and clamped to a block wall. Found it yet?

DESTINY 2

NESSUS
Prodromus Down

SECTOR NOTES:

Strike Mission: Exodus Crash

Usually Inaccessible

This is a vast trench with scattered debris, crashed craft, and a turf war between Vex and Fallen forces, which you must deal with during the Strike: Exodus Crash. Otherwise, only the entrance passage from Exodus Black is accessible (which is where you exit if you're playing the Strike).

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to Exodus Black

This is the only accessible part of this Sector if the Strike is not active. You appear on the northern edge of the Exodus Black map. Head into this Sector, and an energy barrier prevents progress.

2 Transmitter Chamber (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. It's a small Vex transmitter chamber with encroaching Fallen foes (the most dangerous are explosive Shanks and toughened Servitors). Stand your ground here and clear the area before continuing.

3 Cargo Storage Exit (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. During the Strike, you work your way from the massive scarred trench through a low-ceiling cargo storage area to Area #2.

4 Trench (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. This is a vast exterior area of Sparrow-suitable roads, a nasty bottomless chasm to the southwest, and a number of Vex foes to navigate around or nullify.

5 Side Cavern (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. These are optional passages into a small interior cavern. They are usually not imperative to visit.

6 Strike Insertion Point (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the Strike is active. The Radiolarian Fluid cascading into a bottomless pit serves as the starting point from Orbit during the initial stages of the Strike.

Strikes

Exodus Crash

This entire Sector is only accessible during this Strike. You and your team must pass through a number of electrical fields and gather data on the Fallen before moving on to Exodus Black.

A partially terraformed planetoid orbiting Jupiter, Io was abandoned by the Traveler, though Ikora Rey and the Warlock Guardians consider the area around the Echo Mesa mountain to be sacred. Currently, this region has seen recent Cabal activity, though the Red Legion appear to be actively fleeing the world, rather than savaging it. The reason may involve some concerning anomalies detected by Asher Mir. Although this area has examples of impressive Vex architecture, the telltale signs of Taken activity are present throughout this place.

Progression (Activities)

Exploration on Io begins once you arrive at the beginning of Campaign Mission: Sacrilege. You stay here for a total of two Campaign Missions, after which you return to the EDZ. During this time and any time afterward, you are free to explore this region and complete any World Quests and Adventures you deem necessary. The main mission docks for APR, which we also attempted to hijack towards Tyrolean Station back in the beginning of the mission.

Landing Point (Available)

The Landing Point is the side of the arch with blooming grass and the ancient remains of a tree. Tractor Mine Vandals launched the tractor mine previously. Ancient Cabal Vandals and gigantic trees, one of which is the Landing Point, are the only remains of the Cabal Prison. The mine that once ran to the prison is still in the distance and now filled with Cabal Legionaries.

Multilegged Outpost

Northeast of the plateau, a tower blocks the Landing Point. It is a small Legion Post, due to the Lost Sector activities.

Train Log Ramp

An easier to access heading from southeast to northwest, but the platform edge they make a great ramp if you're trying to get to the Landing Point from the Mission Docks. Note the ballistics below, as they can't be seen when you look at a platform from above.

Docks Mines Road

The rough center of the Sector is a paved road that takes a diagonal path from under the Rupture entrance (only 1/3 shown) to the edge of the Tyrolean Station entrance (#1). There are drifting ice chunks in the air above the road.

Docks Cliffs

A small opening in the wall allows access to the cliffs above the road. There are also a few Cabal Vandals and Legionaries here. Jumping off the edge of the cliff to reach a distant platform may avoid ground fire.

Docks Mines Plateau

Between the two gigantic tree forms (#2) and #3 is a large, elevated, plateau which always has Tractor Vandals there. Most have an upside down Landing Point behind or behind. You can see pieces of the mine as well.

Mines Tunnel West Entrance

Across the massive length of one of the mine's tunnels is a small opening that leads to a tunnel with Mineral Nodes, a Region Chest, and Taken Scarabs. Note the rough path of the tunnel shown on the guide image.

Mines Tunnel and Stream (East Entrance)

The other entrance to the Mines Tunnels is the large mine across the eastern side of the Sector. This also has a stream of water flowing through it, and a Region Chest and Mineral Nodes on the far side of the tunnel.

Rupture Road

The connects the Log Ramp and Tyrolean Chasm entrance and curves around to the south of the Sector. It's a wide, paved road that's the only way to get to the Rupture entrance and the easiest pathway you can take to the Cabal Prison's entrance (#4).

Entrance to the Rupture (Southeast)

This is one of two large gates inside that needs to be open for the Rupture Sector. It's usually the quickest way from the Landing Point to the Cabal Prison (#4) or the Rupture, though the road around the Sector is usually the most enthusiastic with the Legions you encounter.

Tyrolean Chasm

Close to the North Giant tree and other exit to the Rupture is a branch of Taken Train guarding a small cave. Inside is a Mineral Vein and a Taken Scarab. Shoot it to mine ore.

Tyrolean Station

A small collection of boulders and a circular vehicle pad mark the crossroads of the main roads running between the Rupture entrances and edges of the Sector.

Entrance to the Rupture (Northeast)

Just south of the Tyrolean Station is your second exit to the Rupture. Depending on where you're headed to the Rupture, this may be the quickest route.

Road Then Dock Entrance 1 and 2

Don't overlook a couple of strange docks in the eastern perimeter and road. Both lead to a circular and rectangular dock that's home to an Ether Cache and Mineral Node. Both docks are also the only walkable pathway for how to get up. You're rewarded with a Region Chest and scenarios object.

Docks Mines Road

Road you want to take for fastest drifting assistant is curving at Docks Gun Nodes. One northward and to the side to take.

Adventures

Abandoned

Positioned on the north-central area near the hub along the northern perimeter.

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Taken: 3

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 2

A secondary Sector that is accessed on the eastern perimeter of Lost Oasis, Spine Burrows is a once-tranquil cavern with some interesting and ancient fossilized remains embedded in the rock pillars and formations present here. Also present are three groups of Taken. Remove them as threats before gathering any data on the two scannable objects, grabbing any Material Nodes, and leaving.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to Lost Oasis

This allows access in and out of Lost Oasis; you appear at a glistening pool along the eastern rocky perimeter of that Sector.

2 Interior Cavern

Think of this as a Lost Sector, but well-lit and without a boss to challenge. Take a long circular route in either direction so you don't miss anything.

Enemy Clusters

1 Taken

A Phalanx on the small upper ledge tunnel makes initial traversing a little tricky.

2 Taken

The main gathering of Taken forces in the south part of the cavern involves Taken Goblins, Psions, and Phalanxes. Defeat the Goblins first, as they can keep others invulnerable with their energy link.

3 Taken

The northern cluster of foes has a Phalanx on the upper ledge and Psions, Goblins, and Phalanxes down below.

Scannable Objects

Half-buried Vex apparatus? Check!

This droid is half the robot it used to be.

Tender: Archie Bell

A towering collection of interconnecting Cell modules, walkways, and other interesting spaces. Cabal Legionaries and Centurions have taken control of the Rupture, and have begun to fortify it. Below are the entire western perimeter of the large Rupture. The purpose that has caused Arcwillow Prime to be brought here is unknown, but it is clear that the Cabal are here in force. Arcwillow Prime is the Cabal of the Cabal, the commander-centurion who directs the Cabal. Note the glowing white Cabal Cell in the center of the Rupture. Arcwillow Prime is here, and is likely to be found in close proximity with Cells, and Cell Teaching or Cell Feeds. Expect major battles between the Cabal Tablet forces as you search through the central area and a second base under the western perimeter.

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Vex: 1

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 1

A small subterranean passageway of Vex construction leads to a gaping chasm chamber, with death on either side. There are Side Missions that have you accessing this otherwise remote location, which is entered in the southwestern corner of the Rupture.

Areas Of Interest

1 Entrance Tunnel

Head in here after navigating your way past the Vex guards (mainly Goblins, a Minotaur, and a Hydra) in the Rupture.

2 Curved Chamber

A scannable object is the main reason to visit this central chamber with a set of ruined monolith stones around the perimeter.

3 Chasm Chamber

Expect a small Vex presence (but sometimes, no foes at all) as you reach this chamber with bottomless drops on either side.

Enemy Clusters

1 Vex

The final chasm chamber may hold a few Vex entities. Otherwise, head here for materials to gather.

Scannable Objects

What's atop the monolith stones of Vex design?

IO
Pyramidion

SECTOR NOTES:

Strike Mission: The Pyramidion

Usually Inaccessible

The interior of the great Vex Pyramid is only available to Guardians who attempt to complete the Strike: The Pyramidion. This marvel of Vex architecture is otherwise inaccessible. The following information gives a good overview of how to navigate through the series of gigantic Vex platforms floating in a void, but the Strike part of this guide provides more tactical knowledge. Pyramidion is entered via the opening in the sunken area of the pyramid in the Rupture (western perimeter).

Areas Of Interest

1 Entrance from The Rupture

A compact passage from the surface that soon widens out into a spectacular look at the almost infinite architecture of the Vex.

2 Steps

A trio of three floating Vex platform steps, complete with Goblins and Minotaurs to tackle. Hobgoblins are on either side of the circular doorway with the laser traps.

3 Void Corridors

Avoid deadly laser traps on the walls and floors, drop down a long square-shaped hole, and navigate a winding corridor while attacking dozens of Goblins and Harpies.

4 First Warpgate

The end of this section features a warpgate. Note the map showing you where you exit.

5 Altar Room

Maneuver through more laser traps and into a chamber where you must activate three energy altars (large circular floor sections). Naturally, the Vex are throwing dozens of foes at you during this task. Beware of the Hydra!

6 Warpgate Teleports

The teleport at the end of the Altar Room deposits you in a new area almost directly below the Altar Room.

7 Second Warpgate

The entrance to the warpgate has you running through some rotating laser traps, which are particularly unforgiving.

8 Warpgate Teleport

Pass the warpgate and into the teleport, and you appear at the penultimate void island.

9 Tower Platform

This platform houses four energy towers that you must hack before progress can be made. Vex enemies are bountiful, including the rarely seen Cyclops.

10 Final Warpgate Teleport

Once activated, the warpgate at the end of the Tower Platform whisks you across to the gigantic final island.

11 Conduit and Final Altar

Drop down into the orange-lit conduit, landing in a roughly hexagonal Final Altar Room where you must face an Boss Hobgoblin and his Vex minions!

Strikes

The Pyramidion

This Strike begins outside the Pyramidion in the Rupture, but the assault soon enters the interior as you valiantly battle to the farthest void island and an audience with the largest Hobgoblin you've ever seen!

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Taken: 2

Enemy Clusters: Vex: 2

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 5

This is a small Sector, mainly comprised of a depot constructed and used by the Cabal until recently. Since their swift departure, Vex and Taken forces are warring to retake this junction-like Sector that links Lost Oasis and Giant's Scar together. Aside from these two main exits, there are routes to smaller Sectors: north to the Wraith Mines, and south to Warmind Vault JYS-2. This location is accessed during Campaign Mission: Sacrilege, though it is fully open under normal conditions.

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to Lost Oasis

This is usually the way you first enter this Sector, from the northwestern Lost Oasis exit through the winding ravine.

2 Depot Cave (Northwest)

Find a tiny cave left of the curved platform where the Taken are standing.

3 Exit to The Wraith Mines

Maneuver onto the platform overlooking the sunken arena, and head down the narrow cargo corridors into the Wraith Mines.

4 Sunken Arena

The main battles rage here, with two clusters of Taken and Vex each fighting both you and each other. Investigate the ramps, caves, and perimeter for five difficult scannable objects.

5 Depot Cave (Southeast)

Just to the right of the dirt slope toward the Giant's Scar tunnel is another small cave. Check it for a collectible.

6 Exit to Giant's Scar

A large-scale tunnel begins at this point on the eastern side of the Sector and winds east and then southward, enabling you to access Giant's Scar.

7 Exit to Warmind Vault JYS-2

A narrow crevasse on the southern perimeter of the main sunken arena leads to a Vex-controlled Sector known as Warmind Vault JYS-2.

Enemy Clusters

1 Vex

Aggressive Vex infantry is guarding the entrance to the central sunken area, with Goblins and Hobgoblins active.

2 Vex

Expect Harpies and a Minotaur in the upper rocky ground close to the tunnel down to Warmind Vault JYS-2.

1 Taken

A Taken Centurion and lesser Taken foes are on the loading bay platform, repelling Vex attacks.

2 Taken

A Taken Centurion and lesser Taken foes are on the loading bay platform, repelling Vex attacks.

Scannable Objects

A black globe, crackling with rift energy. Found the cave yet?

A thin energy laser, still active in one corner.

You'll need to "ramp" up your investigative capabilities to find this container.

Take a look along a rocky perimeter for a wargate shell.

There's something odd in this cave. A Vex computer?

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Enemy Clusters: Taken: 5

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 3

This interior digging site was appropriated by the Cabal, then recently left deserted. The reason why becomes clear as you descend down the cargo corridor from Terrabase Charon: this place is teeming with Taken because a rift has opened nearby. Aside from the danger involved in exploring this cave system, the confusing series of tunnels and caverns means that studying this map becomes more important than normal. Just remember this is essentially a dead end; you have to head back out the same way you came in. You're here for Taken takedowns and three scannable objects. Note that you fully explore this area (with more enemies to face) during Campaign Mission: Sacrilege.

Areas Of Interest

1 Entrance from Terrabase Charon

The northern cargo platform at Terrabase Charon is the exterior entrance, leading down a narrow set of cargo corridors.

2 Central Cavern

Lit with an orange glow, the central cavern features Taken (including Centurions). There are a total of six paths out of here on two levels (remember to look up). South is the corridor you came from. Southwest is a rift tunnel (Area of Interest #3). West is to a Taken cave (#5). North is an upper platform and stairs running north to south above you, exiting in the southwest corner and leading to an upper storage area (#9). East is a corridor to the Wizard's Grotto (#4).

3 Rift Tunnel

It seems that the largest concentration of rifts is located in this dead-end tunnel, which yields nothing of value.

4 Wizard's Grotto

A small dead-end grotto with a Taken Wizard and some underlings to face, and a scannable object to find.

5 Small Cave

A Taken Knight and lesser Taken foes are waiting in this small connecting cave with a glistening blue floor. It links the main chamber to the north Glowing Cavern.

6 Glowing Cavern

Expect the largest concentration of Taken enemies in this chamber, with orange walls and a blue glowing floor. Defeat the Psions and Thralls (of the Taken variety) while investigating a short north tunnel loop past a collectible. Then, check the south wall for an exit to the staircase above the entrance chamber. Southeast is a circular tunnel exit.

7 Circular Tunnel Exit

This connects the Glowing Cavern to a curved and large tunnel up to the Upper Storage Room. It is one of two routes and slightly safer to take.

8 Upper Steps Exit

Take some metal steps above the central cavern, and reach a connecting tunnel on the far (south) side.

9 Upper Storage Room

Accessed via the metal stairs on the upper floor of the central cavern or the circular tunnel from the Glowing Cavern, this uppermost chamber has Thralls to see off. Make a return journey from this point.

Enemy Clusters

1 Taken

Your first enemies to face include Phalanxes, Psions, and a Centurion in the central cavern.

2 Taken

The Wizard's Grotto is named for the Taken Wizard here, along with other infantry.

3 Taken

Expect a Knight and Thralls in this small western cave connecting the two larger caverns.

4 Taken

An abundance of foes, mainly Psions and Goblins, is warping into view across the Glowing Cavern.

5 Taken

Only Thralls seem active in this upper storage chamber.

Scannable Objects

Coax the Wizard's underlings away from this globe.

Just about everything in this cavern glows, except for this globe.

Same cavern, different globe.

DESTINY 2

IO

Warmind Vault JYS-2

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Fury

Usually Inaccessible

This inaccessible Sector is only entered during the Campaign Mission: Fury. It is the hidden Vex lair known as the Warmind Vault JYS-2, now completely overrun by the Taken. This leads to a mainframe arena where you battle one of the toughest foes on this planetoid: a gigantic Taken Boss known as Modular Upsilon and his energy-chaining partner Modular Sigma. The entrance from Terrabase Charon is usually sealed, and the only other route (during the mission) is via the hole the giant drill has made in the large mining area of that Sector.

Areas Of Interest

1 Entrance from Giant's Scar (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. Once you've raised the colossal drill bit in Giant's Scar Sector during the mission, drop into this entrance tunnel via an opening on the massive circular side wall.

2 Warmind Vault (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. Though a Vex vault, the Taken have a stronghold here now, and you fight numerous Goblins, Hobgoblins, and Minotaurs as you breach the mainframe chamber.

3 Mainframe Arena (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. This location is where you fight the giant Taken Boss and his minion.

4 Exit to Terrabase Charon (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. If open, a pair of blast doors allows access up the tunnel to the south side of Terrabase Charon.

Campaign Missions

Fury

The vast majority of the time spent in this Sector is during the aforementioned Campaign Mission, which is where the recommended tactics and enemy locations are detailed.

The remains of a Cabal mining operation exist in the Sector, formerly a natural rock formation known as Tombaka Mountain. Cabal Excavators and Drills have left behind a network of tunnels, ramps, platforms and vehicular access to and from each main area. The majority of the building occurs at the drill site, a roughly circular area like valley with a massive central mining drill. Around the perimeter are various exits to the surface and to the Cabal Outpost. Most of the area below the massive central drill is inaccessible unless Campaign Mission: Rats is underway.

Areas Of Interest

A Entry: Terrabase Chasm (North)

A very long and winding tunnel allows you to navigate the northern part of Echo Mesa, should you want a lengthier trip back to Last Oasis via Terrabase Chasm.

B Small Cave (North)

A small crack in the canyon wall just above you into a tiny cave with a couple of collectibles, a possible Secret Public Event High Value Target, and a Patrol Beacon.

C Small Cave (Northeast)

A small cave is somewhere worth hiding in or checking for regular chests. This one is across from the Hydra at Enemy Cluster Cave #1.

D Small Covered Pad (Northeast)

Taken are controlling access to this Pad. The area is raised above the main path, making it worth considering as a defensive position. Note the Region Chest about your head.

E Entry: Dust Drill Site

This massive northern area is the epicenter of the battle between Vex and Taken, so expect conflict at all times. There's a main circular road around the central drill. The drill itself can't be moved unless the Campaign Mission: Rats is active.

F Entrance to: Mammoth Vault (Pre-1) (Inaccessible)

This is inaccessible unless the mission is active. Under the massive drill lie a tunnel with debris strewn about, along with access doors into the Mammoth Vault.

G Entrance to: Excavation Site 0

Take this route during the Campaign Mission, or if you want to tackle more Taken in a confined space (Excavation Site 0). The entrance is atop a small (and usually empty) cave directly below it.

H Excavatory Path

Taken congregate around this cluster of crates and a path up to the Excavation Site 0 entrance.

I Vehicle Access Road

This offers quick access (usually via Sparrow) between the north and south areas.

J Mining Control Center

A long interior structure offers windowed views of the drill site. There are pedestrian exits to the west (south and north) and a vehicle exit to the east (north).

K South Area

This is usually the area you first encounter, and it's where the Landing Zone is located. Pockets of Taken are active in this area. Note the large cylindrical tower to the south. Is there something on top of it?

L Entry: Last Oasis

The quickest way between Giant's Scar and the Rupture is to take the large south exit road to Last Oasis. This is frequently used thoroughfare.

Adventures

Road Rage

Access this Adventure at the base of one of the drill support pillars in the northeast corner of the map.

Region Chests

1 Region Chest 1

Inside the small northwest cave, behind the far right natural rock pillar. Don't open a regular chest instead!

2 Region Chest 2

Tucked on the drill support arm above the control hut. Drill jumping is required to access this chest.

3 Region Chest 3

Sitting atop the large cylindrical tower outside the pedestrian entrance to the mining control center. Use the connecting beams to get up on the top of the cylinder.

Campaign Mission

Rats

This mission is the only time you're allowed access into the underground tunnel off the drill site (base of Dust Drill Site). The entrance window under the mine control center (base of nearest lift) is closed (shown below).

Enemy Clusters

1 Taken

A group of Taken is guarding the control hut that lifts the massive drill from the central mining area. Expect a Plasma, Knight, and several other Taken infantry.

2 Taken

Several Taken are attempting to storm the west bridge and being stopped by Vex forces. Expect Taken Phalanxes and Knights, along with lesser foes.

3 Taken

A Taken Knight and some underlings are guarding the interior of the control room.

4 Taken

The entrance to the mine control center (southwest side) has a few Taken, including a Phalanx, for you to contend with. Note that there are many more Taken in the Campaign Mission: Rats is active.

5 Taken

Expect additional Taken to wary in via a lift in the general area. Aside from Thralls, Shrike Harp a Centurion here, via rapid-your step.

6 Vex

A Vex Hydra is located in the northern part of this mining area, with a Minotaur and Goblins guarding the area around it. Expect them to attack nearby Taken hostilities.

7 Vex

The tracks in the southern part of the mining facility have a couple of Minotaurs and Goblins, but these foes are preoccupied with Taken Taken in other parts of the area.

8 Vex

Harpies and a cluster of Goblins are building the Taken in the southeast, inside the mining control center. As you head in from the eastern snagged pedestrian entrance, expect these foes to be full of you.

Landing Zones

Giant's Scar LZ

Should you want to access the entirety of Giant's Scar with relative swiftness, the LZ is located on the western side of the initial rock gorge.

Patrols

Giant's Scar (4)

There are two Patrol beacons located throughout this Sector. As always, only accept four are active at a time.

Scannable Objects

1

What the message is inside this tiny can?

2

Find the Data that's happy you're encountering on the object it's guarding.

3

Most of this tiny burning is no time come said.

4

Wrong copy room upper corner? Will probe accused.

5

Public Events

Rats Underground (Full)

Spire Integration: You are attempting to fortify their underground structures. To complete this event, simply hold off waves of foes at each of the 12 integration points (which appear anywhere in the indicated guide map area).

Taken Flight: Your job is to destroy the Blight's integrity until the Blight explodes and then experiences at a second position. Repeat the demolishing of the Blight, then move to a third experiences (CH, SB, and EC Blights). Destroy the Blights before the Taken Voyage multiple Guardians or simmering forth and Flight and Integrity, or this is impossible to finish.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | High Value Target | Servo Minotaur | No Infantry | Basic Chest |
| 2 | Raid Boss | Servo Minotaur | No Infantry | Basic Chest |

Secret Public Events

Rats Underground (Secret)

ADT-1: A Servo Servo Minotaur appears somewhere on the indicated guide map route (1A, 1B, 1C, 1D, or 1E). Neutralize it at once!

ADT-Cluttered: A Taken Wizard appears in the vicinity of the cave and overwhelms moves to the control deck using Defeat Commandeer.

Jailbreak: A Blighted Taken Centurion or Knight is being held in an energy cell. Tackle the Vex Goblins and Guard Minotaur. Take out all adversaries, freeing you to deal with the Centurion!

Tesseract: A count between the Vex and Taken occurs during the sunken drill site area southwest of the drill. Tip the control center building.

Skirmish: A battle between the Vex and Taken begins in the rocky area by the pedestrian entrance southwest of the control center building, and it continues part of the way into the structure.

| Event Number | Event Type | Target | Other Enemies | Reward |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | High Value Target | Servo Minotaur | No Infantry | Basic Chest |
| 2 | Raid Boss | Servo Minotaur | No Infantry | Basic Chest |
| 3 | Jailbreak | Blighted Taken Centurion or Knight | No guards | Basic Chest |
| 4 | Tesseract | Blighted Taken Centurion or Knight | No guards | Basic Chest |
| 5 | Skirmish | No servo Taken | Hive Infantry | Random Loot |
| 6 | Skirmish | No servo Taken | Warmup Cosmos combatant | Random Loot |

OVERVIEW MAP

SECTOR NOTES:

Campaign Mission: Fury

Enemy Clusters: Taken: 4

Material Nodes: Available

Scannable Objects: 3

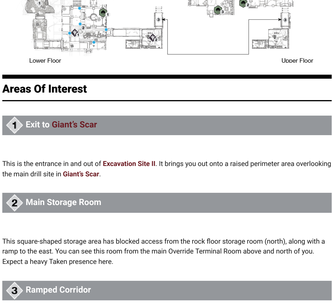
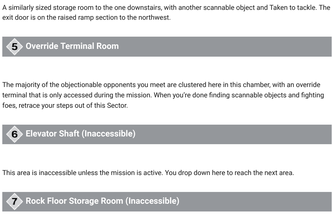
Partially Inaccessible



Accessed via the exterior entrance at the drill site in Giant's Scar, this small interior set of storage rooms and computer operations room must be exited the same way you came in. It features a series of square-shaped chambers, each with a half-dozen Taken to engage. Come for combat, leave after finding the three scannable objects.



Lower Floor

Upper Floor

Areas Of Interest

1 Exit to Giant's Scar

This is the entrance in and out of Excavation Site II. It brings you out onto a raised perimeter area overlooking the main drill site in Giant's Scar.

2 Main Storage Room

This square-shaped storage area has blocked access from the rock floor storage room (north), along with a ramp to the east. You can see this room from the main Override Terminal Room above and north of you. Expect a heavy Taken presence here.

3 Ramped Corridor

This L-shaped area connects the lower and upper levels of this Sector. Expect a small Taken presence here.

4 Upper Storage Room

A similarly sized storage room to the one downstairs, with another scannable object and Taken to tackle. The exit door is on the raised ramp section to the northwest.

5 Override Terminal Room

The majority of the objectionable opponents you meet are clustered here in this chamber, with an override terminal that is only accessed during the mission. When you're done finding scannable objects and fighting foes, retrace your steps out of this Sector.

6 Elevator Shaft (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the mission is active. You drop down here to reach the next area.

7 Rock Floor Storage Room (Inaccessible)

This area is inaccessible unless the mission is active. This leads you back to the initial storage room, but only during the mission.

Campaign Missions

Fury

The elevator shaft and small lower floor storage area are the only two locations that you can't access unless the mission is active.

Enemy Clusters

1 Taken

The main storage room has a Phalanx, Knight, and Wizard, as well as lesser Taken infantry for you to worry about.

2 Taken

A few Thralls are little match for your firepower as you ascend through this ramped corridor and past a small storage area.

3 Taken

Expect a similar crowd of foes to the storage room downstairs: Phalanxes and larger foes, with a few Thralls, as well.

4 Taken

Taken Centurions are the biggest threat in the Override Terminal Room, though other foe types are present.

Scannable Objects

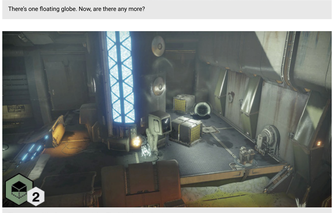
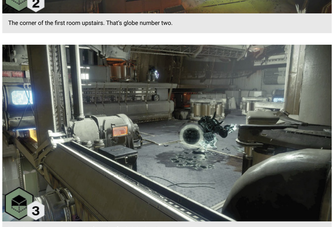
There's one floating globe. Now, are there any more?



The corner of the first room upstairs. That's globe number two.



There's a good view downstairs from the final globe location.

The Tower Overview

Welcome to the Last City, the Traveler's home in mankind's darkest hour and the spiritual heart of humanity's resistance. Here, Guardians gather to prepare for their missions, to trade with other Guardians, and to rest and recuperate between battles. The Tower is also a place of legend and mystery, where Guardians can hear the stories of their predecessors and learn about the Darkness and the Traveler. Here, Guardians can also find Ghosts, Vanguard, Crucible, Gunsmith, and Speaker vendors, as well as Eris Morn, Cayde-6, Zavala, Ikora Rey, and Commander Zavala.

Vault Greeting Hearths

Vault Greeting Hearths are the first areas Guardians see when they enter the Tower. Each Hearth is dedicated to one of the Tower's vendors, and is designed to reflect the personality of that vendor.

THE BESTIARY
Overview

Five distinct enemy combatant races have occupied various locations in the solar system. All are considered hostile, and Guardians should prepare to engage every one of these as such. Visual evidence and generalized takedown strategies are presented here. Please note that tactics may vary depending on the topography of an area, along with the equipment and Abilities you use in a particular confrontation.

Unique Foes are Elsewhere

This chapter covers enemies you'll encounter more than once, usually with extreme frequency. If you're looking for information on a unique foe, such as a Boss Hobgoblin, or other Dreadnaut or Strike Boss, consult the appropriate mission chapter.

Know Your Enemy

For each general foe you may face, there are several reference charts you can study. These charts impart some helpful data, and this section of the chapter explains what this data means.

ENEMY TYPE

An example of a named enemy type: a Cabal Legionary

This indicates the name of the foe in question. Most of the time, the health bar above each enemy you face will list the name or a portion of it. You can then recognize the hostile you are about to face.

LOADOUT

This shows the main weapon that the foe carries. Variants of the same enemy may carry a different weapon and have slightly different survival tactics. This is also the name you'll usually see when you die, and you check what killed you.

TYPE

This shows a Elite unit, with a segmented health bar.

This shows a Boss unit, with a different segmented health bar.

This indicates whether the type of enemy is encountered as a Base, Elite, or Boss.

A base enemy is a usual infantry foe, and engaged all the time. Note that you also encounter toughened Base variants, with more orange health bars, from time to time.

An Elite enemy heads up a contingent of base foes and has a yellow health bar. This is a stronger foe and poses more of a threat.

A Sub-Boss enemy: There is also a type of enemy existing (in strength and power) between an Elite and Boss. Expect it to be weaker than a Boss, and stronger than an Elite.

A Boss is the strongest of that enemy type, it can be faced at the culmination of certain Strikes, Campaign Missions, and Patrols. Note the skull in the health bar. Expect an elongated and tough battle.

ROLE

The Hive Thrall is fodder; it exists to overwhelm you without a care for its own life.

This indicates the general purpose of the enemy unit when it engages you or a rival enemy in combat. These are split into one of the following categories:

Fodder: An expendable grunt with little value to the enemy group, except to slow you down.

Soldier: The main fighting unit of an enemy race.

Commander: The usual leader of a cluster of enemies, which typically is more cunning and has more health.

Artillery: Deliver heavy weapons fire. Vehicles can serve this purpose, too.

Vehicle: Primary mode of transport rather than for combat.

SURVIVAL TACTICS

Stopping a foe from reaching melee range is a survival tactic known as Melee Pressure.

If you want to know the technique for surviving a particular enemy type while dealing with other foes, or while you get into position to take them down, check the following tactical advice. This also works as you start to remove health from an enemy during the early-to-mid stages of combat with them.

Area Denial: The foe has an attack that takes a few seconds to activate but then becomes extremely damaging, such as a Cabal Incendior's flame attack. You must preempt this attack before it can occur by engaging the foe in ranged combat.

(Grenade): A Fallen Dreg uses this weapon.

(Darkness Cloud): A Hive Wizard uses this weapon.

Close-range Pressure: You must destroy the foe before it reaches close range, as it becomes much more deadly at this point (like an Exploder Shank).

Dodge Enemy Fire: The foe has a predisposition for a barrage of rifle or rocket fire, or constant shooting of other weaponry. Watch the projectiles, and avoid them when they strike. Quick maneuvers are needed because this foe usually fires weaponry with an area-of-effect damage.

Melee Pressure: Do everything you can to stop the foe from reaching your melee range. This means spotting them early and defeating them at range, as they usually have a very damaging melee attack.

(Explode): This foe explodes when they reach you, like a Cursed Thrall.

(Berserking): This foe can be partially destroyed before becoming frenzied and rushing you, like a Vex Goblin.

Stay in Cover: The foe is likely a sharpshooter, and you're encouraged to find and stay in cover to avoid possible damage from the foe's rifle.

Stay Mobile: The foe can easily damage you severely if you remain in one place. Perhaps it emits a stream of damaging energy. The trick is executing sprints, dodges, jumps, and other maneuvers to avoid the attack.

Suppression (Line of Sight): Attempt to engage the foe in continuous combat and ensure that it stays visible to you. Its attack must be suppressed due to the danger it poses (like a Hive Ogre's energy blast).

TAKEDOWN TACTICS

Concentrating your firepower on a particular part of a foe? A takedown tactic known as Target Practice.

When you've decided to kill a particular enemy, check the preferred technique from the list below.

Flank Target: The enemy has a physical shield. Aside from shooting the shield, you can leap to the side or above the foe, outflanking them so their shield is useless. Then, strike the foe itself.

(Shield): A Cabal shield used by Phalanxes.

(Wall of Darkness): A Hive shield used by Knights.

Line of Sight: You must keep the foe in your line of sight and fire at them, usually from range and while moving in and out of cover.

Maintain Pressure (Shield): The foe has an active Energy Shield. Ensure your attacks are continuous, so the shield is quickly removed. Break off from combat, and the shield recharges, lengthening the fight (which is not desirable). Using Energy weapons depletes shield more quickly. If you match the energy type, a powerful localized explosion occurs when the shield pops.

Priority Target: This foe is particularly troublesome or works as a shield for other enemies. You must take it down first.

Target Practice: The foe can be struck anywhere, though aimed headshots work well.

Targeting Challenge: The foe in question has an area of their body or a special Ability that you must focus all your aiming attention on. While a regular takedown (taking the enemy with gunfire) may still yield effective takedown results, paying special attention to one of the following areas means even quicker dispatching:

(Cloak): The foe uses a cloaking device. Track and fire at the shimmering the enemy gives off.

(Evasion): The foe is particularly adept at dodging, use your own dexterity and impressive aiming to slow down and eventually kill them.

(Jetpack): The foe utilizes a jetpack. Leaping over, flanking, or otherwise enabling yourself to see and aim at the jetpack means the enemy will be defeated more quickly.

(Shield): The foe uses an Energy Shield (Arc = light blue, Void = purple, and Solar = Orange). Use a matching Energy weapon to remove the shield easily.

(Teleport): The foe is capable of teleporting short distances, so keep your gun trained on them, even when they blink in and out of existence.

(Torso): Attempt to target the foe's torso to quicken the takedown process.

Weak Spot: The foe can be struck anywhere, though aimed headshots work well.

Weak Spot: The foe has a particular area (usually the head or lower torso) that is extremely susceptible to precision gunfire (indicated by the yellow damage numbers). Note that most enemies should be targeted in the head; this tactic is employed for even quicker takedowns.

Weaken and Beat Down: The target is likely to be relatively weak. Sprint while firing, and finish the foe with a melee strike.

THE BESTIARY
Cabal: The Red Legion

A Cabal invasion force led by Dominus Ghaul. They favor advancements in technology to aid in their plans for the destruction of humanity. Toughened infantry from the Servo may have the prefix "Incepto." Higher-ranking infantry from the Servo are known as the Ghaul Guard.

War Beast

Threat Level: 1

Weak Spots: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Bite and claws | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Melee Pressure | Target Practice |

Notes: Found in packs of around a dozen, they attack three or four at a time. Treat as priority targets (as they are) because they will kill you in seconds if you're not careful. They're also good for a quick melee kill or a quick gun fire at the heads or melee attack and back up, taking evasive maneuvers or finding higher ground to shoot from.

Psion

Threat Level: 2

Weak Spots: Head and jetpack

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Psion Lancer | Boss, Elite | Fodder | Stay in Cover | Weakest and Beat Down |
| Slug rifle | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Fodder | Dodge Enemy Fire | Weakest and Beat Down |
| Shotgun | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Fodder | Close-range Pressure | Weakest and Beat Down |
| Cabal Bronto Cannon | Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Dodge Enemy Fire | Weakest and Beat Down |

Notes: The Psion can launch a projectile ball that causes a rolling distortion along the ground. It eventually knocks you high into the air, allowing them and others to strike you while you're exposed during the unwelcome jump. They also tend to use their projectiles to maneuver at speed along the ground, though they also head through the air. Fortunately, Psions are rarity ignorant, and they don't usually withstand more than a couple of headshots or a melee attack at close range.

Legionary

Threat Level: 2

Weak Spots: Head and jetpack

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Shotgun | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Soldier | Close-range Pressure | Target Practice |
| Slug rifle | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire | Target Practice |
| Sniper rifle | Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Stay in Cover | Target Practice |
| Projection rifle | Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Stay Mobile | Target Practice |

Notes: All Legionary types have a close-combat gauntlet blade, and they charge at their targets to inflict a melee attack. Their Slug rifle is a fast-firing weapon that can be dangerous at close range, but it's not very accurate at any range from distance. Shoot them in the head whenever possible. If that's not possible, aim for their jetpack if you're striking from behind. Softening them up with gunfire and melee striking them is also a viable proposition.

Incendior

Threat Level: 2

Weak Spots: Flame launcher backpack and a jetpack

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Flame Launcher | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Area Denial | Weak Spot |

Notes: Aim for the center of the backpack (behind the head of the fire, between the two tanks), and watch the incendior explode and topple over. This explosion can also cook you in fire, so back away and attempt ranged takedowns if you're of the explosive disposition. Time the pouncing of the fuel tanks to coincide with the enemy being close to other foes. This can set off a chain reaction or badly wound nearby Cabal, a little like a grenade does.

Phalanx

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spots: Shield, head, and jetpack

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Slug rifle | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Commander | Melee Pressure | Toppling Challenge (Jetpack) |
| Shotgun | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Soldier | Close-range Pressure | Flank Target (Shield), Weak Spot |
| Projection rifle | Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Stay Mobile | Flank Target (Shield), Weak Spot |

Notes: The biggest concern is the defensive posture the Phalanx takes, enabling it and other Cabal forces to hide behind a wide shield that expands when the Phalanx anchors himself in place. React by attacking from the flanks (left, right, or above), shooting over the shield. Grenades landing behind the Phalanx are also excellent. If the shield is up and flanking is impossible, shoot the center of the shield so it retracts, and move with Phalanx down until headshots or a trigger's back.

Gladiator

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Head and jetpack

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Eternal Cleaver | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Commander | Melee Pressure | Line of Sight |

Notes: Arguably the most problematic of Cabal foes to face, Gladiators are extremely aggressive. They can charge in quickly and deliver devastating melee strikes. If you can use your dodges and jumps effectively to avoid their attacks, you'll be in a good position to counter. They have a lot of health, which damages it more quickly than headshots or general fire. Gladiators are always priority targets.

Centurion

Threat Level: 5

Weak Spot: Head and jetpack

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Rail cannon | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Artillery | Suppression (Line of Sight), fire inside ENEMY melee | Line of Sight |
| Heavy slug thrower | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Artillery | Suppression (Line of Sight), fire inside ENEMY melee | Line of Sight |
| Projection rifle | Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Artillery | Suppression (Line of Sight) | Line of Sight |

Notes: These walking artillery batteries are of great concern if you're caught in their line of sight. You can be killed in seconds by their rail cannon or heavy slug thrower. Their projection rifle is also dangerous. The Centurion cannot quickly aim and strike you. Move to a ranged cover position, duck to withdraw down the Centurion' health with a good line of sight, and don't stop until the foe falls. Follow up with grenades to stagger before continuing a rapid assault.

Centurion

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Head and jetpack

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cabal Bronto Cannon | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Commander | Dodge Enemy Fire | Weakest Precision (Shield), Targeting Challenge (sensor) |
| Projection rifle | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Commander | Stay Mobile | Weakest Precision (Shield), Targeting Challenge (sensor) |
| Slug rifle | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss, Boss | Commander | Dodge Enemy Fire | Weakest Precision (Shield), Targeting Challenge (sensor) |

Notes: Centurions have active shields to remove, which are always powered by Solar energy (as have an Energy weapon of this type equally). Kinetic weapons also work, but they take much longer to neutralize the shield defenses. Centurions also like to jet vertically up before firing down on you. Learn to accurately shoot them in the head while they're in the air, and you'll be rewarded with a quick takedown. Failing that, if a player's you can navigate to aim at it, or shower takedowns with headshots (from either Kinetic or Energy weapons).

Scorpius

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spot: Top, tube-shaped section

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Machinegun or Flamethrower | Boss, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Artillery | Dodge Enemy Fire | Line of Sight |

Notes: These sentry guns activate when they receive visual confirmation of your presence, and then fire rapidly. The sentry may be slightly disabling when activated, but there's a window. Use cover, range, grenades, and explosive weapons to destroy these sentries. Make them a priority.

Interceptor

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Point-pilot

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Rockets | Vehicle | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire | Target Practice |

Notes: Slower than a Spartan or Pike but more durable, the Cabal Interceptor has excellent offensive capabilities (rockets with area-of-effect damage!). Hijacking one requires you to aim for the head of the Interceptor pilot until you execute him. The Interceptor is then neutralized, and you can drive it. Otherwise, you can blast the vehicle repeatedly until it catches fire and explodes (which isn't optimal).

Goliath Tank

Threat Level: 5

Weak Spot: Corner thrusters

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Missile swarm, slug launcher | Vehicle | Artillery | Suppression (Line of Sight) | Target Practice |

Notes: This heavy hover tank can cause havoc with a massive main turret and a secondary cluster missile launcher. Destroy the corner thrusters to bring it down to the ground, and then destroy the tank. Keep aim at the center thrusters until they are set on fire, which damages the tank more quickly than just firing everything you've got at it.

Thresher

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: None

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Missiles | Vehicle | Artillery | Suppression (Line of Sight) | Line of Sight |

Notes: Not usually encountered as a hostile (except on a Strike, or when you're directly involved in a Strike raid), this ship occasionally deposits foes before leaving the theater of battle. You have a slight opportunity to destroy the ship before it departs, but you'll have to be quick. Aim for the back ramp. However, damaging the hull until the craft flees or explodes is the main way to tackle it.

Fallen

A race of insect-like alien scavengers, once organized into hierarchical houses. The remnants of House of Dusk are still active, mainly on the EDZ. They are hostile but tend to exhibit more lurking tendencies compared to the all-out aggression of the Cabal. Toughened Fallen usually lead the pack's "Reclaimers."

Dreg

Threat Level: 1

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Shock pistol | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Dodge Enemy Fire, Area Denial (Grenade) | Weaken and Beat Down |
| Shrapnel launcher | Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Close-range Pressure, Area Denial (Grenade) | Weaken and Beat Down |
| Molten Welder | Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Dodge Enemy Fire, Area Denial (Grenade) | Weaken and Beat Down |

Notes: An aptly named homunculus with base facets of cunning and a sinewy frame. They like to hide, stepping around cover and shooting you at range, lobbing in a shock grenade, or stabbing you at close quarters. In most combat conditions, a fine plan is to simply charge and melee attack them; they usually fall with a single strike from your hands. Soften them up with a few bullets so they're off-balance first, if you want.

Shank

Threat Level: 2

Weak Spot: Glowing Eye Slit (Heavy Shank only)

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Shock pistol | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Dodge Enemy Fire | Target Practice |
| Wire rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Stay in Cover | Target Practice |
| Explosives | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Close-range Pressure (Explode) | Target Practice |
| Turret | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Artillery | Suppression (Line of Sight) | Line of Sight |

Notes: These floating sentry machines have the largest number of variants of any specific enemy. Most are dealt with as priority targets due to their lack of artificial intelligence; they don't hide but simply head toward you, firing or setting up an explosion to kill you. Pepper their metal hides with your favored weapon, and make Tracer, Exploder, and Heavy Shanks priority targets.

Wretch

Threat Level: 2

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Shock spear | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Melee Pressure | Targeting Challenge (Evasion) |

Notes: A more acrobatic foe that favors close-combat melee instead of ranged firing. Retaliate with your own melee attack. Wretches like to charge you and are a priority target when faced with them. Because they dash in straight lines, they are easy to shoot and finish with a melee strike.

Vandal

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Shock rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Stay Mobile | Targeting Challenge (Evasion) |
| Wire rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Stay in Cover | Targeting Challenge (Evasion) |
| Molten Welder | Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire | Targeting Challenge (Evasion) |

Notes: There is significant variation among the Vandals regarding the main weapon they carry, and therefore, what offensive maneuvers you need to muster in order to survive. However, the swiftness of this foe means targeted takedowns are a must to kill any threat you encounter. Most Vandals like to snipe, so respond with your own long-range attacks accordingly.

Marauder

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Shrapnel launcher | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Close-range Pressure | Targeting Challenge (Cloak) |
| Shock blade | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Melee Pressure | Targeting Challenge (Cloak) |

Notes: Marauders are more than Vandals with the ability to cloak themselves. They usually take a more proactive role in scurrying up to you and slicing you with a their blades, though they are just as active at range. Your main tactics are to look for the blue shimmering that indicates the Marauder has activated their cloaking device. Aim at this mass until one of you is defeated. A shotgun is more than adequate for this task, as these foes tend to seek out melee combat.

Servitor

Threat Level: 5

Weak Spot: Central eye

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Servitor Blast | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Artillery | Dodge Enemy Fire | Priority Target |

Notes: These floating globes are always priority targets, as they can link to other Fallen (usually Dregs, Vandals, or Shanks), protecting them in combat. Such enemy invulnerability is a real problem. Blast them anywhere, but focus on the central "eye" to maintain a good aim and constant damage.

Captain

Threat Level: 3-4

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Shrapnel launcher | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Commander | Close-range Pressure | Maintain Pressure (Shield), Targeting Challenge (Teleport) |
| Shock rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Commander | Stay Mobile | Maintain Pressure (Shield), Targeting Challenge (Teleport) |
| Molten Welder | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Commander | Dodge Enemy Fire | Maintain Pressure (Shield), Targeting Challenge (Teleport) |

Notes: Taller than the fodder and soldiers they fight with, Captains can be found leading troops, as well as encountered alone. Though the survival tactics may change depending on the weapon the Captain is wielding, the takedown plan is always the same. Match the Energy weapon to the Captain's shield type (mainly Arc, but Solar and Void Shields have been seen used by Captains), and maintain hits so the shield is removed. Keep up the pressure, and track the Captain if he teleports a short distance. You don't want to break off combat as the Captain's shields can recharge.

Pike

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Dreg pilot

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Shock Cannons | Vehicle | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire | Target Practice |

Notes: As quick as a Sparrow but with added offensive capabilities, the Fallen Pike is a great vehicle to own temporarily, once you've spotted a Pike Gang roaming a Public Sector and engaged them in combat. Hijack one by aiming at the head of the Dreg pilot until you execute him. The Pike is then neutralized, and you can drive it. Otherwise, you can blast the vehicle repeatedly until it catches fire and explodes (which isn't optimal).

Walker

Threat Level: 5

Weak Spot: Engine and legs

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Laser Cannon, Battery, Chain gun | Vehicle | Artillery | Stay Mobile | Line of Sight, Targeting Practice |

Notes: Also known as the spider tank, this large Fallen vehicle provides impressive artillery fire support, and its weaponry can seriously impede your survival chances. Remain active and find cover, and target the vehicle's legs until the machine slumps forward on its knees and the engine compartment is exposed behind the head. Aim at that, then repeat the process.

Playing Ketch Up

The Fallen use the Ketch to bring Skiff dropships to ferry troops into battle. These vehicles appear consistently throughout your exploration but aren't usually engaged in combat, as they flee after depositing their troops.

THE BESTIARY
The Hive

This parasitic alien presence, predominantly encroaching across the methane base of Titan, has a skeletal appearance and a nesting habit. They exist to exterminate all other life forms in an almost religious fervor. They cannot be reasoned with. Toughened Hive foes are usually known by the prefix "Ravenant."

Thrall

Threat Level: 1

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Claws | Base | Fodder | Melee Pressure | Target Practice |

Notes: These husk-like foes exist to swarm and overwhelm you before savaging you with their claws and bites. Their lack of subtlety means you should employ similarly savage counterattacks; make these priority targets (unless Cursed Thralls are active), and mow them down with a rapid-fire weapon. Push back with melee and gun attacks, and retreat if you're overwhelmed.

Cursed Thrall

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Explosion | Base | Fodder | Melee Pressure (Explode) | Target Practice |

Notes: Cursed Thralls move more slowly than their revolting cousins, but they carry a glowing and rancid explosive growth within themselves, detonating it when in melee range. Make these priority targets, not least because the explosion can remove other foes (usually Thralls and Cursed Thralls) in the immediate vicinity. Otherwise, Thrall tactics apply here, although you never want to be at melee range.

Acolyte

Threat Level: 2

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Arc rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire | Weaken and Beat Down |
| Splinter | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Stay Mobile, Area of Denial | Weaken and Beat Down |

Notes: Possessing the intelligence and tactical knowledge to hide, flank, use cover, and engage in different ways depending on their main weapon, Acolytes aren't happy when you're making deft maneuvers. Finish up with rapid-fire shots into their skulls and a melee attack flourish to complete the takedown. Acolytes also have a fireball grenade, creating area of denial. Watch for it!

Catching a Cutter

The Hive use the Cutter dropship to ferry troops into battle. These vehicles appear occasionally throughout your exploration but aren't usually engaged in combat, as they flee after depositing their troops.

Knight

Threat Level: 3-4

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Boomer | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Commander | Dodge Enemy Fire | Flank Target (Wall of Darkness) |
| Splinter | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Commander | Stay Mobile | Flank Target (Wall of Darkness) |
| Cleaver | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Commander | Melee Pressure | Flank Target (Wall of Darkness) |

Notes: The most troublesome of the regularly encountered Hive foes, the Knight is large, fast, and capable of wreaking havoc with a close-range attack if you let him. It's best to take him out at range with well-aimed headshots while remaining active so the Knight can't successfully shoot you. The Knight has a Wall of Darkness Ability, a protective barrier it conjures while it heals after taking damage. You can wait the few seconds it takes for the wall to disappear, and then complete the Knight takedown. Or, if you want to conserve ammunition, you can move to the Knight's flank where the wall isn't active and finish the job.

Wizard

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Darkness Blast | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Commander | Suppression (Line of Sight), Area Denial (Darkness Cloud) | Maintain Pressure (Shield) |

Notes: These flooting fiends are extremely dangerous, and they sometimes come with a Thrall entourage. At all other times, consider them a priority target due to their Darkness Cloud, which inflicts area-of-effect damage and can block your visibility. Retaliate by staying out of their line of sight, and when you're ready, attack their shields. Match the Energy weapon to the Wizard's shield type (mainly Solar have been seen), and keep up the pressure until the shield is removed. The Wizard is then very susceptible to your continued gunfire. Do not break off combat at this point; you don't want the Wizard's shield to recharge.

Ogre

Threat Level: 5

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Eye Blast | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Artillery | Suppression (Line of Sight) | Line of Sight |

Notes: Ogres can be terrifying, as their bulk and their Eye Blast attacks are extremely intimidating. Seek cover immediately so you aren't cut down in seconds. Then, train your weaponry at the Ogre's glowing "eye head" (though most of its body can also be struck). Take it down with precise shooting as often as you can, avoiding hits from that stream of energy. Make Ogres a priority target when you (occasionally) encounter them.

Shrieker

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Central "eye"

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Energy bolts | Base, Elite | Artillery | Dodge Enemy Fire, Suppression (Line of Sight) | Target Practice |

Notes: A large floating eye with a piercing shriek and (usually) a good number of Hive infantry to provide additional headaches as you try to take this tough foe down. Seek cover, making this a priority target after any hostile that charges you. Continue to stay in cover, peeking out to fire at the central "eye" of the Shrieker to damage it before returning to cover. Its energy bolts are fired in highly damaging, almost continuous streams of projectiles.

THE BESTIARY
The Vex

Constantly finding imperfections and altering worlds anew, Vex are cybernetic hostiles primarily focusing on terraforming Nessus. They seem to have a central intelligence, and they are responsible for almost impossible architecture. Toughened Vex foes are usually known by the prefix "Quantum."

Harpy

Threat Level: 2

Weak Spot: Eye

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Laser rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Suppression (Line of Sight) | Target Practice |
| Slap rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Suppression (Line of Sight) | Target Practice |

Notes: The Harpies are mainly encountered at longer distances, as they prefer to shoot their rifles at you from range. React by aiming and shooting back after stepping out of their line of sight. Harpies are relatively weak, so keeping a consistent targeted pressure on these low-priority foes yields quick takedowns.

Fanatic

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spot: Lower torso

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Slap rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Fodder | Melee Pressure, Area Denial | Target Practice |

Notes: Fanatics are always priority targets, as they exist to saunter their way toward you before exploding. This can easily kill you, so deft maneuvering and preventing their progress are the keys to victory. Because their explosion can set off a chain reaction and destroy other Fanatics (and damage Goblins), use them as moving explosives when you encounter multiple foes. When killing a Fanatic they also leave behind a dangerous pool of Radiolarian Fluid which can quickly negate large areas of of the combat zone for a short time.

Goblin

Threat Level: 2

Weak Spot: Lower torso

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Line rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire, Melee Pressure (Seizure) | Targeting Challenge (Torso) |
| Torch Hammer | Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire | Targeting Challenge (Torso) |

Notes: Goblins are the main infantry threats you encounter when battling the Vex. Initial combat involves remaining mobile or behind cover to dodge their attacks, and executing long or short takedowns to take the Goblin's head off. This provokes a "seizure," after which the Goblin staggers at you like a Fanatic. Drop it with torso shots at this point. Or, aim at the torso consistently, and avoid the seizure entirely.

Hobgoblin

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spot: Lower torso

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Line rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Stay in Cover, Area Denial | Targeting Challenge (Torso) |
| Laser rifle | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Soldier | Stay Mobile, Area Denial | Targeting Challenge (Torso) |

Notes: The Hobgoblin is primarily a sharpshooter, designed to wound you from distance and finish you off before you have a chance to respond. Prevent this from happening by pressing the attack to this foe. Shoot it in the lower torso, and it crouches in a temporary invulnerable state. Any damage dealt to the Hobgoblin causes him to enter this state. During this time focus on other targets or reload your weapon before reengaging him after the immunity wears off.

Minotaur

Threat Level: 3-4

Weak Spot: Lower torso

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Torch Hammer | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Commander | Dodge Enemy Fire, Melee Pressure (Seizure) | Maintain Pressure (Shield); Targeting Challenge (Teleport) |
| Laser rifle | Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Commander | Stay Mobile, Melee Pressure (Seizure) | Maintain Pressure (Shield); Targeting Challenge (Teleport) |

Notes: The largest bipedal Vex foe is the shielded Minotaur, a tough and problematic entity that should be prevented from encroaching into close combat. While you can shoot it in the head and induce a "seizure" where it targets and moves more rapidly toward you, the biggest concern is this foe's shield. Match the Energy weapon to the Minotaur's shield type (mainly Void, but Arc and Solar Shields have been seen), and keep on maintaining hits so the shield is removed. Keep up the pressure, and track the Minotaur if it teleports a short distance. You don't want to break off combat so the Minotaur's shields can replenish.

Hydra

Threat Level: 5

Weak Spot: Eye

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Aeon Maul | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Artillery | Suppression (Line of Sight) | Targeting Challenge (Shield) |

Notes: This large floating enemy has a pair of dual Torch Hammers that ignore gravity when fired: the Aeon Maul. It uses them to badly damage you in seconds, so seek cover when you're attempting to take one of these foes down. Stay active, and vary your speed, height, and range so the Hydra doesn't easily hit you. Fire at it (usually the central eye, though anywhere is fine) when you have a direct shot through its rotating shield. Otherwise, your offense has no effect. Stay away from a Hydra that has just been destroyed, as its explosion can kill you.

Cyclops

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Central "eye"

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Vex turret | Base, Elite, Sub-Boss, Boss | Artillery | Suppression (Line of Sight) | Line of Sight, Target Practice |

Notes: Rarely encountered, think of this as a slightly smaller Hydra, with the tendencies of a sentient sentry gun. Use the fact that the Cyclops is stationary to your advantage. Find a way into cover, leap around, and generally stop the Cyclops from lining up its attack on you. Then, shoot its central "eye" intermittently while avoiding this turret's attack.

Torn from their own dimension, only to return as the tormented and unsurpassed chief of the darkness, Taken are corrupted forms of enemies you may already be familiar with. Their charred bodies write with twisted runes and ember-filled glowing light coalesce where their eyes once peered out. Toughened Taken foes are usually known by the prefix "Ascendant."

Taken Psion

Threat Level: 1

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dog Vile | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Fodder | Dodge Enemy Fire | Weaken and Burn Down |

Notes: Aside from an ability to dart around, which can throw off your aim, most a Taken Psion like their non-Taken counterparts. Psions can be found in the Vex Network, Hellmouth, and the Dreaming City, and they can even summon other Psions to their ranks. Fortunately, if you don't let all the Psions in an encounter there is a good chance they will split and instantly don't count back to a full squad. So sustain your pressure and kill all of them before moving onto other foes.

Taken Phalanx

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dog Vile | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire | Target Psychics |

Notes: Phalanx have a distinctly different and dangerous feel than their Cabal cousins. Their shield is used to power a massive blast of energy that can seriously impede your combination. You must sidestep, jump over, or hide from it before you can get at them with gunfire like the big blockers of the Dark Ages and Iron Banes, staggering and following up with your weapon.

Taken Centurion

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Projection rifle | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Commander | Stay Mobile | Maintain Pressure, Target Psychics |
| Dog Vile | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Commander | Dodge Enemy Fire | Maintain Pressure, Target Psychics |

Notes: Taken Centurions sometimes conjure a ball of off-energy from their forms that homes in, even moving around corners. Shoot it out of the air, or dodge it and then immediately shoot the Centurion that threw it. Be prepared. Shoot it out of the sky, then shoot the Taken Centurion a priority target as you don't have to deal with this attack again.

Taken Vandal

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Wire rifle | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Soldier | Stay in Cover | Targeting Challenge (Locust) |
| Rocket Launcher | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Soldier | Close Large Distances | Targeting Challenge (Locust) |

Notes: Taken Vandals are just as sharp a shooter as their Fallen counterparts, and they can quickly conjure an additional dome-shaped shield, forcing you to dash in and shoot them as it dissipates. Attempt this as you dash in, and you can quickly dispatch them with a single shot. Otherwise, you'll have to wait until they drop their shield and your targets limits or wait anxiously for the hold head. Watch for a Vandal's shield teleporting him.

Taken Captain

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Energized machine gun | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Commander | Use Large Weapons | Maintain Pressure (Shield), Targeting Challenge (Locust) |
| Shock blade | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Commander | Melee Pressure | Maintain Pressure (Shield), Targeting Challenge (Hideout) |

Notes: The Captain may be able to teleport short distances, and it also has similar attacks to the Fallen Captain it originated from. Shoot the weapon carried and any cover it's using and survive tactics accordingly, then take out the Captain's shield type (mainly Solar, but Arc and Void are also possible). Press the attack as the Captain's shield drops, and you can quickly dispatch it. Be careful of the Captain's Shock Blade, which can quickly dispatch Darkness Bolt. The close-moving projectile will bind any enemy in its path, making it one of the most dangerous abilities the Taken have.

Taken Thrall

Threat Level: 2

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Close | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Fodder | Melee Pressure | Target Psychics |

Notes: These Thrall variants are more solid than their shadow brethren, but they have the same dogged determination to charge and close on you as the Hive Thralls. The only real difference is the quick, blurry weapons they attempt occasionally. Pull back, and mow down.

Taken Shadow Thrall

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spot: None

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Close | Bow, Rifle | Fodder | Melee Pressure | Target Psychics |

Notes: These shadowy variants are extremely resistant to Taken Psychic. They share similarities right down to their tendency to navigate fire and their blurred and quick teleportation across short distances. Dispatch them by rushing them while firing, and melee strike them if they're still standing when you get there. Taken Acolytes like the same way as a Taken Thrall, however.

Taken Acolyte

Threat Level: 2

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Any rifle | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Fodder | Dodge Enemy Fire | Weaken and Burn Down |
| Bracer | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Fodder | Dodge Enemy Fire | Weaken and Burn Down |

Notes: Taken Acolytes are sometimes mistaken for Taken Psions. They share similarities right down to their tendency to navigate fire and their blurred and quick teleportation across short distances. Dispatch them by rushing them while firing, and melee strike them if they're still standing when you get there. Taken Acolytes like the same way as a Taken Thrall, however.

Taken Knight

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Bracer | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Commander | Dodge Enemy Fire | Target Psychics |
| Arc rifle | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Commander | Dodge Enemy Fire, Area of Effect | Target Psychics |

Notes: Expect long-range devastation when facing a Taken Knight; it tends to fire off its weapon, as well as shower you with flame from its mouth. Aim for its head, and keep going until it drops.

Taken Wizard

Threat Level: 5

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Solar Blast | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows, Solar | Commander | Stay Mobile, Use Ranged Weapons | Maintain Pressure, Target Psychics |

Notes: Expect a Taken Wizard to act like their Hive counterparts, but with a different type of defensive "spell" the conjuring of Shadow Thralls that quickly flit toward and claw at you. Retaliate by staying out of their line of sight, and then shoot them down as they appear. Then, concentrate your fire on the Wizard. Wizards are insanely tough Knight foes and do have laser sword, and keep up the pressure and the shield is removed. The Wizard is then very susceptible to your continued gunfire. Do not break off combat at this point; you don't want the Wizard's shield to recharge.

Taken Goblin

Threat Level: 3

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Dog rifle | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire | Target Psychics |
| Rocket launcher | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire | Target Psychics |

Notes: Taken Goblins are always priority targets because of their extremely problematic energy link, similar to that of a Servitor's. It can link to a stronger Taken, effectively making it invincible. If your Taken Goblin or other Taken frontline are growing green, this link is occurring. The takedown plan is the same: send rapid-fire attacks at the Goblin, and once the Goblin's head used to the Lower Some foe will necessary and this Goblin's head does not matter.

Taken Hobgoblin

Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Linear rifle | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Soldier | Stay in Cover, Area Denial | Target Psychics |
| Dog rifle | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Soldier | Dodge Enemy Fire, Area Denial | Target Psychics |

Notes: Taken Hobgoblins are perhaps the most like their Hive counterparts, with a predisposition for long-range sharpshooting. Remove them with ranged attacks from a distance, or close the gap and demolish them at close quarters with rapid-fire and high-powered burst cannon or rifles. Taken Hobgoblins most important task is their retaliation shots. If the Hobgoblin line-energy warning around him, the next time it receives damage from an enemy (usually you), these projectiles will fly towards him.

Taken Minotaur

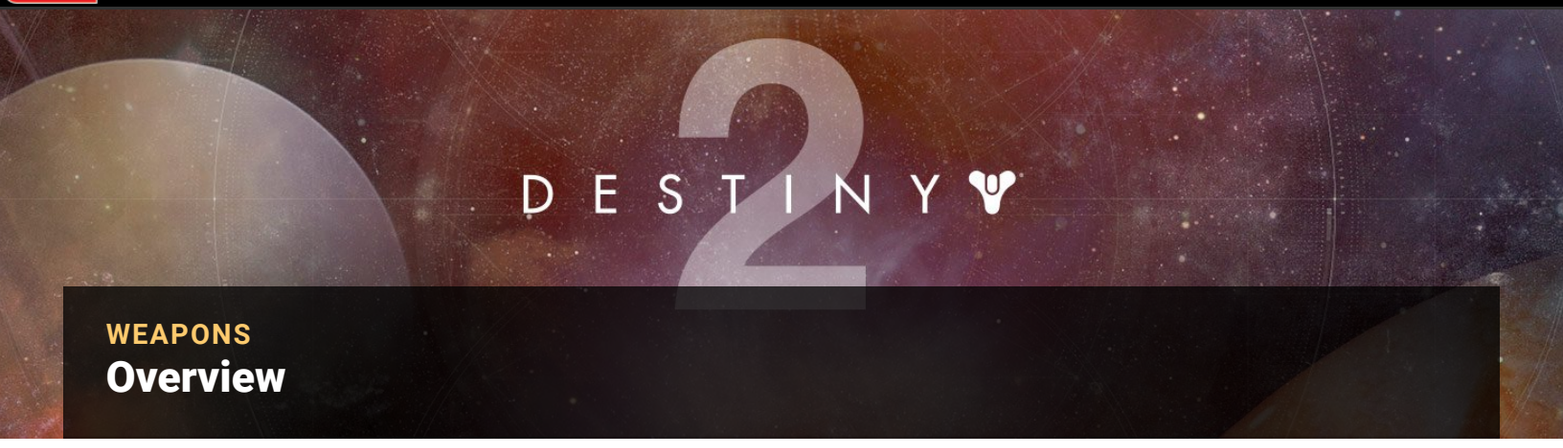
Threat Level: 4

Weak Spot: Head

| Loadout | Types | Role | Survival Tactics | Takedown Tactics |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sword | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows, Sword | Commander | Dodge Enemy Fire | Maintain Pressure, Targeting Challenge (Cave) |
| Dog rifle | Bow, Rifle, Sub-Mach, Bows | Commander | Dodge Enemy Fire | Targeting Challenge (Cave) |

Notes: A Taken Minotaur has all the strengths of his Vex cousin, with the added ability to dash like a Fallen Marauder. This means it must be tracked as the glow of its head, which is also where you must shoot it.



WEAPONS

Overview

Spend enough time in the field and you'll amass quite a collection of weapons. Choosing the right combination of Kinetic, Energy, and Power weapons can be a bit of a challenge. Luckily, you'll have plenty of opportunities to test out new finds.

Every weapon you encounter features an Intrinsic Perk. Specifics can vary quite a bit, but most intrinsic Perks fall into one of six categories:

Adaptive Frame: This Perk usually indicates a weapon with balanced stats.

Aggressive Frame: This usually indicates that a weapon features High Caliber Rounds as a native Perk.

High-Impact Frame: Weapons with this Perk typically favor Range over other stats, and they almost always offer improved accuracy and recoil when the user is standing still.

Lightweight Frame: This Perk often indicates better handling or a boost to movement speed.

Precision Frame: This Perk usually indicates a stable weapon with relatively linear recoil pattern.

Rapid-Fire Frame: This Perk usually indicates a weapon with a high rate of fire that reloads much faster whenever the magazine is empty.

As you experiment with new weapons, you're likely to find that many of your favorite weapons share a similar Intrinsic Perk.

The following tables list the bulk of the weapons currently in the game, along with what tend to be the most likely methods of acquiring them. While some weapons are simply random drops, many are given out as rewards for missions or activities—and some of the best weapons can be gained by earning Reputation with various vendors.

As you review your options, note that weapons are listed in order of Rarity—and within those categories, they're arranged in the order you're most likely to encounter them.

Remember, you can only equip one weapon of each type (Kinetic, Energy, and Power), and you can never have more than one Exotic weapon equipped, but you can always carry a few useful options with you. If a new weapon combination isn't working for you, duck into cover and adjust your loadout. The more options you have, the better off you'll be.

ARMOR

Overview

Your equipped armor determines how fast you move, how much damage you can survive, and how quickly you recover lost health. Finding the proper balance of Mobility, Resilience, and Recovery isn't always easy, but it's definitely important.

During your adventures, you'll encounter a wide variety of armor pieces. Although you'll find a few one-off pieces, most of the items you collect will belong to various armor sets. At lower levels, your choices are fairly limited.

However, as you gain Experience and Power, you'll come to rely on armor that provides noticeable benefits and a bit of customization.

The armor sets in this section are separated by Class, and arranged in the order you're most likely to encounter them. As with the weapons, likely sources are listed. Make sure you check out the Exotic armor pieces available to your class. They're hard to come by, and you can only equip one Exotic armor piece at a time, but a lucky find can have dramatic effects.

Titan Armor Sets

Exotic Titan Armor: Head

INSURMOUNTABLE SKULLFORT

Intrinsic Perk: Transfusion Matrix

Kills with Arc melee abilities trigger health regeneration and restore Melee energy.

MASK OF THE QUIET ONE

Intrinsic Perk: Dreaded Visage

Grants ability energy when damaged, and health regeneration when inflicting Void damage.

Exotic Titan Armor: Arms

ACD/0 FEEDBACK FENCE

Intrinsic Perk: Fury Conductors

Melee kills build up explosive energy within the ACD/0 Feedback Fence. Being struck by a melee attack unleashes this energy in a devastating explosion.

DOOM FANG PAULDRON

Intrinsic Perk: Horns of Doom

Shield Bash melee kills recharge Shield Throw. Melee Ability kills recharge Sentinel Shield Super

SYNTHOCEPTS

Intrinsic Perk: Biotic Enhancements

Increased melee lunge range. Improved damage when surrounded.

Exotic Titan Armor: Chest

ACTIUM WAR RIG

Intrinsic Perk: Auto-Loading Link

Steadily reloads a portion of your equipped Auto Rifle's magazine from reserves.

CREST OF ALPHA LUPI

Intrinsic Perk: Survival Well

Generates and additional Orb of Light from Supers and a healing pulse when Barricade is activated.

HALLOWFIRE HEART

Intrinsic Perk: Sunfire Furnace

Greatly improves the recharge rate of your Solar abilities while Hammer of Sol is charged.

Exotic Titan Armor: Legs

DUNEMARCHERS

Intrinsic Perk: Linear Actuators

Increases sprint speed. Springing builds up a static charge. After melee attacking an enemy, that charge will chain damage to nearby enemies.

LION RAMPANT

Intrinsic Perk: Jump Jets

Provides additional aerial maneuverability.

PEACEKEEPERS

Intrinsic Perk: Mecha Holster

Reloads stowed Submachine Guns and allows you to ready them instantly.

Hunter Armor Sets

- Mobile Hunter Armor: Additional Mobility at the cost of Resilience
- Survivalist Hunter: Armor Improved Resilience and Recovery
- Heavy Hunter Armor: Improved Resilience

STRIKE: LAKE OF SHADOWS

Overview

Recommended Level

Strike: 14+ (Power Level 140+)

Nightfall: 24+ (Power Level 240+)

A Taken presence has been detected in the abandoned hydro-electric power station in southeast EDZ. You and your team have been mobilized to locate the source of this rift power and extinguish it before the Taken gain a foothold over the area. You must neutralize a series of “Blight” domes and remove the hated Taken in the vicinity. Once you enter the power station, expect a tough battle across some dangerous and narrow gantryways. Bring your best Taken-culling weaponry, as the central foe is an extremely powerful Taken Phalanx.

STRIKE: LAKE OF SHADOWS

Trostland And Maevic Square

RESTRICTED ZONE

Objectives

- Find the Taken source and eliminate it.
- Destroy the Taken Blights creating the lethal miasma.

Enemies Encountered

- Cabal: Legionaries
- Fallen: Wretches
- Fallen: Dregs
- Taken: Centurions
- Taken: Psions
- Taken: Phalanxes
- Taken: Hobgoblins
- Taken: Thralls
- Taken: Goblins
- Taken: Captains
- Taken: Sub-Boss (Centurion)

1 A Blight On The Landscape: Three Plaza Control

Super: Optional (one player).

Grenades: Optional (all players).

Variations: High-Value Targets, other enemies may appear, enemies in different locations.

Begin with a pitched battle between Cabal and Fallen forces in the cemetery courtyard south of the church. Concentrate on ridding the area of the Centurion first, then the scattered Legionaries and Fallen Wretches. These are joined by a second wave of (mainly) Legionaries dropping in from above and Dregs scampering out of the ruined buildings on the eastern side of town. There's no real need to keep fighting longer than you must. High-Value Targets and other enemies irrelevant to this Strike can appear in this Sector, so move eastward to the street linking Trostland to Maevic Square.

Super: Recommended (one player). / Grenades: Recommended (all players).

The objective updates as you reach the plaza and spot your first Taken incursion. There are Centurions, Psions, and Phalanxes to contend with. Keeping one teammate on the ruined entrance building while the others head into closer combat is a good idea, with the Centurions as your priority targets (due to their homing rift ball attacks). You're here to remove the black pulsing Blight domes, but your weaponry doesn't work until you're within the dome.

Therefore, it's worth clearing the area of foes first, or covering a teammate who is attempting to knock out a dome. Shotguns are great at demolishing the bulbs of the dome in seconds, and two players raking shotgun fire at a Blight makes quick work of these problems.

Take the road on the right (northeast) side and work your way up it, dealing with Taken Hobgoblins, then Thralls and Phalanxes at the second Blight itself. Don't step in the black ooze, as that's harmful. Grenades are good at damaging multiple foes near or around the Blight, where they tend to congregate. Do this after you execute the Hobgoblins from distance so you aren't sniped as you ascend the street.

Fight the Blight

Take down a Blight by firing at the central dangling bulbs from within the dome of protection it has created. This means a rapid-fire weapon (or better yet, a shotgun) is excellent for removing Blights quickly. Certain Supers that can quickly inflict high damage are also recommended, but ensure that you use your Super to kill off any Taken first, and finish up inside the Blight.

Super: Recommended (all players). / Grenades: Recommended (all players).

Sub-Boss: At the top of the street, turn to enter a shoreline plaza with a major Taken presence. Aside from the worryingly large rift globe in the center of the plaza, there are Taken Goblins (who can link to others and keep them almost immune, so make them priority targets) and Taken Captains (who can fire huge rift balls at you that you must dodge). With the initial enemies on the perimeter defeated, have one of your teammates execute a Super. Clear the foes around the first Blight, finishing the Blight off as quickly as possible. Your other two allies should move toward the Trostland sign at the entrance to The Reservoir, where the second Blight is.

The enemies below the Trostland sign are led by a named Taken Centurion, and you should concentrate your firepower on him. As the foes are bunched up and guarding the entrance to The Reservoir, you don't really need to expend a Super to defeat this Sub-Boss, but grenades are helpful.

There's plenty of cover for you, and long-range takedowns are also easily attempted. When you've defeated the last Taken, the entrance into The Reservoir (the rubble opening in the wall to the left) is accessible.

STRIKE: LAKE OF SHADOWS

The Reservoir

RESTRICTED ZONE

Objectives

- Find the Taken source and eliminate it (continued).

Enemies Encountered

- Taken: Captains
- Taken: Thralls
- Taken: Sub-Boss (Captain)
- Taken: Phalanxes
- Taken: Hobgoblins
- Taken: Psions
- Taken: Vandals
- Taken: Sub-Boss (Knight)
- Taken: Goblins
- Taken: Knights
- Taken: Sub-Boss (Wizard)
- Taken: Boss: Gor'ath Gath (Phalanx)

6 A Hunt For The Source

Super: Recommended (one player).

Grenades: Optional (all players).

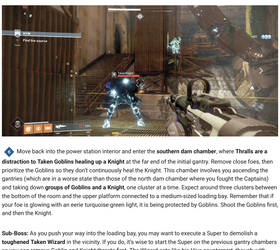
Variations: Other enemies may appear, enemies in different locations.



If time is not a factor in the entrance corridor to this power station, take a brief respite before barging through the Taken rift wall into the north dam chamber. Taken Captains and a host of Thralls are making life difficult for you here. You're descending down gantry stairs, and these are tight, so stay at range and rain death down from above before slowly advancing to the middle platform. Then, rake Thralls charging you from below, using the concrete walls on the inner side of the steps as partial cover.

Sub-Boss: Maintain this plan until you reach the lowest part of this large stepped chamber. A Sub-Boss Captain is a tougher foe, and the gigantic rift ball he conjures is almost impossible to avoid in this confined space. A well-timed Super is worthwhile here, or you can remain on the higher platform and tag the foe (and his Thrall minions) as he peeks around the corner at the bottom of the stairs. Meanwhile, one or two teammates should rain death (and grenades) down from the middle of the platform so you're not fighting the Captain at the same level, where he can easily damage you.

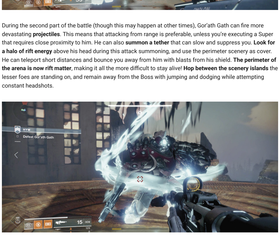
The dam chamber leads to the exterior gantryway and a fierce fight high above the (deadly) dam wall. Sunfooted Guardians are those that are likely to survive this push forward. Drop the Phalanxes, and then utilize your longer-range weaponry to drop Hobgoblins and Psions in the mid-distance. If all three of you are advancing at moderate speed, you can remove all foes before they become a close-combat nuisance, maneuvering across the rusting gantry platforms in the process. Or, one of you can execute a Super to clear around half of the exterior gantryway of foes.

Sub-Boss: The farther half of the exterior gantryway has a number of Taken Vandals to execute, ideally from range since they have sniping capabilities. If you must attempt closer combat attacks, have one of your teammates run and jump across the inner gantry platforms, rather than the exterior ones that offer no cover.

You may need to try this, as there's a Sub-Boss Taken Knight with a good deal of health that creates a small protective shield around him and his Vandal brethren at the far end of the gantryway. Concentrate your firepower on him, and attempt to end a Super with his death if you're timing your Supers correctly.



Move back into the power station interior and enter the southern dam chamber, where Thralls are a distraction to Taken Goblins healing up a Knight at the far end of the initial gantry. Remove close foes, then prioritize the Goblins so they don't continuously heal the Knight. This chamber involves you ascending the gantries (which are in a worse state than those of the north dam chamber where you fought the Captains) and taking down groups of Goblins and a Knight, one cluster at a time. Expect around three clusters between the bottom of the room and the upper platform connected to a medium-sized loading bay. Remember that if your foe is glowing with an eerie turquoise-green light, it is being protected by Goblins. Shoot the Goblins first, and then the Knight.

Sub-Boss: As you push your way into the loading bay, you may want to execute a Super to demolish a toughened Taken Wizard in the vicinity. If you do, it's wise to start the Super on the previous gantry chambers so you can remove Goblin and Knight threats first. The Wizard acts like his Hive counterpart, though with increased energy. Whittle down his shield, and bring the hurting.

Behind the Taken Wizard is a small connecting generator chamber. Storm this and remove Thralls, then Psions and Vandals in the larger chamber bathed in blue light. These should be of limited concern to you and are easily tackled, though the Vandals are good at sniping you. Stay in cover as you ascend the narrow connecting corridors to the location of the Taken source itself.

7 [Gor'ath Gath's] Last Stand

Super: Recommended (all players).

Grenades: Recommended (all players).

Variations: Other enemies may appear, enemies in different locations.

Boss Weak Spot: Head.

Peer down into the main power station's vat chamber, now missing most of its exterior wall. Have one of your team drop down and remove the Taken source in the center of this dome-shaped chamber, while others mop up the Taken infantry. However, this isn't the end of your Strike, as a powerful Taken Phalanx named [Gor'ath Gath] appears, consumed with dark energy. Prepare for a protracted battle with this Consumed One!

Boss: This main foe is your obvious priority, but there are plenty of Psions and Knights dotted around the arena that can whittle your health down if you aren't careful. It's worth dividing and conquering; have one of your teammates specifically tackling the Taken infantry, dropping the Knights and Psions as they appear and only focusing on the Boss when the coast is clear. Have a second Guardian only focus on shooting the head of Gor'ath Gath, and informing the team about the Boss' health and maneuvers. The third Guardian can also focus on the Boss, but break off and remove Taken infantry as reinforcements arrive throughout the fight. Have at least one of your teammates execute a Super so there's time to attack with another Super later in this battle. Keep this plan up until the giant Phalanx loses around a third of his health. Circle-strafe around the Boss if his shield is up so you can aim for his head. Shoot him at range, as he can easily knock you back at close quarters.

During the second part of the battle (though this may happen at other times), Gor'ath Gath can fire more devastating projectiles. This means that attacking from range is preferable, unless you're executing a Super that requires close proximity to him. He can also summon a tether that can slow and suppress you. Look for a halo of rift energy above his head during this attack summoning, and use the perimeter scenery as cover. He can teleport short distances and bounce you away from him with blasts from his shield. The perimeter of the arena is now rift matter, making it all the more difficult to stay alive! Hop between the scenery islands the lesser foes are standing on, and remain away from the Boss with jumping and dodging while attempting constant headshots.

Combat continues to be protracted and dangerous as you remove another third of the Boss' health. He still has all of his attacks, so keep focusing on the head, jumping away when he uses his shield blast. Watch when he begins to summon Taken infantry (expect a glittering haze around his shield). Among these are Goblins, who act as shields and make Gor'ath Gath invincible, so remove them first. Continue to gradually remove all of the Boss' health until he finally yields. This is the time to inflict all your remaining Super attacks, one after another. Focus on hitting this foe from three different angles, as he can't shield himself from all your attacks.

DESTINY 2

CRUCIBLE: RETRIBUTION

Overview

UPPER STRATOSPHERE, MARS

Quick Play

PS4 Exclusive Content

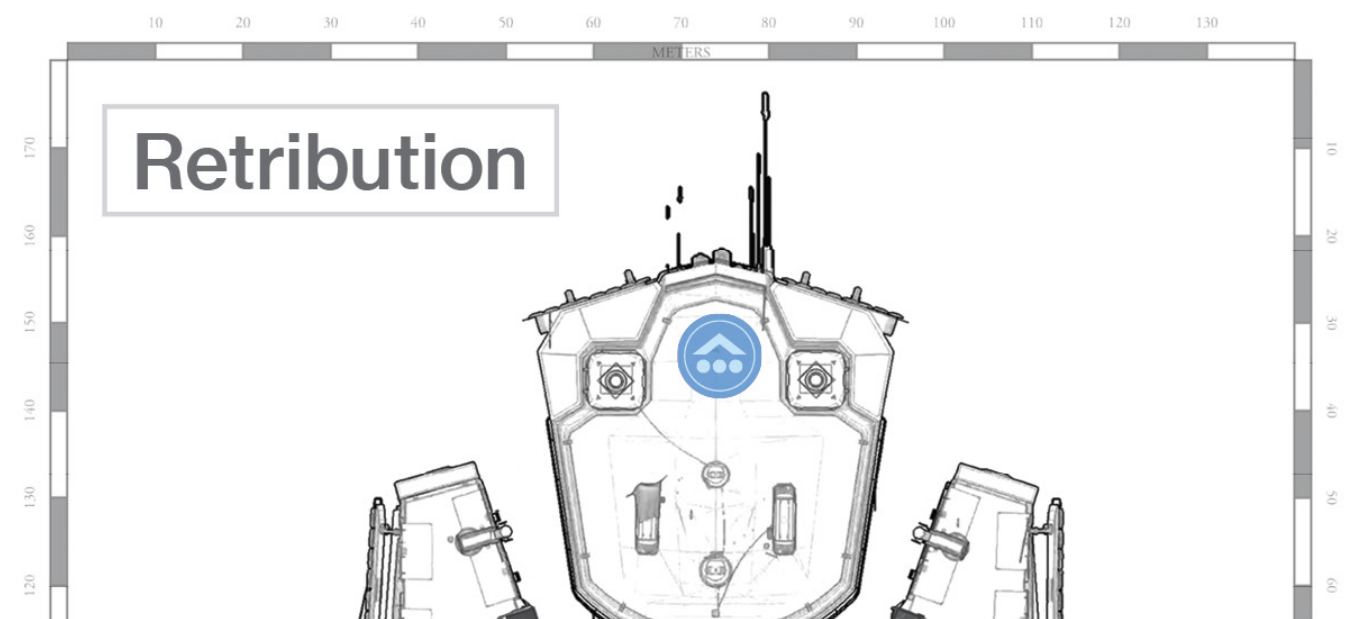
Until otherwise announced, this map is only available for use on PlayStation 4 consoles.



This map is located on a battle-damctaged but functioning Cabal warship. Some sections have been destroyed; others are locked down to contain fires. The result is a somewhat asymmetrical map within a symmetrical space.

This map contains some automated doors that snap open whenever a Guardian moves into range. If you favor short-range combat, consider taking advantage of these devices; a well-timed approach can put you face-to-face with an advancing opponent.

Retribution is a fairly large map, but its curved hallways and scattered platforms don't really support long-range combat. Determined Guardians might find a few effective sniping lanes, but it's recommended that you equip at least one mid-range weapon whenever you visit this map.

As one might expect, moving around the warship's exterior platforms can be a risky endeavor. Fatal falls are avoidable, but they aren't uncommon. It takes a bit of finesse to jump some of these gaps, so make sure you're comfortable with your equipped Movement Mode.

Retribution: Clash, Supremacy

Retribution Map Locations

1 Hangar

Hangar is of the map's team starting areas. It features multiple points of entry, some decent cover options, and a main tactical hub affixed to Hard Mid's both on the exterior walkway and within the confines of the structure.

2 Blue Ring

Connecting to the adjacent locations, Blue Ring is one of the map's most frequently used movement lanes. It's a fairly wide corridor, but its pronounced curve results in a somewhat limited line of sight.

3 Left Disc

Located between Left Ledge and Hangar's exterior walkway, this suspended platform is an important part of a major movement lane.

Despite its precarious position, Left Disc provides some very effective cover, making it a good fallback position for wounded Guardians. It also serves as a source of Power Ammo during games of Clash or Supremacy.

Key Location: Left Disc

Clash, Supremacy

4 Left Ledge

5 Deck

Serving as a team starting area, Deck stands as the map's largest exterior space. It overlooks both Left Ledge and Right Ledge, making this sizable platform a useful vantage point. However, it lacks direct access to the ship's interior.

6 Right Ledge

Right Ledge is essentially a mirror image of Left Ledge, and for the most part, it serves the same purpose as its counterpart. It's within jumping range of the surrounding platforms, and it's connected to Red Ring via an automated door. However, Right Ledge also acts as a source of Power Ammo during games of Clash and Supremacy.

Key Location: Right Ledge

Clash, Supremacy

During Clash and Supremacy, Right Ledge holds one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points.

7 Right Disc

Like its counterpart across the ship, Right Disc serves as something of a stepping stone between adjacent locations. However, the surrounding area is a fairly rough shape, and the nearby walkway is off-kilter.

8 Red Ring

Although Red Ring accounts for half of the ship's main corridor, it has fewer points of access than its color-coded counterpart. Featuring minimal cover and a somewhat limited line of sight, this curved hallway also serves as a source of Power Ammo during games of Clash or Supremacy.

Key Location: Red Ring

Clash, Supremacy

During Clash and Supremacy, Red Ring contains one of the map's three Power Ammo spawn points.

9 Barrel

Located at the center of the map, this small circular space features three points of entry and an extremely limited line of sight. Barrel is a useful intersection, but any Guardian heading into this tight space would do well to ready a reliable short-range weapon.
